STUART R. PADDOCK

We now know that nothing is impossible to a make-up artist. We saw Mae West last week at the Edgewater Beach playhouse Her face and figure were those of a young woman belying her age—nearly 70.

We do not know how it was done, but we wonder why some of the nationally known manufacturers are not asking her to sponsor their product.

We are passing this word along for the benefit of you oldsters—she has the same walk and body swing that packed them in 40 years ago.

With an assessed valuation of over a billion dollars in the districts of seven high schools of this area, friends of education are confident that voters will give their approval to the establishment of a junior college.

There are hundreds of high school graduates who otherwise will be unable to attend a college. The entrance requirements will be as stringent as required by a senior college.

We will tune in WBBM-TV Saturday between 2:30 and 3 p.m. to hear two well known historians on the "Once Over Lightly" program which is part of the Public Affairs Exchange program of CBS-TV.

We are especially interested because our brother-in-law, Prof. R. F. Nichols, is a member of the panel. The other is Dr. Arnold J. Toynbee.

We hope that a lot of mothers read last week's column of what happened in the emergency department of Northwest Community hospital. The lives of several infants were saved by prompt treatment. An emergency operation did not save the life of a child who had swallowed as simple an article as a balloon.

We are going to entertain six grandchildren next week, and we are busy emptying medicine cabinets and placing cleaning compounds out of their reach.

We are waiting to see if Kenneth Osbon, better known as "Ozzie" by Arlington Heights and Palatine advertisers, will really obey doctor's orders that his working days are over.

We hope so, but we have sent word to him that we have an easy chair in our office where he can smell printer's ink. His smile and ever-ready comments will be the balancing wheel for all of us.

Ozzie has just returned home from six weeks in the hospital.

Just before press time—we are killing our comment on sale of old village hall until we learn what exactly happened at a secret conference of the village board.

We hope the answer has been found.

'Closed Door' Session Held

by BRUCE LADD

Arlington Heights trustees huddled behind closed doors for two hours Monday to consider sale of the village hall and organization of standing committees.

Representatives of the press and radio were ousted from the village manager's office — site of the "executive" meeting — at 7:20 p.m.

Two hours later, at 9:20 p.m., trustees emerged and convened in adjourned board session to summarily announce the results of their deliberations.

AS CONCISELY put by Village President John G. Woods, results were as follows:

—no action has been taken to accept or reject the lone offer to purchase the village hall, and —the matter of standing committees will be formally considered at an August 7 board meeting.

At first, Woods said the board had concluded the latest purchase offer by Arlington Plaza Development co., St. Louis, would "not be accepted." Then he said action on the offer "has been deferred."

TRUSTEE William Sauer interjected: "Since this information is going to the newspaper, should we say action has been 'deferred' when the matter is really not going to be considered again?"

After comment from Village Attorney Jack M. Siegel and Trustee Eugene Schlickman, the board decided to go on record as saying "no action was taken" regarding the $150,000 offer to buy the hall and adjacent street and railroad park.

Trustees confided in private this week that a full report by a special committee appointed to negotiate a deal with Douglas Dodds, company president, will be forthcoming at next Monday's board meeting.

IT WAS also indicated that another closed board meeting will be held before a decision is made as to the desirability of appointing standing committees.

A final decision on the standing committee principle has been deferred to the first regular board meeting in August, trustees explained.

The committee idea was suggested by Schlickman June 5 in a letter to board members. Schlickman said "Purpose of standing committees is to have certain board members assigned to specific and limited areas on a continuing basis."

He has recommended appointment of committees on finance, legal and legislation, building, planning and zoning, administration and public relations, public safety and health, and public improvements.

APPARENTLY, some trustees are cool to Schlickman's proposal. Resulting intra-board controversy was the main reason given for holding the closed-door meeting.

Woods and Village Manager Leonard A. Hanson were not available for comment Tuesday.

They were reported to be on a four-day junket to Ft. Bliss, Texas, as guests of the 45th Artillery Brigade which is headquartered here in Arlington Heights.

Trustee William Moore was not involved in Monday's meeting. He was on vacation.

ONE TRUSTEE told the Herald that Woods has requested a letter of opinion from Siegel outlining his interpretation of the right-to-know or open meeting law, chapter 102, section 41-41, Illinois Revised Statutes.

The law says: "It is the intent of this act that their (public commissions, boards and councils) actions be taken openly."

Midget Grid Signup Set On Saturday

Registration for the Arlington Heights Midget football league will be held Saturday, July 22, at Recreation Park from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

This will be the only day for registration prior to the opening of the season.

REGISTRATION fee is $3 for the first boy and $2 for each additional boy in a family. Each boy must be accompanied by a parent and reside within the village limits.

Additional information on the registration will be found in the sports section.

Nab Man, 21, Peeping in Ladies Room

A 21-yr.-old Arlington Heights resident was caught peeping into the women's shower room at Recreation park last Thursday by village police.

The man, who has been under psychiatric care for over two years, was hiding in the shrubs near the shower room entrance when a lady sighted him.

AT THE POLICE station, the man admitted he had twice previously gone into the girls' shower room when it was being used, police said.

The man was released to his doctor and warned to stay away from Arlington Heights' parks.

New Policeman

Wiliam R. Ellis, 30, joined the Arlington Heights police force July 15.

He served in districts three and 15 with the state police for three and a half years. Ellis, married and the father of two children, lives in Chicago.

Sauer Is Advocate Of Secret Session

A local radio newsman and a Herald reporter agreed this week that the main advocate of ousting them from Monday's closed-door meeting was Trustee William Sauer.

Newsman George T. Coker Jr., 1611 N. Ridge, said: "Mr. Sauer was the first to suggest that the business of standing committees might concern personalities."

COKER AND Bruce Ladd, Herald news editor, also agreed that Trustee Eugene Schlickman seemed to favor their remaining during the session.

"But Mr. Schlickman did not object when the motion was made and approved to ask press and radio representatives to leave," Ladd noted.

Summer Loses Allure For 200 Youngsters

The hard-nosed school-wary youngster, who dies every day he's in class and only lives for summer, has etched a permanent place in American lore.

We see the youth on the last day of school, lurching toward the door, as he awaits the final bell that signifies the granting of a three-month reprieve after nine months of penance.

While Mark Twain would have difficulties believing it, 200 Arlington Heights youngsters are shattering the image of American youth he helped create.

MAYBE suburbia has so choked off the outdoors that summer has lost its glamour.

Maybe youngsters have changed since the days of Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn.

Whatever the reason, the afore-mentioned 200 are voluntarily attending district 25's 4-week summer remedial and enrichment classes.

They are taking courses in science, music, arithmetic, English, and language skills. No credit is offered, no grades given, and no promotion awarded for work done during the four weeks.

AN ADVANCED science class, attended by eight boys and one girl, is one of the district's more ambitious projects.

Instructor John Bennett, a graduate of Western Illinois university, notes that many of the youngsters appear 20 minutes before class is scheduled to begin.

"They all have interest," he explained. "We have to channel it."

The growing of bacteria cultures and crystals, and the studying of microscopic pond water life, electrical currents, and pulleys are some of the projects Bennett helps the fledglings conduct.

DURING REGULAR school session, they would just hear about these things," Bennett said. "Here we give them first-hand experience. Most of this work would not be done normally until they reach junior high status."

To play upon the youngsters' enthusiasm, Bennett switches from one project to another, introducing them to aspects of biology, chemistry and physics.

One project has back-fired. A youth brought in a collection of red and black ants. He now has a collection of black ants. The black specimens devoured the red ones.

The other enrichment program is in instrumental music, with 32 children enrolled. Four and six week sessions are offered.

A BULK of the youths, 156, are enrolled in remedial reading, arithmetic, and language skill sections. Each class is restricted to four pupils.

Miss Martha Sapp, guidance director, notes the program often results in considerable improvement for the youngster because he is with people with similar difficulties and therefore feels more comfortable.

"Often they have the ability," she commented, "but such factors as shyness or a continual change in schools inhibits their advance."

She noted that the district considers a one or two month gain normal in these courses. She cited one girl whose reading ability has shown an 8-month advance so far this summer.

The instructors, Miss Sapp said, try to isolate the child's problem and then give it individual treatment.

STUDENTS from Mt. Prospect, Schaumburg, Des Plaines, Elk Grove and Palatine, as well as the bulk from Arlington Heights, are enrolled in the program. It began June 26.

A tuition fee is charged for each section. All teachers are members of the district 25's regular staff.

District 25 began its summer program in 1948, the first area grade school to do so. That year 28 children enrolled.

New Attorney Rules On Officials' Pay

Village Attorney Jack M. Siegel—on the job for only three days—delivered an opinion Monday which is sure to have adverse affect upon the pocketbooks of many Arlington Heights officials.

The opinion, requested by Village President John G. Woods, observed it is not legal for the village president to receive compensation for acting as the local liquor control commissioner.

Siegel cited the Liquor Control Act of 1935 which permits payment of compensation to the liquor control commissioner.

He also pointed to the Illinois Municipal Code of 1961 which fixes maximum salary for the village president and further provides that "no other salary or compensation shall be allowed any president."

"IT IS MY opinion," Siegel said, "that the provisions of the latter enacted Municipal Code are prevailing."

In other words, President Woods can kiss goodbye an annual income of $600. That's the sum he was scheduled to draw as liquor commissioner.

"I was planning to use the $600 for entertaining on behalf of the village," Woods explained. "It looks now as if that'll have to be postponed."

Siegel also included in his opinion the information that he has not been able to find any provision in village ordinances for payment to members of the board of fire and police commissioners, zoning board of appeals and plan commission.

"I fail to find any provision in the village ordinances for salaries for members of these bodies," Siegel observed.

MEMBERS OF the boards and commission have been drawing about $5 per meeting attended.

Siegel concluded his revelations by saying: "I am of the opinion that the board of trustees cannot now adopt an ordinance to provide salaries for any sitting members of boards or commissions during their present terms."

Siegel, a resident of Wilmette, was hired effective Saturday as village attorney. The opinion on officials' compensation was the first he has been asked to render.

Propose Gala 125th Anniversary Party

The 125th anniversary of Asa Dunton's settling in Arlington Heights should be observed this fall with a gigantic, village-wide celebration.

That was the feeling of 40 organization representatives who met last week to discuss the possibilities of holding a celebration in connection with the village's 125th birthday.

Joseph Schneller, a local businessman, said he called the meeting to test the amount of interest in such an undertaking.

ALL AGREED it would be a good idea to have the celebration, but some expressed fears there wouldn't be enough time to be ready by October 7, the date the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce plans a parade and beauty pageant.

Schneller, speaking for the chamber, observed "the great number of talented people in Arlington Heights" should be able to sponsor a more impressive celebration than those being held this year in McHenry and Libertyville.

Village President John G. Woods commented: "This idea is a real challenge to all of us. The village administration will be happy to give all possible help."

After hearing words of encouragement from Pastor R. O. Bartz, of St. Peter Lutheran church, a celebration steering committee was formed and Ted Small, of Paddock Publications advertising staff, was appointed parade chairman.

Club representatives were asked to convey the spirit of the meeting to their memberships and suggest the desirability of organization participation in fund raising, booths, music, souvenirs, floats and theatrics.

A MEETING of the steering committee was scheduled to be held this week.

Schnller reported Wednesday morning the committee has decided a beard growing contest is apropos for the celebration. The payment of a fine will excuse male residents from growing beards, Schneller noted.

Organizations represented at the July 12 meeting were Arlington Heights Newcomers club, Order of Eastern Star, Boy Scouts, League of Women Voters, SPEBSQSA, Junior Women's club, DAR, Toastmistress club, PTA, Historical society and Nurses club.

Also, PEO, Girl Scouts, Opportunity Council, Wheeling Township Young Republican club, Little League, Women's club, AAUW, VFW, Lions club and village administration.

'Obnoxious' Odor Probed By Police

An obnoxious odor diffusing through southeast Arlington Heights became the object of a police investigation last Thursday evening.

Residents along Phelps ave., immediately north of Northwest hwy., told police that the odor of burning garbage had been bothering them for the last three days.

THEY THOUGHT the garbage was being burned at a disposal plant south of the highway.

Police found the plant locked but discovered a fire that was still burning.

A resident Tuesday said the odor was back again early this week, although it no longer occurs with its former frequency.

Ham Stirs Fight; Local Man Canned

An Arlington Heights man spent last Sunday morning in jail after dropping a canned ham on his mother-in-law's foot and sparring with his wife.

According to police, the trouble began when a discussion of the wife's alleged drinking became heated Saturday night.

The wife's mother, who lives in Mount Prospect, said her son-in-law became surly and purposely dropped the ham on her foot. After that, she said, he pushed her to the floor.

THE HUSBAND said it was all an accident.

While the mother-in-law was unwilling to sign a complaint, the wife was eager. She told police her husband continually abused her.

Officers arrived to take the husband, who was now in the garage, to the station. The mother-in-law came outside to make a final statement about the ham.

At this, the husband tore after her, but she was back inside before he could reach her. He did manage, police reported, to slam the door on her.

AT 12:30 a.m. Sunday morning the husband was released on $100 bond. At 1:20 a.m. the wife called police again to report that her husband had slapped her.

This time police put him in a cell for the night. He has been charged with assault and battery.

Park Manor Project Action Due Sept. 14

It's about time to reach a final decision on the major improvement program for the Park Manor subdivision, the Arlington Heights board of local improvements decided last week.

After receiving revised engineering reports, the board voted Thursday to have original plans amended and discussed with "a final solution in view" on September 14.

The improvement program involves installation of sanitary and storm sewers, water lines and streets in the 40-acre Park Manor subdivision located in the southeastern corner of the village.

THURSDAY'S board meeting witnessed the presentation of a report from Consoer, Townsend and Associates, consulting engineers.

The report said the subdivision's sanitary sewage should flow south to Central rd. instead of north to Davis st., and that a combination sanitary-storm sewer would not be approved by the Metropolitan Sanitary district.

Donald Burdick, president of the Park Manor Homeowners Assn., pointed out that loss of the combination sewer would restore $37,000 previously axed from the $1 million program.

William Cardigan, representative of the engineering firm, opined revisions to the plans would not increase the program's cost.

THE BOARD determined to continue the formal public hearing to the post Labor Day date, authorized Attorney Stephen Jurco to notify homeowners of plan changes, and voted to eliminate Maple, Orchard and Fairview sts. from the project.

Also, a committee was appointed to investigate other possibilities of financing the program. It is now being handled under special assessment. The committee will report at a meeting August 10.

While discussion of eliminating streets was underway, [illegible] Russell Colvin said he didn't like "this batting [illegible] th of little points,"

A housewife in the audience replied: "We're sacrificing to the point of having to give up our homes. Can't you sacrifice a little too?"

Local Man Is Winner On TV Show

An Arlington Heights man won a 32-piece living room and dining room set valued at $2,100 on the television show "The Price Is Right," last week.

Raymond B. Woodruff, 52, of 1001 N. Vail ave., won the furniture by making a guess of the furniture's price. His bid, $1,700, was the closest of four bids.

"THE PRICE IS RIGHT" is a show which features four contestants. Each contestant guesses what the value of an object is. The nearest bidder, but not over the valued price, is the winner.

Woodruff will sell his old furniture and use the new furniture. (AF

Construction Material Gone

Eighty two-by-fours and a slew of pipes were reported missing from a construction site in Arlington Heights this week.

Workmen at the Kensington and Rammer site reported the materials stolen between July 10-17. Value of the stolen property is estimated at $150.

'Double Tax' Help Offered

Arlington Heights has offered to help Hasbrook subdivision homeowners eliminate the double fire protection tax the subdivision is paying.

Since the subdivision was annexed to Arlington Heights two years ago, it has been paying taxes to the Palatine Rural Fire Protection district as well as Arlington Heights.

Hasbrook borders on Palatine.

ACCORDING to a spokesman, Hasbrook residents have been aware of the problem for over a year. However, he explained, they are uncertain how to eliminate the double tax.

Most Hasbrook residents, he noted, paid a "protest" tax last year. He said the home owners were instructed to signify their protest on last year's tax forms.

Village manager L. A. Hanson said this week he expects to receive a report at the end of this week from Jack Siegel, new village attorney, on the Hasbrook plight.

He said the report will recommend procedure for eliminating the double tax.

Hanson said he first discovered Hasbrook was paying a double tax while he was studying fire protection district boundaries earlier this year.

Hanson remarked that he had delayed investigating the problem until a new village attorney was appointed.

HASBROOK residents pay .038 per $100 assessed valuation to the Palatine Rural Fire Protection district. Also, 4.8 per cent of their total Arlington Heights village tax bill goes toward fire protection.

Winston Park home owners suffer from a similar problem. They told Palatine village board members Monday they are paying fire protection taxes to both the village and the rural district. (AF

Village Adds Broader Sales Tax Coverage

Arlington Heights trustees passed an ordinance Monday imposing a one-half cent Municipal Service Occupation (MSO) tax on tangible property sold by village servicemen.

Approved simultaneously was a three per cent tax slice for the state of Illinois, making the total 3½ cents on a dollar.

Extension of the sales tax to construction materials, appliance repair, tailor-made clothing and similar services was made possible by passage of the "broadening bills" by the 72nd General Assembly.

TRUSTEES voted 4-2 to impose the tax. Affirmative votes were cast by Village President John G. Woods and Trustees Eugene Schlickman, Norval Stephens and Samuel Wit. Voting "no" were Trustees Richard Glantz and William Sauer.

"I personally hate to see any increase in taxes unless there is a bona fide need and the revenue can be worked into the budget," Glantz told his colleagues. Sauer agreed.

Village Manager Leonard A. Hanson countered by saying new tax legislation will cause the village to begin paying taxes on 30 to 40 per cent of budgeted items, thus necessitating the half-cent tax income.

FOLLOWING the tax okay, Schlickman suggested the board direct a letter to Gov. Otto Kerner expressing appreciation for his signing of the new Illinois Municipal Code act.

Glantz asked: "Are we also going to ask the governor if he plans on reducing the state budget?" There was no answer to the question.

Glantz voted against addressing the letter to the governor and Sauer passed his vote. Woods, Schlickman, Stephens and Wit voted "yes." (AF

Preliminary Olympics Events Set

Lions Olympics preliminaries at Dryden park will be held today (Thursday) at 1:30 p.m. Events will include a 50-yard dash, softball throw, standing broad jump, standing hop-step-jump, and 4-man shuttle relay.

Winners will advance to the Lions Olympics finals to be held at Recreation park Saturday, July 29.

Despite the rain, the peanut hunt at Dryden park last week was well-attended . A grand total of 50 peanuts was found by the winner, David Toster.

Other winners were Martha Gaarsoe and Harry Anderson.

Q. Is it all right to use the telephone to thank a person for sending flowers?

A. Yes, and telephone immediately. A note of thanks, however, is still better.

Q My mother passed away two weeks ago, and my husband's company is giving a dinner for the employees and their wives next week. Would it be fitting for me to attend?

A. If this is a "personal pleasure" party, it would hardly be proper for you to attend. If, however, it is to your husband's business advantage for you to be present, you should put aside your personal feelings and go with him.

Annexation 'Offer' Gets Cool Reception

"You forget about us, and we'll forget about you," a resident of the Scarsdale Estates subdivision told Village President John G. Woods last week.

The frank suggestion came at the conclusion of a two-hour meeting July 11 between Arlington Heights officials and subdivision homeowners.

Woods had called the meeting to explore the advantages and disadvantages of annexing the subdivision to the village. As far as the 30 residents at the meeting were concerned, disadvantages clearly outweighed advantages.

"Scarsdale Estates is the prestige location in Arlington Heights," one homeowner explained. He said he doubted the village's ability to preserve the character of the area if it were annexed to the village.

ANOTHER resident claimed Scarsdale Estates people do not need Arlington Heights police and fire services.

"We get adequate police protection from Cook county and have offers of fire protection from several nearby villages upon payment of fees ranging from $100 to $150 annually," the resident said.

Other objections to annexation were:

—higher taxes;

—"forced" annexation to the Arlington Heights park district;

—cost of converting water and sewer systems;

—increased traffic flow, and

—possible breakup of a "close knit" organization.

WOODS ASKED the sometimes irritable homeowners: "Are you paying for the advantages you receive from Arlington Heights?" The answer, though unspoken, seemed to be "yes".

David L. Stanley, 516 E. Orchard, spokesman for the Scarsdale Estates group, pointed out that subdivision residents have "always tried to be good neighbors to Arlington Heights."

He continued: "In the event you (the village) surround us and have the option to annex us, we'd like to ask you to be good neighbors in your treatment of us."

Woods, Village Manager L. A. Hanson, and Trustee Norval Stephens assured Stanley that the village also works under the "good neighbor" policy.

Scarsdale Estates is located east of State rd. and north of Central rd. In unincorporated territory, the area contains about 100 high-priced homes and is served by wells and septic systems.

VILLAGE officials have estimated the many village services extended to the subdivision through annexation would cost the average homeowner about 22 cents a day.

No date was set for another meeting, but Woods hopes to have another before the board of trustees makes a policy decision on extending police and fire protection to the subdivision.

Village Revenue Ordinances Eyed

Appropriation and tax levy ordinances for 1961-62 were presented to Arlington Heights trustees for examination Monday by Village Attorney Jack M. Siegel.

The appropriation ordinance, a document legalizing revenue estimates made in the village budget, must be passed before the last day of July, Siegel said.

HE SUGGESTED the ordinance be okayed at next Monday's regular board meeting.

Siegel told trustees the tax levy ordinance gets approval after the appropriation ordinance has been passed, published and is in effect. The levy ordinance is expected to call for a tax rate of 48 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Crash Sends Beef Sailing

Sixty pounds of ground beef landed on the pavement after a collision between two drivers in Arlington Heights Monday.

A panel truck, owned by Arlington Packing co., was carrying the beef when it collided with a car at Dryden and Oakton sts.

The impact caused the truck's load of ground beef to fly out the door.

A. Yes, and telephone immediately. A note of thanks, however, is still better.

Q My mother passed away two weeks ago, and my husband's company is giving a dinner for the employees and their wives next week. Would it be fitting for me to attend?

A. If this is a "personal pleasure" party, it would hardly be proper for you to attend. If, however, it is to your husband's business advantage for you to be present, you should put aside your personal feelings and go with him.

Annexation 'Offer' Gets Cool Reception

"You forget about us, and we'll forget about you," a resident of the Scarsdale Estates subdivision told Village President John G. Woods last week.

The frank suggestion came at the conclusion of a two-hour meeting July 11 between Arlington Heights officials and subdivision homeowners.

Woods had called the meeting to explore the advantages and disadvantages of annexing the subdivision to the village. As far as the 30 residents at the meeting were concerned, disadvantages clearly outweighed advantages.

"Scarsdale Estates is the prestige location in Arlington Heights," one homeowner explained. He said he doubted the village's ability to preserve the character of the area if it were annexed to the village.

ANOTHER resident claimed Scarsdale Estates people do not need Arlington Heights police and fire services.

"We get adequate police protection from Cook county and have offers of fire protection from several nearby villages upon payment of fees ranging from $100 to $150 annually," the resident said.

Other objections to annexation were:

—higher taxes;
—"forced" annexation to the Arlington Heights park district;
—cost of converting water and sewer systems;
—increased traffic flow, and
—possible breakup of a "close knit" organization.

WOODS ASKED the sometimes irritable homeowners: "Are you paying for the advantages you receive from Arlington Heights?" The answer, though unspoken, seemed to be "yes".

David L. Stanley, 516 E. Orchard, spokesman for the Scarsdale Estates group, pointed out that subdivision residents have "always tried to be good neighbors to Arlington Heights."

He continued: "In the event you (the village) surround us and have the option to annex us, we'd like to ask you to be good neighbors in your treatment of us."

Woods, Village Manager L. A. Hanson, and Trustee Norval Stephens assured Stanley that the village also works under the "good neighbor" policy.

Scarsdale Estates is located east of State rd. and north of Central rd. In unincorporated territory, the area contains about 100 high-priced homes and is served by wells and septic systems.

VILLAGE officials have estimated the many village services extended to the subdivision through annexation would cost the average homeowner about 22 cents a day.

No date was set for another meeting, but Woods hopes to have another before the board of trustees makes a policy decision on extending police and fire protection to the subdivision.

Village Revenue Ordinances Eyed

Appropriation and tax levy ordinances for 1961-62 were presented to Arlington Heights trustees for examination Monday by Village Attorney Jack M. Siegel.

The appropriation ordinance, a document legalizing revenue estimates made in the village budget, must be passed before the last day of July, Siegel said.

HE SUGGESTED the ordinance be okayed at next Monday's regular board meeting.

Siegel told trustees the tax levy ordinance gets approval after the appropriation ordinance has been passed, published and is in effect. The levy ordinance is expected to call for a tax rate of 48 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

TB Fighters Face Big Battle in City Areas

"The remarkable advances made in controlling tuberculosis which this country has witnessed in the past 15 years are only the prologue to what may be the bitterest, toughest battle yet, and the most difficult to win," Milan V. Novak, M.D., president of The Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook county, declared in the agency's annual report just released.

According to the report, Chicagoans and suburbanites cannot sit back and rest on their laurels. Although TB has retreated from many rural communities, it remains entrenched in the cities.

Chicago had, in 1959, the third highest case rate in the U. S. among five cities with the highest population There were 79.3 per 100,000 newly reported cases. In deaths, we also ranked third.

IN 1960, according to the annual report, Chicago had a slight rise in the number of new cases and deaths, instead of a decrease. Provisional figures from the Chicago board of health show there were 2,815 new cases reported in 1960, and 339 deaths. This compares with 2,790 new cases for 1959, and 334 deaths. In addition, authorities estimate there are at least 3,000 persons in our community who have TB and don't know it.

An alarming factor in these undiscovered cases is the fact that these people are spreading tuberculosis. To find these people, The Tuberculosis Institute engages in an extensive year-round campaign.

According to the report, from June through September, 1960, the Institute scheduled mobile X-ray units belonging to the Institute, the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium and The Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District to survey 60 suburban communities and 125 neighborhood locations in Chicago. These units were staffed by technicians and assisted by volunteer clerical aids.

DURING THE winter months, the units were used in industry, X-raying employees in 658 plants and offices. At the same time, positive reactors found in the school tuberculin testing programs were X-rayed Altogether, the 12-month survey involved 1,005,907 X-rays; 794,509 in Chicago and 211,398 in suburban Cook county.

Recognizing that one of TB's strongholds is in the lower socio-economic groups, the Institute in cooperation with official agencies, installed in 1960, a stationary X-ray unit in the General Assistance office at Madison and Damen to screen applicants for public assistance.

Another means of finding unknown TV is the tuberculin test, a method employed for many years by the Institute. During 1960, in a "crash" program, students in 135 Chicago schools had the test and of the 34,371 children, 5,204 were found to have been exposed to TB. The reaction rate of 15 per cent was far in excess of recommendations for community safety. A level of 1 per cent in the 14-15 age group had been set as the goal for 1970 by health authorities.

FINDING TB victims calls for an educational program by The Tuberculosis Institute, in addition to the survey program. Many people will not avail themselves of the free X-ray program without strong reminders to point out the need for the check-up.

Recognizing the need for more effective drugs, the Institute allocated $27,025 of its Christmas Seal funds for research and for medical education.

Last but not least is the program of rehabilitation at the Institute. People who have been cured of TB often need help in rebuilding their lives. This is especially true of the unskilled ex-patient.

LAST YEAR, contributions to the Christmas Seal campaign, the mainstay of the work of The Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook county, totaled $827,321.10, or $7,321.10 more than the goal. This was the most successful Christmas Seal campaign in the Institute's 54-year history.

The Institute is not alone in its work. Teamwork in the control of TB is the keystone to success. Every phase of the Institute's program depends upon continuing, vital collaboration with official and voluntary agencies, clubs and organizations, private physicians and general public. In its annual report the Institute pays tribute to some of these organizations by name, and to all in spirit. (B8

4-H Fair Program Limited by Space

The North Cook county 4-H club fair will be held at the Grayslake fair grounds on August 19.

The fair was held in the past at the Arlington Park Jockey club in Arlington Heights. The Arlington Park grounds were not available to the 4-H club when it was planning its fair because of a scheduled multi-million dollar expansion program that was tentatively set to begin after Labor day.

Because of the lack of space at the Grayslake fair grounds, the 4-H club canceled its shows.

THIS YEAR, the 4-H fair will have only the display and judging of 4-H projects: agricultural and animal.

The fair is free and open to the public.

According to an Arlington Park operations committee report, the expansion program will be ready to start as soon as zoning specifications are worked out and the final plans are submitted by the project's architects.

Mrs. Dorothy Hartman, a 4-H officer, said a king and queen for the 4-H club will be picked at the August 19 fair. A coronation ball is tentatively scheduled for the following week.

Giant Tuberous Begonia Display Set for Chicago

Mrs. Louis Brabec of Mount Prospect and Carl Klehm of Arlington Heights are reminding flower lovers in this area of an outstanding exhibit taking place in Chicago's loop July 26 to July 29. The Illinois Garden guild, of which Mrs. Brabec and Mr. Klehm are members, is sponsoring a display of giant tuberous begonia flowers in their rich exotic colors.

The begonias are being flown here from the world famous growers, Vetterle and Reinelt of Capitola, Cal., for the exhibit. Along with these, local tuberous begonia growers are contributing specimens from their own gardens.

THE EXHIBIT is being held in the lobbies of LaSalle National bank, LaSalle and Adams sts., with a most extensive display in the safe deposit lobby on the lower floor.

The entire exhibit and a TV program on Channel 11 at 9:45 a.m. Tuesday, July 25, have been arranged by a committee in memory of the late Jesse Strauss, Glencoe, nationally known for his prize-winning begonias. (B9

Arrington's Goal Is To Be 'Best' Senator

GOP Legislator Reviews Session

By BRUCE LADD

State Senator W. Russell Arrington (R, Evanston) nourishes a desire to be the best legislator in the state of Illinois.

During the 72nd General Assembly session which ended earlier this month, the 55-year-old veteran senator introduced 250 bills ranging from proposals for election reform to recodification of the state's commercial laws.

"Eighteen years in Springfield have taught me that government is a terrific responsibility which can't be dealt with on a 'sometimes' basis," Arrington confides.

And his actions do not belie his words.

Working day and night and seven days a week, he almost single-handedly carried the Republican party's recent legislative fight against "unabridged spending and extravagant taxing proposals."

His trip to Puerto Rico in April broke an amazing string of 321 consecutive days of working on state business. His lucrative law practice in Chicago has been adjusted to allow more time for attention to legislative matters.

BUT ARRINGTON tends to minimize the scope of his somewhat Herculean efforts in the Senate.

"My contributions are no greater than those of many other legislators," he says. "I led the fight in opposition to the one-half cent increase in the state sales tax because I know a little more about revenue than most."

As chairman of the Senate Revenue committee for the past six years, Arrington has frequently spoken out in favor of an overhaul of the state's archaic revenue article.

STATE SENATOR W. Russell Arrington has acted with an eye toward fiscal responsibility in the Illinois Senate for 18 years. A resident of Evanston, Arrington represents the 4th senatorial district which includes the townships of Wheeling, Northfield, New Trier, Evanston and Niles.

Twice, in 1952 and 1956, his tax reform bills cleared the General Assembly but were turned down when presented at the polls.

HE DOUBTS the legislature will agree on a constitutional tax reform proposition to be submitted to voters next year.

"The need for a revenue article is paramount," Arrington emphasized. "It appears, however, that the House and Senate won't be able to agree on an acceptable amendment because of differences over an income tax provision."

The senator is staunchly opposed to giving the legislature authority to impose an income tax. He feels the great majority of his constituents in the 4th senatorial district (Evanston, New Trier, Niles, Northfield and Wheeling townships) are also opposed to an income tax.

"The people I've talked to are psychotic in their opposition to an income tax of any kind," Arrington said.

He explained the only revenue article likely to pass the General Assembly will be one that blends the philosophies of those both for and against an income tax. He advocates the voters being given a voice in whether or not they'll have such a tax.

(Governor Otto Kerner is reportedly weighing the merits of calling the General Assembly back in special session this fall for the primary purpose of preparing a revenue article.)

FOR A MAN who once said he'd never run for public office, Arrington has emerged as something of a phenomenon. After serving 10 years in the House and eight years in the Senate, he now ranks ninth in overall tenure.

Does he have ambitions to run for Congress or a higher office? Not at all.

As the senator puts it: "Working as a state legislator is my avocation. Some of my colleagues aspire to bigger and better things, but I feel my own goal is to become the best senator possible."

HE SHARES the opinion of most newspapermen that the 72nd General Assembly adjourned July 1 was the most hectic in recent history.

"Yes, there's no question about it. The use of adjectives such as 'disgrace' and 'shameful' were quite apropos in descriptions of this year's session."

What were the characteristics of the 72nd that made it so hectic? In Arrington's mind, the session was especially flagrant in two respects:

—it consisted of an enormous amount of 'partisan' business, and —it transformed the word 'economy' into little more than seven letters used by legislators in speech making.

AS AN EXAMPLE of 'partisan' business, he cited the killing of election reform bills by House Democrats. He also pointed to tax measures, gambling bills, judicial proposals and legislation concerning a hotel for O'Hare airport.

References to "economy" by Illinois Democrats should not be taken too seriously, Arrington opined.

"It is obvious, it seems to me, that Republican revenue proposals safely assured sums of money enormously more than adequate to meet even the Governor's extravagant requests," the senator said.

HE NOTED THAT it is the belief of most Republicans that governments — and particularly the present state administration — will contrive to spend all money which is available to them.

"If anything was to be done to prevent the administration from becoming altogether fiscally irresponsible, Republicans felt it necessary to reduce to the extent possible many sources of revenue," Arrington said.

He referred to the savings of $1 million realized through legislation urged by the Legislative Audit commission, a bi-partisan body formed after the Orville Hodge scandal in 1957. Arrington is chairman of the commission.

The serious, quick-speaking senator is proud of two bills he sponsored this past session. Grouped under the heading of welfare, the bills involve establishment of a Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) and a medical care plan for the indigent aged.

IN ANSWER to a question about his alleged opposition to FEPC bills in the past, Arrington said: "I've never opposed FEPC legislation as such. I was never able to support FEPC because bills introduced were not workable.

"The FEPC bill I co-sponsored and signed by the governor is workable. What's more, it's palatable."

The senator maintained he is still the principal critic of the Illinois Public Aid Commission despite his sponsorship of the medical aid bill. His bill, passed by both houses, urged more liberal legislation than that proposed by the IPAC.

"Commissions are fine when it comes to judicial and legislative affairs," Arrington pointed out, "but in the realm of administration, commissions are not desirable."

A senior member of the law firm of Arrington, Healy and Wilson, 135 S. LaSalle st., Chicago, Arrington lives at 929 Edgemere ct., Evanston.

He has been continuously endorsed by the Better Government association, Chicago Crime Commission, Legislative Voters League and numerous civic and educational organizations.

HE WISHES he had more time to devote to stumping his district. It encompasses 126 square miles.

"I'd like to have more contact with voters in my district, but find I'm hampered by its size and the demands on time," Arrington observed. He said he always welcomes questions and comments from constituents.

According to his mail, voters don't hesitate to give praise and advice. Many believe he won the "best senator" award a long time ago.

Apartment Construction Near Record in Suburbs

Suburban apartment construction was at a near record in June while home building in the entire metropolitan area showed a slight decline from last year

A survey of new building in the Chicago Metropolitan area by Bell Savings and Loan Association, Chicago, shows permits were issued for 811 apartment units in the suburbs, compared to 451 units for the same period of 1960.

"This volume is 80 per cent above last June and is second only to the all-time June high set in 1959 when 850 apartment units were reported," the survey indicates.

MOST OF THE apartment permits were issued in west suburban communities, northwest suburbs issuing only a few.

Some 1,461 suburban home building permits were issued during June, a decline of 22 per cent from the 1960 total of 1,862 units.

Suburban apartment construction during the first half of 1961 has surpassed the previous record for the six-month period, according to Harold P. Halleen, president of Bell Savings and Loan Association.

Halleen reported that permits for 4,676 suburban apartment units have been issued, a 10 per cent rise over the first six months of 1959, the previous high. when 4,254 units were recorded.

HE EXPLAINED that decentralization of industry, development of outlying shopping centers and the construction of expressways and toll roads changed the housing demand in many communities.

"Many people who work in or near the suburban towns want compact, easy to maintain living quarters close to their work," he said.

"Older couples who have raised their families in the suburbs also are prospective apartment dwellers. They want smaller quarters that require less care but do not wish to leave their home town." (B8

TV PIGGY BANK

by ED LANDWEHR

We came across a different kind of idea in connection with television maintenance. This lady had placed a small piggy bank on top of the family TV set, and each time any member of the family viewed a program they were required to deposit a coin.

She remarked that the worse thing about TV service was that it always came when her budget was the shortest. She wasn't going to be caught short anymore.

Obviously, the members of her family contributed very well because she had quite a bit of money left over when we finished our services. She was very happy about it, and we wonder now if we shouldn't supply piggy banks for our customers.

Arrington's Goal Is To Be 'Best' Senator

GOP Legislator Reviews Session

By BRUCE LADD

State Senator W. Russell Arrington (R, Evanston) nourishes a desire to be the best legislator in the state of Illinois.

During the 72nd General Assembly session which ended earlier this month, the 55-year-old veteran senator introduced 250 bills ranging from proposals for election reform to recodification of the state's commercial laws.

"Eighteen years in Springfield have taught me that government is a terrific responsibility which can't be dealt with on a 'sometimes' basis," Arrington confides.

And his actions do not belie his words.

Working day and night and seven days a week, he almost single-handedly carried the Republican party's recent legislative fight against "unabridged spending and extravagant taxing proposals."

His trip to Puerto Rico in April broke an amazing string of 321 consecutive days of working on state business. His lucrative law practice in Chicago has been adjusted to allow more time for attention to legislative matters.

BUT ARRINGTON tends to minimize the scope of his somewhat Herculean efforts in the Senate.

"My contributions are no greater than those of many other legislators," he says. "I led the fight in opposition to the one-half cent increase in the state sales tax because I know a little more about revenue than most."

As chairman of the Senate Revenue committee for the past six years, Arrington has frequently spoken out in favor of an overhaul of the state's archaic revenue article.

STATE SENATOR W. Russell Arrington has acted with an eye toward fiscal responsibility in the Illinois Senate for 18 years. A resident of Evanston, Arrington represents the 4th senatorial district which includes the townships of Wheeling, Northfield, New Trier, Evanston and Niles.

Twice, in 1952 and 1956, his tax reform bills cleared the General Assembly but were turned down when presented at the polls.

HE DOUBTS the legislature will agree on a constitutional tax reform proposition to be submitted to voters next year.

"The need for a revenue article is paramount," Arrington emphasized. "It appears, however, that the House and Senate won't be able to agree on an acceptable amendment because of differences over an income tax provision."

The senator is staunchly opposed to giving the legislature authority to impose an income tax. He feels the great majority of his constituents in the 4th senatorial district (Evanston, New Trier, Niles, Northfield and Wheeling townships) are also opposed to an income tax.

"The people I've talked to are psychotic in their opposition to an income tax of any kind," Arrington said.

He explained the only revenue article likely to pass the General Assembly will be one that blends the philosophies of those both for and against an income tax. He advocates the voters being given a voice in whether or not they'll have such a tax.

(Governor Otto Kerner is reportedly weighing the merits of calling the General Assembly back in special session this fall for the primary purpose of preparing a revenue article.)

Growing Problem of Risk

Young, Unmarried Male Hit By Auto Insurance Premium

by DAN PRIBILSKI

The unmarried 25-year-old or younger male gets stung in the neck when it comes to automobile insurance rates.

His premiums are higher, getting coverage is more difficult than for others, and the coverage desired cannot always be gotten.

Whether he is a teen-age kid with a $150 car or a young professional man with a solid job and an almost new car, he still must pay the higher rates and keep on paying them until he is 26 years old.

Why?

Because, according to statistics compiled by insurance companies, the unmarried under 25-year-old male causes more accidents and is involved in more accidents than any other age group of drivers.

The 25 or under driver represents about 15 per cent of the automobile insurance industry's business but he accounts for almost 25 per cent of the claims against the industry. This group is involved in 28 per cent of all traffic fatalities.

WHEN A YOUNG man takes out a policy, one Allstate Insurance official said, the insurance agent estimates that for every dollar paid in by the client, $1.30 will have to be paid out in claims. The official said that not all young drivers will cost the company that much but still that is about the average cost to the companies.

"We hope," Ed Lisowski of Allstate Insurance underwriting department said, "that in the long run, after a man passes 25, we will start making a profit on the policy."

The insurance companies which were checked by Paddock Publications would all take the single under 25-year-old male.

The more liberal a company's policies—the size of the policies granted, its regular competitive rates, the number of the client's privileges — the more stringent are the requirements for accepting an unmarried 25-year-old or younger male driver.

A COMPANY that will grant a $50,000 to $100,000 coverage on liability and $10,000 property damage plus a standard comprehensive fire and theft policy will have stricter requirements.

A company that will grant coverage only as high or slightly higher than the Illinois liability and property damage minimums will have lower requirements.

The Illinois minimum requirements are $10,000 and $20,000 liability and $5,000 property damage.

Can't the insurance companies make a distinction between the young professional with a college education and a good car and the teen-age kid with the cheap second-hand car?

THE ANSWER is that they try. They have tried very hard.

The Farmers Insurance Group attempted a year ago a program where the men in the under 25 group with solid jobs, good cars, and driving experience were given a rate more in keeping with rates for those over 25. The company lost $600,000 in claims for this age group.

Dan M. Fisher, a Farmers Insurance Group agent in Arlington Heights, said, "If the insurance industry knew why the better educated, better paid young man is as poor a risk as many teen-agers, we'd have the answer to a very big mystery."

FISHER KNOWS one man that he thought was a good risk. He had every reason to believe the man was responsible. The man had a good job and was to be married. Shortly after a policy was granted to the man, he was involved in an accident. He was drunk and he left the scene of the accident.

"You can just never tell," Fisher said.

One insurance official offered a reason why the single under 25 male is a poor risk.

"He's sporting around at night, and that's the worst time to drive," the official said. "Even though he is a responsible man at the job, he wants to live it up and have a good time at night.

"The married man under 25 is a better risk. When he's through with work, he's tired and just wants to go home. His sporting days are over."

INSURANCE companies divide their clients into two general classes. The over 25 male until he is 60 or 65 and if he has a good record is considered a "preferred risk." This type of risk can get rates at 15 per cent to 25 per cent lower than the other general class called the "standard risk."

The standard risk consists of the under 25 group and in many cases the over 65 age group. It also includes those in the 25 to 65 group that have poor records.

The standard risk policies are often handled by subsidiary or secondary companies of the main or parent companies. For instance, at Allstate, the standard risk company is National Emblem; at Farmers Insurance Group, the standard is Mid-Century; and at State Farm there is the Standard State Farm Fire and Casualty.

BECAUSE THE state of Illinois requires the minimum of 10/20 liability and $5,000 property damage, the Illinois Automobile Assigned Risk plan was set up for those unable to get insurance.

The assigned risk plan provides minimum insurance. It is a pool plan. Poor risks are assigned to companies by the state. Each company in the state must take a quota of such risks. The rates are determined by the membership number and how many claims there are from year to year. If many claims are made, the rates go up.

This plan might be termed the "last resort" for persons needing insurance.

What are the rates for a year?

TO GIVE RATES in exact dollars and cents is difficult. The rates vary with the type of policy. And each rate depends upon many variables. What is the age, 17, 21, 24? What kind of car? Stock? Sports? Hotrod? How old is the car? Do the parents do business with the company? What kind of job does the young man have? How long has he driven?

Taking an example, a 23-year-old engineer with a 1959 standard stock car in good condition and four years driving experience might get a rate around $300 for a year.

A policy with near minimum liability and $10,000 property damage might cost about $250, depending on the company. A standard risk 50/100 liability policy with $10,000 property could go as high as $430 for a year.

Most insurance companies grant discounts to 25-year-old males who have no accidents or claims.

'Y' Day Camp Begins Final Period Tuesday

Next Tuesday begins the final 2-week session of Northwest Suburban YMCA "Day Camp Adventure." Fishing, nature hikes, watermelon feeds, treasure hunts and cookouts, all at Deer Grove, and swimming, trampoline and air rifle at the new 'Y' are among the variety of adventures awaiting boys and girls from this area who are planning to attend.

The 'Y' day camp operates Tuesdays through Fridays, in 2-week periods, under professional adult supervison and 'Y' trained counselors. Boys and girls from 7 to 12 years of age are welcome to enroll in this final period. Dates are from July 25 through August 4.

FULLY CHARTERED United Motor Coach buses pick up the campers at their nearest grade school in the mornings and return them to the same location in late afternoon.

The morning at Deer Grove with its outdoor fun and picnic lunch is balanced by afternoons at the 'Y,' where weather plays no part in the swimming and other indoor activities available to campers.

Further information concerning the day camp and registration may be obtained by calling the 'Y' at CY 6-3376.

Young, Unmarried Male Hit By Auto Insurance Premium

by DAN PRIBILSKI

The unmarried 25-year-old or younger male gets stung in the neck when it comes to automobile insurance rates.

His premiums are higher, getting coverage is more difficult than for others, and the coverage desired cannot always be gotten.

Whether he is a teen-age kid with a $150 car or a young professional man with a solid job and an almost new car, he still must pay the higher rates and keep on paying them until he is 26 years old.

Why?

Because, according to statistics compiled by insurance companies, the unmarried under 25-year-old male causes more accidents and is involved in more accidents than any other age group of drivers.

The 25 or under driver represents about 15 per cent of the automobile insurance industry's business but he accounts for almost 25 per cent of the claims against the industry. This group is involved in 28 per cent of all traffic fatalities.

WHEN A YOUNG man takes out a policy, one Allstate Insurance official said, the insurance agent estimates that for every dollar paid in by the client, $1.30 will have to be paid out in claims. The official said that not all young drivers will cost the company that much but still that is about the average cost to the companies.

"We hope," Ed Lisowski of Allstate Insurance underwriting department said, "that in the long run, after a man passes 25, we will start making a profit on the policy."

The insurance companies which were checked by Paddock Publications would all take the single under 25-year-old male.

The more liberal a company's policies—the size of the policies granted, its regular competitive rates, the number of the client's privileges — the more stringent are the requirements for accepting an unmarried 25-year-old or younger male driver.

A COMPANY that will grant a $50,000 to $100,000 coverage on liability and $10,000 property damage plus a standard comprehensive fire and theft policy will have stricter requirements.

A company that will grant coverage only as high or slightly higher than the Illinois liability and property damage minimums will have lower requirements.

The Illinois minimum requirements are $10,000 and $20,000 liability and $5,000 property damage.

Can't the insurance companies make a distinction between the young professional with a college education and a good car and the teen-age kid with the cheap second-hand car?

THE ANSWER is that they try. They have tried very hard.

The Farmers Insurance Group attempted a year ago a program where the men in the under 25 group with solid jobs, good cars, and driving experience were given a rate more in keeping with rates for those over 25. The company lost $600,000 in claims for this age group.

Dan M. Fisher, a Farmers Insurance Group agent in Arlington Heights, said, "If the insurance industry knew why the better educated, better paid young man is as poor a risk as many teen-agers, we'd have the answer to a very big mystery."

FISHER KNOWS one man that he thought was a good risk. He had every reason to believe the man was responsible. The man had a good job and was to be married. Shortly after a policy was granted to the man, he was involved in an accident. He was drunk and he left the scene of the accident.

"You can just never tell," Fisher said.

One insurance official offered a reason why the single under 25 male is a poor risk.

"He's sporting around at night, and that's the worst time to drive," the official said. "Even though he is a responsible man at the job, he wants to live it up and have a good time at night.

"The married man under 25 is a better risk. When he's through with work, he's tired and just wants to go home. His sporting days are over."

INSURANCE companies divide their clients into two general classes. The over 25 male until he is 60 or 65 and if he has a good record is considered a "preferred risk." This type of risk can get rates at 15 per cent to 25 per cent lower than the other general class called the "standard risk."

The standard risk consists of the under 25 group and in many cases the over 65 age group. It also includes those in the 25 to 65 group that have poor records.

The standard risk policies are often handled by subsidiary or secondary companies of the main or parent companies. For instance, at Allstate, the standard risk company is National Emblem; at Farmers Insurance Group, the standard is Mid-Century; and at State Farm there is the Standard State Farm Fire and Casualty.

BECAUSE THE state of Illinois requires the minimum of 10/20 liability and $5,000 property damage, the Illinois Automobile Assigned Risk plan was set up for those unable to get insurance.

The assigned risk plan provides minimum insurance. It is a pool plan. Poor risks are assigned to companies by the state. Each company in the state must take a quota of such risks. The rates are determined by the membership number and how many claims there are from year to year. If many claims are made, the rates go up.

This plan might be termed the "last resort" for persons needing insurance.

What are the rates for a year?

TO GIVE RATES in exact dollars and cents is difficult. The rates vary with the type of policy. And each rate depends upon many variables. What is the age, 17, 21, 24? What kind of car? Stock? Sports? Hotrod? How old is the car? Do the parents do business with the company? What kind of job does the young man have? How long has he driven?

Taking an example, a 23-year-old engineer with a 1959 standard stock car in good condition and four years driving experience might get a rate around $300 for a year.

A policy with near minimum liability and $10,000 property damage might cost about $250, depending on the company. A standard risk 50/100 liability policy with $10,000 property could go as high as $430 for a year.

Most insurance companies grant discounts to 25-year-old males who have no accidents or claims.

'Y' Day Camp Begins Final Period Tuesday

Next Tuesday begins the final 2-week session of Northwest Suburban YMCA "Day Camp Adventure." Fishing, nature hikes, watermelon feeds, treasure hunts and cookouts, all at Deer Grove, and swimming, trampoline and air rifle at the new 'Y' are among the variety of adventures awaiting boys and girls from this area who are planning to attend.

The 'Y' day camp operates Tuesdays through Fridays, in 2-week periods, under professional adult supervison and 'Y' trained counselors. Boys and girls from 7 to 12 years of age are welcome to enroll in this final period. Dates are from July 25 through August 4.

FULLY CHARTERED United Motor Coach buses pick up the campers at their nearest grade school in the mornings and return them to the same location in late afternoon.

The morning at Deer Grove with its outdoor fun and picnic lunch is balanced by afternoons at the 'Y,' where weather plays no part in the swimming and other indoor activities available to campers.

Further information concerning the day camp and registration may be obtained by calling the 'Y' at CY 6-3376.

Both drivers were injured and taken to Northwest Community hospital. Damage to both cars was listed as $500 each. The second driver was charged with driving too fast for conditions.

IN ANOTHER accident, at 7:40 p. m. July 16, Alexander Howanski, 38, of 63 W. Algonquin, Des Plaines, was northbound on U. S. 12 a half mile south of Illinois 83.

A second vehicle, driven by Amorello A. Morelli, 55, of 2033 N. Clifton, was southbound. When traffic stopped suddenly, Morelli applied his brakes and skidded across the median strip and his vehicle struck the right front of the other vehicle.

Injured were three passengers in the first car, Anastasia Howanski, 39; Alezander Jr., 5, and Lydia, 11. All three were taken to Holy Family hospital. Morelli was charged with driving on the wrong side of the road. Damage to each car was listed by state police as $400.

An accident at Illinois 68 at U. S. 14 occurred at 11:30 a. m. on July 15. Robert R. Beerup, 34, of 1104 Osterman, Deerfield, was traveling west. A second car, driven by Bernice C. Klemm, 45, of 722 Haish blvd., DeKalb, stopped for a stop sign coming off of U. S. 14 to go west on Illinois 68.

SEEING NO traffic, the motorist pulled out to go right and her car was struck in the side by the other vehicle, which was unable to stop when the other car pulled out in front of it.

The woman motorist, who was injured and taken to Northwest Community hospital, was charged with failure to yield right of way.

Passengers in the Beerup car were Donna Beerup, 25; Marjorie, 1, and Julia Ann, 3.

New Owner Of Cleaners Announced

Alden S. Fields has assumed ownership of Westgate cleaners, Westgate Park and Shop, Arlington Heights. He was formerly controller of Broadstreet's Men's Wear shops in the Palmer House, Chicago and Old Orchard.

Fields, who has had long experience in handling fine wearing apparel, will devote his personal attention to your cleaning problems. In addition to expert cleaning of clothing, the store will also specialize in cleaning drapes and couch covers.

This is one of three stores owned by Fields; the others are located in Morton Grove and Northlake. (A

Boy Scout Tours Are Growing More Popular

Tours by Boy Scouts of America are becoming increasingly popular.

And the scouting tours, while providing Scouts and Explorers with opportunities for real camping experiences away from the home area, also exericse travel management abilities of their adult leaders.

Last year, 535,185 Scouts, Explorers and leaders went on expeditions or took part in special adventure camps, following historical and wilderness trails.

ALL TRIPS, while originated within local units, are conducted with local or national authorization.

Units planning trips are required to obtain local or national tour permits, according to William Ross of Skokie, chairman of the camping committee of the Northwest Suburban Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Scouts and Explorers visit places of natural beauty by foot, canoes, rafts, bike trips, float trips and by horseback. Some go in auto caravans and others by plane.

The leadership, facilities, program, health and safety and business management of a tour must meet the standards for camping set by the Boy Scouts of America.

REQUIRING OF permits helps the Scout leaders by suggesting a complete check list for their planning and helps assure the safety of the Scout party and a successful journey, Ross explained.

The tour permit requires that funds for all anticipated expenses must be in hand before the trip begins and must be raised in accordance with policies of the National Council.

Tour parties are led by adult leaders who are assisted by patrol and crew leader assistants. The ratio of leadership recommended is one adult to every eight boys.

Tour leaders are expected to know conditions in the territory to be covered and to make their contacts in advance of the journey. Ross explained they are to know the kind and amount of equipment required and how to care for it; probable differences in costs of foodstuffs, gasoline; variations in climate, road conditions; sources of food and water supply; camp sites and places where medical attention may be obtained.

ROSS SAID that Scouts and Explorers, while enroute, will be accepted and judged as typical representatives of the Boy Scouts of America. As a result, leaders and Scouts are conscious of their conduct.

All Scout tour groups pledge themselves to obey the speed laws, travel no more than eight hours of daylight travel time, respect the property of others and not trespass and to operate clean and sanitary camps.

Impending Crisis in Suburbs?

Legislator Barks Up Wrong Tree; He's Now Dog-Eared

BY BOB SETLIK

The voices of reason are weakening. A crisis seems impending.

The dog problem, for so long treated with moderation, is getting out of hand.

With abandon, public officials are being branded as anti-dog or un-dog. Reputations are injured; careers ruined.

To wit: During the recently concluded state legislative session, a freshman member of the senate, Seymour Fox, introduced bill 719.

It would strengthen existing laws that require dog pounds to turn over to research hospitals animals that the pound has been unable to find a home for.

US DOGS . . .

DON'T HAVE . . .

A CHANCE . . .

UNFORTUNATELY for Senator Fox, the bill also would allow the hospitals arbitrarily to take dogs from private shelters or humane societies if the animals were not claimed within 15 days.

A deluge of letters hit the legislators, branding 719 as the "pet seizure" bill.

One woman set the tone when she said that "two million dog lovers in Illinois protest this vicious and inhumane legislation."

Another woman wrote to Paddock Publications that "the lawmakers have no right to take away the rights of the minority who believe in supporting the humane societies for the animal's benefit."

"The bill would destroy public confidence in animal shelters," an official of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals told the lawmakers in Springfield.

The legislators received over 15,000 letters protesting the bill.

WHEN THE BILL came into committee, a senator simply said: "I move to kill this bill." The suggestion was carried, 26 votes to none.

To risk a poor pun, Sen. Fox wouldn't stand a dog's chance if he ran for re-election today.

Undoubtedly, Sen. Fox introduced the bill in the interests of humanity. Undoubtedly, he is pro-dog.

But, with the atmosphere so charged, good intentions are inadequate. The public is no longer satisfied with just lashing the American untouchable, the dog catcher. Now, it is turning on its elected officials.

J. J. Shaffer, managing director of the Chicago Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which often answers complaints in the northwest suburbs, has seen this increase in public reaction toward the abuse of dogs. He attributes it to the decrease in livestock, which once were the main concern of anti-cruelty societies, in the Chicago area.

WITH LIVESTOCK abuse practically eleminated, the public has turned to dogs.

"If a dog is being abused," he remarked, "sooner or later we hear about it."

The increasing tension is apparent in the northwest suburbs. During the past week:

—Mt. Prospect formed a public safety committee. Part of its duties is to look into control of animals.

—Hoffman Estates, a field a few years ago, was about to hire a dog catcher until it took a second look at its treasury.

And, a Chicago newspaper editorially decried the "crass insensitivity" of some dog owners.

THE DOG PROBLEM— dogs running at large, dogs nipping children, dogs trampling bushes, dogs barking at night—has been with the suburbs for a long time.

And, almost all towns have had dog ordinances for a long time. Fines are prescribed for people who own vicious, stray, or unlicensed animals. The penalties, beginning at $5, can run as high as $200 in most communities.

But the abuse goes on.

Eugene Korn, animal control officer in Arlington Heights, will tell you that strays are decreasing in the village.

George Whittenberg, Mt. Prospect police chief, does not believe that dogs are a serious problem in the village anymore.

A DOG SYMPATHIZER is likely to ask: Who is being licked, the owners, or the dogs.

The dog population in the Chicago area, according to the Anti-Cruelty Society, is decreasing. It now stands approximately at 500,000.

According to the same source, there has been no letup in complaints since the Society's founding, 62 years ago. It personally investigates 2,000 complaints a year, and it receives many more.

"You have to put fear into them before they'll control their pets," Korn commented.

A favorite trick of suburbanites is to buy a dog for Christmas and let it loose when it is time to pay for a license, Korn has noticed.

"It's a disgrace," Shaffer stated, "the number of people who buy a dog when they never should own one in the first place. They treat a dog as a plaything for the kids."

IF REASON FAILS, what next? If legal means of controlling the dog problem fail, if an innocent legislator's career is threatened because dog lovers are losing patience, what next?

Unleashed, the two million Illinois dog lovers that the letter mentions could be vicious. They might even abuse a few negligent dog owners.

Lutheran General Will Be 'Cooler'

Lutheran General hospital, Park Ridge, already partially equipped with modern air conditioning facilities, will soon be entirely air conditioned.

T. L. Jacobsen, executive director, last week said, "When the current air conditioning expansion project is completed, Lutheran General will be one of the few air conditioned hospitals in this section of the United States."

Each patient room now has its own air system and the air in each of the rooms is regulated by patients and is completely exchanged every seven minutes.

AT THE PRESENT time, all patient rooms, emergency department, operating and recovery rooms, labor and delivery rooms, laboratories, cafeteria, conference room and some office areas are air conditioned.

The final, $48,300 phase, dependent upon cash contributions, will air condition the following areas: X-ray, physical therapy, outpatient and personnel departments, pharmacy, shop and the department of personal care, all on the ground floor.

The lobby, admitting offices, business office, gift shop and the department of pastoral care on the first floor will be air conditioned under the program, as will the center core service areas of each of the six patient floors.

Coin Club Plans Sunday Picnic

Monticello Coin club members have voted to hold a picnic this month instead of the usual meeting night. The date is Sunday at Deer Grove forest preserve, and the time is one o'clock. The picnic menu will be furnished by the club. All members and their families and guests are invited to attend.

At the picnic the usual coin auction, trading session and coin displays will be in effect. There will be games and prizes to add to the fun.

Those planning to attend are asked to call Thomas Stebbings, president, FL 8-0932, or Fred Green, secretary, CL 9-3096, to advise them of the number in their party.

FROM RIDGE PARK

While Rosemarie Cokash's parents were still visiting them, her cousin and his wife, Michael and Lucille Perito of Denver, paid them a surprise 3-day visit. It had been 21 years since they had seen each other, so they made it a festive occasion.

Because Rosemarie's brother was to land in New York from Manchester, England, July 18, their parents left here on the 12th in order to meet him. Rosemarie, Bill and their children live at 906 N. Illinois.

Jimmie Lauer arrived home from a week in Indianapolis with his grandparents, the Gene Mestons, in time to go on vacation with his family. The Jim Lauers, 1020 N. Kennicott, and three of their four boys headed for Twin Lakes, Wis., for a week. When they weren't swimming, they were fishing. Even Joey caught one. After returning home they drove to Indianapolis to get the baby, Jeff, who had been staying with the Mestons.

Excitement ran high at the Martin Saidikowski home, 828 N. Salem, and at the Dick Platts', 806 N. Kennicott, on the eve of Rosemary and Karen's departure for camp at Westfield, Wis., where they swam, rode horses and enjoyed camp life.

The Kenneth Huggs, 1007 N. Chicago, spent their 2-week vacation with her parents, the Louis Foxes, at their home in Miller Place, L. I., which is right on the Sound.

IT IS GOING to take three parties to celebrate Greg Kunnen's first birthday. The son of the James Kunnens, 1016 N. Fernandez, was one July 18 and when Grandmother and Grandfather Kunnen came from Michigan City for the weekend, they all partied. They will celebrate again now that her sister and family are here from St. Joseph, Mich., to spend the rest of the week. Another party will be held August 1, when his other grandparents arrive for a visit.

The Charlie Eglies, 814 N. Patton, celebrate two birthdays close together. They were on vacation on Mary's birthday and celebrated with her folks in Pittsburgh, after having spent a few days with his parents in New Philadelphia, Ohio. Teddy's 12th birthday is Friday, but he and his family celebrated Sunday at dinner in the Indian Room of the Blackhawk. Afterward they went to the Art Institute to view the Max Ernst collection.

Because Ronnie Guenther is such an avid fisherman, his dad took him to Pine River, Minn., for two weeks of fishing. Mrs. Guenther, her mother and Dale spent the two weeks at Saugatuck, Mich., where they rented a cottage right on Kalamazoo river. Dale tried a new sport — pontoon bicycling.

THE JAMES Kaufmans, 806 N. Harvard, gave his mother a birthday party recently that included her five brothers and five sisters. A sister in San Francisco and another in Anchorage, Alaska couldn't make it, so the Kaufmans decided to send his mother to them as part of her birthday gift. Sunday she had the equivalent of a celebrity's send-off when 45 of her family bid her goodbye at O'Hare field. She plans to be gone six weeks to two months before returning to the Kaufmans, with whom she makes her home.

Even though the fishing at Iron River, Mich., wasn't good when the R. H. Sparlings, 938 N. Harvard, spent a week there, her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Braid, more than made up for it. The Braids came in from Long Beach, Cal., and went with the Sparlings to Michigan. Mr. Braid flew to Salt Lake City on business while Mrs. Braid stayed on another week.

The welcome mat is out to the Edward J. Heinzen family, who moved to 940 N. Fernandez from Tinley Park a month ago. They have a son, Jon, 15, who will go to Arlington high this fall. Mr. Heinzen is connected with the Walter E. Selck company.

EVEN THOUGH the fish weren't biting when Norma and Gene Barnes were at Grass lake with their two girls recently, they had a marvelous time staying in a cottage on the lake with a boat at their disposal all the time. Swimming in the lake is not desirable, but the backyard pool was available and they made good use of it. The Barnes live at 1016 N. Kaspar.

Mary Jane Callahan considers herself lucky to be born during the summertime, July 17 to be exact, when the livin' is easy and the pool is open. Saturday four friends helped her take advantage of the pool to celebrate her 11th birthday. Judy Meierhofer, Carol Griesmeyer, Mary Klippert and Claudia Tapp arrived at Mary Jane's home with their swim suits and caps while Mrs. Callahan was preparing the fixings for a hot dog roast in the back yard to be ready when the girls returned. Sunday the whole family attended the Democratic picnic in Wheeling. The George Callahans live at 1014 N. Ridge.

Right in the middle of painting his house, Bill Groh, 912 N. Chicago, put his brush down and asked his family if they wanted to take a cacation. They did, and after a wild scramble, all four of them were in the car and on their way to Allegan, Mich., where they spent the week staying in a trailer belonging to friends.

Susan was offered a job as life guard at the pool there, but had to turn it down as she is a guard at Recreation pool for the summer. Coming home, they stopped at Benton Harbor for an interesting visit at the House of David.

AFTER A 3-week camping trip to California, the Len Garashas, 809 N. Harvard, are even more enthusiastic about this method of seeing the country. The first two nights were spent at Meremec State park in Missouri, where they visited the caverns. Crossing Mexico into Arizona, they went through the painted desert and petrified forest, pitching their tent at Mather camp grounds in Grand Canyon Village.

Included in their sightseeing at Grand Canyon was a trip around the south rim before driving to Boulder Dam and Las Vegas. O'Neil county park was their next home for a few days. Located in the Santa Ana Canyon at the base of the Sierra Nevadas, it was the closest they could get to places they had put on their "must see" list — places like Disneyland, which appealed to Jean and Len as well as the boys, San Juan Capistrano, Marineland and Knott's berry farm.

Only 17 miles from Laguna Beach, they drove down for a day and surf swam in the ocean. At Yosemite, where they camped overnight, they saw the big redwoods, driving the car through one of them, and saw Bridal Veil and Yosemite Falls. From there they drove across the Bay bridge to San Francisco and then across the Golden Gate bridge, circling back to Sacramento, Reno and Salt Lake City, where they toured the grounds and visited the tabernacle.

At the Utah-Colorado border they stopped at Dinosaur National monument, and crossing over into Colorado, they camped at Rocky Mountain National park, enjoying the scenery familiar from a previous vacation there. They hurried home until they arrived at Minden, Neb., and Pioneer Village, where Harold Warp has preserved the heritage of the middle west with his collection of everything from pianos to washing machines, knives to guns.

SATURDAY evening Janet and Bob Kay, 1008 N. Kaspar, celebrated her birthday when they had dinner at Dick's Corral. They celebrated again the following day at a picnic at home for her parents, grandmother, sister and uncle, as well as Bob's mother and two of his aunts and uncles.

Lake Namakagon is getting to feel like home away from home to the Arnold Koriaths, 823 N. Kennicott, who went there again this year for a week's vacation. They stayed at the resort, with nothing to do but have fun. They fished, swam and took Johnny to Deer park to feed the deer.

The last day the Frank Ludes, 1005 Race, were at Rhinelander, Wis., Barbara came ill with mumps, which curtailed their activities for vacation plans here at home. Still they had a fine time the week they were at the cabin, swimming every day and catching a record batch of fish. Barbara caught 20 in a half an hour.

Lil and George Lurtz and Margie, 909 N. Patton, didn't get lonesome for Arlington Heights the two weeks they were at Three Lakes, Wis., because they had Helen and George Krilcic and Donna with them for 10 days. Grace and Dick Ekstrand and their two children also spent a few days with them and Lil says, "it was quite a thrill to see 11-year-old Bobby Ekstrand water-ski like a professional."

They returned the visit and went to see the Ekstrands at Boulder Junction where they enjoyed Muskie day. Following the parade right to the reviewing stand, they were taken aback to discover that Ralph Gotlund of Arlington Heights won first prize for catching the largest muskie last season. Donna and Margie went horseback riding and Margie, as a member of the 3-leg ski club, performed on three different occasions.

FRIENDS AND neighbors are sorry to see the Bill Luxions, 821 N. Princeton, move to Naperville Monday; however, his office is located there and the convenience of living near his work will be somewhat of a compensation for their move. The Edward Donelans of Boston, Mass., and their five children will be moving into their home.

There was a party at the home of Bette and Ray Howes, 945 N. Kaspar, last Tuesday to celebrate Chipper's sixth birthday. Twelve friends, and his brother, Cary, were there to wish him many happy returns of the day. The hot weather made their basement most attractive for games. As much fun as they had playing games, when the ice cream and cupcakes with a candle atop each made their appearance everyone was ready to sing "happy birthday" to Chipper before blowing out the candles.

When the Bill Robertsons, 1007 N. Fernandez, went to Devil's lake for six days, they camped. The weather was perfect for swimming, horseback riding, miniature golf, go-carting and taking advantage of other attractions there.

The Al Kleins, 1003 N. Kennicott, came back from a camping weekend at Oak Point State park, near Antioch, full of enthusiasm. In fact, Steve and Karen were enthused before they left. Al's brothers went with them and when they weren't swimming at Channel lake, they fished. Even Steve caught a fish — a dogfish — and though he had to toss it back, he has a good fish story to tell his friends.

The Fred Oberhausers and Fred, 816 N. Patton, packed a lot of visiting in the week they drove to St. Paul to visit his cousin and family. They also had a few hours with former neighbors, the Charles Schalls in Wayzata, a suburb of St. Paul. The Schalls lived at 814 N. Patton before moving to La Grange and then Wayzata.

the HARRIS huddle

MARIAN HARRIS

"Hold your hats" kids, here we go again! I've finally moved George away from the typewriter, so I'd like to tell you about some new fragrances that are available in new Perfumes and Colognes.

As I have often said, perfumes and colognes are our secret weapons so let us keep abreast of the latest weapons. To single them out by name would take much too much time. Needless to say we have an ample supply of the latest aromas and all NAME BRANDS. Summertime is the time for those light, subtle fragrances that seem to waft one into peace of mind. There are other fragrances that make the day lighter and brighter, then there are those fragrances that make DAD know you're his favorite girl.

Next time you are downtown in Arlington Heights drop into Harris Pharmacy and sample a "whiff" of some of these "out-of-this-world" fragrances. Hasta la vista.

GAS Water Heaters excel in every way . . . operate at lowest cost

Gas heats water really fast. Instant heat plus stepped-up burner capacity on today's heaters means you can depend on a generous supply of hot water—any time—with gas. For example, modern 40-gallon automatic gas water heaters reheat up to 42 gallons an hour!

Consider your own peak needs. Tub bath, 15 gallons . . . shower, 3 gallons per minute . . . dishwasher, 7 gallons a load . . . automatic clothes washer, 20 gallons a load . . . regular washer, 17 gallons a load. You can depend on today's gas water heaters to serve all your needs.

The fastest hot water is cheapest, too. In fact, enough hot water for an average family—about 60 gallons a day—costs only $37 a year with gas. The same amount of hot water with other type heaters would cost $65. Gas brings you true luxury, at lowest cost.

Now is the time — ask about our LIBERAL TRADE-IN OFFER! Get a special trade-in allowance now toward a new, high recovery automatic gas water heater! Famous makes such as Penfield, Rex, Rheem, A. O. Smith—heaters so good they're backed with extra long, extra-inclusive guarantees of 10 to 15 years! Save now. See your plumber/dealer, or visit your nearby Northern Illinois Gas Company store.

Motorist Penalized By State

Although through action of Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier 110 licenses were revoked in the state of Illinois last week, none of those affected were from this area.

For driving while intoxicated, however, Ralph W. Milman, 514 Fairview, Mount Prospect, had his license suspended.

Probationary permits were issued to Arlington Heights residents Robert E. Harbour, 307 N. Derbyshire, Robert L. Cook, 809 N. Wilke rd., and James R. Crosby, 110 S. Mitchell; and Wheeling residents, Wesley R. Williamson, 226 W. Wayne pl., Thomas C. Gray, 367 Park ave., and Thomas J. McGee, 837 S. Fletcher dr. (B8

Swingin' Squares

Last week's account of the local folk attending the 10th annual National Square Dance convention in Detroit on June 29 and 30 and July 1, has resulted in lots of "Hey! We were there, too," reports and a detailed account of the doing from Don Finfrock. Don, one of this area's busiest callers, says, "The convention was the biggest thing that has happened to square dancing." He should know; he was one of 21 Chicago area callers participating in the scheduled program and master of ceremonies at an "afterglow" party in the ballroom of the Henrose hotel June 30.

Aiding Don at the midnight to 2:30 a.m. afterglow were his brother Barney from Gardinia, Cal., and Colin Walton of London, England. The Finfrock representation also included Don's and Barney's parents, the George Finfrocks of Waynesville, Ill., who attended every session of the convention, greeting hundreds of their longtime fans and friends in the Chicagoland area. They'll celebrate their 52nd wedding anniversary soon.

AS REPORTED last week the convention attracted an estimated 25,000 dancers from 44 states and four foreign countries. Don judges that well over 100 represented the Chicago area, nearly half of whom were from the suburbs. It's impossible to sort out suburban dancers, callers or clubs from those in Chicago, since many Chicagoans dance to the calls of non-Chicagoan callers in suburban clubs. They cross paths with suburbanites going to Chicago to square up in clubs there.

The biggest club representation was the Hay Shakers of Chicago who filled two cars of a special convention-bound train. The most impressive single event was the Saturday night dance when 20,000 brightly garbed enthusiasts swung out in one mammoth hall of Detroit's Cobo hall.

Among local dancers who say amen to the opening quote of Don's report are Palatine clubbers Frieda Lorenz and the Bob Luebbes, the Wally Paulsens of the Elk Grove Bucks and Does, the Irv Kollings of Arlington Heights, the Frank Sehres of Barrington Swinging Pairs and the Jack Springers of Prospect Heights, owners of Happy Toes Shoes, who were among suburbanites with exhibition booths at the convention. Among other clubs represented which attract local dancers were the Cumberland Squares of Des Plaines, the Woodshed Whirlers of Ingleside and the Downers Grovers.

Some of the callers most familiar to local clubs were Bob Kim, Jim Stewart, Clarence Preusen, Doc Heimbach, Dale Manson and Johnny Toth, and there were many round dance leaders in attendance too.

Cousins Have Been Buzzin' Here, There and Everywhere

There are several reports in this week's news of local children visiting far-away grandparents, aunts and uncles and of far-away cousins visiting here. If this trend is reflected throughout town there could be some small confusion before everybody gets their proper offspring sorted out by school time. In the meantime, it's fun.

A typical children-swapping situation is the one in the Charles Mallon home, 1041 S. Dunton, where a visiting niece is replacing two young Mallons who are staying in Wisconsin. Mrs. Mallon, Kathy, Charles and Susan recently left for a week at a family lakeside cottage in Newald, Wis., and the niece, Pat Erickson, returned here late last week. Kathy and Charles remained at the cottage with grandmother Erickson of Sheboygan. Over the coming weekend Mrs. Mallon and her sister-in-law will reconvene in Newald, sort out children and return to their respective homes.

The Howard Hansen family, 730 S. Mitchell, are just back from a week of fine weather but only mediocre fishing at Leech lake, Minn. A guest this week in their home is a nephew, Kerry Hansen of Minneapolis, who will return home over the weekend accompanied by the loal Hansens' daughter, Barbara. Barbara will then have a week with the Minneapolis branch of the family, thus completing another cousin-exchange.

AS OF NEXT week the Barnard Birds, 122 N. Forrest, will have run out of daughters until the pre-school scramble to get back before the tardy bell rings. The younger of the two daughters is Donyn who left right after school was out, accompanying her cousin, a Northwestern university coed, Joan Earl of Lander, Wyo., as Miss Earl headed west for the summer at home.

Mrs. Bird, her sister, Mrs. Harry Sadler of Eldorado, Cal., who arrived here Tuesday, and the Birds' elder daughter, Danielle, will leave soon for a family reunion in Kansas City, Mo. After the fun in Missouri is over Danielle will accompany her aunt back to Eldorado where the Birds lived before moving here last year. She will have a month of reunions with west coast friends and schoolmates, most of whom, like Danielle, are avid and able equestriennes.

Late in August Mr. Bird will meet Danielle in Denver, and the two will then go to Wyoming for Donyn. Without rushing to get back too much before school starts the girls and dad will begin the return trip, accompanied by a horse. Donyn is as happy over horses as her sister and is now owner of a Wyoming-bred mount which will be transported here when she comes home.

In the Lyle Huntley family, 421 N. Wilshire, it's not the kids but mom who is visiting away from home. She left yesterday to spend two weeks in Palo Alto, Cal., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson.

The whole family returned Sunday from a 3-week vacation that was divided between a fishing lodge near International Falls, Minn., and a visit with the senior Huntleys in Eldora, Iowa. During the Iowa stay Mr. and Mrs. Huntley attended a class reunion in Oelwein.

MR. AND MRS. Arthur Peterson, 207 N. Douglas, spent last week in Flint, Mich., with their daughter and son-in-law, the Ronald Douglasses. They were accompanied by another daughter and her children, Mrs. Ernest Sotrop, James, John and Paul of Sandwich, Ill.

The senior Mrs. Frank Precilio of Southbridge, Mass. is here for a month with her son and his wife at 739 S. Dunton. The junior Mrs. Precilio came home last Wednesday after 16 days in Holy Family hospital, where she underwent recent surgery. She is recuperating rapidly.

Visitors in the Bruce Ostermick home, 126 N. Forrest, are Mrs. Ostermick's sister and family, the Aaron Dupuys and Jean Pierre of New Orleans. Sunday night a party in their honor in the Ostermick home introduced the Dupuys to 30 local friends of the host couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pulling, 429 S. Phelps, gave a party for 24 friends Saturday night and the "don't shave" clause in their invitations brought joy to the hearts of most suburban husbands on the guest list. Further adding to the comfort of tired males who had slaved over a hot yard all day in sneakers and sloppy clothes was the injunction to come to the party in sneakers and sloppy clothes. It was a beatnik party. Everybody brought their own pads, flopped on them in the basement floor and it was like cool, man, in that expresso joint in the Pullings' lower level. All the pooped papas were 'way out on the "no-shave" jazz, saying loud and clear that a sweatshirt-and-sneaker bash is the most.

Twenty-four members representing four generations of John Kolling descendents held their first reunion Sunday in the home of the Misses Henrietta Klehm and Lillian Klehm on Railroad ave. As of Sunday and the reunion's complete success the get-together will henceforth be an annual summertime event.

Sidelights

Of Arlington Heights

Dorothy Meyer, CL 3-2298 Elsie Jedd, CL 3-5982

Mrs. Amanda Schlomann of Arlington Heights was the honored guest, being the eldest member present and the only surviving child of the John Kollings. Her sister, the late Louise Kolling Klehm, was the mother of the co-hostesses.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Byron Kolling and Mrs. Rose Kolling of Elgin; the Carl Schlomann family of Norwood Park; the Gertrude Schlomann Byer family of Arlington Heights and the Elmer Herrick family of Downers Grove.

The Kollings, whose family name was originally spelled "Koelling," were Schaumburg residents before moving to Arlington Heights nearly half a century ago. Here one son, Henry, served as city engineer and another, Herman, was owner of a machine shop where many local "oldtimers" will recall having corn huskers and other farm implements made.

WEEKEND VISITORS in the John Windhorst home, 1131 N. Walnut, were the senior Windhorsts of Detroit, here for their first glimpse of a new granddaughter, Lynn Holle, born June 17.

Mr. and Mrs. William Patterson, 1011 S. Dunton, enjoyed a recent weekend of rest and relaxation at a Door County resort, then returned to get packed for a tour of Michican with their children. They were intrigued by a tour through the famed Greenfield Village near Detroit, in Battle Creek their sightseeing included a visit to the Kellogg plant and at their last stop, Benton Harbor, they rested. When they returned Saturday a speedometer check revealed one reason they were so glad to rest in Benton Harbor. They had travelled 1700 miles in one week's time and all within the Wisconsin-Illinois-Michigan boundaries.

Recent visitors in the W. L. Vinberg home, 825 S. Chestnut, were Mr. Vinberg's sister, Mrs. Amy Gaylord, and her granddaughter, Nancy Green. During the last two days of the 2-week stay of Mrs. Gaylord and Nancy, old friends of the Vinbergs, the Vern Kiehls, arrived from Oklahoma City for a "quick" visit. Currently registered in the Vinberg guest log is a cousin, Miss Lucille Bovat, here from Omaha for about two weeks. Betwixt the comings and goings in her home, Cindy departed for 10 days at a camp in Edgerton, Wis. She will return Monday.

Patrick McGrath was eight last Thursday and celebrated with his cousins, brothers and sisters at an afternoon party in his home, 708 N. Evergreen.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nikoden, 111 N. Forrest, recently enjoyed a 4-day weekend trip to Pennsylvania and Atlantic City. Last week Mrs. Nikoden visited her mother, Mrs. Gladys Cain, in Belleville, Mich.

Twenty neighborhood women beat the heat Tuesday, relaxing at a coffee given by Mrs. Paul Doherty, 734 S. Mitchell.

MRS. JAMES GLYNN and Mrs. Tom Mallow were co-hostesses at a recent baby shower given in the Glynn home, 2123 E. Grove, for Mrs. Harold Drew and her daughter, Valerie Ann. Valerie, born May 25, recently adopted Mr. and Mrs. Drew and a brother, Timothy, who 3½ years ago also chose to be part of the household at 420 N. Gibbons. Both infants met their parent-to-be in St. Vincent orphanage and immediately "Drew" up a mutual love contract. At the party in her honor Valerie, via her mom, was showered with gifts and welcomes by 20 neighborhood friends of Mr. and Mrs. Drew.

Miss Joyce Haemker, bride-elect of Wesley Krebill of Blue Island, was the surprised guest of honor Sunday evening at a party given by Mrs. Walter Clausing and Mrs. Ted Clausing in the Walter Clausing home, 406 S. Evergreen. Miss Haemker, daughter of Mrs. Alfred Haemker, 403 W. Hawthorne, was showered with miscellaneous gifts by 24 local friends and relatives who wondered for awhile if they'd ever catch up with the bride-to-be. Miss Haemker returned late last month from Monterey, Cal., where she has been teaching and has since made two trips to Columbus, Ohio. The Krebills will live in Columbus where the bridegroom-to-be is employed with U. S. Gypsum Co., and Joyce has been busy with homemaking preparations there. She and Mr. Krebill will be married July 29 in St. Peter Lutheran church of Arlington Heights.

Bill Swarthout, 741 S. Mitchell, celebrated his 14th birthday with a party at home with the family, and his birthday present, a miniature schnauzer pup.

THE SAND-box and wading-pool set of the far north side were guests of Laura Kay and Diana Sivertsen last Friday at an afternoon party to celebrate the hostesses' birthdays. There were 22 guests in the Sivertsen backyard, 1130 N. Dunton, where balloons and crepe paper bloomed on every bush and tree. One guest, age 3, estimated there were about one million balloons and almost as many pastel-tinted cupcakes to go with the bushels of ice cream. Moms of the balloon-poppers came later for coffee and cake. Laurie was celebrating her seventh birthday Friday and Diane, nearly 3, hunched three days worth to celebrate her July 17 birthday at the same time.

ON THE SIXTH birthday of Gloria Mae Reese, 1111 N. Chestnut ave., she was hostess to an afternoon party for 10 of her friends, most of whom were from her kindergarten class in St. Peter Lutheran school. Decorations for the party were all done in pink, Gloria's favorite color. She is the daughter of the Werner Reeses.

Word has been received of the death of Emil Lafeber, husband of the former Jennie Hugo, who grew up in Arlington Heights. The Lafebers have been residents of Chicago and have three children, Mrs. Evelyn Naylor, Mrs. Myrtle Anton and Raymond Lafeber. Interment was in Arlington Heights cemetery.

The Ian MacLachlans, 1230 Woodford, entertained at cocktails, Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Johnson, who have returned to live in Arlington Heights after spending two years in Walnut Creek, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Ashley, 400 S. Carlyle, recently motored to New York City, where they spent three days sightseeing. Of special interest to Mrs. Ashley was a tour of the ocean liner, Queen Mary.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward O. McKown Jr., 206 S. Gibbons, were weekend hosts to Mr. and Mrs. John Norton of New Rochelle, N. Y., formerly of this area. Mr. Norton took part in the planning and construction of "Freedom Land, U. S. A." in New York and showed colored films of the completed project.

THE EDWARD Smiths, 221 S. Wilshire, are among those who have completed their summer travels by returning last weekend from a 4-week trip to Europe. The Smiths, accompanied by the R. H. Gieseckes of Wayne, Ill., left New York by plane for Madrid and then went on to Rome, from where they travelled by car through Italy, Switzerland and Austria.

The Smiths' daughter, Gail, who traveled with her parents on a previous European trip, remained home to spend the summer working with the Careers and Social Work program at Illinois Childrens Home and Aid society in Chicago, which deals with placing children in foster homes. Her young brother, Jim, spent a month at Camp Manitowish in Boulder Junction, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jurco, 217 S. Windsor, were hosts Sunday at a reunion of family members from the Chicago area. They all came to attend a birthday party for Mrs. Jurco's niece, 4-year old Laura Anne Lucchesi, who, with her parents, are visiting here from Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Stahnke, 110 S. Brighton, entertained members of their card club at a steak fry Saturday. Joining the group as surprise visitors were former members, Mr. and Mrs. William Kurth, now of Holland, Mich., who stopped while enroute home from a vacation in Yellowstone Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cherry, 353 S. Belmont, and their children, Danny, Darline, Barbara and Linda, spent the July 4 weekend in Booth-Shay, Wis., visiting the Earl Cannons, and then left for a 2-week vacation at a resort in Aitkin, Minn.

MRS. JAMES H. Peery, 504 S. Beverly, and son, Billy, accompanied Mr. Peery to Minneapolis on a week's business and pleasure trip. Mr. Peery, as executive secretary, attended the bi-annual board meetings of Central Supply Co. officers and directors. The business meetings ended on a gay social note with a cocktail and dinner party at the Minakahda country club. During their stay in Minneapolis, Mrs. Peery met Dr. Billy Graham, who was in Minneapolis to hold meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Martell and sons, Danny and Paul, who have been vacationing in Montana and visiting Mr. Martell's parents in Marinette, Wis., arrived in Arlington Heights this week for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Goldthwaite, 426 E. Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Brooks, 619 E. Davis, and their sons, Gary and Roy, are home from a 10-day vacation in Ephraim, Wis.

Vicki and Larry Downs, children of the Richard E. Downs, 230 Bristol, are spending a vacation visiting their own friends. Vicki is in Deerfield with former neighbor, Anne Housekeeper, and Larry is visiting Roger Fredrickson at a cottage in Antioch, Ill.

The James Suttons, 627 S. State, their daughter, Shelley, and nephew, Brooks Bauske, returned Sunday from a 2-week visit in California. They flew to Pomona, where Mr. Sutton attended the Naval Missile program. While he was busy with his duties, Mrs. Sutton and the children spent two days in Disneyland and visited relatives and friends in the Los Angeles area. Before returning home, they all spent a weekend in Tucson, visiting Mrs. Sutton's brother, Duane Bauske, with whom they spent a day picnicking in the Arizona mountains and a day sightseeing and shopping in Nogales, Mexico.

OUT-OF-TOWN guests of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Anderson, 504 Lincoln, were Mr. Anderson's two sisters and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Odgers and Miss Amy Anderson of Dearborn, Mich., who were here for the weekend before going on vacation at Bearskin lake, Minn.

Pim Ballard of Centralia, Ill., is spending a week in Arlington Heights, visiting his aunt and uncle, the Everett Ballards, 407 E. Rockwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Pauly, 125 S. Burton, and their children, Lynn and Janis, took a 4-day holiday last week, motoring to New York to see Niagra Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ball, 454 Banbury, were hosts at a supper and swimming party Sunday for Infant Welfare society members and their husbands.

The Stuart Hanckel children, 634 S. Belmont, are spending the summer at the extreme opposite sides of the country. Lissa left Saturday for Vandenberg Air Force base to stay with her uncle and aunt, Col. and Mrs. John Everhart, while her younger brothers, Champney and Allan, are spending the summer in Boston with their paternal grandparents, the Robert C. Hanckels.

There will be numerous arrivals and departures in the Banks' home, 722 E. Mayfair, this week. Young Scott Banks, who has been visiting his aunt and uncle, the William Cowls of Coropolis, Pa., returns home Sunday, and Mrs. Bank's sister, Mrs. John L. Hager, and Mr. Hager will arrive Friday from Williamsville, N. Y.

Departing from the Banks' home will be her mother, Mrs. John MacPherson, who will return to Williamsville after a 4-month stay in Arlington Heights.

MR. AND MRS. August Burnier, 516 E. Fairview, were in Miami, Fla., recently to attend the teamsters convention. Rounding out their business and pleasure trip was a visit to New Orleans, which they found as interesting as their first visit twenty years ago.

While the Burniers were in the south, their daughter-in-law, Barbara, and her two children came to Arlington Heights from Ann Arbor for a visit, and early in September she and her husband, Franz, will make their permanent home here.

The Robert Bohls and five children, 522 S. Dryden, returned last week from a 10-day vacation in Bloomfield, Neb., where they visited her mother, Mrs. Anna Strom, and relatives.

Former Arlington Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. John Daly of Deerfield, Fla., were recent dinner guests of the Harry Brisons, 530 S. Belmont.

Find the clothes pin was the object of the Treasure Hunt held at Recreation Park last Friday.

Some 150 children of all ages joined in the search, and in 20 minutes all 34 pins had been found.

PLAYGROUND Supervisor Nilo Fanucchi noted: "I thought I had them hidden so they would have had a more difficult time in finding them. It is hard to believe that these are the same children that are always yelling, 'Mommy, I can't find it.' "

The clothes pins had been numbered and the prizes corresponded to the prizes. The prizes included model airplanes, jacks, cash for the concession stand, and many other prizes.

Cousins Have Been Buzzin' Here, There and Everywhere

Sidelights
Of Arlington Heights

Dorothy Meyer, CL 3-2298 Elsie Jedd, CL 3-5982

There are several reports in this week's news of local children visiting far-away grandparents, aunts and uncles and of far-away cousins visiting here. If this trend is reflected throughout town there could be some small confusion before everybody gets their proper offspring sorted out by school time. In the meantime, it's fun.

A typical children-swapping situation is the one in the Charles Mallon home, 1041 S. Dunton, where a visiting niece is replacing two young Mallons who are staying in Wisconsin. Mrs. Mallon, Kathy, Charles and Susan recently left for a week at a family lakeside cottage in Newald, Wis., and the niece, Pat Erickson, returned here late last week. Kathy and Charles remained at the cottage with grandmother Erickson of Sheboygan. Over the coming weekend Mrs. Mallon and her sister-in-law will reconvene in Newald, sort out children and return to their respective homes.

The Howard Hansen family, 730 S. Mitchell, are just back from a week of fine weather but only mediocre fishing at Leech lake, Minn. A guest this week in their home is a nephew, Kerry Hansen of Minneapolis, who will return home over the weekend accompanied by the local Hansens' daughter, Barbara. Barbara will then have a week with the Minneapolis branch of the family, thus completing another cousin-exchange.

AS OF NEXT week the Barnard Birds, 122 N. Forrest, will have run out of daughters until the pre-school scramble to get back before the tardy bell rings. The younger of the two daughters is Donyn who left right after school was out, accompanying her cousin, a Northwestern university coed, Joan Earl of Lander, Wyo., as Miss Earl headed west for the summer at home.

Mrs. Bird, her sister, Mrs. Harry Sadler of Eldorado, Cal., who arrived here Tuesday, and the Birds' elder daughter, Danielle, will leave soon for a family reunion in Kansas City, Mo. After the fun in Missouri is over Danielle will accompany her aunt back to Eldorado where the Birds lived before moving here last year. She will have a month of reunions with west coast friends and schoolmates, most of whom, like Danielle, are avid and able equestriennes.

Late in August Mr. Bird will meet Danielle in Denver, and the two will then go to Wyoming for Donyn. Without rushing to get back too much before school starts the girls and dad will begin the return trip, accompanied by a horse. Donyn is as happy over horses as her sister and is now owner of a Wyoming-bred mount which will be transported here when she comes home.

In the Lyle Huntley family, 421 N. Wilshire, it's not the kids but mom who is visiting away from home. She left yesterday to spend two weeks in Palo Alto, Cal., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson.

The whole family returned Sunday from a 3-week vacation that was divided between a fishing lodge near International Falls, Minn., and a visit with the senior Huntleys in Eldora, Iowa. During the Iowa stay Mr. and Mrs. Huntley attended a class reunion in Oelwein.

MR. AND MRS. Arthur Peterson, 207 N. Douglas, spent last week in Flint, Mich., with their daughter and son-in-law, the Ronald Douglasses. They were accompanied by another daughter and her children, Mrs. Ernest Sotrop, James, John and Paul of Sandwich, Ill.

The senior Mrs. Frank Precilio of Southbridge, Mass. is here for a month with her son and his wife at 739 S. Dunton. The junior Mrs. Precilio came home last Wednesday after 16 days in Holy Family hospital, where she underwent recent surgery. She is recuperating rapidly.

Visitors in the Bruce Ostermick home, 126 N. Forrest, are Mrs. Ostermick's sister and family, the Aaron Dupuys and Jean Pierre of New Orleans. Sunday night a party in their honor in the Ostermick home introduced the Dupuys to 30 local friends of the host couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pulling, 429 S. Phelps, gave a party for 24 friends Saturday night and the "don't shave" clause in their invitations brought joy to the hearts of most suburban husbands on the guest list. Further adding to the comfort of tired males who had slaved over a hot yard all day in sneakers and sloppy clothes was the injunction to come to the party in sneakers and sloppy clothes. It was a beatnik party. Everybody brought their own pads, flopped on them in the basement floor and it was like cool, man, in that expresso joint in the Pullings' lower level. All the pooped papas were 'way out on the "no-shave" jazz, saying loud and clear that a sweatshirt-and-sneaker bash is the most.

Twenty-four members representing four generations of John Kolling descendents held their first reunion Sunday in the home of the Misses Henrietta Klehm and Lillian Klehm on Railroad ave. As of Sunday and the reunion's complete success the get-together will henceforth be an annual summertime event.

Mrs. Amanda Schlomann of Arlington Heights was the honored guest, being the eldest member present and the only surviving child of the John Kollings. Her sister, the late Louise Kolling Klehm, was the mother of the co-hostesses.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Byron Kolling and Mrs. Rose Kolling of Elgin; the Carl Schlomann family of Norwood Park; the Gertrude Schlomann Byer family of Arlington Heights and the Elmer Herrick family of Downers Grove.

The Kollings, whose family name was originally spelled "Koelling," were Schaumburg residents before moving to Arlington Heights nearly half a century ago. Here one son, Henry, served as city engineer and another, Herman, was owner of a machine shop where many local "oldtimers" will recall having corn huskers and other farm implements made.

WEEKEND VISITORS in the John Windhorst home, 1131 N. Walnut, were the senior Windhorsts of Detroit, here for their first glimpse of a new granddaughter, Lynn Holle, born June 17.

Mr. and Mrs. William Patterson, 1011 S. Dunton, enjoyed a recent weekend of rest and relaxation at a Door County resort, then returned to get packed for a tour of Michican with their children. They were intrigued by a tour through the famed Greenfield Village near Detroit, in Battle Creek their sightseeing included a visit to the Kellogg plant and at their last stop, Benton Harbor, they rested. When they returned Saturday a speedometer check revealed one reason they were so glad to rest in Benton Harbor. They had travelled 1700 miles in one week's time and all within the Wisconsin-Illinois-Michigan boundaries.

Recent visitors in the W. L. Vinberg home, 825 S. Chestnut, were Mr. Vinberg's sister, Mrs. Amy Gaylord, and her granddaughter, Nancy Green. During the last two days of the 2-week stay of Mrs. Gaylord and Nancy, old friends of the Vinbergs, the Vern Kiehls, arrived from Oklahoma City for a "quick" visit. Currently registered in the Vinberg guest log is a cousin, Miss Lucille Bovat, here from Omaha for about two weeks. Betwixt the comings and goings in her home, Cindy departed for 10 days at a camp in Edgerton, Wis. She will return Monday.

Patrick McGrath was eight last Thursday and celebrated with his cousins, brothers and sisters at an afternoon party in his home, 708 N. Evergreen.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nikoden, 111 N. Forrest, recently enjoyed a 4-day weekend trip to Pennsylvania and Atlantic City. Last week Mrs. Nikoden visited her mother, Mrs. Gladys Cain, in Belleville, Mich.

Twenty neighborhood women beat the heat Tuesday, relaxing at a coffee given by Mrs. Paul Doherty, 734 S. Mitchell.

MRS. JAMES GLYNN and Mrs. Tom Mallow were co-hostesses at a recent baby shower given in the Glynn home, 2123 E. Grove, for Mrs. Harold Drew and her daughter, Valerie Ann. Valerie, born May 25, recently adopted Mr. and Mrs. Drew and a brother, Timothy, who 3½ years ago also chose to be part of the household at 420 N. Gibbons. Both infants met their parent-to-be in St. Vincent orphanage and immediately "Drew" up a mutual love contract. At the party in her honor Valerie, via her mom, was showered with gifts and welcomes by 20 neighborhood friends of Mr. and Mrs. Drew.

Miss Joyce Haemker, bride-elect of Wesley Krebill of Blue Island, was the surprised guest of honor Sunday evening at a party given by Mrs. Walter Clausing and Mrs. Ted Clausing in the Walter Clausing home, 406 S. Evergreen. Miss Haemker, daughter of Mrs. Alfred Haemker, 403 W. Hawthorne, was showered with miscellaneous gifts by 24 local friends and relatives who wondered for awhile if they'd ever catch up with the bride-to-be. Miss Haemker returned late last month from Monterey, Cal., where she has been teaching and has since made two trips to Columbus, Ohio. The Krebills will live in Columbus where the bridegroom-to-be is employed with U. S. Gypsum Co., and Joyce has been busy with homemaking preparations there. She and Mr. Krebill will be married July 29 in St. Peter Lutheran church of Arlington Heights.

Bill Swarthout, 741 S. Mitchell, celebrated his 14th birthday with a party at home with the family, and his birthday present, a miniature schnauzer pup.

THE SAND-box and wading-pool set of the far north side were guests of Laura Kay and Diana Sivertsen last Friday at an afternoon party to celebrate the hostesses' birthdays. There were 22 guests in the Sivertsen backyard, 1130 N. Dunton, where balloons and crepe paper bloomed on every bush and tree. One guest, age 3, estimated there were about one million balloons and almost as many pastel-tinted cupcakes to go with the bushels of ice cream. Moms of the balloon-poppers came later for coffee and cake. Laurie was celebrating her seventh birthday Friday and Diane, nearly 3, hunched three days worth to celebrate her July 17 birthday at the same time.

ON THE SIXTH birthday of Gloria Mae Reese, 1111 N. Chestnut ave., she was hostess to an afternoon party for 10 of her friends, most of whom were from her kindergarten class in St. Peter Lutheran school. Decorations for the party were all done in pink, Gloria's favorite color. She is the daughter of the Werner Reeses.

Word has been received of the death of Emil Lafeber, husband of the former Jennie Hugo, who grew up in Arlington Heights. The Lafebers have been residents of Chicago and have three children, Mrs. Evelyn Naylor, Mrs. Myrtle Anton and Raymond Lafeber. Interment was in Arlington Heights cemetery.

The Ian MacLachlans, 1230 Woodford, entertained at cocktails, Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Johnson, who have returned to live in Arlington Heights after spending two years in Walnut Creek, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Ashley, 400 S. Carlyle, recently motored to New York City, where they spent three days sightseeing. Of special interest to Mrs. Ashley was a tour of the ocean liner, Queen Mary.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward O. McKown Jr., 206 S. Gibbons, were weekend hosts to Mr. and Mrs. John Norton of New Rochelle, N. Y., formerly of this area. Mr. Norton took part in the planning and construction of "Freedom Land, U. S. A." in New York and showed colored films of the completed project.

THE EDWARD Smiths, 221 S. Wilshire, are among those who have completed their summer travels by returning last weekend from a 4-week trip to Europe. The Smiths, accompanied by the R. H. Gieseckes of Wayne, Ill., left New York by plane for Madrid and then went on to Rome, from where they travelled by car through Italy, Switzerland and Austria.

The Smiths' daughter, Gail, who traveled with her parents on a previous European trip, remained home to spend the summer working with the Careers and Social Work program at Illinois Childrens Home and Aid society in Chicago, which deals with placing children in foster homes. Her young brother, Jim, spent a month at Camp Manitowish in Boulder Junction, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jurco, 217 S. Windsor, were hosts Sunday at a reunion of family members from the Chicago area. They all came to attend a birthday party for Mrs. Jurco's niece; 4-year old Laura Anne Lucchesi, who, with her parents, are visiting here from Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Stahnke, 110 S. Brighton, entertained members of their card club at a steak fry Saturday. Joining the group as surprise visitors were former members, Mr. and Mrs. William Kurth, now of Holland, Mich., who stopped while enroute home from a vacation in Yellowstone Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cherry, 353 S. Belmont, and their children, Danny, Darline, Barbara and Linda, spent the July 4 weekend in Booth-Shay, Wis., visiting the Earl Cannons, and then left for a 2-week vacation at a resort in Aitkin, Minn.

MRS. JAMES H. Peery, 504 S. Beverly, and son, Billy, accompanied Mr. Peery to Minneapolis on a week's business and pleasure trip. Mr. Peery, as executive secretary, attended the bi-annual board meetings of Central Supply Co. officers and directors. The business meetings ended on a gay social note with a cocktail and dinner party at the Minakahda country club. During their stay in Minneapolis, Mrs. Peery met Dr. Billy Graham, who was in Minneapolis to hold meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Martell and sons, Danny and Paul, who have been vacationing in Montana and visiting Mr. Martell's parents in Marinette, Wis., arrived in Arlington Heights this week for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Goldthwaite, 426 E. Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Brooks, 619 E. Davis, and their sons, Gary and Roy, are home from a 10-day vacation in Ephraim, Wis.

Vicki and Larry Downs, children of the Richard E. Downs, 230 Bristol, are spending a vacation visiting their own friends. Vicki is in Deerfield with former neighbor, Anne Housekeeper, and Larry is visiting Roger Fredrickson at a cottage in Antioch, Ill.

The James Suttons, 627 S. State, their daughter, Shelley, and nephew, Brooks Bauske, returned Sunday from a 2-week visit in California. They flew to Pomona, where Mr. Sutton attended the Naval Missile program. While he was busy with his duties, Mrs. Sutton and the children spent two days in Disneyland and visited relatives and friends in the Los Angeles area. Before returning home, they all spent a weekend in Tucson, visiting Mrs. Sutton's brother, Duane Bauske, with whom they spent a day picnicking in the Arizona mountains and a day sightseeing and shopping in Nogales, Mexico.

OUT-OF-TOWN guests of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Anderson, 504 Lincoln, were Mr. Anderson's two sisters and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Odgers and Miss Amy Anderson of Dearborn, Mich., who were here for the weekend before going on vacation at Bearskin lake, Minn.

Pim Ballard of Centralia, Ill., is spending a week in Arlington Heights, visiting his aunt and uncle, the Everett Ballards, 407 E. Rockwell.

Century-Old Home Is Featured by Magazine

A 100-year old house in Arlington Heights is featured on the cover and in a six-page spread in the August issue of Family Circle magazine.

The house, located at Sigwalt and Vail sts., is owned by Russell and Clare Gunderson, former Arlington Heights residents.

Upon moving to Chicago this June, the Gundersons leased the house to LaVerne Look, who turned it into The Chandelier Shop.

FAMILY CIRCLE noted that "this exquisitely furnished century-old house looks like a museum, but there the resemblance stops — because this house lives and acts like a home."

The Gundersons purchased the house three years ago when they learned it was about to be razed to make way for commercial buildings.

While the former owner had tried to "modernize" the building, Clare decided to make it look older.

A PROFESSIONAL decorating consultant and a member of the National Society of Interior Designers, she completely renovated the exterior and interior.

The outside was restored to its original colonial condition. The house was painted red with white trim, all windows were shuttered, and a colonial doorway, a step railing, and a white fence were added.

An area in the rear, formerly used for waste disposal, was converted into a garden-patio.

And the inside became a virtual study in history. It soon boasted a Victorian sitting room, an Early American kitchen, a French provincial bathroom, and two bedrooms blending antique and modern furnishings.

Throughout the house, antiques were prominent. These included 19th century chairs, converted kerosene lamps, a pewter planter, stereoscope viewer, early American print wallpaper, and an apothecary scale.

EVERY ITEM in the house, even if an antique, was used by the Gundersons.

Before moving to Chicago, Clare also owned the Country Store Paint co. in Arlington Heights. She has temporarily retired from business.

She was also a member of the board of directors of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce.

Her husband is employed in Chicago.

La Verne Look has retained some of the antiques and settings shown in the magazine article.

NOW THE CHANDELIER gift shop, this building, at Sigwalt and Vail, was formerly a home for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gunderson. The August Family Circle magazine carries a cover picture and a six page spread on the house. The Gundersons completely renovated the 100-year old structure after they purchased it three years ago. This June they moved to Chicago, but they still own the building.

Ulrich Heads Math Faculty

Arlington high school will have a new mathematics department chairman in the fall. He is James F. Ulrich, a mathematics instructor at the school since 1954.

Ulrich's appointment as acting department chairman was confirmed by the Arlington - Prospect district 214 school board last week. He replaces Roderick C. McLennan who was recently named as assistant curriculum director at the school.

Ulrich will return to the school in the fall following a year's leave of absence as a John Hay Fellow at Yale University. The honorary scholarship-study program for teachers is considered highly selective and competition for John Hay appointments is keen. During his year at Yale Ulrich studied philosophy and mathematics.

PRIOR TO his study at Yale Ulrich served as sub-chairman of the Arlington mathematics department.

Two textbooks written by Ulrich are used in district 214. He has co-authored a third textbook and currently is working on a revision of his Plane Geometry text.

Raised in Maywood, Illinois, Ulrich attended Northern Illinois State university where he received his B. E. degree. He holds a master's degree from the University of Chicago.

JAMES F. ULRICH

Ulrich and his wife Jean live at 414 S. Main, Mount Prospect. They have four children—Jane, 12; Jimmy, 9; Judy, 6; and Joan, 3.

"LONDON BRIDGE is falling down, falling down!" S. P. Mulley of Arlington Heights displays two models of the famed London Bridge, circa 1600, which he built. The bridge literally was falling down it was so old and rotted. Mulley is a hobbyist with a knack for English history and photography. He has a collection of over 2,000 picture slides.

Expert Urges 'Steps' To Meet Future Needs

"Big steps" are needed to adequately prepare for the future of students of Arlington-Prospect district 214.

This is the statement of Dr. Jack R. Childress of Northwestern university, who has just completed a "Study of School Plant and School Site Planning" for the district.

A public meeting to explain the 71-page report has been set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 24, in the Arlington high school Little Theatre. Dr. Childress will be present to interpret the findings of his staff and to answer questions from the high school board and public.

MAIN POINT of the Childress report hits the basic "facts of growth"—that the high school must be prepared for 15,500 students by 1970, an increase of more than 11,000 from the present enrollment of 4,416.

Similar growth studies of the high school district were undertaken in 1949, 1954, 1956, 1958 and 1959. In each case the studies show an increase in the growth pattern and the need for additional high school facilities.

To provide for the influx of new students, Dr. Childress urges a strict time schedule.

THIS TIME schedule includes:

—Purchase of two additional high school sites by spring of 1962;

—Planning for the fourth school unit during 1961-62 with occupancy set for the 1964-65 school year "at the latest";

—Planning for the fifth school during the 1962-63 school year with opening scheduled for 1965 or "no later than 1966."

Assets of Suburb Banks Are Told

The total assets of 10 northwest suburban banks shows an approximate increase of 23 per cent in one year.

According to reports on the condition of the banks, which are published elsewhere in this week's paper, the total assets of the 10 banks are $100,195,137. Last year's total was $81,632,541.

THE TOTAL assets of all 13 banks which are making reports in Paddock Publications this week are $157,466,467.

Last year at this time, the First National Bank of Des Plaines, the Prospect Plaza Bank of Mount Prospect, and the Wheeling Trust and Savings made no reports in Paddock Publications.

The largest total assets of the banks that reported as of June 30, 161, was the First National Bank of Des Plaines.

The total assets of the banks generally reflect population density of the area, commercial activity, and recentness of development.

THE TWO banks among the 10 reported last year which show the greatest increase in assets are the Arlington Heights National Bank and the Mount Prospect State Bank.

Okay New Zoning For Gas Station

With Mount Prospect, Des Plaines and Elk Grove voicing no objections, the county board Tuesday approved a change in zoning classification clearing the way for construction of a gasoline service station at the southwest corner of Dempster st. and Elmhurst rd. in Elk Grove township.

The zoning change was applied for by Phillips Petroleum company. The former R-4 zoning limited the area to single-family residenial construction. The new B-2 restricted service district zoning permits construction of service stations.

THE ZONING change covers a parcel 2550 feet by 223 feet. The original application had covered 3⅓ acres. The original plan was to develop the southern section of the site for retail stores, but plans of the firm were changed.

The present plan calls for a one-story office building to be erected on the balance of the land. This section was withdrawn from the application, as the B-2 zoning does not permit office buildings.

Application for zoning change from R-4 to B-3 business zoning to permit the construction of the office building is to be filed the oil firm indicated.

CONNECTIONS to a sanitary sewer system and a water supply are provided according to the zoning application.

Present owner of the land is the Illinois Mushroom company. Phillips is contract purchaser of the site. The zoning application was submitted by Attorneys Sidleq, August, Burgess & Smith of Chicago.

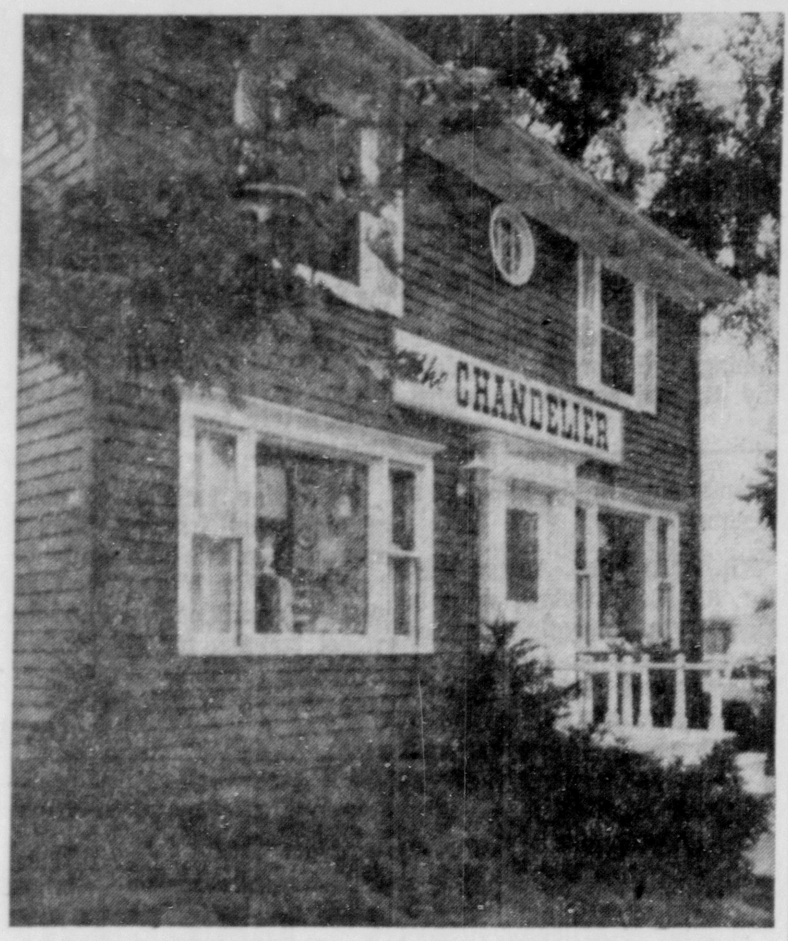
Century-Old Home Is Featured by Magazine



NOW THE CHANDELIER gift shop, this building, at Sigwalt and Vail, was formerly a home for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gunderson. The August Family Circle magazine carries a cover picture and a six page spread on the house. The Gundersons completely renovated the 100-year old structure after they purchased it three years ago. This June they moved to Chicago, but they still own the building.

A 100-year old house in Arlington Heights is featured on the cover and in a six-page spread in the August issue of Family Circle magazine.

The house, located at Sigwalt and Vail sts., is owned by Russell and Clare Gunderson, former Arlington Heights residents.

Upon moving to Chicago this June, the Gundersons leased the house to LaVerne Look, who turned it into The Chandelier Shop.

FAMILY CIRCLE noted that "this exquisitely furnished century-old house looks like a museum, but there the resemblance stops — because this house lives and acts like a home."

The Gundersons purchased the house three years ago when they learned it was about to be razed to make way for commercial buildings.

While the former owner had tried to "modernize" the building, Clare decided to make it look older.

A PROFESSIONAL decorating consultant and a member of the National Society of Interior Designers, she completely renovated the exterior and interior.

The outside was restored to its original colonial condition. The house was painted red with white trim, all windows were shuttered, and a colonial doorway, a step railing, and a white fence were added.

An area in the rear, formerly used for waste disposal, was converted into a garden-patio.

And the inside became a virtual study in history. It soon boasted a Victorian sitting room, an Early American kitchen, a French provincial bathroom, and two bedrooms blending antique and modern furnishings.

Throughout the house, antiques were prominent. These included 19th century chairs, converted kerosene lamps, a pewter planter, stereoscope viewer, early American print wallpaper, and an apothecary scale.

EVERY ITEM in the house, even if an antique, was used by the Gundersons.

Before moving to Chicago, Clare also owned the Country Store Paint co. in Arlington Heights. She has temporarily retired from business.

She was also a member of the board of directors of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce.

Her husband is employed in Chicago.

La Verne Look has retained some of the antiques and settings shown in the magazine article. (A

Expert Urges 'Steps' To Meet Future Needs

"Big steps" are needed to adequately prepare for the future of students of Arlington-Prospect district 214.

This is the statement of Dr. Jack R. Childress of Northwestern university, who has just completed a "Study of School Plant and School Site Planning" for the district.

A public meeting to explain the 71-page report has been set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 24, in the Arlington high school Little Theatre. Dr. Childress will be present to interpret the findings of his staff and to answer questions from the high school board and public.

MAIN POINT of the Childress report hits the basic "facts of growth"—that the high school must be prepared for 15,500 students by 1970, an increase of more than 11,000 from the present enrollment of 4,416.

Similar growth studies of the high school district were undertaken in 1949, 1954, 1956, 1958 and 1959. In each case the studies show an increase in the growth pattern and the need for additional high school facilities.

To provide for the influx of new students, Dr. Childress urges a strict time schedule.

THIS TIME schedule includes:

—Purchase of two additional high school sites by spring of 1962;

—Planning for the fourth school unit during 1961-62 with occupancy set for the 1964-65 school year "at the latest";

—Planning for the fifth school during the 1962-63 school year with opening scheduled for 1965 or "no later than 1966."

The school district now has six sites including the grounds of the Arlington, Prospect and Forest View schools. The new Forest View high school is scheduled for opening in September, 1962. (AF

Okay New Zoning For Gas Station

With Mount Prospect, Des Plaines and Elk Grove voicing no objections, the county board Tuesday approved a change in zoning classification clearing the way for construction of a gasoline service station at the southwest corner of Dempster st. and Elmhurst rd. in Elk Grove township.

The zoning change was applied for by Phillips Petroleum company. The former R-4 zoning limited the area to single-family residenial construction. The new B-2 restricted service district zoning permits construction of service stations.

THE ZONING change covers a parcel 2550 feet by 223 feet. The original application had covered 3⅓ acres. The original plan was to develop the southern section of the site for retail stores, but plans of the firm were changed.

The present plan calls for a one-story office building to be erected on the balance of the land. This section was withdrawn from the application, as the B-2 zoning does not permit office buildings.

Application for zoning change from R-4 to B-3 business zoning to permit the construction of the office building is to be filed the oil firm indicated.

CONNECTIONS to a sanitary sewer system and a water supply are provided according to the zoning application.

Present owner of the land is the Illinois Mushroom company. Phillips is contract purchaser of the site. The zoning application was submitted by Attorneys Sidleq, August, Burgess & Smith of Chicago.

July 13, 1901

Arlington Heights: James H. Harris, a respected citizen and prominent business man died here July 3 after a long illness. Born in Baltimore, Md., July 23, 1853, he came west with his parents to Milwaukee in 1856, thence to Bloomington and then to Chicago where he learned his trade as a molder. In 1875 his father came to Arlington Heights to teach John Koelling to make castings for threshing machines he was building, and soon sent for James to come and assist him. The foundry was owned by Diamond Sewing Machine co. of which James was foreman. It closed in 1894 when Mr. Harris rented it. The building burned in 1895. Mr. Harris purchased the ruins and built the present building now occupied by Arlington Seating company. By his force of character, sterling integrity and keen business ability he laid the foundation of the business which has grown to be one of the industries that make Arlington Heights what it is . . . He was married to Miss Margaret Peter July 14, 1883. To them were born five children, now living at this time, Roy, Sarah and George. He was a member of the first village board, and has also been an honored member of the Board of Education since 1900.

Palatine: Mr. Wm. Walbaum was instantly killed on his farm north of Palatine at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. No one witnessed the said accident and he was discovered by his wife some time later. Mr. Walbaum had left the house to make repairs on his hay rake, taking with him a wrench, oil can and a step ladder. When it commenced to storm he started to the house and was struck about 200 ft. from any building.

Bensenville: A balloon passed over here Tuesday morning. We notice speed signs at the limits of Arlington Heights; but they might have saved that expense because the bumps and street crossings are as good as a policeman with a gun at every corner. No machine would stand driving thru that burg faster than 8 miles an hour . . .

Arlington Heights: All the Heights public school teachers who did not apply for positions here have engaged to teach elsewhere the coming year at increased salaries. Prof. Gamble accepts the principalship at Lansing at $1,100; Miss Mae Muller at Kenosha, Wis. at $650. . . . Boville Collins has a new 20 hp Indian Motor Cyle. He and Geo. Schneberger ought to establish a private race course where they can speed without limit and be prepared to exhibit at the county fair.

Palatine and surrounding area in the County: The board of directors of the Cook County Fair Assn. have authorized the payment of $10,000.00 in premiums to exhibitors at the fair which will be held in Palatine, Sept. 13th thru Sept. 18, 1921. Members of the Cook County Farm Bureau will undoubtedly secure a large percentage of the premium money, as they are taking an active interest in the fair and no doubt their exhibit will be unusually large . . . Large ceiling fans have been installed in the Masonic Hall, a necessity with all the "work" that is waiting the two bodies. . . . Carpenters have erected a "stage" in the high school. The interior will also be decorated. . . . A boiler inspector visited our pumping station this week and tried to condemn one of the boilers. Impossible, we say. They have been condemned or disapproved of, several times in the past and they are still there. It might not be a bad stunt, however, to take out some liability insurance.

Arlington Heights: In the list of teachers hired by the Barrington school board we note the names of Miss Florence Reese (Elfeld) and Miss Jessie Beardsley. . . . From Observer's Notes: One Arlington Heights church bell rang at 7:30 Sunday morning. That was good sense. Why not one early morning service for us all, in the open if possible, before the heat of the day comes upon us? Then working men, "works, clerks, and shirks" could rest in the shade for the rest of the day. Sleep, if need to. . . . It was in "Main street," 29 years ago, Observer asked for some fresh fruit. "No, we don't keep it, no call for anything of the kind." Fresh vegetables? "No, most people raise their own." After looking over the canned goods of ancient vintage, and selecting such as needed, asked when can these things be delivered. "Delivered?" questioned the amazed dealer, "Why nobody in this town delivers goods." And now just compare the fine service of our merchants' auto trucks. Anyone who shall say our town isn't improving?

Mount Prospect: The new siren purchased by the fire department will be erected in the center of the village soon.

Bensenville: The pride of Bensenville is Geo. Franzen's lawn on Silk Stocking ave. . . . The story of Ed. Stade's engagement is a myth, he advises us. He's a confirmed old bachelor as long as he can get good board and room and washing for $10.00 a week . . . Bernhard H. Landmeier, 83, died at his home near Bensenville, July 6. In 1848 at the age of 10 years he came to America with his parents, who first settled near his uncle's farm, which is known as the old Henry Landmeier farm, where he lived 75 years. Two children, born to this union, died in infancy.

Arlington Heights: The Rev. J. H. Ellerbrake was honored for forty years of service by his classmates, at St. John's Evangelical church, Sunday evening.

Mount Prospect: Herb Bernreuter and his Harmony Kings played at a French picnic in Chicago Tuesday . . . The new railroad park will soon have flowers. Members of the Camp Fire Girls organization set out a lot of plants last Saturday . . . The second stop light has been installed, and neighbors say that the sound of suddenly applied brakes keeps them awake nights.

Bloomingdale: Mr. Frederick Rentner was a victim of high temperatures prevailing, and died Friday of a prostration which aggravated a minor kidney ailment. He was born in Germany 69 years ago.

Arlington Heights: Barber shop hours are 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. except Wednesday and Saturday. Prices are upped from 50c to 60c for adult haircuts. Children of grade school age must get to the barbershop before noon if they want to pay only 35c; afternoons it is 40c, and Saturdays, 50c. High school boys will pay same price as adults . . . . Adolph Koehler, Arlington Heights tailor, was discovered dead in his room at the rear of his tailor shop in the Vail Davis building Monday afternoon . . . . The following draftees have been called to report for army service: Walter Henry Simson, Rand and Euclid; John Francis Hull, 714 N. Mitchell; Carl Wilhelm Wiborg, Rolling Green Country Club; and William Heinze, P.O. Box 355, all of Arlington Heights . . . . Nathan Richardson, age 68, of Arlington Heights, died July 10, at his home at 626 N. State rd.

Mount Prospect: Called for army service from here, Herbert Conrad Froemling, Irvin Orlin Myhre, and Owen Franklin Oliveson . . . . Last Thursday night a large enthusiastic audience attended the Free Movies at Mt. Prospect, sponsored by the merchants of this town. The following merchants are so delighted with the response that they plan to continue these free movis thru the month of August: I. E. Besander, Mayor; Better Shoe Service; Braum Bros. Oil Co.; The New Coffee Shop; Crick's Restaurant; Hopper's Recreation; Jim the Barber; Kroll the Tailor; Sadie's Dress Shop; Kruse's Tavern; Winkelman's Service Station; Burda's Drug Store. Tonight is another night.

July 13, 1951.

Arlington Heights: The voters approved the $250,000 bond issue for sewer at the special election held last Saturday, 268 to 79 . . . . Arlington Heights municipal business office gathered a few building facts and figures this week at the request of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. It is no secret that the last few years of home building in Arlington Heights was much greater than the expectations of the company, which at recent hearings has been criticized for not anticipating the present telephone needs of the community. . . . . Home after spending eight months in Korea, John C. Heidemann, compared some phases of the war with World War II. Rations were better this time. He said marine morale was "O.K.", medical care was excellent, and the men were well-clothed. The Arlington Herald was passed on to him by Cpl. Ralph Stevens, son of Rev. E. I. Stevents of Mt. Prospect.

Mt. Prospect: The 1951-52 appropriation ordinance, published this week, indicates cost of operating the village are mounting as the population increases. $158,520.88 is budgeted this year, compared with $142,841.75 last year.

Palatine: The park board is happy over the service Richard K. Welty, recreational director of Palatine Community Park, is giving.

Schaumburg: A gigantic fireworks display, a yearly event here for the past six years, was again held Wednesday evening in the center of town near the flagpole site. The colorful exhibit which lasted over two hours, attracted crowds from all around. Mr. George Nieman donated all the fireworks, and John Ciolac and Vern Mueller set them off.

Tell Prescription Price Reductions

Chicago area Walgreen drug stores this week announced another important reduction in prescription prices in line with their tradition of serving the community's health needs at the lowest possible consumer cost.

"Walgreen prescription prices have always been consistently under the average," stated Harold W. Pratt, R. Ph., director of pharmacy service, 'and this new pricing system insures that our prescription customers will continue to pay less for prescriptions at Walgreens. These new, even lower prices will prove more than competitive with mail-order prescription houses, group buying or other much-publicize 'discount' operations.

"Furthermore, our registered pharmacists offer complete pharmacy service," he added, "and can fill any and all prescriptions at these rates with no exceptions."

HE POINTED out that Walgreen prescription customers get the benefit of immediate prescription dispensing, with no loss of important early healing time while medication is in the mails.

"And our patrons continue to enjoy the vital personal pharmacist-customer relationship, plus the important point that their prescription files are readily available to their physicians every day and evening, including Sundays and holidays."

Walgreen's further price reduction is possible, according to Pratt, thru Walgreen's low-margin system and the fact that the firm is now filling over 5½ million prescriptions nationwide per year, more than any other single company in the nation. (B8

Little City Named Semi-Finalist in Award Competition

Little City, residential school for mentally retarded children, Palatine, has been named a semi-finalist in the Lane Bryant Annual Awards competition and has been honored with a citation in recognition of outstanding community service in 1960.

The citation means that Little City is among those being actively considered for one of the two $1,000 awards given annually to encourage voluntary participation in efforts designed to benefit American home and community life.

ONE AWARD is made to a group and one to an individual. Final selection for the awards will be made by a panel of five judges in New York City on November 16.

Little City was nominated for the award by the Rev. T. J. Wangler, C. M., vice president, student services of DePaul University.

Established in 1948, the Lane Bryant Annual Awards draw hundreds of nominations each year from all over the country. These are screened by the Bureau of Applied Social Research at Columbia University where they are subjected to five standard criteria of exclusion to determine which are most deserving of final consideration.

FINAL SELECTION for the awards will be made by Erwin D. Canham, editor, The Christian Science Monitor; Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, president, American National Red Cross; Mrs. Mary G. Roebling, president, Trenton Trust Co.; George Romney, president, American Motors Corp; and Henry M. Wriston, president, The American Assembly, Columbia University. (B8

Named by Governor

Suburb Man to Help UnemploymentStudy

A special 37-man committee has been appointed by Governor Kerner to study the problem of unemployment in Illinois.

Included in the committee's membership are representatives from labor, management, government, and education.

Appointed to the group's membership was Kenneth E. Dougan, 1103 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights, personnel director of Time, Inc. and a member of high school district 214 board of education.

The committee will conduct a pilot study on state unemployment, believed to be the first undertaking of its kind ever attempted in the U. S. Chairman of the committee is Frank H. Cassell, director of personnel administration for Inland Steel company.

PURPOSE OF the committee is to explore means of facilitating the employment of jobless workers in Illinois. It will analyze the labor market and determine where job opportunities exist and where the jobless workers are located who could fill these openings immediately or after appropriate training.

Automation, as it affects the demand for and supply of labor, will be a subject of special attention.

The broad areas which the committee will study are:

(1) The state's labor supply—sources of manpoyer, the rate at which employable people are increasing, characteristics of the unemployed.

(2) Labor demand — current and future job opportunities in the state.

(3) Training and education facilities—what is now being done in schools and industry to assist individuals to train for new jobs, the probable qualifications of workers needed in the future, and the changes in school curricula that will be required to meet these demands.

(4) Placement facilities — the adequacy of public and private resources for the placement of people on jobs, procedures by which jobs might be found for such special groups as older workers, the physically handicapped, the under-educated, minority groups, and ex-convicts.

(5) Automation and technological change—what can be done to reduce the impact of automation on workers, and pinpointing the skills and educational training workers will need to work in the highly-automated plants of the future.

ADDRESSING the first meeting of the committee at Springfield on June 28, Governor Kerner termed high and ever rising unemployment as the most important domestic problem facing the country.

"Our economy is burdened by the cost of supporting a growing proportion of our people in enforced idleness. Their unused capacity to produce is the sheerest economic as well as human waste. The blunt fact is we are not creating enough new jobs in Illinois to clear the labor market."

To Honor Nurses With New Stamp

A long-sought commemorative stamp honoring the nation's nurses is to be issued in the fall, the stamp's initiator has learned from Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church (R., Ill.).

Foster G. McGaw, chairman of the board of American Hospital Supply corporation, suggested the stamp in a letter he wrote to some 22,000 hospital executives back in 1958. McGaw said he was impressed by recent commemorative stamps and wondered why the nursing profession had never been honored.

As an appropriate event to commemorate, McGaw cited the founding of the nation's first nurses' training institution at Woman's Hospital, Philadelphia, in 1861, or, if the timing were not too difficult, the Florence Nightingale centennial.

HOSPITAL executives, nursing association leaders and legislators across the country soon were supporting the project with letters of their own.

This week the word from Washington came, and the nursing profession will receive its well-deserved national salute, according to Mrs. Church, who was among several representatives who supported McGaw's suggestion in Washington. (B8

Tell Prescription Price Reductions

Chicago area Walgreen drug stores this week announced another important reduction in prescription prices in line with their tradition of serving the community's health needs at the lowest possible consumer cost.

"Walgreen prescription prices have always been consistently under the average," stated Harold W. Pratt, R. Ph., director of pharmacy service, 'and this new pricing system insures that our prescription customers will continue to pay less for prescriptions at Walgreens. These new, even lower prices will prove more than competitive with mail-order prescription houses, group buying or other much-publicize 'discount' operations.

"Furthermore, our registered pharmacists offer complete pharmacy service," he added, "and can fill any and all prescriptions at these rates with no exceptions."

HE POINTED out that Walgreen prescription customers get the benefit of immediate prescription dispensing, with no loss of important early healing time while medication is in the mails.

"And our patrons continue to enjoy the vital personal pharmacist-customer relationship, plus the important point that their prescription files are readily available to their physicians every day and evening, including Sundays and holidays."

Walgreen's further price reduction is possible, according to Pratt, thru Walgreen's low-margin system and the fact that the firm is now filling over 5½ million prescriptions nationwide per year, more than any other single company in the nation.

Little City Named Semi-Finalist in Award Competition

Little City, residential school for mentally retarded children, Palatine, has been named a semi-finalist in the Lane Bryant Annual Awards competition and has been honored with a citation in recognition of outstanding community service in 1960.

The citation means that Little City is among those being actively considered for one of the two $1,000 awards given annually to encourage voluntary participation in efforts designed to benefit American home and community life.

ONE AWARD is made to a group and one to an individual. Final selection for the awards will be made by a panel of five judges in New York City on November 16.

Little City was nominated for the award by the Rev. T. J. Wangler, C. M., vice president, student services of DePaul University.

Established in 1948, the Lane Bryant Annual Awards draw hundreds of nominations each year from all over the country. These are screened by the Bureau of Applied Social Research at Columbia University where they are subjected to five standard criteria of exclusion to determine which are most deserving of final consideration.

FINAL SELECTION for the awards will be made by Erwin D. Canham, editor, The Christian Science Monitor; Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, president, American National Red Cross; Mrs. Mary G. Roebling, president, Trenton Trust Co.; George Romney, president, American Motors Corp; and Henry M. Wriston, president, The American Assembly, Columbia University.

Named by Governor

Suburb Man to Help UnemploymentStudy

A special 37-man committee has been appointed by Governor Kerner to study the problem of unemployment in Illinois.

Included in the committee's membership are representatives from labor, management, government, and education.

Appointed to the group's membership was Kenneth E. Dougan, 1103 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights, personnel director of Time, Inc. and a member of high school district 214 board of education.

The committee will conduct a pilot study on state unemployment, believed to be the first undertaking of its kind ever attempted in the U. S. Chairman of the committee is Frank H. Cassell, director of personnel administration for Inland Steel company.

PURPOSE OF the committee is to explore means of facilitating the employment of jobless workers in Illinois. It will analyze the labor market and determine where job opportunities exist and where the jobless workers are located who could fill these openings immediately or after appropriate training.

Automation, as it affects the demand for and supply of labor, will be a subject of special attention.

The broad areas which the committee will study are:

(1) The state's labor supply—sources of manpoyer, the rate at which employable people are increasing, characteristics of the unemployed.

(2) Labor demand — current and future job opportunities in the state.

(3) Training and education facilities—what is now being done in schools and industry to assist individuals to train for new jobs, the probable qualifications of workers needed in the future, and the changes in school curricula that will be required to meet these demands.

(4) Placement facilities — the adequacy of public and private resources for the placement of people on jobs, procedures by which jobs might be found for such special groups as older workers, the physically handicapped, the under-educated, minority groups, and ex-convicts.

(5) Automation and technological change—what can be done to reduce the impact of automation on workers, and pinpointing the skills and educational training workers will need to work in the highly-automated plants of the future.

ADDRESSING the first meeting of the committee at Springfield on June 28, Governor Kerner termed high and ever rising unemployment as the most important domestic problem facing the country.

"Our economy is burdened by the cost of supporting a growing proportion of our people in enforced idleness. Their unused capacity to produce is the sheerest economic as well as human waste. The blunt fact is we are not creating enough new jobs in Illinois to clear the labor market."

To Honor Nurses With New Stamp

A long-sought commemorative stamp honoring the nation's nurses is to be issued in the fall, the stamp's initiator has learned from Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church (R., Ill.).

Foster G. McGaw, chairman of the board of American Hospital Supply corporation, suggested the stamp in a letter he wrote to some 22,000 hospital executives back in 1958. McGaw said he was impressed by recent commemorative stamps and wondered why the nursing profession had never been honored.

As an appropriate event to commemorate, McGaw cited the founding of the nation's first nurses' training institution at Woman's Hospital, Philadelphia, in 1861, or, if the timing were not too difficult, the Florence Nightingale centennial.

HOSPITAL executives, nursing association leaders and legislators across the country soon were supporting the project with letters of their own.

This week the word from Washington came, and the nursing profession will receive its well-deserved national salute, according to Mrs. Church, who was among several representatives who supported McGaw's suggestion in Washington.

Hasbrook Happenings

Hazel Peck CLearbrook 9-0688

Among Hasbrook neighbors who've been able to "get away from it all" are Judy Hartigan and son, Chip, 1540 N. Kaspar, who returned July 5 from a 2-week stay on the shores of Lake Huron. They were guests at the cottage of husband John's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hartigan.

Stories about the "ones that got away" are being told in the Paul Hartung household, 1701 Fernandez pl. They are just back from two weeks spent in Boulder Junction, Wis. Good fishing, good swimming, good weather — they had all!

"Something old, something new" for Bob and Ardythe Howe, 1515 Fernandez pl. They deposited their children with grandparents and traveled July 6 through 8, in Door County, Wis. The new- the beautiful area. The old - the antique shops that dot the countryside.

THE QUIET house at 812 Lynwood ave. has come alive again with the return of Curt and Bonnie Swinehart. They and the children, Rex and Shari, visited relatives in Ohio for two weeks, and returned home Sunday.

It's so nice to have a man around the house is the concensus of opinion in the Wiltshire home, 1632 N. Chestnut. Mr. Wiltshire recently came back from a successful fishing excursion to Land O' Lakes, Wis.

Though for some the grass is greener on the other side of the fence, the Di Pierres of N. Chestnut are enjoying the vegetation in their own back yard as they spend a relaxing vacation at home.

People go, but people come, too. Marilyn and George Ward, 1536 N. Kaspar ave., had as guests for a week Mr. and Mrs. James Weaver and their children, Christopher and Polly, Marilyn's brother and family from Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Hans Sonderregger of Hudson, N. Y., who is spending the summer at Lake Beulah, Wis., was the guest July 10 and 11 of Hohn and Bea Sonderegger, 1512 N. Kaspar ave., her son and daughter-in-law.

IT MUST HAVE been a man who started all the talk about home cooking. Any woman would eat out at the drop of an invitation, particularly if dinner is to be in a special restaurant with good companions. This was the case when the Bob Sheahans, 1610 N. Chestnut, invited the Jack Woods, 1625 N. Chestnut, to dine July 8, at a spot hand-picked by Bob in Rockford.

Badminton, baseball, hamburgers and children are the perfect ingredients for a successful picnic. So say the Don Thomas, Roger Houser, Alex Denczyna, Ed Schlect, Bill DeWaal, Dick Tully, Barney Taris and Bob Wittemore families. They picnicked together July 9. at Elk Grove forest preserve.

CHEAP MEDICINES CAN BE EXPENSIVE

The greatest part of the cost of the average prescription drug is usually the many tests and controls needed to produce maximum purity and potency. There is always someone willing to sell for less by eliminating most of these costs.

Since the average person now spends less than $15 per year for prescriptions, it is wise to look for bargains? You can depend on your pharmacist to supply the best at a fair price. Why take chances that may retard recovery.

WHEN YOU MODERNIZE YOUR KITCHEN, REMEMBER...

A flameless electric kitchen won't go out of date

Planning your kitchen remodeling is like planning your kitchen work for the next 20 or more years.

Naturally, you want to make sure that the money you invest and the appliances you select will pay you back with easier meal-making, pleasanter surroundings and a kitchen that's easier to clean and keep clean.

A flameless electric kitchen offers you all of these things and more.

Take the electric range, for example. This is the heart of every flameless electric kitchen. With it, you can cook your meals without overheating your kitchen (or yourself). The oven is insulated on all six sides, not just five. Hardly any heat escapes. The surface units transfer heat directly into pans and into foods—not into your kitchen.

And because electric ranges burn no fuel, no dirt is created. Your kitchen (and everything in it) stays clean twice as long.

Before you spend a penny on kitchen remodeling, get a professionally-prepared plan based on your specific needs and budget. An experienced kitchen specialist can show you how imaginative planning can save you steps and eliminate unnecessary bending and reaching. He can also help you work out color schemes and lighting effects and help solve storage problems.

Hasbrook Happenings

Among Hasbrook neighbors who've been able to "get away from it all" are Judy Hartigan and son, Chip, 1540 N. Kaspar, who returned July 5 from a 2-week stay on the shores of Lake Huron. They were guests at the cottage of husband John's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hartigan.

Stories about the "ones that got away" are being told in the Paul Hartung household, 1701 Fernandez pl. They are just back from two weeks spent in Boulder Junction, Wis. Good fishing, good swimming, good weather — they had all!

"Something old, something new" for Bob and Ardythe Howe, 1515 Fernandez pl. They deposited their children with grandparents and traveled July 6 through 8, in Door County, Wis. The new- the beautiful area. The old - the antique shops that dot the countryside.

THE QUIET house at 812 Lynwood ave. has come alive again with the return of Curt and Bonnie Swinehart. They and the children, Rex and Shari, visited relatives in Ohio for two weeks, and returned home Sunday.

It's so nice to have a man around the house is the concensus of opinion in the Wiltshire home, 1632 N. Chestnut. Mr. Wiltshire recently came back from a successful fishing excursion to Land O' Lakes, Wis.

Though for some the grass is greener on the other side of the fence, the Di Pierres of N. Chestnut are enjoying the vegetation in their own back yard as they spend a relaxing vacation at home.

People go, but people come, too. Marilyn and George Ward, 1536 N. Kaspar ave., had as guests for a week Mr. and Mrs. James Weaver and their children, Christopher and Polly, Marilyn's brother and family from Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Hans Sonderregger of Hudson, N. Y., who is spending the summer at Lake Beulah, Wis., was the guest July 10 and 11 of Hohn and Bea Sonderegger, 1512 N. Kaspar ave., her son and daughter-in-law.

IT MUST HAVE been a man who started all the talk about home cooking. Any woman would eat out at the drop of an invitation, particularly if dinner is to be in a special restaurant with good companions. This was the case when the Bob Sheahans, 1610 N. Chestnut, invited the Jack Woods, 1625 N. Chestnut, to dine July 8, at a spot hand-picked by Bob in Rockford.

Badminton, baseball, hamburgers and children are the perfect ingredients for a successful picnic. So say the Don Thomas, Roger Houser, Alex Denczyna, Ed Schlect, Bill DeWaal, Dick Tully, Barney Taris and Bob Wittemore families. They picnicked together July 9. at Elk Grove forest preserve.

THE FLAMELESS ELECTRIC KITCHEN

WHEN YOU MODERNIZE YOUR KITCHEN, REMEMBER...

A flameless electric kitchen won't go out of date

Planning your kitchen remodeling is like planning your kitchen work for the next 20 or more years.

Naturally, you want to make sure that the money you invest and the appliances you select will pay you back with easier meal-making, pleasanter surroundings and a kitchen that's easier to clean and keep clean.

A flameless electric kitchen offers you all of these things and more.

Take the electric range, for example. This is the heart of every flameless electric kitchen. With it, you can cook your meals without overheating your kitchen (or yourself). The oven is insulated on all six sides, not just five. Hardly any heat escapes. The surface units transfer heat directly into pans and into foods—not into your kitchen.

And because electric ranges burn no fuel, no dirt is created. Your kitchen (and everything in it) stays clean twice as long.

Before you spend a penny on kitchen remodeling, get a professionally-prepared plan based on your specific needs and budget. An experienced kitchen specialist can show you how imaginative planning can save you steps and eliminate unnecessary bending and reaching. He can also help you work out color schemes and lighting effects and help solve storage problems.

For the names and addresses of kitchen modernization specialists in your area, call your nearest Public Service Company office.

Arlington Heights Student Chosen for 'Pilot' Program

James Jesse Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude S. Hansen, 1302 E. Northwest hwy., Arlington Heights, has been chosen as a "charter" student to enter Northwestern university's new six-year medical training program.

James is a graduate of Arlington high school where he won a National Merit Letter of Commendation, participated in athletics, dramatics, and music; won the DAR award for excellence in American history and ranked 9th in scholarship among 385 senior students.

The university announced that James was one of the 25 exceptionally gifted high school graduates selected as "pilot" enrolees in its revolutionary medical training program which shortens by two years the time necessary for the M.D. degree.

At the same time the University disclosed plans for a $7.5 million building addition to the medical school on the Chicago campus.

The wing will house expanded research and library facilities, and provide space for new "unit laboratories" which are an integral part of the revised medical currimulum for all students, beginning in 1963.

The new six-year program admits 25 "charter" students to Northwestern's medical school directly from high school.

THEY BEGIN revised premedical studies this September in the college of liberal arts on the Evanston campus of the university. After two years of carefully-tailored work, which will stress the basic sciences, the pilot group transfers in 1963 to the medical school, joining the regular incoming class of approximately 100 others who have had the traditional three to four years' premedical education.

Thus, in six years, they will have achieved the professional degree. In eight years after high school graduation, they can earn the combined M.D. - Ph.D. degree.

As a special group, the 25 averaged in the upper 2 per cent of their 1961 high school graduating classes, which ranged in size from 46 to 1,224. Their schools are located in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, Texas, Montana and California.

Eleven were either valedictorians or salutatorians. All have participated heavily in a wide range of extra-curricular activities in and out of school.

COMPARING THEM briefly with other freshman admitted to Northwestern university this fall, Reiley said that their college board math test scores averaged 100 points higher than all freshman admitted, and 50 points higher than freshman to be enrolled in the technological institute. Their verbal scores (in the scholastic aptitude tests) also averaged 100 points higher.

Dr. Cooper also pointed out that they qualify for advanced work in chemistry, mathematics and in one of the humanities on the basis of superior achievements in high school and in examinations.

In their opening two-year undergraduate period (1961-63), they will devote about half their time to newly-developed courses in chemistry, physics, mathematics and biology — arranged in coordinated, graduated sequence. The remainder of study will be in the arts, humanities and behavioral sciences.

A UNIQUE feature of the group's medical school attendance (1963-67) will be the staging of seminars in the arts and humanities, scheduled during the junior and senior years.

Planning of the integrated curriculum began in 1957 with a grant from the John and Mary Markle foundation. Committee members were from the medical and liberal arts faculties and served under the chairmanship of Moody Prior, dean of the graduate school.

Of the 25 picked as "pioneers" in the new program, four are women. They represent nine states. All are 1961 high school graduates.

THEIR MEDICAL training is expected to take place chiefly in the new research-laboratory wing, a 15-story structure to adjoin the east edge of the Ward and Morton buildings (E. Superior st. at Fairbanks ct.) in the Northwestern university medical center complex, Chicago. The land now is used as a parking lot.

Construction probably will begin in the spring of 1962. Costs of the building and equipment are to be raised through private contributions.

Northwestern's plan to effect radical changes in the overall medical curriculum — and its intention to seek 25 talented high school seniors for a pilot group in consideration of possible expansion of the program — first was announced publicly in March, 1960.

SINCE THAT date, hundreds of superior young students have been interviewed, tested and screened.

Selection of the finalists was announced jointly by Dr. John A. D. Cooper, associate medical dean and director of the program, and C. William Reiley, Northwestern director of admissions. (CC

Carol Ann Olen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Olen, 611 Rand rd , and Nancy Ann Setlik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Setlik, 815 S. Emerson, both of Mount Prospect, have been accepted as members of the entering freshman class at the Grant hospital school of nursing, in Chicago.

Classes start September 5. Miss Olen and Miss Setlik are beginning a 3-year course which will enable them to become Registered Nurses.

GRANT HOSPITAL is a 260-bed community general hospital located in the mid-north area of Chicago. Student nurses live in a four-story brick residence hall which adjoins the hospital.

Because Grant hospital has the progressive patient care program, student nurses at the hospital have an opportunity to study this system. Under the program, patients are cared for in intensive, intermediate, and self-care units according to the severity of their illness.

APART FROM the benefits to the patient from such a streamlined, custom-tailored plan, it has great educational value in a teaching hospital. Health authorities predict that it will be adopted by most hospitals during the next 10 years.

Grant was the first hospital in Illinois and one of the first in the country to adopt this plan, so its nurses are expected to be in great demand as the progressive patient care program comes into wider use.

ANOTHER ADVANTAGE at Grant is its premature baby station, one of only three in Illinois which is licensed to care for "preemies" born outside the hospital

A few places are still open in the entering class for this fall, and some scholarship funds are available. Requests for information should be addressed to the Director of Nursing School, Grant Hospital of Chicago, 551 West Grant pl., Chicago 14, Ill. (CC

Civic Group Pledges Assistance to Weekly

A pledge of "moral and material aid" has been made to the embattled Frontier Enterprise, Ela Township weekly newspaper which is currently the target of a $600,000 libel suit filed by State Senator Robert F. McClory.

An influential community agency, the Southwest Lake County Civic Improvement association threw its weight solidly behind the Enterprise in a strongly worded resolution released this week.

The resolution pointed out that as a result of consistently criticizing "selfish and predatory interests" the paper is now a defendent in a libel suit, "the apparent result of which is financial harassment . . ."

ANOTHER SECTION of the resolution termed the existence of a free press a "vital" to achieving the Association's objectives.

The vote of the Association's board of directors was unanimous, according to President Malcolm Shroyer of Hawthorn Woods.

The association, which was chartered in 1959, has taken a firm stand in favor of planned development of the s thwest Lake county area. The group played a major role in opposing the so-called "Brickman Blueprint," which called for high density development of Ela township.

Chicago builder Joseph Brickman, promoter of the "Blueprint," was represented by McClory's firm in several court suits filed against Ela villages and against the county of Lake.

BRICKMAN LOST all of his court actions and later placed most of his land holdings in Ela Township on the market. McClory announced, during the 1960 senatorial primary, in which he was a candidate for reelection, that he no longer represented the builder.

However, McClory failed to carry Lake County in the primary contest, and retained his post by virtue of majorities in Boo. and McHenry counties.

McCLORY filed suit against the Frontier Enterprise around March of this year, following the publication of two editorials which were critical of a Randolph Commision subcommittee report, issued by McClory as chairman.

The report urged that legislation be enacted to dissolve so-called "country villages" which do not provide full municipal services. According to the Enterprise, the recommendations would have wiped out many villages, including those in Ela township which successfully opposed the Brickman project. (B8

Grant was the first hospital in Illinois and one of the first in the country to adopt this plan, so its nurses are expected to be in great demand as the progressive patient care program comes into wider use.

ANOTHER ADVANTAGE at Grant is its premature baby station, one of only three in Illinois which is licensed to care for "preemies" born outside the hospital

A few places are still open in the entering class for this fall, and some scholarship funds are available. Requests for information should be addressed to the Director of Nursing School, Grant Hospital of Chicago, 551 West Grant pl., Chicago 14, Ill. (CC

Civic Group Pledges Assistance to Weekly

A pledge of "moral and material aid" has been made to the embattled Frontier Enterprise, Ela Township weekly newspaper which is currently the target of a $600,000 libel suit filed by State Senator Robert F. McClory.

An influential community agency, the Southwest Lake County Civic Improvement association threw its weight solidly behind the Enterprise in a strongly worded resolution released this week.

The resolution pointed out that as a result of consistently criticizing "selfish and predatory interests" the paper is now a defendent in a libel suit, "the apparent result of which is financial harassment . . ."

ANOTHER SECTION of the resolution termed the existence of a free press a "vital" to achieving the Association's objectives.

The vote of the Association's board of directors was unanimous, according to President Malcolm Shroyer of Hawthorn Woods.

The association, which was chartered in 1959, has taken a firm stand in favor of planned development of the southwest Lake county area. The group played a major role in opposing the so-called "Brickman Blueprint," which called for high density development of Ela township.

Chicago builder Joseph Brickman, promoter of the "Blueprint," was represented by McClory's firm in several court suits filed against Ela villages and against the county of Lake.

BRICKMAN LOST all of his court actions and later placed most of his land holdings in Ela Township on the market. McClory announced, during the 1960 senatorial primary, in which he was a candidate for reelection, that he no longer represented the builder.

However, McClory failed to carry Lake County in the primary contest, and retained his post by virtue of majorities in Boone and McHenry counties.

McCLORY filed suit against the Frontier Enterprise around March of this year, following the publication of two editorials which were critical of a Randolph Commision subcommittee report, issued by McClory as chairman.

The report urged that legislation be enacted to dissolve so-called "country villages" which do not provide full municipal services. According to the Enterprise, the recommendations would have wiped out many villages, including those in Ela township which successfully opposed the Brickman project. (B8

Suburban Comedy Set by Playhouse

Ann Blager is the gay leading lady of the Shady Lane Playhouse company which is offering a summer of comedies and farces in the big white barn on U. S. 20 west of Marengo.

ANN BLAGER

"Send Me No Flowers," which was seen last season on Broadway, will be presented July 25 through July 30.

THE COMEDY was written by Norman Barasch and Carroll Moore, authors of last season's gay satire on television, "Make a Million."

"Send Me No Flowers" is the crazy but credible story of a suburbanite who becomes convinced his days are numbered and proceeds to wind up his affairs and dispose of his earthly possessions, including his wife. For once, Shady Lane has a play with a "message"— but the message to theatregoers is simply: "Don't worry!"

Curtain times are 8:45 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. on Saturday, and 7:45 p.m. Sunday. (Bill

Emergency Room Has Post-Holiday 'Rest'

Although "business" in the emergency room of Northwest Community hospital has slowed down a little after the holiday weekend, many still required treatment for various accidents.

Automobile accidents still caused the greatest number of casualties, but this week stomach washings were nearly as numerous.

Two-year-old Leon and 18-month-old Mary Carol Delano, 243 Richards dr., Palatine, both swallowed some of their parents' medicine, while James Meyer, 121 Alhambra, Roselle, ate 15 baby aspirin.

THE PARENTS of Jeffrey Carlson of Park Ridge and Elsa Godenius of Elmhurst thought their children had eaten toadstools. Stomach washings were also in order for them. Seven-month-old Catherine Koretke of Elk Grove was splashed with bleach and possibly drank some.

Playground equipment proved hazardous for an Arlington Heights boy, 6½-year-old William Burns, 721 N. Patton, who caught his fingers in a swing chain and had to have the left thumb nail removed, and Roman Yewchyn Jr., 598 Oak st., Elk Grove, who fractured his arm when he fell from the top of a slide.

Other sporting youngsters injured were Gary Clemens, of Elk Grove Village, and 9-year-old Kenneth Mikolajczyk of Mount Prospect, who were both hit by baseballs, and Martin Monti of Arlington Heights, who received a fracture of a finger while playing baseball.

Bicycle casualties included Charles Heinrich, 317 Hatlen, Mount Prospect, and Steven Regul, 261 N. Arthur blvd., Palatine. Four-year-old Peter Anderson, 2308 Hawk lane, Rolling Meadows, was hospitalized after being hit in the eye with a dart.

BOTH ELROY Alavardo of Lake Zurich and Israel Minjares of Palatine were admitted to the hospital following their automobile accident at Route 14 and Dundee rd. Injured in another accident at Euclid and Route 14 were Henrietta Doland of Chicago and Mrs. Lillian Lundgreen of Palatine. Both were examined and discharged.

Transferred to Oak Park hospital for care was Robert A. Gardiner of River Forest, who was injured in an accident at Route 14 and Patton in Arlington Heights. Mrs. Goldie Arnold was involved in an accident at Routes 62 and 53.

Treated for dog bites were Robert Tabor, 3, of Rolling Meadows; Robert Kidd, 13, of Roselle; and Scott Scholten, 5, of Elk Grove Village. Eleven-year-old Louie Thomas of Buffalo Grove was also treated for a bite, but it was not a dog that did the damage this time. He was bitten by a gopher.

HORSES MUST have treated their riders with a little more respect this week, as there was only one mishap. Albert McIver of Nashville, Tenn., was kicked by a horse and admitted to the hospital for a fractured leg.

Gene Nelson, 17, of Waupaca, Wis., was hit by a car while crossing the street. He received a compound fracture of the leg.

You Can't Wish Yourself Well

by R. E. TRAVEN D.C.

Many of us are half sick and half well nearly all the time, grunting along and wishing for health.

Our newspaper headlines tell us about a famous suicide. Reason — ill health.

One reason you do not read about, but which is found in practically every case of "ill health" is "disheartened confusion." The average sufferer has been diagnosed, treated or operated, and steered from one specialist to another, only to find out that as one ailment is patched up, trouble starts somewhere else. It is both confusing and disheartening when you have spent your money and time on differing opinions and differing drugs in a diligent effort to regain your health, yet nothing seems to help.

Life becomes miserable! Things lose their importance! You lose your faith in all doctors! It is difficult to be a good wife, mother, father, husband, son, daughter or grandparent when one is sick and miserable.

We can't get our message of hope through to all discouraged sick folks, but within a few there remains a small spark of courage that flames into action when they see or hear our message.

Does it give you courage to learn that a mother of six in her forties after coming to the Barrington Chiropractic Center recovered from a twenty three year standing case of asthma which in the past few years has been aggravated by heart trouble? She is very grateful to chiropractic and the friend who told her about it.

Perhaps the dramatic and grateful recovery of excruciating pain from a slipped disc and sciatic leg pains experienced by a father in his late thirties, after coming to the Barrington Chiropractic Center will encourage you.

Or perhaps the rapid recovery from headaches, nervousness, buzzing in the ears, sinus drainage and a sick stomach, previously diagnosed as ulcers will excite you into action.

Hundreds of such case records in our files are proof positive evidence that sick people get well under chiropractic care — many times after other methods have failed.

Chiropractic may be your answer too. If the other methods have failed, you can't wish yourself well. Why don't you take your friend's advice and investigate now. Delay usually makes a condition grow worse, besides, what can you lose except bad health?

Seek to Overcome False Ideas About Heart Patient Handicap

The lot of the heart patient in industry is often an unnecessarily unhappy one.

Sometimes he is troubled by the fear that he is no longer up to the work he is doing.

More often he becomes an industrial stepchild because employers fear to hire him, or to give him a challenging and meaningful job.

THE CHICAGO Heart association has been working steadily for more than a decade to help overcome these usually false ideas. Most people with heart disease can and do work, and many who are not working could become self-supporting if they were placed in suitable jobs.

A few heart patients are unable to be active at all, but they are in the minority. With the exception of extremely high-pressure tasks, or those involving heavy manual labor (a type of job fast shrinking on the American scene), most people can return to their old positions and handle them as successfully as ever.

Only a physician can state whether a person with heart disease should work. He will determine the individual's capacity, learn the demands of the job, and make the decision.

STATISTICS FROM Heart Association work classification units throughout the country reveal that well over 70 per cent return to productive work, handle it effectively and live in reasonably normal states of health.

U. S. Department of Labor Studies, incidentally, bear out the experience of many large industries — that heart disease patients, compared with workers without heart disease in identical jobs, produce slightly more than the non-cardiac worker. They have a keen understanding of the value of the job.

It's important that personnel managers and others in positions to employ people, remember that ordinary physical effort does not produce, or under normal circumstances, aggravate heart disease.

If an employee is known to have a heart condition and has been placed in a job for which he is physically qualified, there will be no danger to the worker himself, to other employees, or to equipment. Actually, the person with unsuspected heart disease is a much greater employment risk.

THE DANGER of an on-the-job heart attack, studies have shown, is extremely low among persons with heart disease. More than half of all attacks of coronary thrombosis, for example, occur while the person is asleep, or at rest — not at work. Only two per cent are associated with unusual exertion.

Workmen's compensation insurance rates will not increase when the heart condition is known and the person is placed in a suitable job — and this removes one of the biggest barriers to safe employment of heart patients.

The Chicago Heart association urges employers; Find the facts — and, if the facts warrant it, give heart patients a chance in industry.

THE INFORMATION contained in this article is explained in greater detail in two pamphlets from your Chicago Heart association. They are: "These Hands Are Able" and "The Facts About Employment and Heart Disease." Write to 22 W. Madison st., Chicago 2, for your copies.

And for further information about the Work Classification units in the Chicago area, call the information and referral service of the Heart Association at FInancial 6-4675. (B8

by R. E. TRAVEN D.C.

Many of us are half sick and half well nearly all the time, grunting along and wishing for health.

Our newspaper headlines tell us about a famous suicide. Reason — ill health.

One reason you do not read about, but which is found in practically every case of "ill health" is "dishartened confusion." The average sufferer has been diagnosed, treated or operated, and steered from one specialist to another, only to find out that as one ailment is patched up, trouble starts somewhere else. It is both confusing and disheartening when you have spent your money and time on differing opinions and differing drugs in a diligent effort to regain your health, yet nothing seems to help.

Life becomes miserable! Things lose their importance! You lose your faith in all doctors! It is difficult to be a good wife, mother, father, husband, son, daughter or grandparent when one is sick and miserable.

We can't get our message of hope through to all discouraged sick folks, but within a few there remains a small spark of courage that flames into action when they see or hear our message.

Does it give you courage to learn that a mother of six in her forties after coming to the Barrington Chiropractic Center recovered from a twenty three year standing case of asthma which in the past few years has been aggravated by heart trouble? She is very grateful to chiropractic and the friend who told her about it.

Perhaps the dramatic and grateful recovery of excruciating pain from a slipped disc and sciatic leg pains experienced by a father in his late thirties, after coming to the Barrington Chiropractic Center will encourage you.

Or perhaps the rapid recovery from headaches, nervousness, buzzing in the ears, sinus drainage and a sick stomach, previously diagnosed as ulcers will excite you into action.

Hundreds of such case records in our files are proof positive evidence that sick people get well under chiropractic care — many times after other methods have failed.

Chiropractic may be your answer too. If the other methods have failed, you can't wish yourself well. Why don't you take your friend's advice and investigate now. Delay usually makes a condition grow worse, besides, what can you lose except bad health?

Seek to Overcome False Ideas About Heart Patient Handicap

The lot of the heart patient in industry is often an unnecessarily unhappy one.

Sometimes he is troubled by the fear that he is no longer up to the work he is doing.

More often he becomes an industrial stepchild because employers fear to hire him, or to give him a challenging and meaningful job.

THE CHICAGO Heart association has been working steadily for more than a decade to help overcome these usually false ideas. Most people with heart disease can and do work, and many who are not working could become self-supporting if they were placed in suitable jobs.

A few heart patients are unable to be active at all, but they are in the minority. With the exception of extremely high-pressure tasks, or those involving heavy manual labor (a type of job fast shrinking on the American scene), most people can return to their old positions and handle them as successfully as ever.

Only a physician can state whether a person with heart disease should work. He will determine the individual's capacity, learn the demands of the job, and make the decision.

STATISTICS FROM Heart Association work classification units throughout the country reveal that well over 70 per cent return to productive work, handle it effectively and live in reasonably normal states of health.

U. S. Department of Labor Studies, incidentally, bear out the experience of many large industries — that heart disease patients, compared with workers without heart disease in identical jobs, produce slightly more than the non-cardiac worker. They have a keen understanding of the value of the job.

It's important that personnel managers and others in positions to employ people, remember that ordinary physical effort does not produce, or under normal circumstances, aggravate heart disease.

If an employee is known to have a heart condition and has been placed in a job for which he is physically qualified, there will be no danger to the worker himself, to other employees, or to equipment. Actually, the person with unsuspected heart disease is a much greater employment risk.

THE DANGER of an on-the-job heart attack, studies have shown, is extremely low among persons with heart disease. More than half of all attacks of coronary thrombosis, for example, occur while the person is asleep, or at rest — not at work. Only two per cent are associated with unusual exertion.

Workmen's compensation insurance rates will not increase when the heart condition is known and the person is placed in a suitable job — and this removes one of the biggest barriers to safe employment of heart patients.

The Chicago Heart association urges employers; Find the facts — and, if the facts warrant it, give heart patients a chance in industry.

THE INFORMATION contained in this article is explained in greater detail in two pamphlets from your Chicago Heart association. They are: "These Hands Are Able" and "The Facts About Employment and Heart Disease." Write to 22 W. Madison st., Chicago 2, for your copies.

And for further information about the Work Classification units in the Chicago area, call the information and referral service of the Heart Association at FInancial 6-4675. (B8

Schools Hire Aide for Problem Pupils

Psychologist To Serve Area

by TOM EDWARDS

Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove elementary school districts have jointly hired a psychologist to work with pupils having learning troubles. He is the first such person employed by any of the three districts.

Francis J. Simal, 31, who has been working in school psychological help programs for about five years, is to divide his time between the three districts, roughly according to the number of pupils per district.

Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect, with an expected fall enrollment of about 5,400 and 4,500 respectively in kindergarten through the eighth grade, are to have his services for two days each per week. He is to work with Elk Grove pupils (3,100 expected in September) the remaining day of the week.

As planned now, Simal's work will be almost entirely devoted to the educable and trainable mentally handicapped.

Overall, however, psychological help is to be extended to all students, gifted, average and slow, who are having difficulty in learning.

ELK GROVE superintendent Dr. Roger Bardwell defines the purpose of the professional psychologist as a help to the schools in "identifying and evaluating children who need special help."

Main focus of his duties, Simal relates, will be individual testing to measure "intellectual potential as it relates to emotional life." That is, pupils referred to him will get a complete psychological study, he said.

An important element will be a diagnosis of emotional problems.

Each of the pupils involved will be given a battery of tests and will be interviewed by Simal.

HE IS THEN to make recommendations, such as advising assignment to a special class or methods by which school work might better be presented to the pupil by his teacher in the regular classroom.

Therefore, he adds, his duties will involve consultations with school administrators and teachers.

Learning difficulties may be due to emotional disturbances, a lack of mental capacity or brain damage, it is recognized by educators. Causes of emotional disorders are usually laid to sociological reasons. But Simal also noted that they can stem from functional organic disorders of the body, or even chemical disorders, possibly from ingredients in everyday food intakes. The latter, he said, are difficult to determine, but may be surmounted with the same procedures used to remove other emotional blocks.

Children who are not able to compete with others in their class may develop feelings of insecurity, and/or inferiority, according to Simal. Emotional disturbances often prevent a pupil from "assimilating" his classroom material.

AND IN SOME cases a gifted child may simply be bored with his school work, find it unchallenging, and therefore perhaps become a problem student.

Children who are having difficulty in school for any of the above reasons often become either discipline problems or abnormally shy and reticent, Dr. Bardwell said.

Although generally sure of the results of the numerous tests and personal interview, which take about three hours to complete, Simal points out that precautions are taken to insure accurate results.

An answer to one question is not relied upon to pinpoint a problem; a compilation of the answers to several questions is used. The questions may even be nearly duplicates, presented in different wordings. Also, two similar tests may be given, the questions posed in a different manner.

IN ADDITION, many of the pupils tested are retested each year.

If there is any doubt as to whether or not a child should be put in a special class, he will be left in the regular classroom until what should be done can be better ascertained, Simal indicated.

The standard written tests and an oral test are used to measure raw intelligence. Other tests involve the recognition of forms and colors, and depth perception.

In one, a drawing of a hypothetical human is presented, and the pupil is asked to talk about what he sees. Usually he will project his own life in his imagined life of the person in the drawing.

ANOTHER DEVICE is the familiar "ink blot" test, in which a person simply describes what he sees in various shades and forms in a blot on a piece of paper, as one might imagine likenesses in the formation of clouds.

Simal will not be giving therapeutical help, referring those that need psychological therapy to resources available in the area. His job will be solely diagnostic and consultative.

He would be able to handle only six or seven cases a year as a therapist, he explained. As it is, each diagnosis alone requires a full day, three hours for the testing and longer to interpret the results.

For this reason, Elk Grove has already had Simal begin working rather than wait until the beginning of the shool year. He is to begin work in the other two school systems August 15.

UNTIL NOW the three school systems have relied on the state for psychological aid. State personnel working out of the Elgin mental health office administered the tests.

But the state service has been far from adequate, and is destined to become even more so as enrollments climb throughout the widespread area the Elgin office serves.

The state furnishes financial aid to individual school districts for classes for the educable and trainable mentally handicapped. But pupils placed in them must be first tested by a state approved psychologist to determine if they are eligible for such classes.

BACKLOGS of requests for tests by the state were piling up, and usually there were long delays before a pupil could be placed in the special class he needed. Sometimes the pupil would be forced to lose time in school.

With their own state qualified psychologist, Mount Prospect, Arlington and Elk Grove hope to properly place or aid pupils needing special help much more quickly.

Also, the state this year nearly doubled its aid to school districts hiring a psychologist, paying about a flat $6,000 of his salary.

Superintendent L. R. Murphy of Mount Prospect notes that Simal will have a "heavy load" in his new job, but it will be an improvement over what he fears would be an almost nonexistent state testing service next year.

LOCAL SCHOOL systems also have a mutual aid agreement for providing special education classes. One may provide a class for the blind, including the pupils from several school districts, and another may conduct a class for the hard of hearing.

Elk Grove is planning to add a class for the educable mentally handicapped this fall at a grade level which can be utilized by all the systems in the agreement. That is, children from one grade level may be bussed to a neighboring district for such a class, while those from the neighboring district will bus their handicapped pupils to Elk Grove for instruction at another grade level.

Both Bardwell and Murphy noted that a northwest suburban mental health clinic, as is being jointly proposed by groups in seven local communities, would probably be much help to their school systems.

Bardwell said that if such a clinic had been available, his school district might have been able to work through it in obtaining the service it has now hired on its individual initiative.

MURPHY POINTED out that the schools might well retain a diagnostic psychologist of their own, but that an area clinic could provide individual therapy not now available.

Simal was employed by the Waukegan elementary school district and the Lake county special education district last year. Previously he worked in the state office in Elgin for three years, and before that formed his own psychological examining service as well as working as a children's examiner, he related.

He received a bachelors degree from DePaul University and a masters from Roosevelt University, specializing in industrial psychology. Also, he is presently attending night classes at DePaul. (A-14

EXCLUSIVE: Report on Legislature

Simon Bares Background of Assembly

Underworld's Strength Seen

by PAUL SIMON

(During the 72d General Assembly, Rep. Simon wrote a weekly column of comment, "Springfield Sidelights," which appeared on Paddock Publications' Page of Opinion. This week he provides exclusively for our readers his frank analysis of the legislative session. — Editor)

After a few weeks of time for reflection, how does the last session of the legislature look? What were its weak points; what were its strengths?

Charles Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications, has suggested I answer these questions. In some ways this is not a pleasant task, for any honest report must deal with some obvious inadequacies in our state government.

(In some ways this request is also typical of Charles Hayes and Paddock Publications — to disturb you and make you think.)

THE SIMPLE facts of bills passed and defeated have been reported in other newspapers. I shall not try to duplicate that. Rather, let me give some overall impressions.

1. It was the most partisan session in which I have served.

This is my fourth term. During those terms there have been plenty of verbal battles, but in no session have they been as party-oriented as in this session.

In large part, this was due to the start of the session when a few Republican legislators on a Cook county Democratic payroll ended up voting for the Democratic candidate for Speaker of the House. This meant that a theoretical GOP majority was controlled by the Democratic minority. As a result, not only was the Speaker a Democrat, but the chairmen and vice chairmen of the committees were all Democrats. Obviously this did not please the Republicans.

IT MIGHT BE well to add here that the editorials denouncing the GOP members who went against their party may have had a valid base, but the real source of this trouble—and of many of the troubles which beset Illinois government—is our patronage orientation.

As long as Illinois remains one of the few states where jobs are more important than issues to political leaders of both parties, you can expect the abuses you read about occasionally in the newspapers — and many more abuses that you don't read about.

UNDER OUR present setup the taxpayer loses immediately because people are employed because of party affiliation rather than ability and in the long run all citizens lose because political parties become meaningless.

Democrats and Republicans tend to become distinguished not by their stand on the sales tax or on other issues, but simply as employment agencies, the big question being which employment agency can provide the best opportunity of getting a job.

2. The session saw the shadow of the underworld more markedly than I had seen it before, although they suffered setbacks, too.

One of the most significant remarks during the session was not printed in any newspaper to my knowledge. During debate on the bingo issue, the chief sponsor of the measure told the House: "The newspapers have said there is hoodlum influence in back of this bill. That obviously is not true, because if it were (true), it would have more votes on the board."

He made that statement as the electric score board in the House showed that bingo was overwhelmingly defeated. I am not among those who favors legalized bingo, but the tragedy of the statement by Rep. William Murphy is that he was absolutely right — newspaper reporters knew it and the members knew it. The statement was the most frank I have heard on that subject in the House, and its truth should shock the people of the state. Underworld support or opposition can mean a significant block of votes.

EVIDENCE? Unfortunately, there was plenty of it.

The pattern was clear on three measures: the proposal for a state crime commission, the proposal to outlaw the gambling-type pinball machines, and the proposal to increase the race track winnings tax.

In all three cases, the verdict went against the people of the state.

A state crime commission proposal was defeated with neither party actively supporting it; the operations of the criminal world — particularly their connections with organized politics—needs an airing, but such an airing does not appear imminent.

THE PINBALL machine for which the federal government requires a $250 gambling stamp has been involved in scandals all over the country. For the convenience of a syndicate operation, this machine records the winnings and permits you to put in several coins to up the odds.

Three county grand juries in the state have condemned these machines, but the legislature failed to outlaw them. The same interests who were concerned with the previous bills opposed an increase in the tax on race track winnings.

Interestingly, those who opposed the race track tax increase supported the sales tax increase — the tax on a loaf of bread and a pound of hamburger.

TO BALANCE that bleak picture somewhat, the same interests suffered two setbacks—one they were aware of, one they may not have been.

The defeat which they took knowingly was a measure to permit an appeal on a ruling that evidence is invalid. How interested they were in this is hard to know; they did little to fight it. Nevertheless, it is a step forward, giving prosecutors an aid in some of their efforts.

The other step forward was the adoption of a new criminal code, a bill so long that it may not have been fully comprehended by some who supported it. It will give the state a more effective tool in dealing with all types of crime.

DURING DEBATE on the "freedom of residence" legislation, a little incident took place which illustrates this same point.

I said that it seemed to me unfair that a man like Tony Acardo could have a beautiful home in River Forest while distinguished Negro legislators could not.

Immediately when I mentioned Acardo's name, a legislator got the floor and shouted "Point of order! What does Tony Acardo have to do with this? He has nothing to do with this issue and it is unfair to mention his name like this in debate." The chair ruled that I was out of order.

3. Some unusually fine legislation passed—and some bad legislation passed. Outstanding examples are in the fields of racial justice and economic justice.

Illinois finally became the last northern state to make it illegal to discriminate in employment. Interestingly, Missouri—a slave state during the Civil War—passed a stronger measure than the Illinois law this same session.

On the negative side, once again the sales tax was boosted, an increased tax on those who can least afford to pay it. Even prior to the passage of this increase, we had the worst state tax structure of any state in the union.

OTHER GOOD measures passed include a new commercial code, a series of bills tightening credit procedures, a bill to license migrant worker camps, a measure to give supervisory care to prisoners who are discharged, a bill establishing a fraud bureau in the Attorney General's office, a start toward coordinating the state universities, and measures strengthening the state's activities in the field of mental health.

Measures of doubtful value which passed included:

—Banning Sunday sales of automobiles; why the state should regulate this one commercial field only is not clear; this measure also opens some religious questions for Jews, Seventh Day Adventists, and others who do not accept Sunday as their day of rest.

—Permitting the lengthening of trucks on the highways; this means an additional hazard on the roads.

—Giving additional authority and money to the race tracks and race horse breeders; they already have too much power and money.

4. A good judicial article was passed—but revenue and reapportionment were untouched.

Thanks largely to the efforts of a former Republican legislator, Edward Saltiel, representing the Illinois Bar Association, and a Democratic legislator, Rep. Alan Dixon, in the last hours of the legislative session a proposed judicial amendment to the constitution was adopted which will go at least one step in taking our courts out of politics.

BUT CHANGES needed in our revenue system (such as the one suggested by Rep. Bernard Peskin) will have to wait for a special session, as will Congressional reapportionment. Unfortunately, neither was pushed by the committees until the final hours, when action and agreement were impossible to achieve.

5. Newspaper coverage was more aggressive and somewhat improved. However, there are still big gaps.

There was more interpretive reporting of quality in this session than any previous session in which I have served. Much of the credit for this goes to Tom Littlewood of the Chicago Sun-Times and to a newcomer to the Springfield scene who got into the water fast, Charles Nicodemus of the Chicago Daily News.

O. T. Banton, who writes for the Lindsay-Schaub newspapers in Decatur and other cities, wrote a frank piece about "money bills" in the legislature and a few weeks later, columnist Milburn Akers in the Sun-Times strongly implied that money was changing hands in Springfield and that the caliber of the legislature was not of the highest.

THIS LATTER column was followed a few days later by an editorial in the Sun-Times saying that there was more talk about bribery in Springield than in any previous session and that the Sangamon County grand jury should investigate.

While I did not hear more talk than in previous sessions, there is always some talk and any grand jury investigation would be a healthy thing, so long as innocent people are not smeared.

On the final day of the session, Rep. Noble Lee was planning to introduce a resolution encouraging a grand jury investigation. The resolution was to be cosponsored by a number of us on both sides of the aisle, but at the last minute there was disagreement among the co-sponsors on some of the language and the resolution was not introduced.

A really thorough investigation would still be a good thing; however, a white-wash would do more harm than good.

IN ANY EVENT, the newspapers generally had a wholesome effect on the legislature, with some few exceptions, such as a ridiculous Chicago Tribune editorial opposing the increase in the race track tax. Apparently someone had given them some incorrect information.

The real deficiency in newspaper coverage is that the voting of legislators is not pinpointed enough. It is fine for editorial support or opposition to a measure, but unless there is a follow-up showing how legislators—or at least area legislators—voted, the editorials will not have the impact in Springfield and on the voters they could have.

6. Finally, "economy" became a little more than a word to be used in political speeches.

A small group of us from both parties met and discussed money requests and tried to trim at least a little from what we considered unnecessary requests.

We were dubbed the "economy bloc" by our fellow legislators and the newspapers.

FOR THE most part, we were unsuccessful, but for the first time in my legislative experience we also made a little headway. Perhaps even more important than the actual savings we achieved is that we stirred up more talk about how money can be saved.

If the over-all record of the legislature does not please you—as I hope it does not—the solution is more interest on the part of citizens in who their legislators are, what their convictions are, and what they do about them.

Perhaps they need your encouragement.

Industrial Growth Centered in Suburbs

Melrose Park and Skokie industrial centers accounted for 60 per cent of the growth in suburban Cook County and 45 per cent of the new jobs in the entire suburban area from 1947 to 1959.

Industrial growth in suburban northeastern Illinois has been heavily concentrated in suburbs which had very little industry only a decade and a half ago, and which at the same time are located close to Chicago.

This pattern of "close-in" suburban industrial development is indicated in a planning information bulletin on "Growth of Suburban Manufacturing Employment, 1947-1959," issued by the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission.

GROWTH IN suburban manufacturing employment is occurring predominantly in spots which had few such employees in 1947. The older suburban industrial centers have had a rather small share in recent growth, according to the commission release.

The Planning Commission bulletin defines the older suburban industrial centers as including south Cook county, west Cook, other than Melrose Park, and five outlying industrial cities—Aurora, Elgin, Joliet, Waukegan and North Chicago.

It notes that most of these cities and sections have been adding manufacturing employees, "but their 12-year rate of growth has been less than 10 per cent, and their aggregate share of the total suburban increase has amounted to only 21 per cent.

"A consequence of this slower growth rate is that, while the older industrial areas had provided 83 per cent of all suburban manufacturing jobs in 1947, their portion had declined to 65 per cent by 1959," the bulletin finds.

THE BULLETIN observes "most of the new suburban employment is provided by small, light manufacturing plants which are predominantly metal fabricators and manufacturers of light machinery.

"Plants of this type are able to depend on highway transportation and can therefore locate on suburban sites not well served by railroads.

"On the other hand, these same plants tend to sell a large share of their products to other plants located in Chicago and this fact encourages concentration in the interests of minimizing transportation costs. The net effect has been to create light manufacturing complexes which, like the Melrose Park and Skokie developments, are both suburban and near the city."

The bulletin points out that "even after 12 years of suburban growth, only 33 per cent of northeastern Illinois' manufacturing jobs were in the suburbs, while 67 per cent were in Chicago.

A QUALIFICATION stressed in the NIMAPC bulletin is that it considers only manufacturing employment. Commercial and service jobs — which include some of the fastest-growing employment categories — are not treated.

Manufacturing jobs in suburban northeastern Illinois—the six-county metropolitan area outside Chicago — increased rather steadily from 194,000 in 1947 to 277,000 in 1959, a gain of 43 per cent.

The 12-year growth was concentrated in the close-in suburban areas. Three-quarters of the 83,000 jobs added were in suburban Cook county.

EXCLUSIVE: Report on Legislature

Simon Bares Background of Assembly

Underworld's Strength Seen

by PAUL SIMON

(During the 72d General Assembly, Rep. Simon wrote a weekly column of comment, "Springfield Sidelights," which appeared on Paddock Publications' Page of Opinion. This week he provides exclusively for our readers his frank analysis of the legislative session. — Editor)

After a few weeks of time for reflection, how does the last session of the legislature look? What were its weak points; what were its strengths?

Charles Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications, has suggested I answer these questions. In some ways this is not a pleasant task, for any honest report must deal with some obvious inadequacies in our state government.

(In some ways this request is also typical of Charles Hayes and Paddock Publications — to disturb you and make you think.)

THE SIMPLE facts of bills passed and defeated have been reported in other newspapers. I shall not try to duplicate that. Rather, let me give some overall impressions.

1. It was the most partisan session in which I have served.

This is my fourth term. During those terms there have been plenty of verbal battles, but in no session have they been as party-oriented as in this session.

In large part, this was due to the start of the session when a few Republican legislators on a Cook county Democratic payroll ended up voting for the Democratic candidate for Speaker of the House. This meant that a theoretical GOP majority was controlled by the Democratic minority. As a result, not only was the Speaker a Democrat, but the chairmen and vice chairmen of the committees were all Democrats. Obviously this did not please the Republicans.

IT MIGHT BE well to add here that the editorials denouncing the GOP members who went against their party may have had a valid base, but the real source of this trouble—and of many of the troubles which beset Illinois government—is our patronage orientation.

As long as Illinois remains one of the few states where jobs are more important than issues to political leaders of both parties, you can expect the abuses you read about occasionally in the newspapers — and many more abuses that you don't read about.

UNDER OUR present setup the taxpayer loses immediately because people are employed because of party affiliation rather than ability and in the long run all citizens lose because political parties become meaningless.

Democrats and Republicans tend to become distinguished not by their stand on the sales tax or on other issues, but simply as employment agencies, the big question being which employment agency can provide the best opportunity of getting a job.

2. The session saw the shadow of the underworld more markedly than I had seen it before, although they suffered setbacks, too.

One of the most significant remarks during the session was not printed in any newspaper to my knowledge. During debate on the bingo issue, the chief sponsor of the measure told the House: "The newspapers have said there is hoodlum influence in back of this bill. That obviously is not true, because if it were (true), it would have more votes on the board."

He made that statement as the electric score board in the House showed that bingo was overwhelmingly defeated. I am not among those who favors legalized bingo, but the tragedy of the statement by Rep. William Murphy is that he was absolutely right — newspaper reporters knew it and the members knew it. The statement was the most frank I have heard on that subject in the House, and its truth should shock the people of the state. Underworld support or opposition can mean a significant block of votes.

EVIDENCE? Unfortunately, there was plenty of it.

The pattern was clear on three measures: the proposal for a state crime commission, the proposal to outlaw the gambling-type pinball machines, and the proposal to increase the race track winnings tax.

In all three cases, the verdict went against the people of the state.

A state crime commission proposal was defeated with neither party actively supporting it; the operations of the criminal world — particularly their connections with organized politics—needs an airing, but such an airing does not appear imminent.

THE PINBALL machine for which the federal government requires a $250 gambling stamp has been involved in scandals all over the country. For the convenience of a syndicate operation, this machine records the winnings and permits you to put in several coins to up the odds.

Three county grand juries in the state have condemned these machines, but the legislature failed to outlaw them. The same interests who were concerned with the previous bills opposed an increase in the tax on race track winnings.

Interestingly, those who opposed the race track tax increase supported the sales tax increase — the tax on a loaf of bread and a pound of hamburger.

TO BALANCE that bleak picture somewhat, the same interests suffered two setbacks—one they were aware of, one they may not have been.

The defeat which they took knowingly was a measure to permit an appeal on a ruling that evidence is invalid. How interested they were in this is hard to know; they did little to fight it. Nevertheless, it is a step forward, giving prosecutors an aid in some of their efforts.

The other step forward was the adoption of a new criminal code, a bill so long that it may not have been fully comprehended by some who supported it. It will give the state a more effective tool in dealing with all types of crime.

DURING DEBATE on the "freedom of residence" legislation, a little incident took place which illustrates this same point.

I said that it seemed to me unfair that a man like Tony Acardo could have a beautiful home in River Forest while distinguished Negro legislators could not.

Immediately when I mentioned Acardo's name, a legislator got the floor and shouted "Point of order! What does Tony Acardo have to do with this? He has nothing to do with this issue and it is unfair to mention his name like this in debate." The chair ruled that I was out of order.

3. Some unusually fine legislation passed—and some bad legislation passed. Outstanding examples are in the fields of racial justice and economic justice.

Illinois finally became the last northern state to make it illegal to discriminate in employment. Interestingly, Missouri—a slave state during the Civil War—passed a stronger measure than the Illinois law this same session.

On the negative side, once again the sales tax was boosted, an increased tax on those who can least afford to pay it. Even prior to the passage of this increase, we had the worst state tax structure of any state in the union.

OTHER GOOD measures passed include a new commercial code, a series of bills tightening credit procedures, a bill to license migrant worker camps, a measure to give supervisory care to prisoners who are discharged, a bill establishing a fraud bureau in the Attorney General's office, a start toward coordinating the state universities, and measures strengthening the state's activities in the field of mental health.

Measures of doubtful value which passed included:

—Banning Sunday sales of automobiles; why the state should regulate this one commercial field only is not clear; this measure also opens some religious questions for Jews, Seventh Day Adventists, and others who do not accept Sunday as their day of rest.

—Permitting the lengthening of trucks on the highways; this means an additional hazard on the roads.

—Giving additional authority and money to the race tracks and race horse breeders; they already have too much power and money.

4. A good judicial article was passed—but revenue and reapportionment were untouched.

Thanks largely to the efforts of a former Republican legislafor, Edward Saltiel, representing the Illinois Bar Association, and a Democratic legislator, Rep. Alan Dixon, in the last hours of the legislative session a proposed judicial amendment to the constitution was adopted which will go at least one step in taking our courts out of politics.

BUT CHANGES needed in our revenue system (such as the one suggested by Rep. Bernard Peskin) will have to wait for a special session, as will Congressional reapportionment. Unfortunately, neither was pushed by the committees until the final hours, when action and agreement were impossible to achieve.

5. Newspaper coverage was more aggressive and somewhat improved. However, there are still big gaps.

There was more interpretive reporting of quality in this session than any previous session in which I have served. Much of the credit for this goes to Tom Littlewood of the Chicago Sun-Times and to a newcomer to the Springfield scene who got into the water fast, Charles Nicodemus of the Chicago Daily News.

O. T. Banton, who writes for the Lindsay-Schaub newspapers in Decatur and other cities, wrote a frank piece about "money bills" in the legislature and a few weeks later, columnist Milburn Akers in the Sun-Times strongly implied that money was changing hands in Springfield and that the caliber of the legislature was not of the highest.

THIS LATTER column was followed a few days later by an editorial in the Sun-Times saying that there was more talk about bribery in Springield than in any previous session and that the Sangamon County grand jury should investigate.

While I did not hear more talk than in previous sessions, there is always some talk and any grand jury investigation would be a healthy thing, so long as innocent people are not smeared.

On the final day of the session, Rep. Noble Lee was planning to introduce a resolution encouraging a grand jury investigation. The resolution was to be co-sponsored by a number of us on both sides of the aisle, but at the last minute there was disagreement among the co-sponsors on some of the language and the resolution was not introduced.

A really thorough investigation would still be a good thing; however, a white-wash would do more harm than good.

IN ANY EVENT, the newspapers generally had a wholesome effect on the legislature, with some few exceptions, such as a ridiculous Chicago Tribune editorial opposing the increase in the race track tax. Apparently someone had given them some incorrect information.

The real deficiency in newspaper coverage is that the voting of legislators is not pinpointed enough. It is fine for editorial support or opposition to a measure, but unless there is a follow-up showing how legislators—or at least area legislators—voted, the editorials will not have the impact in Springfield and on the voters they could have.

6. Finally, "economy" became a little more than a word to be used in political speeches.

A small group of us from both parties met and discussed money requests and tried to trim at least a little from what we considered unnecessary requests.

We were dubbed the "economy bloc" by our fellow legislators and the newspapers.

FOR THE most part, we were unsuccessful, but for the first time in my legislative experience we also made a little headway. Perhaps even more important than the actual savings we achieved is that we stirred up more talk about how money can be saved.

If the over-all record of the legislature does not please you—as I hope it does not—the solution is more interest on the part of citizens in who their legislators are, what their convictions are, and what they do about them.

Cub Scout Activity Will Bring Pleasure

Another cub scout activity that will bring pleasure to the neighborhood "small fry" is the amateur show put on by cub scouts at a school playground, park, or backyard. The best stunts, tricks, yells, songs, and costumes used during the year at indoor meetings are chosen.

At the end of August most packs will hold outdoor festivals featuring a "midway of games they can show, and invite the neighborhood children and mothers to enjoy. Puzzles and tricks learned in cub scouting activities will be shown. Visitors will be invited to guess charades and pantomines, and to join in singing favorite songs.

With the help of parents and with permission from the authorities, cub scouts will set up a dozen or so gaily-colored waist-high booths in a park. Families bring picnic lunches. Committees of parents arrange for and prepare special treats such as ice cream, strawberry shortcake, watermelon, roast corn, or baked clams, according to local traditions.

The "midway" has a series of numbered booths. Each contains a different activity or stunt that is clearly described on a poster hung behind and slightly above the booth.

The barker in charge of each. "concession" explains the stunt to the "customer," conducts the activity, and scores the results on the participants score card. These cards are obtained at the entrance and include space for the name of the participant, the number of each booth, the score, and a few general instructions.

Using a public address system, a master of ceremonies coaxes the shy ones to "try their luck."

The simple stunts which are sure to provoke mirth make up the "midway." In a beanbag toss, a contestant tosses five beanbags onto an inclined board with numbered openings and scores on the holes through which the beanbag passes.

In another, a contestant "cuts" a regular deck of playing cards three times and adds his total of the cards turned up. In another, a player tosses ten cards, one at a time, into a small basket or paper carton placed at an angle, scoring five points for each card in. Each contestant is given three "blows" to put out five lighted candles standing a few inches apart, scoring for each candle blown out.

In a shot put stunt, the player holds an empty milk bottle on his head with one hand. He picks up one bean at a time from a table and drops it into the bottle. He scores two points for each bean placed in the bottle within 30 seconds.

Using the legs of an upturned table pointing at the contestant, he tosses five rope rings from a suitable distance, scoring five for each "ringer." Others try to guess the correct number of beans or pennies in a jar, scoring according to the closeness to the actual number.

Using a regular hat rack a player is allowed five tosses of a hat from a short distance to try to "rack the hat," scoring ten points for each successful one.

Using a chain and wooden ball hanging from the top of a tripod, a player grasps the ball and releases it so that it passes a tenpin in the center of the base on the forward swing, and bowls it over on the return swing. Players get two tries and ten points for each knockdown.

In a bouncing ball game, the player is given five tennis or ping pong balls which he bounces one at a time on the floor from a distance so that it will drop into a container on a chair or in the center of a taut sheet.

Standing a few feet from a filled washtub on which is floating a small pie plate, a contestant pitches ten beans, one at a time, so that the beans remain on the floating plate, scoring ten points for each that lands safely.

The vital importance of the inspired Word of the Bible will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Truth."

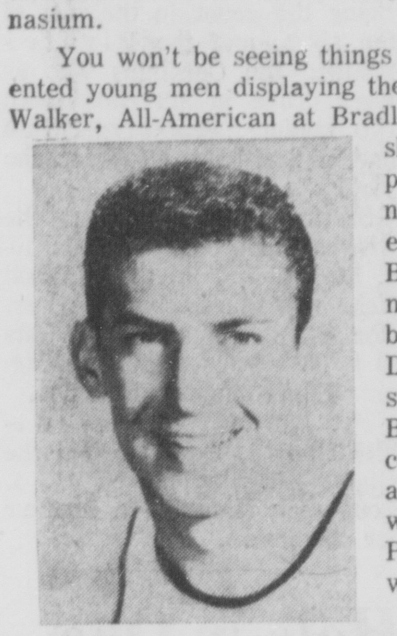
AN EIGHT-TEAM BASKETBALL tournament in July featuring some of the top collegiate performers in the country.

Sound unlikely?

Then just journey up to Chicago Heights tonight and tomorrow and take a look at the activity in the Bloom high school gymnasium.

You won't be seeing things if you witness some of these talented young men displaying their talents on the hardwood: Chet Walker, All-American at Bradley; George Wilson, former Marshall high school All-Stater and prep All-American now at Cincinnati; Jerry Colangelo, captain-elect at Illinois; "Sweet Charley" Brown, former DuSable high great now rated the No. 1 AAU basketball player in the Chicago Area; Dick Nixon, former Waukegan standout now at Marquette; Billy Burwell, 6-8 University of Illinois center; Art Schwarm, most valuable player at Michigan State last winter; M. C. Thompson of DePaul; and Ralph Wells of Northwestern.



JERRY COLANGELO

A glittering array of stars from more than 25 colleges and universities initiated action at the outset of the week in the second annual House of Charles summer basketball tournament in Bloom's South gymnasium.

Basketball fans demonstrated a year ago that they will receive the sport with as much enthusiasm out of season as they do during the winter when almost 4,000 spectators watched the four sessions. Crowds were expected to be even larger this year with the impressive lineup of players.

There will be two games tonight and tomorrow night with action opening at 7:15. The championship encounter will be staged at 8:45 Friday.

Last summer several people expressed the belief that a basketball tournament in July would never sell. They were wrong. The tourney was a big success, and everything pointed to another banner affair this week.

YOU LIKELY READ about Gardner Mulloy's sign at Wimbledon, the one he wore on his jacket? It read, "If you can't beat me, you need lessons."

Mulloy admits to 48 years of age, and some tennis followers think he's older. Regardless, he provides a note of buffoonery in a sport which all too often is considered on the stuffed shirt side.

He has a fine disdain for tennis protocol. For some reason, protocol calls for players to wear their traditional red, white, and bluesweaters the first set. One year Mulloy peeled off his sweater along with everyone else after the first st—then peeled off six more after ensuing sets.

There was the time he was playing Lew Hoad, and the Australian star smashed an overhead far into the stands. Mulloy ran after it into the bleachers, sat down and applauded the shot with the rest of the fans.

The crowd loved it and Hoad's concentration wandered. He lost his next service and Mulloy eventually upset him.

THIS WILL BE THE FINAL COLUMN for two weeks as we depart Sunday on our annual two week summer encampment with the United States Air Force (Reserve). The active duty this summer will be held at Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss.

Assistant Sports Editor Dick Gottsegen will be in charge of the sports desk and will have assistance from John Burgermeister of Arlington high school. John is editor of the Cardinal at Arlington and a member of the basketball and track squads.

Schaller is the varsity tennis coach at Arlington high school and is head of the summer tennis program for the Arlington Park District.

The clinics were conducted by leading tennis professionals from the staffs of Wilson, Dunlop, and McGregor sporting goods companies. The pros were assisted by such outstanding amateurs as Bernard "Tut" Bartzen, three-time men's singles winner of the Clay Court championship, and Charles "Chuck" McKinley, first American to reach Wimbledon finals in six years.

There were door prizes of tennis equipment and clothing donated by the sporting goods companies. Following the clinics, the group attended the matches featuring over 100 outstanding men and women amateur tennis stars from Europe, Australia, South America, Canada, and the United States, including the U. S. Davis Cup team.

Three Teams Tied for Top In Softball

The Arlington Sportsman's 16-inch softball league is rapidly becoming a three-team race as the Arlington Hustlers, Able Electric and Greens each picked up another victory during the past week.

Arlington Hustlers remained undefeated by topping the Knights 17-10. Able Electric with a barrage of home runs and extra base hits blasted Soft-Tees 35-14 and the Greens squeaked by the Village 12-10. The final contest featured the Beachcombers combing the Hasbrook Hawks 10-4.

In a make-up contest that has a great bearing on the title Able Electric managed to nip Arlington Greens 4-3 in a very tight ball game.

Local Entries Impressive in Hinsdale Meet

Arlington's entries put on an impressive showing Monday in the opening rounds of the Hinsdale Invitational tennis tournament.

Bill Thompson, Chuck Close, Jim Jakubiec, and Ricky Wollerman each won their first two rounds to give Arlington its best performance on record in any major tournament.

Rusty Walters, Steve Martin, and Bob Von Boeckmann all dropped their first round tests.

IN TWO WEEKS the Illinois State American Legion baseball championships will open at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights. General Chairman of the affair is Bill Griffith and his committee is busy with the final arrangements and planning. Pictured at a recent meeting are (seated, l. to r.) Griffith; Ken Lane, who with Lloyd Meyer of the Arlington legion team will be in charge of playing facilities; William Oas, souvenir booklet chairman; and Richard Ketza, transportation chairman. Standing, Joe Berge, game collection chairman; Billy Condy, assistant collection chairman; Don Giese, registration chairman; and William Green and Fred Hauth of the booklet committee. Missing from the picture are committee members Tom Kane, George Jorgenson, Ray Downing, and official tournament scorer Bob Setlik. The tourney will open Aug. 4 with the championship clash set for 4 p.m. Monday, Aug. 7.

Park Ridge Captures Ninth District Title

Coach Glen Van Proyen's classy crew from Park Ridge, worthy successor to Des Plaines as the Ninth District legion champion, will shoot for a bigger prize this weekend as it engages in the quarter-finals of the Cook County tournament.

The Park Ridge aggregation, author of a 13-1 standard in district outings this summer and one-game bulge over runnerup Des Plaines, will meet Jackson Park, Third District titlist, Saturday afternoon in the opener of a best-of-three series.

The two teams will square off again Sunday with a third game, if necessary, set for Monday evening. Site of the third encounter will be determined by a coin flip.

IF PARK RIDGE emerges from the quarter-finals, it will join three other clubs in a double elimination setup at the Morton West Athletic field, 26th st. and Harlem ave., in Berwyn on Thursday, July 27. The winner there will carry the hopes of Cook county in the state finals slated for Arlington's Recreation Park Aug. 4-7.

Park Ridge terminated its Ninth District campaign last week with victories over Northlake, Edison Park, and Palatine. One loss would have pushed Van Proyen's squad into a first place deadlock and necessitated a playoff.

Edison Park gave the champs a first-class scare Thursday when it battled for nine innings before falling, 3-2.

PRIOR TO the quarter-finals Saturday Park Ridge will engage in a double elimination tournament involving ninth district squads and Cicero. The loop titlist was slated to meet Arlington Tuesday in the first game. Mt. Prospect and Cicero were scheduled to tangle last night (Wednesday) with the winners of the first two tourney games battling on Thursday.

Other squads hooked up in the double elimination are Palatine, Edison Park, Des Plaines, and Northlake.

Area outfits Arlington and Mt. Prospect also terminated their regular Ninth District schedules last week. Coach Lloyd Meyer's Arlington crew, sponsored by Fernstrom's Storage and Van, routed Hoffman Estates 19-1 and bowed to Des Plaines 6-3 and finished with a 9-5 standard good for third place.

COACH GUS Holzrichter's Pro Sport Center nine of Mt. Prospect took a forfeit game from Hoffman Estates but dropped a forfeit to this same Hoffman nine and a 10-3 encounter with Des Plaines. Mt. Prospect finished with a 4-10 league mark and seventh place in the standings.

GLEN VAN PROYEN

Des Plaines capitalized on four broken-bat singles and three Arlington throwing errors for six runs in the first inning last Thursday and went on to record a 6-3 victory.

Coach Al Carstens' outfit, made up of Maine West high school performers, had little success after the first off Arlington starter John Lane but the damage had been done. Only one of Des Plaines' runs in the contest was earned.

FERNSTROM'S opened the scoring with a single run in the first thanks to the wildness of Des Plaines starter Mike Lorentz. Joe Wertheimer and Gary Spencer walked and following Ray Miller's sacrifice Denny Koeppen and Rog Lindstrom also received free passes.

That's when right hander John Reese came in to check the uprising. Reese went on to record nine strikeouts and Arlington didn't pick up its first hit of the game until the sixth.

In the sixth Fernstrom's tallied their final two runs. Miller got on via an error and Koeppen walked. Bob Hutchinson then delivered the first base hit for the locals and Ken Layden followed suit.

Week's Headliner Draws Top Field

The 21st running of the $30,000 added Equipoise Mile, one of the "big" races each summer at Arlington Park, will be staged Saturday as a feature of the fifth week of sport at the northwest suburban plant.

Since its inception in 1941 when aptly won by Equifox, a son of the immortal "Chocolate Soldier," Equipoise — the Equipoise Mile each year has turned up as thrilling a contest as Chicago patrons could get for their money.

The 1961 version should prove no exception. Jacnot Stable's Oink, the handicap champion of the midwest and in the opinion of many second only to Horse of the Year Kelso, is sure to head the Nominations roster.

PRIOR TO Saturday's $100,000 Monmouth Handicap, Oink was riding the crest of a four-race win streak, all stakes — the Citation at one mile on the dirt, the Armour Memorial at 1-1/8 miles on the main course, the Round Table at 1 1/16 miles on the turf, and the recent Stars and Stripes at 1-1/8 miles on the grass.

In the Monmouth Saturday Argentine bred Don Poggio ran through driving rain on a sloppy track and pulled away to a 3 1/4 length victory over Our Hope. Oink finished fifth.

The Equipoise is the race won three times by Calumet Farm — Sun Again, 1944; Fervent, 1948, and Bardstown, 1956. It is also the race that twice foiled the mighty Round Table, who was fifth in the 1958 Equipoise, third the following year.

INTENTIONALLY squeaked past Dunce in last year's Equipoise, streaking the mile in 1:34 2/5, fastest for the stakes series.

Veran Lea Farm's Noholme II, who came to life dramatically when he led until the final yards to finish second to Oink in the Stars and Stripes, could be the one to catch Saturday. Oink that day toted 126 pounds and again will top the weight assignments.

Mail Order, Alamode Farm's disappointment in Chicagoland after a sparkling spring campaign in New York where he won three straight added money events, may also seek Equipoise honors.

TWO CERTAIN starters are J. Graham Brown's Run for Nurse and Mrs. Mary H. Hunter's Salason, the 2-3 horses behind Oink in the Armour Memorial at Arlington.

Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Talent Show and possible Calumet Farm's Pied d'Or also could make the starting field Saturday.

Last Saturday Miss Summer Time and Dodge Me copped their respective divisions in the 22nd running of the Princess Pat Stakes for two-year-old fillies.

MISS SUMMER TIME, ridden by Robert Nono, won her second flight by a length from Cherry Laurel. Dodge Me, carrying the silks of Mrs. R. M. Chastain, 86, of San Antonio, and Jockey Eldon Coffman, had a much easier time defeating Melodie Gai by a length and a quarter in the first division.

Each division of the Princess Pat earned the winner $16,262 of the gross value of $21,887 after the split. The race originally called for $25,000 added.

Fernstrom's Nine Stuns Park Ridge In Playoff Game

Right hander Greg Beckway fanned 11 and scattered eight hits Tuesday evening as Arlington's American Legion nine, sponsored by Fernstrom Storage and Van, shocked Ninth District champ Park Ridge 5-2 in the first game of a double elimination tournament.

Coach Lloyd Meyer's aggregation, third place finisher in the title scramble this summer, had dropped two previous outings with Park Ridge, both by shutouts.

It was a different story Tuesday as the locals picked up two runs in the second and never trailed in the tourney opener. Arlington will meet the winner of last night's (Wednesday) game between Mt. Prospect and Cicero today (Thursday) at a site yet to be determined.

THE DOUBLE elimination has no bearing on the outcome of the Ninth District race but has been set up to give the squads more competition this summer. Park Ridge is the loop champion, off its 13-1 season mark, and will meet Jackson Park Saturday in the first game of the Cook County quarter-finals.

Park Ridge initiated the scoring Tuesday with a run in the first, but Arlington bounced back with two in the second off starter Ed Fersch when with two outs Skip Witt laced a double, Erv Gramit walked, and Joe Wertheimer single. Witt counted on an overthrow.

Beckway led off the third with a single and following Ross Retterer's sacrifice, Rog Lindstrom was retired on a fly to left field. However, an overthrow at second was all Fernstrom's needed and Beckway scampered home with the third run.

IN THE SIXTH Retterer walked, Lindstorm singled, and Layden singled. Combined with some more loose play in the outfield Arlington had its final two runs.

Park Ridge scored its final run in the fifth but couldn't solve the slants of Beckway in the two final stanzas.

Score by innings:

Arlington	021 002 0	5-6

Pinch Hit

During the first half of the season the Chicago White Sox hit six pinch-hit home runs. This is just one short of the American League record of seven. The mark is held jointly by New York (1937 and 1954), Cleveland (1938) and Detroit (1958). The major league record is 12 by the 1957 Cincinnati Reds.

Attend Tennis Clinic

A group of 150 Arlington Heights youngsters under the supervision of Ken Schaller, of 933 N. Patton, Arlington Heights, attended the tennis clinic at the National Clay Court championships at the River Forest tennis club yesterday (Wednesday).

Schaller is the varsity tennis coach at Arlington high school and is head of the summer tennis program for the Arlington Park District.

The clinics were conducted by leading tennis professionals from the staffs of Wilson, Dunlop, and McGregor sporting goods companies. The pros were assisted by such outstanding amateurs as Bernard "Tut" Bartzen, three-time men's singles winner of the Clay Court championship, and Charles "Chuck" McKinley, first American to reach Wimbledon finals in six years.

There were door prizes of tennis equipment and clothing donated by the sporting goods companies. Following the clinics, the group attended the matches featuring over 100 outstanding men and women amateur tennis stars from Europe, Australia, South America, Canada, and the United States, including the U. S. Davis Cup team.

Three Teams Tied for Top In Softball

The Arlington Sportsman's 16-inch softball league is rapidly becoming a three-team race as the Arlington Hustlers, Able Electric and Greens each picked up another victory during the past week.

Arlington Hustlers remained undefeated by topping the Knights 17-10. Able Electric with a barrage of home runs and extra base hits blasted Soft-Tees 35-14 and the Greens squeaked by the Village 12-10. The final contest featured the Beachcombers combing the Hasbrook Hawks 10-4.

In a make-up contest that has a great bearing on the title Able Electric managed to nip Arlington Greens 4-3 in a very tight ball game.

Park Ridge Captures Ninth District Title

Coach Glen Van Proyen's classy crew from Park Ridge, worthy successor to Des Plaines as the Ninth District legion champion, will shoot for a bigger prize this weekend as it engages in the quarter-finals of the Cook County tournament.

The Park Ridge aggregation, author of a 13-1 standard in district outings this summer and one-game bulge over runnerup Des Plaines, will meet Jackson Park, Third District titlist, Saturday afternoon in the opener of a best-of-three series.

The two teams will square off again Sunday with a third game, if necessary, set for Monday evening. Site of the third encounter will be determined by a coin flip.

IF PARK RIDGE emerges from the quarter-finals, it will join three other clubs in a double elimination setup at the Morton West Athletic field, 26th st. and Harlem ave., in Berwyn on Thursday, July 27. The winner there will carry the hopes of Cook county in the state finals slated for Arlington's Recreation Park Aug. 4-7.

Park Ridge terminated its Ninth District campaign last week with victories over Northlake, Edison Park, and Palatine. One loss would have pushed Van Proyen's squad into a first place deadlock and necessitated a playoff.

Edison Park gave the champs a first-class scare Thursday when it battled for nine innings before falling, 3-2.

PRIOR TO the quarter-finals Saturday Park Ridge will engage in a double elimination tournament involving ninth district squads and Cicero. The loop titlist was slated to meet Arlington Tuesday in the first game. Mt. Prospect and Cicero were scheduled to tangle last night (Wednesday) with the winners of the first two tourney games battling on Thursday.

Other squads hooked up in the double elimination are Palatine, Edison Park, Des Plaines, and Northlake.

Area outfits Arlington and Mt. Prospect also terminated their regular Ninth District schedules last week. Coach Lloyd Meyer's Arlington crew, sponsored by Fernstrom's Storage and Van, routed Hoffman Estates 19-1 and bowed to Des Plaines 6-3 and finished with a 9-5 standard good for third place.

COACH GUS Holzrichter's Pro Sport Center nine of Mt. Prospect took a forfeit game from Hoffman Estates but dropped a forfeit to this same Hoffman nine and a 10-3 encounter with Des Plaines. Mt. Prospect finished with a 4-10 league mark and seventh place in the standings.

GLEN VAN PROYEN

Des Plaines capitalized on four broken-bat singles and three Arlington throwing errors for six runs in the first inning last Thursday and went on to record a 6-3 victory.

Coach Al Carstens' outfit, made up of Maine West high school performers, had little success after the first off Arlington starter John Lane but the damage had been done. Only one of Des Plaines' runs in the contest was earned.

FERNSTROM'S opened the scoring with a single run in the first thanks to the wildness of Des Plaines starter Mike Lorentz. Joe Wertheimer and Gary Spencer walked and following Ray Miller's sacrifice Denny Koeppen and Rog Lindstrom also received free passes.

That's when right hander John Reese came in to check the uprising. Reese went on to record nine strikeouts and Arlington didn't pick up its first hit of the game until the sixth.

In the sixth Fernstrom's tallied their final two runs. Miller got on via an error and Koeppen walked. Bob Hutchinson then delivered the first base hit for the locals and Ken Layden followed suit.

Week's Headliner Draws Top Field

The 21st running of the $30,000 added Equipoise Mile, one of the "big" races each summer at Arlington Park, will be staged Saturday as a feature of the fifth week of sport at the northwest suburban plant.

Since its inception in 1941 when aptly won by Equifox, a son of the immortal "Chocolate Soldier," Equipoise — the Equipoise Mile each year has turned up as thrilling a contest as Chicago patrons could get for their money.

The 1961 version should prove no exception. Jacnot Stable's Oink, the handicap champion of the midwest and in the opinion of many second only to Horse of the Year Kelso, is sure to head the Nominations roster.

PRIOR TO Saturday's $100,000 Monmouth Handicap, Oink was riding the crest of a four-race win streak, all stakes — the Citation at one mile on the dirt, the Armour Memorial at 1-1/8 miles on the main course, the Round Table at 1 1/16 miles on the turf, and the recent Stars and Stripes at 1-1/8 miles on the grass.

In the Monmouth Saturday Argentine bred Don Poggio ran through driving rain on a sloppy track and pulled away to a 3 1/4 length victory over Our Hope. Oink finished fifth.

The Equipoise is the race won three times by Calumet Farm — Sun Again, 1944; Fervent, 1948, and Bardstown, 1956. It is also the race that twice foiled the mighty Round Table, who was fifth in the 1958 Equipoise, third the following year.

INTENTIONALLY squeaked past Dunce in last year's Equipoise, streaking the mile in 1:34 2/5, fastest for the stakes series.

Veran Lea Farm's Noholme II, who came to life dramatically when he led until the final yards to finish second to Oink in the Stars and Stripes, could be the one to catch Saturday. Oink that day toted 126 pounds and again will top the weight assignments.

Mail Order, Alamode Farm's disappointment in Chicagoland after a sparkling spring campaign in New York where he won three straight added money events, may also seek Equipoise honors.

TWO CERTAIN starters are J. Graham Brown's Run for Nurse and Mrs. Mary H. Hunter's Salason, the 2-3 horses behind Oink in the Armour Memorial at Arlington.

Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Talent Show and possible Calumet Farm's Pied d'Or also could make the starting field Saturday.

Last Saturday Miss Summer Time and Dodge Me copped their respective divisions in the 22nd running of the Princess Pat Stakes for two-year-old fillies.

MISS SUMMER TIME, ridden by Robert Nono, won her second flight by a length from Cherry Laurel. Dodge Me, carrying the silks of Mrs. R. M. Chastain, 86, of San Antonio, and Jockey Eldon Coffman, had a much easier time defeating Melodie Gai by a length and a quarter in the first division.

Each division of the Princess Pat earned the winner $16,262 of the gross value of $21,887 after the split. The race originally called for $25,000 added.

Fernstrom's Nine Stuns Park Ridge In Playoff Game

Right hander Greg Beckway fanned 11 and scattered eight hits Tuesday evening as Arlington's American Legion nine, sponsored by Fernstrom Storage and Van, shocked Ninth District champ Park Ridge 5-2 in the first game of a double elimination tournament.

Coach Lloyd Meyer's aggregation, third place finisher in the title scramble this summer, had dropped two previous outings with Park Ridge, both by shutouts.

It was a different story Tuesday as the locals picked up two runs in the second and never trailed in the tourney opener. Arlington will meet the winner of last night's (Wednesday) game between Mt. Prospect and Cicero today (Thursday) at a site yet to be determined.

THE DOUBLE elimination has no bearing on the outcome of the Ninth District race but has been set up to give the squads more competition this summer. Park Ridge is the loop champion, off its 13-1 season mark, and will meet Jackson Park Saturday in the first game of the Cook County quarter-finals.

Park Ridge initiated the scoring Tuesday with a run in the first, but Arlington bounced back with two in the second off starter Ed Fersch when with two outs Skip Witt laced a double, Erv Gramit walked, and Joe Wertheimer single. Witt counted on an overthrow.

Beckway led off the third with a single and following Ross Retterer's sacrifice, Rog Lindstrom was retired on a fly to left field. However, an overthrow at second was all Fernstrom's needed and Beckway scampered home with the third run.

IN THE SIXTH Retterer walked, Lindstorm singled, and Layden singled. Combined with some more loose play in the outfield Arlington had its final two runs.

Park Ridge scored its final run in the fifth but couldn't solve the slants of Beckway in the two final stanzas.

Score by innings:

Arlington	021 002 0	5-6

Pinch Hit

During the first half of the season the Chicago White Sox hit six pinch-hit home runs. This is just one short of the American League record of seven. The mark is held jointly by New York (1937 and 1954), Cleveland (1938) and Detroit (1958). The major league record is 12 by the 1957 Cincinnati Reds.

WE READ AN ARTICLE RECENTLY which pointed out that research of a well-known seating company proved that the seating space needed for the average American to sit at a baseball or football game is four inches more than a century ago and three inches more than in 1923 when Yankee stadium was constructed in New York. This may mean that real seating capacity of ball parks and stadiums is decreasing. You might conclude that Americans sit down too much and are overweight. Medical research will probably bear this out. More likely the fact is that Americans want to be comfortable while watching a sports event and in this day and age object to sitting in too cramped quarters. Probably the owners of stadiums and ball parks years ago marked off the stands with seats too narrow in an effort to get the maximum of paid admissions. Certainly the space marked off for each ticket holder at Soldiers Field in Chicago is too tight a fit for comfort for the average adult and this stadium is of the era of the nineteen twenties.

ADMIRAL RICKOVER HAS SUGGESTED that special colleges be established where boys would do nothing but play football and baseball and other institutions be relieved of these activities which he seems to think detract from the education of scientists and engineers. He feels that it is not the function of any educational institution to provide entertainment for grownups. We would agree with this last statement and when athletics either at the high school or college level becomes big business with the dollar sign dictating the real function of sports activities is being lost. However, most educational institutions need a varied program and need some variety in the type of abilities represented in the student body and we cannot see how athletic activities detract from science and engineering if a fair job of career counseling is carried on. We doubt if many big time college athletes would become scientists and engineers through eliminating sports from the campus.

It is likely that they would just become pros that much sooner in some cases and in others (the majority of cases) the young men would lose values to be gained through sports competition. As far as colleges providing entertainment for adults we would consider the fact that the most entertainment except for big time football is for the student body. Sports have a lot to do with promotion of school spirit. We doubt that Rickover's suggestion by which we could win the cold war might become just the weakness in our society by which we would lose the real combat with Communism which day by day seems to appear more inevitable in our time.

Mount Prospect's Swimmers Humble Lombard Outfit

The Mount Prospect swimming team was far from hospitable Wednesday evening, July 12, when it hosted Lombard for its second Northern Illinois Swimming conference meet. The home team treated spectators to a rout which ended with a final score of 302 for M. P. and 89 for Lombard.

The team members found out that extra work in the weak spots paid off when Mount Prospect won every butterfly event, all but one backstroke race, and nine of the ten relays. In our traditionally stronger events, the free style and the breaststroke, Lombard took only one of the former and two of the latter. The outstanding age group was the 9 and 10-year-olds who pulled a first and second in every attempt.

Twenty-four different people split M. P.'s thirty-six individual first places while several more contributed in the relays. Pam DeMent, Holly Wieber, and Ian Wilson won three blue ribbons each, while Rene DeMent, Sandy Dodds, Kathy Farleigh, Karen King, Bill Reising, and Earle Smith each accounted for two more. Bringing in single crowns were Karen Ages, Don Averill, Cathy Barale, Fred Brereton, Jeff Cassel, Mary Lou Haenisch, Dan Jilek, Steve Johnsen, Rosie Kovacs, Richard Mottweiler, Jim Rasmussen, Steve Reiser, Joyce Rezney, Cliff Stock, and Bob Wilson.

Last night Mount Prospect traveled to Arlington for another conference meet. Saturday and Sunday will be spent at California Park for the Tribune meet. Next Wednesday the team will return home to entertain Broadview.

Mac Says

G. A. McELROY

WE READ AN ARTICLE RECENTLY which pointed out that research of a well-known seating company proved that the seating space needed for the average American to sit at a baseball or football game is four inches more than a century ago and three inches more than in 1923 when Yankee stadium was constructed in New York. This may mean that real seating capacity of ball parks and stadiums is decreasing. You might conclude that Americans sit down too much and are overweight. Medical research will probably bear this out. More likely the fact is that Americans want to be comfortable while watching a sports event and in this day and age object to sitting in too cramped quarters. Probably the owners of stadiums and ball parks years ago marked off the stands with seats too narrow in an effort to get the maximum of paid admissions. Certainly the space marked off for each ticket holder at Soldiers Field in Chicago is too tight a fit for comfort for the average adult and this stadium is of the era of the nineteen twenties.

ADMIRAL RICKOVER HAS SUGGESTED that special colleges be established where boys would do nothing but play football and baseball and other institutions be relieved of these activities which he seems to think detract from the education of scientists and engineers. He feels that it is not the function of any educational institution to provide entertainment for grownups. We would agree with this last statement and when athletics either at the high school or college level becomes big business with the dollar sign dictating the real function of sports activities is being lost. However, most educational institutions need a varied program and need some variety in the type of abilities represented in the student body and we cannot see how athletic activities detract from science and engineering if a fair job of career counseling is carried on. We doubt if many big time college athletes would become scientists and engineers through eliminating sports from the campus.

It is likely that they would just become pros that much sooner in some cases and in others (the majority of cases) the young men would lose values to be gained through sports competition. As far as colleges providing entertainment for adults we would consider the fact that the most entertainment except for big time football is for the student body. Sports have a lot to do with promotion of school spirit. We doubt that Rickover's suggestion by which we could win the cold war might become just the weakness in our society by which we would lose the real combat with Communism which day by day seems to appear more inevitable in our time.

Mount Prospect's Swimmers Humble Lombard Outfit

The Mount Prospect swimming team was far from hospitable Wednesday evening, July 12, when it hosted Lombard for its second Northern Illinois Swimming conference meet. The home team treated spectators to a rout which ended with a final score of 302 for M. P. and 89 for Lombard.

The team members found out that extra work in the weak spots paid off when Mount Prospect won every butterfly event, all but one backstroke race, and nine of the ten relays. In our traditionally stronger events, the free style and the breaststroke, Lombard took only one of the former and two of the latter. The outstanding age group was the 9 and 10-year-olds who pulled a first and second in every attempt.

Twenty-four different people split M. P.'s thirty-six individual first places while several more contributed in the relays. Pam DeMent, Holly Wieber, and Ian Wilson won three blue ribbons each, while Rene DeMent, Sandy Dodds, Kathy Farleigh, Karen King, Bill Reising, and Earle Smith each accounted for two more. Bringing in single crowns were Karen Ages, Don Averill, Cathy Barale, Fred Brereton, Jeff Cassel, Mary Lou Haenisch, Dan Jilek, Steve Johnsen, Rosie Kovacs, Richard Mottweiler, Jim Rasmussen, Steve Reiser, Joyce Rezney, Cliff Stock, and Bob Wilson.

Last night Mount Prospect traveled to Arlington for another conference meet. Saturday and Sunday will be spent at California Park for the Tribune meet. Next Wednesday the team will return home to entertain Broadview.

Arlington's Swimmers in League Win

The Arlington Heights Park District Swimming Team remained undefeated in Northern Illinois conference competition by edging Broadview last Saturday morning. The Arlington swimmers splashed to a 218-189 victory over their hosts, newcomers to the conference this season.

After the first event, Arlington surged ahead 8-1, and never relinquished the lead. Throughout the backstroke events, in which the Arlington swimmers do not seem to excell, Broadview threatened. They further narrowed the visitors' margin during the breaststroke races, trailing once by only one point. But Arlington managed a split in the butterfly events, and won six of the ten relays to assure victory.

The only triple winner in individual events for Arlington was 12-year-old backstroke standout, Bill Nendel. Bill won his specialty, then returned to win freestyle, butterfly and anchor a victorious relay. Double winners for Arlington were Margurite Dalton, 15 and 16 breaststroke, and Rodolfo Roca, 17 and over freestyle and butterfly.

ONCE AGAIN Arlington was able to exhibit depth as well as strength, as over 70 swimmers and divers saw action at Broadview. Other Arlington swimmers winning first places in individual events included Hugh Wessler, Bonnie Luster, Sue Brosseit, Mary Alice Brophy, Patty Wollerman, Sue Crawford, Carol Spomer, Nancy Crawford, Kathy Nitch, Tom Sayre, Cathy Dalton, Pat Kiveland, and Bill Sayre.

Northern Illinois conference rules allow a swimmer to compete above his regular age group, and this ruling resulted in an unusual situation last Saturday morning. Sue Crawford, 15, moved up to represent Arlington in the 17 and over girls breaststroke. There was still a slot open for an Arlington swimmer in the 100 yard event, and another Crawford indicated an interest in swimming; Nancy, age 10. She was entered.

Sue won the breaststroke race easily, finishing a full 10 seconds ahead of her nearest competitor, Nancy. The younger Crawford further outdistanced both Broadview entrants, finishing the 100 yards 11 seconds ahead of one, and 37 seconds ahead of the other.

The Arlington team returned home last night for conference meet with Mt. Prospect. They travel to Glen Ellyn on Saturday for a quadrangular with West Chicago, Wheaton, and Glen Ellyn. Preliminaries Saturday will begin at 9:00 a.m.

THE CARDINALS won their first game of the season with a come-from-behind 8-5 win over the Merchants. Big blow of a seven-run sixth was Jimmy Meier's grand-slam homer. Jerry Werderitch picked up the win and Tim Byrnes also had a home run.

Collecting 19 safeties, the Cardinals rolled past the Orioles 20-7. Pat Dougherty had a grand-slam homer in the third, and Werderitch had two more four-baggers. Meier and John Steinmiller also had four-baggers.

In the American division the White Sox posted a 7-4 win over the Senators as Don Hammer bested Tom Clements.

THE GIANTS rolled to a 19-13 victory over the Knights to assure a second place finish. Ron Wold was the winning pitcher and Dane Hartley turned in a two-hit relief job. Mark Goldstein and Mark Johnson both continued their hitting streaks and Mike Sennett had three straight hits for the winners. Dave Erickson and Owen MacBride contributed homers.

The Red Sox finished a perfect season in the American B Minors with two wins over the Giants and Senators. Jim Carroll picked up the win against the Giants and Steve Boll topped the Senators.

Carroll pitched the first three innings in the former game, allowing five hits and three runs, and Steve Schmidt finished up. Ted Passarelli sparked the Red Sox in the 13-3 victory with a bases empty homer and two singles.

Boll, Schmidt, and Carroll combined to pitch the Red Sox to a 15-7 win over the Senators. Ed Giuntini paced the winners with a homer and three singles. Boll slapped a triple and Bill Layden got a double. Joyce had a home for the Senators.

Yanks Bump Cubs From First Place

The inspired Yankees, settled in last place, shocked the Cubs last Thursday 5-3 and enabled the Indians to take over undisputed first place in the Rolling Meadows Little League.

Boasting an 8-2 record, the Indians own a full game lead over the runnerup Cubs and two game bulge over the third place Sox.

Pawalek picked up his first win of the year in pitching the Yanks to their impressive victory. Ed Corey was tagged with the loss. Mark Krammer of the Cubs and Rick Traub of the Yankees each had two hits.

AN 18-HIT attack carried the Sox to a convincing 16-2 victory over the Yankees. Wisniewski was the winning pitcher and McAvoy the loser.

Harris and J. Byrnes each had three hits and Ron Mesko drove in three runs for the winners.

The Indians crushed the Braves 12-2 with Jim Bejrowski picking up his third straight win, Jim fanned 15 and allowed only two hits. Tom Kelly had a homer for the Indians.

JACK BYRNES and Harris tossed a neat two-hitter as the Sox blanked the Cards 3-0. Harris came on in relief in the fifth. Rossi was the loser.

The Mom's Day triple-header on Sunday found the accent on high scoring as the Cards crushed the braves 26-10 with Mike Valentine contributing two homers. Bianca and Lavigne had solo swats for the winners.

Valentine collected four hits, good for six RBIs during the afternoon while teammate Lavigne had three hits and five runs batted in and John Caltagirone three safeties and three RBIs. Caltagirone won his second game without a loss and Knudson was the loser.

THE INDIANS put together a 19-hit attack in the second game to crush the Yankees 30-0 in the highest scoring game of the season. Gaddini won his first contest of the season. Bejrowski collected four hits which included a round-tripper and nine runs batted in.

With Mark Krammer striking out 15 and winning his third game without a loss, the Cubs trounced the Sox 7-0. Rick Dwyer and Jeff Jacoby blasted homers for the winners with R. Dwyer driving in three runs. Bob Scholle contributed two hits for the winning Cubs.

Paddock Tourney

1960 Champ Settled in Loop Cellar

They'll be crowning a new champ in the 1961 Paddock Publications Inter-League handicap golf tournament.

Last summer's titlist, Morton Pontiac of the Tuesday division at Mt. Prospect, is having its troubles escaping the cellar this year and is currently settled 20 points behind the pace-setters from Kersting's Garden Center.

In picking off the 1960 championship Morton Pontiac came home with a 281 and 18-stroke margin over runnerup Team 3 from the Pure Oil men's division.

ELSEWHERE in the various twilight leagues, there are some terrific battles shaping up. On August 5 first place teams of local divisions will be eligible for the tournament August 20 at Nordic Hills golf club.

It's the exception rather than the rule this summer when a team runs away with the civision championship. Spooner Engineering holds a comfortable 12-point margin in the No. loop of the St. Raymond's competition but only 3½ markers separate the top two units in the No. 2 league.

Little John's Butter Bakery is showing its strength in the Roselle Men's division with a 10½ point margin over runnerup Roselle State Bank but that isn't a safe lead even with only two weeks to play.

A REAL DOG-FIGHT is underway in the Arlington twilight division with six points separating the top seven teams. City Welding holds the upperhand right now but Lauterburg and Oehler and Arlington Structural Steel are tied for second only a point behind.

Six points separate the top three units in the Mt. Prospect Monday loop and 2½ markers are the difference between the first and third place squads in the Mt. Prospect Tuesday. It was the latter group that produced Paddock's 1960 champ.

The Sneads hold a 3½ point bulge over runnerup Burkes in the Arlington VFW division.

ONLY THE first place teams of local twilight leagues are eligible for the tournament. In event of ties August 5 in any of the loops, league officials will have to determine which foursome represents the league.

Twilight loops eligible include leagues in former tournaments plus newly-formed divisions with at least half of their membership residing within the direct area served by Paddock Publications.

To Offer Free Instruction at New Hoffman Lanes

Free bowling instructions will be regularly scheduled at Hoffman Lanes, the recreation-bowling center currently under construction at Higgins and Roselle rds.

Leslie Zikes, manager of the new lanes, announced that the building will be completed about August 20 and that the free lessons will be available soon after the Grand Opening.

"We plan to have an instructor on duty every day," he said, "with free lessons from 10:00 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 4 p.m.

"WE WILL have an accredited bowling instructor—a graduate of the Brunswick Bowling Instructors' School on the job."

Free instructions will be given in groups of approximately 15 to 20, Zikes said, and classes will be divided according to the abilities and progress of the individual.

Wherever necessary, personal attention will be given to the individual bowler, with particular emphasis on his or her own limitations and skills, Zikes added.

After they have completed the free instructions course, those interested can be assigned to league play. The present schedule calls for league activities to start on September 5, and individual or team reservations may currently be made by calling LA 9-1500.

Chicago White Sox outfielders Al Smith and Jim Landis have already exceeded their entire 1960 home run output and are threatening their individual one-season records. After the club's first 89 games this year, Smith had hit 20 home runs as compared to only 12 in 1960. "Smittie" hit 22 in 1955 for his all-time high. After 89 games this year Landis had hit 12 as compared to his 1960 total of 10. Jim's lifetime major league high is 15 home runs in 1958.

Seven Games Played In Softball Loops

Seven contests were played in the Arlington Recreation 12-inch softball program during the past week. The midget boys, senior boys, and girls each played one contest and the intermediate boys played four.

In the girls action the Virginia Terrace Tigers fought back to a thrilling 16-15 victory over the Sockers from Recreation Park after trailing 12-0 at the end of three innings.

A nine-run sixth inning highlighted the rally which was a complete team effort. Linda Koeppl delivered the big hit, a double which drove in the winning runs. Mary Wille and Kathy Jaquet each added three hits for the winners.

KERRY LLOYD became the big hero for the Terrace as a relief pitcher in the seventh inning. The Sockers had battled to load the bases with no one out when the red-headed Miss Lloyd came on to pitch. She retired the first batter on strikes and then made a sparkling unassisted double play to personally retire the side and end the game.

Susan Rogers, June Gilmore and Sharon Hicks contributed two hits each to the Recreation offense while Claudia Leet and Jeanne Zizlavsky turned in sparkling plays in the field.

The boys midget softball team of Recreation Park rallied with four runs in the top of the seventh inning to squeeze by Hasbrook Park 7-5. After scoring three runs in the first inning Recreation was shut out by a neat relief pitching job by Ron Nelson until the final inning.

DAN GOREY and John Lutsch delivered key hits in both scoring efforts by Recreation and Terry Traina also connected in the seventh.

A lead-off blast by Jim Enright and a double by Tom Hartry were the big hits in Hasbrook's fourth inning when they pushed across all five runs to take a temporary lead in a very tight ball game.

In a senior game (boys 13 to 16), Virginia Terrace, behind John Arnold's two hit pitching, blasted Arlington Greens 11-0. Dave Holst and Earl Stout picked up the Greens only two hits as they could never start an offensive threat against Arnold. A three-run homer by Mike Frase gave Arnold all the runs he needed in the first inning. Frase added two singles and other big blasts were a triple by Dick Namovitz and a double by Jim Vidt.

The key game in the boys intermediate league saw the Pioneer Bombers defeat Dryden Park 7-0 to remain undefeated.

MIKE WADZITA, Bomber hurler, allowed three scratch hits with Paul Gustitus, Dryden first baseman, collecting two. Tom Hall picked up the third hit and played fine defensively. The Pioneer infield composed of Jim Welton, Dave Gorman, Jim Bashleben and Frank DeRosa played excellent defensive ball and Mike Wadzita with two home runs and Jim Welton with one round-tripper supplied the offensive punch.

Arlington Greens picked up their second win to move into third place in league standings by topping Hasbrook Park 15-1 With Marty Lewandowski pitching shutout ball until the seventh inning and ably supported by a 14-hit attack the Greens coasted to their victory. Jim Wittington supplied the big blows with a triple and home run while Al Kramer added three hits and Dave Moss a bases loaded single to drive in two runs.

Eric Stein homered in the seventh for Hasbrook's tally and Tim Brown singled twice to complete their hitting for the day. Brown's single in the fifth broke up a potential no-hit game.

THE INTERMEDIATE boys from Virginia Terrace scored their first league victory in a decisive manner, defeating the High School 16-0. A three run homer by Mickey Allen in the first inning supplied all the runs needed as Jim Keane pitched a two-hit shutout.

John Blumquist added a two-run homer and Rich Hula a triple and single to the Virginia attack. Cary Armen and Ron Duenn picked up base hits for the High School while Phil Abbott sparkled defensively.

The Recreation "Wildcats," the boys 9-13 softball team, broke a 3-3 tie with the High School park team, with a five run outburst in the bottom of the sixth to defeat the High schoolers last Tuesday 8-3.

THE TROUBLE started after two were out for Craig Oste, the pitcher for the high school, with a combination of a few walks and some timely hitting on the part of Ron Weege, the Wildcat short stop, and Gary Kehe, third baseman.

The high school team jumped off to an early lead by getting two runs in the first and another in the third, behind the big bats of Bill Von Boeckmann and Gary Ames.

Recreation picked up two in the second, one in the third tying the game till the sixth when they exploded for the five runs.

Prize Prospect

The Chicago White Sox have a prize pitching prospect in the Pacific Coast League. He is 23-year-old Joel Horlen, who has the best earned run mark in the league. Horlen is two years out of Oklahoma State University. In winning 6 of his first 10 games he pitched seven complete games.

Milwaukee Driver in Feature Win

"Rapid" Robert Ratajczyk stormed to his first feature win of the season in taking the 25-lap main event for the modified stocks before the season's largest crowd of 3,450 Sunday night at the Waukegan Speedway.

The Milwaukee driver who was among the top ten point leaders after the 1960 season averaged 49.15 m.p.h. in taking the victory by less than a car's length over Greg Kieger, a fellow Milwaukeean and track champion at Waukegan last year.

Ratajczyk, who had been black-flagged while leading the fourth heat event, took advantage of a near front starting position and a multiple pile-up that took other top favorites out of the running. On the second lap, Gary Sheldon, Beloit, spun out and was clobbered by Jim Bozemann, Zion, and George Bellegante, Winthrop Harbor. The three sat in the middle of the backstretch for the rest of the race. Involved in the mishap were Bill Strom, and the evening's fastest qualifier, Bob Karry, putting them both out of the contention.

KARRY HAD averaged 50.28 mph in qualifying and then came from the rear of a 12-car field to take the fourth ten lap heat event at an average speed of 49.34 mph. Karry took the lead on the ninth lap from another favorite, Jack Radtke, who finished right on Karry's bumper, after leading from the fourth lap when Ratajczyk was pulled off because of sparks and smoke spewing from his machine.

Jim Flajter, Milwaukee, was knocked unconscious in the first heat when his car hit the concrete retaining wall and sailed down the main chute and into the turn completely out of control. The race was stopped and Flajter removed from his machine where his injuries were determined as not serious and hospitalization was not required.

Swede Erickson, Gurnee, came through a multi-car pile-up which completely blocked the south turn, requiring a restart, to take the 15 lap semi-feature averaging 47.32 mph.

THE AMATEUR drivers were all out in full force once again and two races were staged, both a 6-lap heat and 12-lap feature. Ed Jones averaged 42.68 mph to take the win about a half lap ahead of Wayne Schiller of Kenosha who led earlier in the event. A little over half of the starters (25 strong) managed to complete the event, with several machines seriously damaged.

The highlight of the evening was the season's first Demolition Derby in which strictly stock autos were deliberately demolished by the dare-devil drivers. Jerry Michaels of Winthrop Harbor won the event.

NEXT SUNDAY, July 23, the speedway will present its eleventh consecutive Sunday night program of modified and amateur stock car racing. In addition to the regular schedule of events, track manager Mike Kaishian has announced the running of that ever popular Miller Brothers race. The event was staged twice last year to the fun and amusement of all as six brothers race for the checkered flag with no holds barred. Anything goes and usually does.

The winner last year didn't even get to carry the flag around the track before one of his brothers knocked him out of the running. The event winds up as a wholesale demolition race, using the entire track, when the Miller brothers of Gurnee, get behind the wheels.

Time trials start at 7:15 with racing getting under way at 8:30 p.m. The speedway is located on West Washington street, just west of Waukegan.

Malchaski Prepares For PGA Tourney

In 1955, Jack Fleck, a virtual unknown, shocked the experts when he upset Ben Hogan in an 18-hole playoff to capture the United States Golf association Open title.

In 1956, Mike Fetchick, another unknown, knocked off such noted performers as Jay Hebert, Doug Ford and Don January in a four-cornered post-tourney playoff for the Western Open crown.

And in 1961, a young man from Missouri will be among those aspiring to write the "cinderella story" of next week's 43rd annual PGA championship at Olympia Fields country club, Olympia Fields, Ill.

PGA HOPEFUL CHUCK MALCHASKI

CHUCK MALCHASKI, the 32-year-old pro at Brookwood country club, along with the greatest names in golf today will tee off next Thursday on Olympia Fields' exacting North Course.

Play will continue through Sunday (July 30) with field reductions slated at the completion of 36 and 54 holes.

Malchaski earned a berth in the PGA on the strength of qualifying rounds of 70 and 77 in Illinois competition. Other Illinois entrants include Bob Harris of Sunset Ridge, Tony Holguin of Midlothian, Sam Bernardi of Indian Hill, Dick Hart of Hinsdale, George Keyes of Tam O'Shanter, Felice Torza of Aurora and Joe Zelazny of Briarwood.

NOW IN HIS eighth year at the Addison rd. club, Malchaski is not a newcomer to the pro circuit. As a matter of fact, this will be his second PGA.

He previously competed in the '59 meet at Minneapolis won by Bob Rosberg. Malchaski's 36 hole total of 151 missed surviving the initial cut by a single stroke.

Chuck was on nand at the finish earlier this year when Gene Littler captured the National Open at Oakland Hills country club in suburban Birmingham, Mich. His 24-over-par ranked 51st in the final ratings.

THE PERSONABLE Missourian has toured the pro circuit for four of the past five winters and placed as high as tenth in both the Pensacola and St. Petersburg Opens of 1956.

He has collected several Illinois professional prizes including the state PGA crown in '58. He also placed second at the Illinois PGA of '57 and third at the Illinois Opens of '57 and '59.

Chuck came to Brookwood from San Mateo country club in San Francisco, Calif., where he served as assistant pro and became head pro at the Addison club in 1956.

IT WAS AT San Mateo that Malchaski carded his best round, a sizzling 61. He has additionally equaled the Brookwood club record of 66 on several occasions.

Born in Grandin, Mo., Chuck moved to San Francisco with his family at the age of eight. He learned his golf as a caddy at San Francisco's California country club and first earned a name for himself as the number one man on South San Francisco high's crack links squad.

While serving in the U. S. Army, Malchaski captured the Sixth Army crown.

CHUCK AND his wife, Elsie, live on the Brookwood premises with their four-month-old daughter, Barbara Ann.

1961 has been a good year for Malchaski. He and his assistant, Dennis Idan, captured the state Pro-Assistant at Edgewood Valley.

He qualified for the National Open as well as the PGA and he recently carded a torrid 68 at a tourney at Forest Hills in Rockford.

Malchaski doesn't figure to win the PGA but, well, you just never know.

Seven Games Played In Softball Loops

Seven contests were played in the Arlington Recreation 12-inch softball program during the past week. The midget boys, senior boys, and girls each played one contest and the intermediate boys played four.

In the girls action the Virginia Terrace Tigers fought back to a thrilling 16-15 victory over the Sockers from Recreation Park after trailing 12-0 at the end of three innings.

A nine-run sixth inning highlighted the rally which was a complete team effort. Linda Koeppl delivered the big hit, a double which drove in the winning runs. Mary Wille and Kathy Jaquet each added three hits for the winners.

KERRY LLOYD became the big hero for the Terrace as a relief pitcher in the seventh inning. The Sockers had battled to load the bases with no one out when the red-headed Miss Lloyd came on to pitch. She retired the first batter on strikes and then made a sparkling unassisted double play to personally retire the side and end the game.

Susan Rogers, June Gilmore and Sharon Hicks contributed two hits each to the Recreation offense while Claudia Leet and Jeanne Zizlavsky turned in sparkling plays in the field.

The boys midget softball team of Recreation Park rallied with four runs in the top of the seventh inning to squeeze by Hasbrook Park 7-5. After scoring three runs in the first inning Recreation was shut out by a neat relief pitching job by Ron Nelson until the final inning.

DAN GOREY and John Lutsch delivered key hits in both scoring efforts by Recreation and Terry Traina also connected in the seventh.

A lead-off blast by Jim Enright and a double by Tom Hartry were the big hits in Hasbrook's fourth inning when they pushed across all five runs to take a temporary lead in a very tight ball game.

In a senior game (boys 13 to 16), Virginia Terrace, behind John Arnold's two hit pitching, blasted Arlington Greens 11-0. Dave Holst and Earl Stout picked up the Greens only two hits as they could never start an offensive threat against Arnold. A three-run homer by Mike Frase gave Arnold all the runs he needed in the first inning. Frase added two singles and other big blasts were a triple by Dick Namovitz and a double by Jim Vidt.

The key game in the boys intermediate league saw the Pioneer Bombers defeat Dryden Park 7-0 to remain undefeated.

MIKE WADZITA, Bomber hurler, allowed three scratch hits with Paul Gustitus, Dryden first baseman, collecting two. Tom Hall picked up the third hit and played fine defensively. The Pioneer infield composed of Jim Welton, Dave Gorman, Jim Bashleben and Frank DeRosa played excellent defensive ball and Mike Wadzita with two home runs and Jim Welton with one round-tripper supplied the offensive punch.

Arlington Greens picked up their second win to move into third place in league standings by topping Hasbrook Park 15-1 With Marty Lewandowski pitching shutout ball until the seventh inning and ably supported by a 14-hit attack the Greens coasted to their victory. Jim Wittington supplied the big blows with a triple and home run while Al Kramer added three hits and Dave Moss a bases loaded single to drive in two runs.

Eric Stein homered in the seventh for Hasbrook's tally and Tim Brown singled twice to complete their hitting for the day. Brown's single in the fifth broke up a potential no-hit game.

THE INTERMEDIATE boys from Virginia Terrace scored their first league victory in a decisive manner, defeating the High School 16-0. A three run homer by Mickey Allen in the first inning supplied all the runs needed as Jim Keane pitched a two-hit shutout.

John Blumquist added a two-run homer and Rich Hula a triple and single to the Virginia attack. Cary Armen and Ron Duenn picked up base hits for the High School while Phil Abbott sparkled defensively.

The Recreation "Wildcats," the boys 9-13 softball team, broke a 3-3 tie with the High School park team, with a five run outburst in the bottom of the sixth to defeat the High schoolers last Tuesday 8-3.

THE TROUBLE started after two were out for Craig Oste, the pitcher for the high school, with a combination of a few walks and some timely hitting on the part of Ron Weege, the Wildcat short stop, and Gary Kehe, third baseman.

The high school team jumped off to an early lead by getting two runs in the first and another in the third, behind the big bats of Bill Von Boeckmann and Gary Ames.

Recreation picked up two in the second, one in the third tying the game till the sixth when they exploded for the five runs.

Milwaukee Driver in Feature Win

"Rapid" Robert Ratajczyk stormed to his first feature win of the season in taking the 25-lap main event for the modified stocks before the season's largest crowd of 3,450 Sunday night at the Waukegan Speedway.

The Milwaukee driver who was among the top ten point leaders after the 1960 season averaged 49.15 m.p.h. in taking the victory by less than a car's length over Greg Kieger, a fellow Milwaukeean and track champion at Waukegan last year.

Ratajczyk, who had been black-flagged while leading the fourth heat event, took advantage of a near front starting position and a multiple pile-up that took other top favorites out of the running. On the second lap, Gary Sheldon, Beloit, spun out and was clobbered by Jim Bozemann, Zion, and George Bellegante, Winthrop Harbor. The three sat in the middle of the backstretch for the rest of the race. Involved in the mishap were Bill Strom, and the evening's fastest qualifier, Bob Karry, putting them both out of the contention.

KARRY HAD averaged 50.28 mph in qualifying and then came from the rear of a 12-car field to take the fourth ten lap heat event at an average speed of 49.34 mph. Karry took the lead on the ninth lap from another favorite, Jack Radtke, who finished right on Karry's bumper, after leading from the fourth lap when Ratajczyk was pulled off because of sparks and smoke spewing from his machine.

Jim Flajter, Milwaukee, was knocked unconscious in the first heat when his car hit the concrete retaining wall and sailed down the main chute and into the turn completely out of control. The race was stopped and Flajter removed from his machine where his injuries were determined as not serious and hospitalization was not required.

Swede Erickson, Gurnee, came through a multi-car pile-up which completely blocked the south turn, requiring a restart, to take the 15 lap semi-feature averaging 47.32 mph.

THE AMATEUR drivers were all out in full force once again and two races were staged, both a 6-lap heat and 12-lap feature. Ed Jones averaged 42.68 mph to take the win about a half lap ahead of Wayne Schiller of Kenosha who led earlier in the event. A little over half of the starters (25 strong) managed to complete the event, with several machines seriously damaged.

The highlight of the evening was the season's first Demolition Derby in which strictly stock autos were deliberately demolished by the dare-devil drivers. Jerry Michaels of Winthrop Harbor won the event.

NEXT SUNDAY, July 23, the speedway will present its eleventh consecutive Sunday night program of modified and amateur stock car racing. In addition to the regular schedule of events, track manager Mike Kaishian has announced the running of that ever popular Miller Brothers race. The event was staged twice last year to the fun and amusement of all as six brothers race for the checkered flag with no holds barred. Anything goes and usually does.

The winner last year didn't even get to carry the flag around the track before one of his brothers knocked him out of the running. The event winds up as a wholesale demolition race, using the entire track, when the Miller brothers of Gurnee, get behind the wheels.

Time trials start at 7:15 with racing getting under way at 8:30 p.m. The speedway is located on West Washington street, just west of Waukegan.

Prize Prospect

The Chicago White Sox have a prize pitching prospect in the Pacific Coast League. He is 23-year-old Joel Horlen, who has the best earned run mark in the league. Horlen is two years out of Oklahoma State University. In winning 6 of his first 10 games he pitched seven complete games.

Malchaski Prepares For PGA Tourney

In 1955, Jack Fleck, a virtual unknown, shocked the experts when he upset Ben Hogan in an 18-hole playoff to capture the United States Golf association Open title.

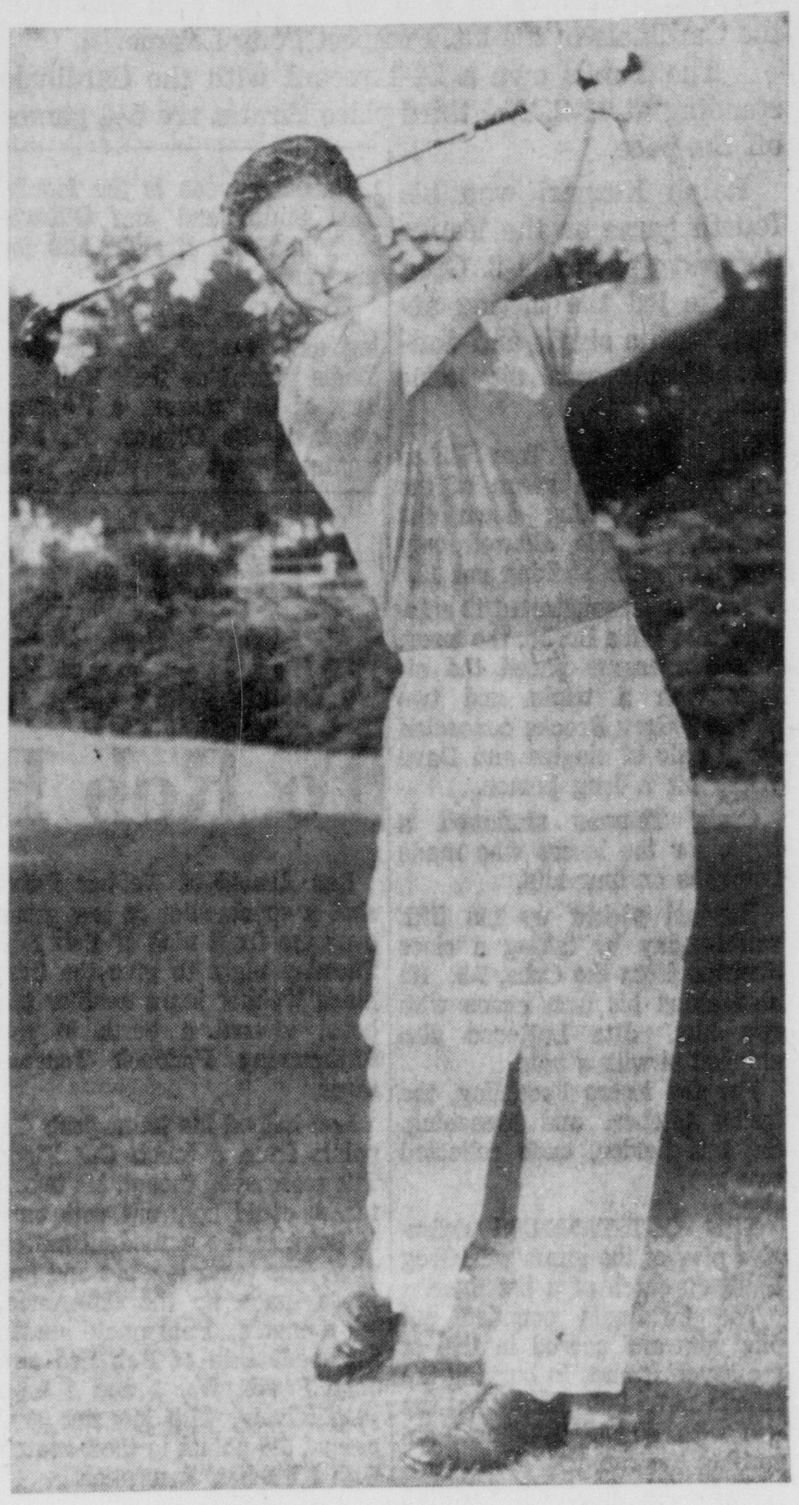
In 1956, Mike Fetchick, another unknown, knocked off such noted performers as Jay Hebert, Doug Ford and Don January in a four-cornered post-tourney playoff for the Western Open crown.

And in 1961, a young man from Missouri will be among those aspiring to write the "cinderella story" of next week's 43rd annual PGA championship at Olympia Fields country club, Olympia Fields, Ill.

CHUCK MALCHASKI, the 32-year-old pro at Brookwood country club, along with the greatest names in golf today will tee off next Thursday on Olympia Fields' exacting North Course.

Play will continue through Sunday (July 30) with field reductions slated at the completion of 36 and 54 holes.

Malchaski earned a berth in the PGA on the strength of qualifying rounds of 70 and 77 in Illinois competition. Other Illinois entrants include Bob Harris of Sunset Ridge, Tony Holguin of Midlothian, Sam Bernardi of Indian Hill, Dick Hart of Hinsdale, George Keyes of Tam O'Shanter, Felice Torza of Aurora and Joe Zelazny of Briarwood.



PGA HOPEFUL CHUCK MALCHASKI

NOW IN HIS eighth year at the Addison rd. club, Malchaski is not a newcomer to the pro circuit. As a matter of fact, this will be his second PGA.

He previously competed in the '59 meet at Minneapolis won by Bob Rosberg. Malchaski's 36 hole total of 151 missed surviving the initial cut by a single stroke.

Chuck was on nand at the finish earlier this year when Gene Littler captured the National Open at Oakland Hills country club in suburban Birmingham, Mich. His 24-over-par ranked 51st in the final ratings.

THE PERSONABLE Missourian has toured the pro circuit for four of the past five winters and placed as high as tenth in both the Pensacola and St. Petersburg Opens of 1956.

He has collected several Illinois professional prizes including the state PGA crown in '58. He also placed second at the Illinois PGA of '57 and third at the Illinois Opens of '57 and '59.

Chuck came to Brookwood from San Mateo country club in San Francisco, Calif., where he served as assistant pro and became head pro at the Addison club in 1956.

IT WAS AT San Mateo that Malchaski carded his best round, a sizzling 61. He has additionally equaled the Brookwood club record of 66 on several occasions.

Born in Grandin, Mo., Chuck moved to San Francisco with his family at the age of eight. He learned his golf as a caddy at San Francisco's California country club and first earned a name for himself as the number one man on South San Francisco high's crack links squad.

While serving in the U. S. Army, Malchaski captured the Sixth Army crown.

CHUCK AND his wife, Elsie, live on the Brookwood premises with their four-month-old daughter, Barbara Ann.

1961 has been a good year for Malchaski. He and his assistant, Dennis Idan, captured the state Pro-Assistant at Edgewood Valley.

He qualified for the National Open as well as the PGA and he recently carded a torrid 68 at a tourney at Forest Hills in Rockford.

Malchaski doesn't figure to win the PGA but, well, you just never know.

by ARTHUR G. HOLLAND
Physical Education Director
Northwest Suburban YMCA

If past years are any indication, more Americans than ever before will flock to our nation's water recreation areas this summer and canoes will probably get more mishandling by well-meaning fun lovers than any other water activity. This is because canoes are quite tricky — much more so than row boats — yet they seem to invite more total participants than the other complex water activities of water skiing, sailing, skin diving and motor boating.

If you or yours get into a canoe this summer there are some things you should know about it. They may save your life. (Between seven and eight thousand Americans lose their lives each year in water accidents.)

Here are ten principles that will add to your fun and safety:

1. Never Abandon an Upset Canoe. It will not sink. Even metal canoes are equipped with safety chambers that prevent their sinking. The wise canoeist, however, will always be sure that the chambers are not damaged before dipping his paddle and moving into the surf.

The canoeist who abandons his upset canoe in order to swim ashore is actually leaving his support in order to risk his life at the mercy of the water. The finest swimmer can fatigue, suffer a cramp, or get caught in a surprise storm.

2. Heavy Clothing Should be Omitted. Weighty and tight fitting clothing that is difficult to remove is not recommended. Heavy boots such as those worn by fishermen and hunters should be removed before entering the canoe.

3. All Weight Should be Placed as Low as Possible and Equally Distributed on Both Sides of the Canoe. This applies to human weight and equipment alike. This will add to the stability of the craft and help prevent tipping.

4. Overloading is to be Avoided. Since the structure of canoes differs, common sense and caution must prevail. Usually a canoe should not carry so much weight that the gunwales (tops of the sides of the canoe) come within five inches of the water.

5. All Poor Swimmers Should Wear Life Preservers. Any person unable to swim 100 yards easily and tread water at least one minute comes under this heading. Such persons and youngsters should be briefed on what to do if the canoe should happen to tip over. The procedure, of course, would be to hang onto the canoe.

Maintaining contact while tipping is important because the craft is more prone to wind and water currents than an immersed human and within seconds it can get beyond reach. It is easy to hang onto the canoe with one hand and hand-paddle with the other towards shore.

6. Avoid Rough Water and Bad Weather. As mentioned earlier, a canoe is quite susceptible to being thrown about due to its light weight and relatively high position on the water. Beware of strong forces from Mother Nature.

Canoeists caught in high waves or rolling waves from motor boats should steer into the waves rather than being hit broadside.

7. Enter and Exit with Care. Only one person should be in motion at a time. Others should sit on the flooring or kneel on the dock and hold the tippy craft firmly.

In getting in or out, it is always wise to have the foot that is in the canoe placed in the center (width-wise) so that one side does not become overweighted. The hands are placed on both gunwales with the weight distributed evenly.

8. An Extra Paddle Should Always be Taken. This offsets the danger of being stranded when one is broken or lost. When laying the paddle down, be sure it is stowed flat on the floor so it will be safe from breaking or slipping overboard.

9. Treat the Canoe and Paddles with Loving Care. It is said that the mark of a good camper is that he leaves his campsite in better condition than he found it. This can apply to canoes and canoeists too. Report any splinters, loose screws, tears or breaks.

Always handle the canoe with great care. Your life—or the lives of those who use the canoe next—may depend on it.

10. Learn to Swim. Nobody is too old, too dumb or too handicapped to learn to swim. You can learn and if you do you will enjoy one of the finest thrills of your life. More important, you and your family will be much safer any time you are in, on or even near water. Call your nearest YMCA and get the necessary information.

Kersting's Climbs Into League Lead

Doing it the hard way, Kersting's Garden Center last week replaced Wille Lumber and Fuel as top team of the Tuesday division of the Mt. Prospect twilight league by defeating the incumbent Lumbermen 8-2. The defeat gave the Gardeners a 1½ point lead over second-place Keefer's Pharmacy and sent Wille's reeling back to third with a 2½ point deficit.

The Gardeners, in a hot streak once again, took three out of the four individual matches from their rivals. Capt. Art Skelton of Kersting's led the way with a big three points by taking two from Walt Kadlec plus a bonus one point for individual low net. Following suit, Rollie Becker and Bob Krause took two points each from their respective opponents Jim Driscoll and Hy Gieseke. Low team net gave the Gardeners their final point.

The only points garnered by Wille's were the two taken from Dave Shean by Roy Hawkinson who posted a nice 41 for his best round of the season.

MEANWHILE, Keefer's Pharmacy stayed in definite contention by posting an 8-2 victory of their own which moved them back into second place, a scant 1½ points behind the Gardeners. The Pharmacist's victim was Vern's Pure Oil who now reside in eighth place.

Big winner for Keefer's was Clarke Robinson who won two from Hal Jauch and was awarded another point for low individual net. Assisting Robinson for Keefer's were Pete Petersen who took two from Bob Hammerstrom and Marv Peters who took two from Hal Jebens. Alex Sekus of Vern's won his team's only points, taking two from Ben Kopriva.

Low score for the evening was the 38 posted by Clarke Robinson. Other lows were the 39's scored by Jim Driscoll, Walt Lyman, Gene Raasch and Ed Stofft.

Birdies were reported by E. Stofft number 8, D. Shean and P. Danna number 11, R. Becker and P. Petersen number 13.

Spooner Tops Moran Furs in Loop Feature

The St. Raymond's golf leagues have now passed the mid-way point, and a good many of the men have sharpened up their game considerably.

There were 35 golfers out of a possible 80 that shot "45" or under. Time is drawing near for the Paddock tournament and the top teams in each league are holding on tight to their positions, making it tough on the other teams to gain ground and a possible berth.

There was a real tussle in League No. 1 with the first place team, Spooner Eng., playing the second place team Moran Furs. The men of Spooner Eng. played brilliant golf and won 11 out of a possible 12 points. Probably the most exiciting match was played by the two top men in the league, Bob Louthain of Spooner Eng. and Jack Moran of Moran Furs. The match was not decided until the last hole, both men carded a "38" but Louthain captured the last hole to win 1½ points. Moran Furs, although winning only one point, still held on the second place, with Strass Ladies Apparel very close behind in third place.

IN LEAGUE No. 2 Illinois Range still maintained the top position with a respectable 8½ point victory over Busse Automotive. Kirchoff Insurance jumped from third to second on the strength of a solid 11 point win over Friedrichs Funeral Home. Safford Stamps dropped to third place and McMahons by winning 10 points moved all the way from seventh to fourth spot.

Inverness Pair Cops Honors At State Meet

Two women from Inverness Countryside walked off with individual honors at the recently completed Illinois State Women's Amateur golf tourney held at Rockford.

Mrs. LeMoine Stitt, of 501 N. Inverway, advanced to the quarterfinals in third flight play before dropping out of contention.

Capturing the fourth flight consolation title was Mrs. John Clitherow, of 1656 Durham dr.

Black's Holds Lead

The Black's Memorial Home team continued their hold on first place sparked by the fine shooting of "Wild Bill" Flynn in the St. James Holy Name golf league. Flynn had a net 31 for the evening. John Glueckert of the same team won his match again to make it 7 out of 8 for the season.

Low gross for the evening was shot by R. Alm with a 37, which included one birdie. Greg Rose shot a gross 38 which included an eagle on the 12th hole and a birdie on the 11th hole. Rose and Larry Keegan shared net honors with 29's.

Race Tightens In Friday Night Golf Competition

After last Friday night's play at Golden Acres, the Arlington Heights Twilight golf league found the first seven teams only six points apart. Lohr's Pill Rollers continued their slide as they dropped from third to sixth. City Welding was very nearly knocked out of the lead when they had their three point lead cut to one. Arlington Heights National Bank continued its winning ways and moved from eleventh place up to eighth.

The only team that seems to have found its place is Horcher Decorators, who seem to have a permanent lease on last place. Of course, all you have to do is turn the standings upside down and Horchers would be in first place. So at this point just about any of the teams could cop the first place position before the end of the season.

Wade Olson, who has not played for several years until this season, ran off with individual honors Friday night when he shot a 36, which gave him a low net of 29. His two birds were high for the night. L. Haines Sr., L. Haines Jr., Blaar, Webber, Polly and Kleinofen each had one bird apiece. Low gross was shared by Olson, Kleinofen and Jamison with 36's.

Special mention must be made of Curly Poss. Curly took on Chuck Jevne, who had won eight out of ten matches. He even furnished transportation by renting a cart. After five holes the match was over with Curly on top. Chuck still says he didn't lose the match, he was talked out of it. Could be.

Twilight Golf League Enjoys Two-Ball Event

The Arlington Heights Twilight golf league enjoyed its first two-ball foursome of the season at Golden Acres country club on Sunday afternoon, July 16.

First prize was snared by Wilma Seyler and Ralph Clarbour with a net of 32. Esther Horcher and Don McGowan took second prize, with Vivian Dobbelaere and Dennis Horcher following right behind for third place.

All the scores were exceptionally good and the fellows could take a few pointers from the gals on putting and chipping.

Even the weatherman cooperated to make it a perfect afternoon.

Be A Safe Canoeist; Follow This Advice!

by ARTHUR G. HOLLAND
Northwest Suburban YMCA

If past years are any indication, more Americans than ever before will flock to our nation's water recreation areas this summer and canoes will probably get more mishandling by well-meaning fun lovers than any other water activity. This is because canoes are quite tricky — much more so than row boats — yet they seem to invite more total participants than the other complex water activities of water skiing, sailing, skin diving and motor boating.

If you or yours get into a canoe this summer there are some things you should know about it. They may save your life. (Between seven and eight thousand Americans lose their lives each year in water accidents.)

Here are ten principles that will add to your fun and safety:

1. Never Abandon an Upset Canoe. It will not sink. Even metal canoes are equipped with safety chambers that prevent their sinking. The wise canoeist, however, will always be sure that the chambers are not damaged before dipping his paddle and moving into the surf.

The canoeist who abandons his upset canoe in order to swim ashore is actually leaving his support in order to risk his life at the mercy of the water. The finest swimmer can fatigue, suffer a cramp, or get caught in a surprise storm.

2. Heavy Clothing Should be Omitted. Weighty and tight fitting clothing that is difficult to remove is not recommended. Heavy boots such as those worn by fishermen and hunters should be removed before entering the canoe.

3. All Weight Should be Placed as Low as Possible and Equally Distributed on Both Sides of the Canoe. This applies to human weight and equipment alike. This will add to the stability of the craft and help prevent tipping.

4. Overloading is to be Avoided. Since the structure of canoes differs, common sense and caution must prevail. Usually a canoe should not carry so much weight that the gunwales (tops of the sides of the canoe) come within five inches of the water.

5. All Poor Swimmers Should Wear Life Preservers. Any person unable to swim 100 yards easily and tread water at least one minute comes under this heading. Such persons and youngsters should be briefed on what to do if the canoe should happen to tip over. The procedure, of course, would be to hang onto the canoe.

Maintaining contact while tipping is important because the craft is more prone to wind and water currents than an immersed human and within seconds it can get beyond reach. It is easy to hang onto the canoe with one hand and hand-paddle with the other towards shore.

6. Avoid Rough Water and Bad Weather. As mentioned earlier, a canoe is quite susceptible to being thrown about due to its light weight and relatively high position on the water. Beware of strong forces from Mother Nature.

Canoeists caught in high waves or rolling waves from motor boats should steer into the waves rather than being hit broadside.

7. Enter and Exit with Care. Only one person should be in motion at a time. Others should sit on the flooring or kneel on the dock and hold the tippy craft firmly.

In getting in or out, it is always wise to have the foot that is in the canoe placed in the center (width-wise) so that one side does not become overweighted. The hands are placed on both gunwales with the weight distributed evenly.

8. An Extra Paddle Should Always be Taken. This offsets the danger of being stranded when one is broken or lost. When laying the paddle down, be sure it is stowed flat on the floor so it will be safe from breaking or slipping overboard.

9. Treat the Canoe and Paddles with Loving Care. It is said that the mark of a good camper is that he leaves his campsite in better condition than he found it. This can apply to canoes and canoeists too. Report any splinters, loose screws, tears or breaks.

Always handle the canoe with great care. Your life—or the lives of those who use the canoe next—may depend on it.

10. Learn to Swim. Nobody is too old, too dumb or too handicapped to learn to swim. You can learn and if you do you will enjoy one of the finest thrills of your life. More important, you and your family will be much safer any time you are in, on or even near water. Call your nearest YMCA and get the necessary information.

Third row, John Stevens, Brian Burke, John Brost, and Randy Blaisdell. The remainder of the squad was playing in the Hinsdale Invitational tourney.

Seleski Cops Low Gross, Net Honors

Alternates Bill Holm and W. C. McCulloh paced Busse Motors in blasting Mt. Prospect Savings and Loan 9½-½ in the Monday night golf league at Mt. Prospect.

The victory pushed Busse into second place only 2½ points behind first place Toy Shop.

Paul Seleski turned in the hot round for the evening with a sizzling gross 37 and net 29. Al Barco, Jack Moran and Mike Bergo carded scratch 39s. Paul Barnes and Vern Schneider turned in nets 30 and 31.

Birdies were posted by W. Starkey, M. Bergo, Wally Peterson, Seleski, and Barco.

Tri-City Ladies

Event of the day in the Tri-City ladies golf league was Low Gross.

Winners in the nine-hole competition were Marty Ragland with a 55, Lorraine Hitchon with a 56, and Betty Howard with a 60.

Race Tightens In Friday Night Golf Competition

After last Friday night's play at Golden Acres, the Arlington Heights Twilight golf league found the first seven teams only six points apart. Lohr's Pill Rollers continued their slide as they dropped from third to sixth. City Welding was very nearly knocked out of the lead when they had their three point lead cut to one. Arlington Heights National Bank continued its winning ways and moved from eleventh place up to eighth.

The only team that seems to have found its place is Horcher Decorators, who seem to have a permanent lease on last place. Of course, all you have to do is turn the standings upside down and Horchers would be in first place. So at this point just about any of the teams could cop the first place position before the end of the season.

Wade Olson, who has not played for several years until this season, ran off with individual honors Friday night when he shot a 36, which gave him a low net of 29. His two birds were high for the night. L. Haines Sr., L. Haines Jr., Blaar, Webber, Polly and Kleinofen each had one bird apiece. Low gross was shared by Olson, Kleinofen and Jamison with 36's.

Special mention must be made of Curly Poss. Curly took on Chuck Jevne, who had won eight out of ten matches. He even furnished transportation by renting a cart. After five holes the match was over with Curly on top. Chuck still says he didn't lose the match, he was talked out of it. Could be.

The Arlington Heights Twilight golf league enjoyed its first two-ball foursome of the season at Golden Acres country club on Sunday afternoon, July 16.

First prize was snared by Wilma Seyler and Ralph Clarbour with a net of 32. Esther Horcher and Don McGowan took second prize, with Vivian Dobbelaere and Dennis Horcher following right behind for third place.

All the scores were exceptionally good and the fellows could take a few pointers from the gals on putting and chipping.

Even the weatherman cooperated to make it a perfect afternoon.

RAY F. CHRISTOPHER, vice-president and director of sales promotion at the Sun Electric corp. in Chicago, shot a hole-in-one on the 180 yard 15th hole at Villa Olivia country club. The event occurred at Sun Electric's Annual golf tourney. Ray lives at 408 Cornell ave., Des Plaines and has been with Sun Electric for 30 years. Wayne Tite, of 710 Busse ave., Mt. Spooner Tops Moran Furs in Loop Feature

The St. Raymond's golf leagues have now passed the mid-way point, and a good many of the men have sharpened up their game considerably.

There were 35 golfers out of a possible 80 that shot "45" or under. Time is drawing near for the Paddock tournament and the top teams in each league are holding on tight to their positions, making it tough on the other teams to gain ground and a possible berth.

There was a real tussle in League No. 1 with the first place team, Spooner Eng., playing the second place team Moran Furs. The men of Spooner Eng. played brilliant golf and won 11 out of a possible 12 points. Probably the most exiciting match was played by the two top men in the league, Bob Louthain of Spooner Eng. and Jack Moran of Moran Furs. The match was not decided until the last hole, both men carded a "38" but Louthain captured the last hole to win 1½ points. Moran Furs, although winning only one point, still held on the second place, with Strass Ladies Apparel very close behind in third place.

IN LEAGUE No. 2 Illinois Range still maintained the top position with a respectable 8½ point victory over Busse Automotive. Kirchoff Insurance jumped from third to second on the strength of a solid 11 point win over Friedrichs Funeral Home. Safford Stamps dropped to third place and McMahons by winning 10 points moved all the way from seventh to fourth spot.

Kersting's Climbs Into League Lead

Doing it the hard way, Kersting's Garden Center last week replaced Wille Lumber and Fuel as top team of the Tuesday division of the Mt. Prospect twilight league by defeating the incumbent Lumbermen 8-2. The defeat gave the Gardeners a 1½ point lead over second-place Keefer's Pharmacy and sent Wille's reeling back to third with a 2½ point deficit.

The Gardeners, in a hot streak once again, took three out of the four individual matches from their rivals. Capt. Art Skelton of Kersting's led the way with a big three points by taking two from Walt Kadlec plus a bonus one point for individual low net. Following suit, Rollie Becker and Bob Krause took two points each from their respective opponents Jim Driscoll and Hy Gieseke. Low team net gave the Gardeners their final point.

The only points garnered by Wille's were the two taken from Dave Shean by Roy Hawkinson who posted a nice 41 for his best round of the season.

MEANWHILE, Keefer's Pharmacy stayed in definite contention by posting an 8-2 victory of their own which moved them back into second place, a scant 1½ points behind the Gardeners. The Pharmacist's victim was Vern's Pure Oil who now reside in eighth place.

Big winner for Keefer's was Clarke Robinson who won two from Hal Jauch and was awarded another point for low individual net. Assisting Robinson for Keefer's were Pete Petersen who took two from Bob Hammerstrom and Marv Peters who took two from Hal Jebens. Alex Sekus of Vern's won his team's only points, taking two from Ben Kopriva.

Low score for the evening was the 38 posted by Clarke Robinson. Other lows were the 39's scored by Jim Driscoll, Walt Lyman, Gene Raasch and Ed Stofft.

Swimmers Bring Home Meet Honors

In the annual Chicagoland Open swimming championships last weekend several area entries turned in impressive showings.

Thirty-nine teams from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Illinois and several unattached swimmers competed.

Barbara Raasch finished fourth in the 50 yard breaststroke and Doug Rice was sixth in the 400 yard freestyle. Paul Hembd claimed a seventh in the 50 yard breaststroke.

In relays Barb Johnson of Prospect Heights competed for the Portage Park free style relay team that finished first and set a meet record. Dick Evans swam on the Partage Park freestyle unit that took a second, and Barb Raasch, also competing for Portage Park, worked for relays that claimed a fifth and fourth in the rough competition. The remaining contest saw Strats send Nickey Chevrolet to their fifth defeat 8-3.

At the half-way point four teams still remain very much in the title race and the last half should prove very interesting.

Swimmers Bring Home Meet Honors

In the annual Chicagoland Open swimming championships last weekend several area entries turned in impressive showings.

Thirty-nine teams from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Illinois and several unattached swimmers competed.

Barbara Raasch finished fourth in the 50 yard breaststroke and Doug Rice was sixth in the 400 yard freestyle. Paul Hembd claimed a seventh in the 50 yard breaststroke.

In relays Barb Johnson of Prospect Heights competed for the Portage Park free style relay team that finished first and set a meet record. Dick Evans swam on the Partage Park freestyle unit that took a second, and Barb Raasch, also competing for Portage Park, worked for relays that claimed a fifth and fourth in the rough competition. Zodiac Inn Claims 5th Straight Win

Zodiac Inn registered their fifth consecutive victory, squeezing by Hofbrau 11-10, and took over the undisputed lead of the Arlington Heights 16-inch Classic softball league.

Connie's Village Inn bumped Garden Liquors 22-14 in another key contest. The Matics also remain in contention following their victory over Westgaters 16-1 and Bob Scuba rewarded their new sponsor with a second win by tipping the Pure Oilers 14-10.

The remaining contest saw Strats send Nickey Chrevrolet to their fifth defeat 8-3.

At the half-way point four teams still remain very much in the title race and the last half should prove very interesting.

Arlington Tennis Club Sweeps Four

Arlington's tennis club swept all four divisions Saturday in North and West Suburban league tests with Riverside-Brookfield.

Three of Arlington's squads remained in first place with the decisions.

The Men's "A" division team bounced Riverside 5-2 and now possesses a 6-1 standard. Wheaton and Arlington are tied for first in this loop.

IN A CRUCIAL battle for first place in the "B" class Arlington topped Riverside 5-2 and now boasts a 6-1 standard to R-B's 5-2. Bob Sir of Mt. Prospect played an important role in the "Bs" victory with a 6-4, 6-2 win in singles and he teamed up with Rog Steingraber for a 1-6, 6-4, 6-0 doubles triumph.

The unbeaten juniors of Arlington, now 7-0 in the league competition, won 3-1 Saturday and the women's team, owning a 4-3 record, won 4-3.

Arlington will host Elmhurst Saturday in another league battle at the high school courts.

Arlington Claims Two League Wins In Little Tennis

The Arlington entry in the Little Tennis league recorded two victories last week in competition with Skokie and Berwyn.

Sponsored by the park district and coached by Ken Schaller, varsity mentor at Arlington high school, the local squad topped Skokie 6-0 and Berwyn 5-1.

In singles play against Skokie Jim Jakubiec, Rick Wollerman, Steve Martin, and Kevin Mahoney all recorded straight set victories. The doubles combos of Jim Kunberger and Greg Inman and Mary Lou Jakubiec and Karen McDonald also came through with triumphs though in three sets.

PICKING UP wins in singles against Berwyn were Wollerman, Dave Clough, John Stevens, and Roger Baer. John Brost and Randy Blaisdell teamed up for a victory in No. 2 doubles.

In addition to Arlington, Berwyn, and Skokie, other outfits in the league are from the Beverly Hills Tennis Club, Hinsdale Tennis association, Humboldt Park, Lincoln Park, McKinley Park, Oak Park, Rainbow Park, River Forest Tennis Club, Saddle and Cycle country club, and Salt Creek Tennis and Bath club. VIRGINIA TERRACE

The Terrace seems to teem with new neighbors moving in and old friends moving out . . . on their annual vacations.

Arthur and Jo Anna Nona, married but six months, have moved from Lombard into their first home at 1342 N. Race. Art is an electronics design engineer employed at Industrial Research Products, Inc., Franklin Park.

Recently Ray and Jean Parks, 1259 N. Wilke, enjoyed a long weekend in Springfield with Ray's family. The children, Robert, Nancy, Susan and Judith particularly enjoyed swimming and riding ponies at an outdoor barbecue held at their cousins' home.

Mag and Martin Corley, 1326 N. Chicago, recently returned from a 10-day vacation with children Kevin and Robin. They stopped at Appleton, Wis., to visit Mag's sister and family, the Cyril Theisses, and then went on to Mag's hometown of Oconto, to see her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Barribeau. The Corleys returned in time to celebrate Mag's birthday with an evening out for dinner and to see Ethel Merman in "Gypsy."

AS AN ADDITIONAL celebration, Mag was guest of honor at a coffee given by Barbara Wiederhold, 1322 N. Chicago, July 17.

The Ballards recently returned home to 1241 N. Race from their annual 3-week fishing trip. Dorothy and Don, who have vacationed at the same lodge in Big Foot, Minn., for several years, stopped on the way home for a 2-day visit with Don's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Ballard in Weyauwega, Wis.

Recently Darlene Krug, Connie Dolejs and their families co-hosted a cook-out for former Terrace neighbors, Don and Kay Jacobson, at the Krugs', 1212 N. Race.

THE FOLLOWING will introduce two new families—both, though unrelated, named Kenny. The first Kenny family to move in were John and Betty at 1301 N. Chicago. They have two daughters, Linda, 5, and Donna, 2, and formerly lived in Morton Grove. Jack is a moldmaker at George's Manufacturing in Franklin Park. They plan to attend the First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights.

The second set of Kennys are Louis and De Etta of 1265 N. Race. They moved here from Skokie with their sons, Elliot and William. Louis is a salesman for Brunswick-Balke-Callendar in Chicago.

Tom and Marie Bandy, 1251 N. Race, had Mr. and Mrs. Robert Northridge and children, Wendy, Nancy and Robert Jr., from Philadelphia as house guests this past week.

Friends and neighbors of Lee and Lena Duss, 1322 N. Race, are wishing Lee a speedy convalescence at home, after recent surgery in Chicago's Augustana hospital.

A WELCOME is extended to the Chase family, who recently moved here from Chicago. Sue, Robert and 3-year-old Kathy are now living at 1107 N. Chicago. Bob is a salesman for George Poole Ford in Arlington Heights and a golf enthusiast.

A family get-together was recently enjoyed by Ralph and Barbara Wiederhold, 1322 N. Chicago, when Barbara's nieces, Mallory and Susan Alexander from Houston, were weekend guests. Highlight of the visit for the girls and their cousins, Kim, Kyle, Kevin, Robbie and Dwight, was a picnic at the forest preserves.

Gunny-sack races were among the events held at the outdoor ninth birthday party for Tommy Reed, 1328 N. Yale. Guests were Billy Ross, Marty Bloom, Jeffrey Fairfield, Donny Speer and Frankie Pircher.

Out-of-town visitors have been keeping the Elf family, 1223 N. Race, busy. Over the Fourth, Norma and Jim entertained the Rex Skillman family of Indiana. More recently, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bourke and son, Michael, of Plainfield, N. J., visited for a few days.

THE JAMES MINETTE family, formerly of Palatine, recently moved into their new home at 1414 N. Illinois. Jim, Joanne and 6-month-old Scheryl Lynn fear their usual "fun" pursuits of bowling and boating will have to wait until they are settled. Jim is an accountant with the Pure Oil Co., Palatine.

Ray and Jeanne Parks, 1256 N. Wilke, feted daughter Nancy on her sixth birthday, July 16, at a family dinner party. Present were her godparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Heidemann and family, and grandmother, Mrs. George Liepitz, all of Elgin.

Vaneta and Ray Kellogg, 1341 N. Wilke, hosted a dinner party for Vaneta's mother, Mrs. Viva Whitney of Arlington Heights, on the occasion of her 77th birthday, July 12. Helping to salute the guest of honor were grandchildren Whitney and Jean, Mrs. Whitney's sister, Mrs. Bonnie Powell, and friend, Mrs. Acker, both of Evanston.

PEG AND GEORGE Dye, 1318 N. Chicago, have returned home from their resort vacation at Plainey Park, Mich. They made side trips to Sturgeon Bay, the Dells, Mackinac Island and a boat trip through the Saulte Ste. Marie locks.

Ten Virginia Terrace youngsters would like to publicly thank the neighbors who helped them with project "pop bottle." The youngsters collected the bottles to earn enough money for a pretty plant to cheer their good friend, Mrs. Phyliss Busch, 1420 N. Chicago, during her confinement in Northwest Community hospital.

Janice Randle, 1448 Yale, recently entertained Miss Camille Cardak, of Chicago, as an overnight guest. The girls once were next-door playmates in Chicago and had much about which to reminisce after a 3-year separation.

A trio of redheads have been added to the Terrace scene with the arrival of the Thompson children who, with their parents, Ed and Natalie, have moved to 1266 N. Chicago from Bethesda, Md. Michael, 9, Adele, 7, and Mary Ann, 4, are all enthusiastic Civil War Centennial fans, reports their mother. Ed is regional sales manager for Burgess-Manning in Libertyville.

MARY JO Rozdalovsky, 1321 N. Race, celebrated her fifth birthday at a backyard party for her sister, Shirley, Robin Corley and her visiting cousin, Linda La Presti. Vacationing Susan and Virginia Catlin were unable to attend.

From Des Moines to 1239 N. Wilke comes the Downey family —Shirley and Roger with Lisa, 4, and Beth, 1½. Roger is divisional operations manager of Appliance Buyers Credit Corp., Des Plaines. Both enjoy bowling as well as spectator sports.

Austin, Minn., was the vacation site for Mrs. Joan Donath, 1421 W. Chicago, and children, Marilyn, Linda and Darlene, and her mother, Mrs. W. Fingel of Chicago. They stayed with Joan's aunt, Mrs. Zrucky.

All over the state of Michigan went Max and Florence O'Brien, 1405 N. Race, and children, Dennis and Donna, on their recent vacation. Florence reports they enjoyed many side trips and a lakeside cottage in the upper peninsula.

A WELCOME is extended to Richard and Mary Soby, who have moved to 1208 N. Chicago with 9-month-old Ricky from Chicago. Dick, a painter, is employed by Lake Shore Management. His main recreational activity lies with his boat, while Mary enjoys gardening.

Bobby Gunnison, son of Cathy and Bill, 1407 Clarendon, marked his 11th birthday July 11 at an outdoor cook-out. Attending were Jimmy Gumz, Pat Martin, George Herbert and David Cech.

Having gotten "squared-away" after the party, the Gunnisons greeted former Terrace residents, Sally and Russ Freeburg and their three children, who visited with them for a day and night enroute to their present home in Alexandria, Va.

A 2-day celebration was recently held for Johnny Van de Merkt, 1231 N. Wilke, who was 8. Johnny was guest of honor at a family dinner given by his parents, Gene and Mary Ellen, with children Patty and Larry, and attended by his married sister, Mrs. Judy Pease with baby Shirley, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Patterson of Evanston. The following afternoon there was a party for playmates, Bobby Nelson of Hasbrook, Kenny and Mark Francis and Fritz Cataskis.

WITH THE END of the Little League season approaching, parents and members of the Gopher baseball team decided to hold another family picnic at Deer Grove after last Saturday's game. Among Terrace people present were the John Noerenbergs, Bob Hults, Bill Rosses, Chuck Dolejs, Bill Cardinells, Andy Reeds, George Maybees, Bob Gumzes and team manager, George Lilly and his family.

Relatives and neighbors were present when Doug Larson, son of Joan and Dick, 1245 N. Illinois, celebrated his third birthday, July 15. Present at the buffet dinner were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nussey and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Larson Sr., and aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Larson Jr., all of Chicago, along with neighbors, Marlene and David Pendleton and children, and the Bill Reinhardt family, former residents, of Mount Prospect.

La Rue and Andy Reed, 1328 Yale, are entertaining La Rue's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Simpson of Huntsville, Ala., this week. A highlight of their visit was a trip to Chicago's loop for authentic Mexican food, a special favorite of the Simpsons.

PHILLIPS, WIS., and surrounding area was the vacation site for the Neilsen family, 1252 N. Illinois. Enjoying two weeks of fishing and swimming were Ed and Marion and their boys, Bradley and Scott. After returning and getting settled at home, they hosted a family barbecue party this past weekend. Guests were Marion's sister, Mrs. Thor Neilsen and three children, visiting from Cornell, Wis., her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Soderstrom, and Ed's parents, all of Chicago.

Returning last week from a vacation trip to Bloomfield Hills, Mich., were John and Mary Ann Geer, 1515 Clarendon, and daughters, Nancy, Barbara and Laura Jean. They visited Mary Ann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Watson, made side trips to galleries and museums in Detroit and Bloomfield Hills.

Returning Sunday night from a 2-week vacation in Oklahoma City were Ralph and Shirley Landes, 1251 N. Chicago. While there, they introduced the newest member of the family, 2-month-old Laura Ann, to both sets of grandparents. Receiving salutes on "how they had grown," were grandsons, David, Steven and Scott.

Suburbanite Has Historic Slides

S. P. Mulley is an Arlington Heights man with a flair for photography and picture-slide collecting.

He has over 2,000 slides of scenes from the suburban area, Chicago, and from his travels across the United States.

Mulley, 74, of 308 S. Mitchell ave., has slides of buildings which were in the 1893 Columbia Exposition in Chicago. He made the slides years ago from a book on the exposition which he owns. They are all in color.

He said that only he and the Chicago Historical society have slides of many of the scenes depicted from the Columbia Exposition.

HE TOOK all his pictures on a 35 mm camera.

He lectures about six times a year before civic groups and for libraries, presenting 70 slides at a showing. He conducts these slide-shows as a hobby.

Mulley came from London, England. He was an optometrist in Chicago for 40 years.

Besides photography, he has as a hobby tracking down historical facts in English history. He built a 5-foot long model of the London Bridge, circa 1600. He constructed the bridge from the few woodcarved pictures in existence of the bridge. (A

Eastwood Events

Sunday night Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shuler and John and Jim returned to 205 N. Dryden after almost a month's vacation. First stop on their itinerary was the Barbershoppers' convention in Philadelphia. For three days the Shulers attended the contests, accompanied by local SPEBSQSA'ers, the Fred Jaspers, Dan Krebsbachs, Earl Auges, Kenneth Stevens and Stan Myers.

After all the convention festivities were over, the Shulers went on to Washington, D.C. and Williamsburg, touring the Civil War country. Final phase of their vacation was spent in Clearwater, Fla., where they visited with Mrs. Shuler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kennedy.

MR. AND MRS. Robert Glader and Billy and Gary of N. Brighton are back home after a week's stay at Christiana lodge in Edwardsburg, Mich. The Gladers spent last year's vacation there also and liked it so much they decided on a repeat performance. Friends from Elmhurst, the Donald Corydons, accompanied the Gladers.

Former Beverley lane residents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Anderson, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lindahl for dinner Saturday. The Lee Gustafsons and Turk Larsens were also dinner guests, while many former neighbors stopped by in the evening to say hello. The Andersons, who now live in Largo, Fla., are enroute to a vacation in California.

Sincerest condolences are extended to Mrs. Frank Soprano on the death of her father, Bohumil J. Hajicek. Mr. Hajicek, who made his home with the Sopranos on Beverley lane, died suddenly last Monday. Requiem mass was said at St. James Thursday with interment in St. Adalbert's cemetery.

Since the 9th of May Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sander have been residents in their new home at 210 N. Beverley lane. They formerly lived on the south side of Arlington Heights, but since Mr. Sander is a part owner of Beverly Bowling Lanes, his new residence is much closer to his place of business.

The Sanders are parents of two married daughters, both Arlington residents. Mrs. Sander is a real native, having been born and raised in Arlington Heights, as was her father. They are members of Faith Lutheran church. Eastwood extends the Sanders a sincere welcome to the community.

A BUSINESS trip to Minnesota and S. Dakota for Thomas Bart meant a week's vacation for his family, since they all went along to keep him company. In Minnesota they toured the ore mines at Duluth and spent two days in Minneapolis, mostly sightseeing the beautiful surrounding lakes. In Iowa they visited in Sioux Falls and Cedar Rapids. Besides Tommy, Timmy and Terry, Mrs. Bart's niece, Roseanne Nacco, shared in the week's fun. Roseanne, who has been visiting in Arlington, will return to her home in Pittsburgh Friday. (A

Why won't your wife let you buy this wagon?

"It looks like a bus."

"I wouldn't be caught dead in it."

Do these sound familiar? Your wife is not alone. It is hard to convince some women what sense the VW Station Wagon makes.

Its chunky shape, for instance, allows it to hold more than the biggest conventional wagon. (Yet it is a good four feet shorter, and a lot less exasperating to park.)

Your wife might like the easy way it loads. The wide side doors give her almost 16 sq. ft. for supermarket bags. Or an open baby carriage. Or an antique chest, standing up. Or delicate trees from the nursery. Or even an open playpen.

She can take eight or more Scouts, with cook-out gear. She can give the family plenty of sun. (Why no other station wagon has a sun-roof remains a mystery.) She won't ever have to worry about the radiator boiling over. There's no radiator, no water. (The VW engine is air-cooled.)

And if she likes to see where she's going, the VW wagon has incredible visibility.

If these facts don't convince her, then you might as well give up gracefully. (But before you do, bring her in for a drive. And don't be surprised if she does let you buy one.)

AS AN ADDITIONAL celebration, Mag was guest of honor at a coffee given by Barbara Wiederhold, 1322 N. Chicago, July 17.

The Ballards recently returned home to 1241 N. Race from their annual 3-week fishing trip. Dorothy and Don, who have vacationed at the same lodge in Big Foot, Minn., for several years, stopped on the way home for a 2-day visit with Don's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Ballard in Weyauwega, Wis.

Recently Darlene Krug, Connie Dolejs and their families cohosted a cook-out for former Terrace neighbors, Don and Kay Jacobson, at the Krugs', 1212 N. Race.

THE FOLLOWING will introduce two new families—both, though unrelated, named Kenny. The first Kenny family to move in were John and Betty at 1301 N. Chicago. They have two daughters, Linda, 5, and Donna, 2, and formerly lived in Morton Grove. Jack is a moldmaker at George's Manufacturing in Franklin Park. They plan to attend the First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights.

The second set of Kennys are Louis and De Etta of 1265 N. Race. They moved here from Skokie with their sons, Elliot and William. Louis is a salesman for Brunswick-Balke-Callendar in Chicago.

Tom and Marie Bandy, 1251 N. Race, had Mr. and Mrs. Robert Northridge and children, Wendy, Nancy and Robert Jr., from Philadelphia as house guests this past week.

Friends and neighbors of Lee and Lena Duss, 1322 N. Race, are wishing Lee a speedy convalescence at home, after recent surgery in Chicago's Augustana hospital.

A WELCOME is extended to the Chase family, who recently moved here from Chicago. Sue, Robert and 3-year-old Kathy are now living at 1107 N. Chicago. Bob is a salesman for George Poole Ford in Arlington Heights and a golf enthusiast.

A family get-together was recently enjoyed by Ralph and Barbara Wiederhold, 1322 N. Chicago, when Barbara's nieces, Mallory and Susan Alexander from Houston, were weekend guests. Highlight of the visit for the girls and their cousins, Kim, Kyle, Kevin, Robbie and Dwight, was a picnic at the forest preserves.

Gunny-sack races were among the events held at the outdoor ninth birthday party for Tommy Reed, 1328 N. Yale. Guests were Billy Ross, Marty Bloom, Jeffrey Fairfield, Donny Speer and Frankie Pircher.

Out-of-town visitors have been keeping the Elf family, 1223 N. Race, busy. Over the Fourth, Norma and Jim entertained the Rex Skillman family of Indiana. More recently, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bourke and son, Michael, of Plainfield, N. J., visited for a few days.

THE JAMES MINETTE family, formerly of Palatine, recently moved into their new home at 1414 N. Illinois. Jim, Joanne and 6-month-old Scheryl Lynn fear their usual "fun" pursuits of bowling and boating will have to wait until they are settled. Jim is an accountant with the Pure Oil Co., Palatine.

Ray and Jeanne Parks, 1256 N. Wilke, feted daughter Nancy on her sixth birthday, July 16, at a family dinner party. Present were her godparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Heidemann and family, and grandmother, Mrs. George Liepitz, all of Elgin.

Vaneta and Ray Kellogg, 1341 N. Wilke, hosted a dinner party for Vaneta's mother, Mrs. Viva Whitney of Arlington Heights, on the occasion of her 77th birthday, July 12. Helping to salute the guest of honor were grandchildren Whitney and Jean, Mrs. Whitney's sister, Mrs. Bonnie Powell, and friend, Mrs. Acker, both of Evanston.

PEG AND GEORGE Dye, 1318 N. Chicago, have returned home from their resort vacation at Plainey Park, Mich. They made side trips to Sturgeon Bay, the Dells, Mackinac Island and a boat trip through the Saulte Ste. Marie locks.

Ten Virginia Terrace youngsters would like to publicly thank the neighbors who helped them with project "pop bottle." The youngsters collected the bottles to earn enough money for a pretty plant to cheer their good friend, Mrs. Phyliss Busch, 1420 N. Chicago, during her confinement in Northwest Community hospital.

Janice Randle, 1448 Yale, recently entertained Miss Camille Cardak, of Chicago, as an overnight guest. The girls once were next-door playmates in Chicago and had much about which to reminisce after a 3-year separation.

A trio of redheads have been added to the Terrace scene with the arrival of the Thompson children who, with their parents, Ed and Natalie, have moved to 1266 N. Chicago from Bethesda, Md. Michael, 9, Adele, 7, and Mary Ann, 4, are all enthusiastic Civil War Centennial fans, reports their mother. Ed is regional sales manager for Burgess-Manning in Libertyville.

MARY JO Rozdalovsky, 1321 N. Race, celebrated her fifth birthday at a backyard party for her sister, Shirley, Robin Corley and her visiting cousin, Linda La Presti. Vacationing Susan and Virginia Catlin were unable to attend.

From Des Moines to 1239 N. Wilke comes the Downey family —Shirley and Roger with Lisa, 4, and Beth, 1½. Roger is divisional operations manager of Appliance Buyers Credit Corp., Des Plaines. Both enjoy bowling as well as spectator sports.

Austin, Minn., was the vacation site for Mrs. Joan Donath, 1421 W. Chicago, and children, Marilyn, Linda and Darlene, and her mother, Mrs. W. Fingel of Chicago. They stayed with Joan's aunt, Mrs. Zrucky.

All over the state of Michigan went Max and Florence O'Brien, 1405 N. Race, and children, Dennis and Donna, on their recent vacation. Florence reports they enjoyed many side trips and a lakeside cottage in the upper peninsula.

A WELCOME is extended to Richard and Mary Soby, who have moved to 1208 N. Chicago with 9-month-old Ricky from Chicago. Dick, a painter, is employed by Lake Shore Management. His main recreational activity lies with his boat, while Mary enjoys gardening.

Bobby Gunnison, son of Cathy and Bill, 1407 Clarendon, marked his 11th birthday July 11 at an outdoor cook-out. Attending were Jimmy Gumz, Pat Martin, George Herbert and David Cech.

Having gotten "squared-away" after the party, the Gunnisons greeted former Terrace residents, Sally and Russ Freeburg and their three children, who visited with them for a day and night enroute to their present home in Alexandria, Va.

A 2-day celebration was recently held for Johnny Van de Merkt, 1231 N. Wilke, who was 8. Johnny was guest of honor at a family dinner given by his parents, Gene and Mary Ellen, with children Patty and Larry, and attended by his married sister, Mrs. Judy Pease with baby Shirley, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Patterson of Evanston. The following afternoon there was a party for playmates, Bobby Nelson of Hasbrook, Kenny and Mark Francis and Fritz Cataskis.

WITH THE END of the Little League season approaching, parents and members of the Gopher baseball team decided to hold another family picnic at Deer Grove after last Saturday's game. Among Terrace people present were the John Noerenbergs, Bob Hults, Bill Rosses, Chuck Dolejs, Bill Cardinells, Andy Reeds, George Maybees, Bob Gumzes and team manager, George Lilly and his family.

Relatives and neighbors were present when Doug Larson, son of Joan and Dick, 1245 N. Illinois, celebrated his third birthday, July 15. Present at the buffet dinner were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nussey and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Larson Sr., and aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Larson Jr., all of Chicago, along with neighbors, Marlene and David Pendleton and children, and the Bill Reinhardt family, former residents, of Mount Prospect.

La Rue and Andy Reed, 1328 Yale, are entertaining La Rue's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Simpson of Huntsville, Ala., this week. A highlight of their visit was a trip to Chicago's loop for authentic Mexican food, a special favorite of the Simpsons.

PHILLIPS, WIS., and surrounding area was the vacation site for the Neilsen family, 1252 N. Illinois. Enjoying two weeks of fishing and swimming were Ed and Marion and their boys, Bradley and Scott. After returning and getting settled at home, they hosted a family barbecue party this past weekend. Guests were Marion's sister, Mrs. Thor Neilsen and three children, visiting from Cornell, Wis., her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Soderstrom, and Ed's parents, all of Chicago.

Returning last week from a vacation trip to Bloomfield Hills, Mich., were John and Mary Ann Geer, 1515 Clarendon, and daughters, Nancy, Barbara and Laura Jean. They visited Mary Ann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Watson, made side trips to galleries and museums in Detroit and Bloomfield Hills.

Returning Sunday night from a 2-week vacation in Oklahoma City were Ralph and Shirley Landes, 1251 N. Chicago. While there, they introduced the newest member of the family, 2-month-old Laura Ann, to both sets of grandparents. Receiving salutes on "how they had grown," were grandsons, David, Steven and Scott.

Suburbanite Has Historic Slides

S. P. Mulley is an Arlington Heights man with a flair for photography and picture-slide collecting.

He has over 2,000 slides of scenes from the suburban area, Chicago, and from his travels across the United States.

Mulley, 74, of 308 S. Mitchell ave., has slides of buildings which were in the 1893 Columbia Exposition in Chicago. He made the slides years ago from a book on the exposition which he owns. They are all in color.

He said that only he and the Chicago Historical society have slides of many of the scenes depicted from the Columbia Exposition.

HE TOOK all his pictures on a 35 mm camera.

He lectures about six times a year before civic groups and for libraries, presenting 70 slides at a showing. He conducts these slide-shows as a hobby.

Mulley came from London, England. He was an optometrist in Chicago for 40 years.

Besides photography, he has as a hobby tracking down historical facts in English history. He built a 5-foot long model of the London Bridge, circa 1600. He constructed the bridge from the few woodcarved pictures in existence of the bridge. (A

Eastwood Events

Sunday night Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shuler and John and Jim returned to 205 N. Dryden after almost a month's vacation. First stop on their itinerary was the Barbershoppers' convention in Philadelphia. For three days the Shulers attended the contests, accompanied by local SPEBSQSA'ers, the Fred Jaspers, Dan Krebsbachs, Earl Auges, Kenneth Stevens and Stan Myers.

After all the convention festivities were over, the Shulers went on to Washington, D.C. and Williamsburg, touring the Civil War country. Final phase of their vacation was spent in Clearwater, Fla., where they visited with Mrs. Shuler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kennedy.

MR. AND MRS. Robert Glader and Billy and Gary of N. Brighton are back home after a week's stay at Christiana lodge in Edwardsburg, Mich. The Gladers spent last year's vacation there also and liked it so much they decided on a repeat performance. Friends from Elmhurst, the Donald Corydons, accompanied the Gladers.

Former Beverley lane residents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Anderson, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lindahl for dinner Saturday. The Lee Gustafsons and Turk Larsens were also dinner guests, while many former neighbors stopped by in the evening to say hello. The Andersons, who now live in Largo, Fla., are enroute to a vacation in California.

Sincerest condolences are extended to Mrs. Frank Soprano on the death of her father, Bohumil J. Hajicek. Mr. Hajicek, who made his home with the Sopranos on Beverley lane, died suddenly last Monday. Requiem mass was said at St. James Thursday with interment in St. Adalbert's cemetery.

Since the 9th of May Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sander have been residents in their new home at 210 N. Beverley lane. They formerly lived on the south side of Arlington Heights, but since Mr. Sander is a part owner of Beverly Bowling Lanes, his new residence is much closer to his place of business.

The Sanders are parents of two married daughters, both Arlington residents. Mrs. Sander is a real native, having been born and raised in Arlington Heights, as was her father. They are members of Faith Lutheran church. Eastwood extends the Sanders a sincere welcome to the community.

A BUSINESS trip to Minnesota and S. Dakota for Thomas Bart meant a week's vacation for his family, since they all went along to keep him company. In Minnesota they toured the ore mines at Duluth and spent two days in Minneapolis, mostly sightseeing the beautiful surrounding lakes. In Iowa they visited in Sioux Falls and Cedar Rapids. Besides Tommy, Timmy and Terry, Mrs. Bart's niece, Roseanne Nacco, shared in the week's fun. Roseanne, who has been visiting in Arlington, will return to her home in Pittsburgh Friday. (A

Why won't your wife let you buy this wagon?

"I wouldn't be caught dead in it."

Do these sound familiar? Your wife is not alone. It is hard to convince some women what sense the VW Station Wagon makes.

Its chunky shape, for instance, allows it to hold more than the biggest conventional wagon. (Yet it is a good four feet shorter, and a lot less exasperating to park.)

Your wife might like the easy way it loads. The wide side doors give her almost 16 sq. ft. for supermarket bags. Or an open baby carriage. Or an antique chest, standing up. Or delicate trees from the nursery. Or even an open playpen.

She can take eight or more Scouts, with cook-out gear. She can give the family plenty of sun. (Why no other station wagon has a sun-roof remains a mystery.) She won't ever have to worry about the radiator boiling over. There's no radiator, no water. (The VW engine is air-cooled.)

And if she likes to see where she's going, the VW wagon has incredible visibility.

If these facts don't convince her, then you might as well give up gracefully. (But before you do, bring her in for a drive. And don't be surprised if she does let you buy one.)

A & P Expands In Chicago Area With 17 New Stores

A & P Food stores' super market construction program in the Chicago trading area in 1961 will be "the greatest in history for a single year," M. E. Pierce, vice president of the Chicago branch said recently as he recapped results of the first half year.

The company has opened 17 super markets in the Chicago trading area since the beginning of 1961 — one at State and Palatine rds. in Arlington Heights and has plans for 12 more new stores this year.

In its broad expansion plan, A & P has spotted new stores in all sections of the Chicago area. The program has embraced the older areas of the city that are experiencing a resurgence of activity as well as established or newer communities outside Chicago that are showing rapid growth.

Pierce said the expansion program has received "wholehearted support and cooperation from Chicago and suburban community leaders."

FERD KRAMER, vice president of the commercial development division of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry, characterized the program as "typical of the dynamic growth we are now seeing in all phases of business and industry in the Chicago trading area today."

The super market opened in Arlington Heights on February 28 is typical of the company's new stores. It combines Early American architecture with contemporary interior decor and modern conveniences such as air conditioning, mechanized check-out counters, automatic doors and shadow-free lighting.

"WE TAILOR each store to the community in which it is located," said Pierce. "The shelf space allotted to certain items, for example, varies from store to store, depending on the preferences of local customers, and our regular lines of food merchandise are supplemented with kosher, Italian, Spanish and Swedish specialties for certain communities.

"This individualizing of each store demands a great deal of time and study, but it's been a sound investment. Customer response to our new stores has been excellent." (BB

Muriel Mills Instructing Dance Educators of America

An Arlington Heights dancing teacher is teaching instructors from all over the world, in New York City, as a member of the faculty of the Dance Educators of America Training School for Dance Teachers.

MURIEL MILLS

Muriel Mills, of the Mills-LeBlanc Dance studios, 402 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights, was invited to teach ballroom dancing at the 29th annual training school and convention of the Dance Educators of America. Sessions began July 19 and will continue through July 28.

Randy Moses, of the Mills-LeBlanc studio, is also attending the convention, as a student.

The training school offers prescribed courses based on university and college credit systems. Degrees are granted through the school upon completion of a prescribed number of credit hours. Degrees range from a certificate to a masters degree.

Mrs. Mills will teach daily ballroom instructions. Each class lasts for one full hour, divided into a 45 minute instruction period and a 15 minute practice period. Discussion sessions follow the class periods.

Other classes will include ballet, tap, children's work, modern jazz, character and novelty dancing.

Mrs. Mills has been a teacher of ballroom dancing since 1945 in the Chicago and northwest suburban areas. She is well known throughout the midwest for her work as a dance instructor and organizer for teenage and adult dance clubs. Study Shows Good Return For Super Mart Investors

"Compared to other retail business, the super market industry serves consumers at the lowest of net profits and at the same time provides a good return for investors," declares Curt Kornblau, research director for Super Market institute.

A typical group of super market companies belonging to the trade association reported an average net profit after taxes of 1.13 per cent in 1960, and earned 10.28 per cent of their net worth, Kornblau reported.

HE COMPARED this performance with the latest available (1959) figures on operating results and return on investment in other retail lines (as reported by Dun & Bradstreet):

Dry goods, 4.52 per cent net profit after taxes, 9.76 of tangible net worth; women's specialty shops, 2.42 and 7.23; shoes, 1.94 and 6.41; department stores, 2.03 and 5.84; hardware, 1.59 and 4.96; clothing, men's and women's 2.39 and 4.61; lumber and building materials, 1.92 and 4.54; clothing, men's and boys', 1.96 and 4.38; furnishings, men's 1.59 and 3.57; and furniture, 1.54 per cent and 3.03.

SUPER MARKET institute represents more than 10,000 retail food outlets doing an annual business of approximately $20 million. The institute defines a super market as a complete departmentalized food store with a sales volume of at least a million dollars a year. In 1960, super markets averaged sales of $1,850,000. (BB

Social Security Change Affects 160,000 Persons

A change in the social security law was made recently which reduces the length of time a person needs to have worked under social security to obtain retirement or survivor benefits.

Some 160,000 older persons will become eligible for cash benefits because of the change in the law — older men and women workers, their wives or dependent husbands and the widows, dependent widowers and aged dependent parents of workers who have died.

FIRST PAYMENTS to newly eligible persons can be made for the month of August, Julius Berman, northwest district manager of the social security administration, disclosed.

Under the new law, a man reaching 65, or a woman reaching 62, this year will need social security credit for only two and a half years of work under social security, instead of the old requirement of three and a quarter years.

A man who reached 65, or a woman who reached 62, before 1958 needs only a year and a half of work under social security to be eligible for social security retirement benefits.

The survivors of workers who died before 1958 may also become eligible for benefits under this change in the law if the worker before his death had earned social security credit for at least a year and a half.

It should be noted, Berman said, that credit for work under social security is counted in three-month "calendar quarters." Therefore, a person need not have worked for a continuous period of two and a half or one and a half years, as the case may be. Social security credit for calendar quarters earned at any time since 1936 can be counted toward the amount of work a person needs to get retirement benefits for himself or to qualify his family for dependent or survivor benefits.

IF A PERSON believes that he or someone in his family may now be eligible for benefits because of this change in the law, he should get in touch with his social security office.

Berman said no one can become entitled to benefits with a total of less than a year and a half of work in employment or self-employment covered by social security.

The northwest district social security office is located at 4255 Milwaukee ave., Chicago. DuPage county people are served by the district office located at 1124 Westgate ave., Oak Park.

Three Area Students Attend IBM Summer Training School

Three young men from this area are among 29 students attending a summer training program by International Business Machines corporation. They are George "Nick" Tuttle of Prospect Heights, Robert Bolas of Arlington Heights, and Robert Roosen of Mt. Prospect.

Roosen, who will be a sophomore at Washington university, St. Louis, next September, was among 15 students who took part in IBM's summer training program last year. He was invited to return for a more advanced, 12 week program this year. He will spend the first three weeks at IBM's Chicago education center learning to program and operate the new solid-state 1401 computer. At the conclusion of this training, he'll again be assigned to a branch office, where he'll work with the regular sales force on the installation of new equipment.

HE IS THE son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Roosen of 134 N. Elmhurst, Mt. Prospect.

Tuttle, who was graduated in June from Prospect high school and Bolas, a June graduate of Arlington high school, are taking part in a 10 week course. Five weeks will be devoted to computer concepts and learning to wire and operate various types of accounting machines. At the conclusion of this training, the young men will spend an additional five weeks working in the IBM branch office nearest their homes.

Tuttle, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George N. Tuttle, 12 E. Willow rd., Prospect Heights, is enrolled at Case Institute of Technology where he will major in electrical engineering. Bolas, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bolas, 630 S. Beverley lane, Arlington Heights, will enter DePauw university and plans on majoring in economics.

PRIMARY OBJECTIVE of the summer training program, according to A. L. Edwards of IBM's midwestern region education department, is to get students entering college next fall, and those already in college, interested in the data processing field.

Edwards added that "only a limited number of top high school students generally planning on majoring in mathematics, chemistry, engineering, or science, were picked for the program." They were recommended to IBM by high school officials. (BB

Kresge Stores Announce Credit Extension Program

John E. Hearst, financial vice president and treasurer of the S. S. Kresge company, announced the extension of the firm's credit program throughout some of the midwestern states beginning July 10.

On this date Kresge will offer credit in all Chicago and suburban Chicago stores and nine stores in northern Indiana. On July 25 the charge account program will be inaugurated in 26 downstate Illinois and two Iowa stores. By August 10 credit will be extended to the entire state of Wisconsin, upper Michigan and one store in Minnesota.

THE CREDIT program was begun in February, 1960 in the Michigan area. In March, 1961 the charge account plan was extended throughout the southeastern states. By August 10 credit will be offered in 233 of the firm's 675 stores.

Known as Kresge's thrifty charge plan, the credit program provides one plan for a thirty-day charge account or, at the customer's option, monthly payments.

Qualified charge account customers are given wallet-sized, charge plates. Bills are issued each month on an alphabetical "cycle-billing" pattern.

Larger stores, expanded lines and higher priced merchandise such as furniture, power tools, lawn equipment, hi-fi and television sets, small appliances and wearing apparel, along with the public's demand for charge-buying, have inspired the expansion of Kresge's credit program. (BB

Law Grads Offered 'Key' Positions By Air Force

It is not always possible for a young law graduate to step immediately into an important executive position, but those who choose to serve in the U.S. Air Force do just that, according to Sgt. Akers of Park Ridge, local recruiter.

Today, the air force offers the young lawyer an outstanding opportunity, as an air force officer, to make valuable contributions to the swiftly growing field of military law.

DURING HIS career, the Air Force lawyer grows in professional knowledge and ability in a practice of unusual scope and variety. "It includes every major field of law and ranges from trial work in criminal cases to participation in negotiations and drafting of agreements between the U.S. and foreign nations," said Akers.

The air force lawyer enjoys good pay, ample opportunity for advancement, the chance to earn graduate degrees, 30 days vacation a year, free medical care and a generous retirement plan.

SGT. AKERS or Sgt. Dyment have all the information concerning career opportunities for young lawyers and invites law graduates and students to visit their office at 100 Meacham ave., Park Ridge, or call TAlcott 3-0180 for appointment.

Kresge Stores Announce Credit Extension Program

John E. Hearst, financial vice president and treasurer of the S. S. Kresge company, announced the extension of the firm's credit program throughout some of the midwestern states beginning July 10.

On this date Kresge will offer credit in all Chicago and suburban Chicago stores and nine stores in northern Indiana. On July 25 the charge account program will be inaugurated in 26 downstate Illinois and two Iowa stores. By August 10 credit will be extended to the entire state of Wisconsin, upper Michigan and one store in Minnesota.

THE CREDIT program was begun in February, 1960 in the Michigan area. In March, 1961 the charge account plan was extended throughout the southeastern states. By August 10 credit will be offered in 233 of the firm's 675 stores.

Known as Kresge's thrifty charge plan, the credit program provides one plan for a thirty-day charge account or, at the customer's option, monthly payments.

Qualified charge account customers are given wallet-sized, charge plates. Bills are issued each month on an alphabetical "cycle-billing" pattern.

Larger stores, expanded lines and higher priced merchandise such as furniture, power tools, lawn equipment, hi-fi and television sets, small appliances and wearing apparel, along with the public's demand for charge-buying, have inspired the expansion of Kresge's credit program. (BB

Law Grads Offered 'Key' Positions By Air Force

It is not always possible for a young law graduate to step immediately into an important executive position, but those who choose to serve in the U.S. Air Force do just that, according to Sgt. Akers of Park Ridge, local recruiter.

Today, the air force offers the young lawyer an outstanding opportunity, as an air force officer, to make valuable contributions to the swiftly growing field of military law.

DURING HIS career, the Air Force lawyer grows in professional knowledge and ability in a practice of unusual scope and variety. "It includes every major field of law and ranges from trial work in criminal cases to participation in negotiations and drafting of agreements between the U.S. and foreign nations," said Akers.

The air force lawyer enjoys good pay, ample opportunity for advancement, the chance to earn graduate degrees, 30 days vacation a year, free medical care and a generous retirement plan.

SGT. AKERS or Sgt. Dyment have all the information concerning career opportunities for young lawyers and invites law graduates and students to visit their office at 100 Meacham ave., Park Ridge, or call TAlcott 3-0180 for appointment.

Frozen Lime, Ice Cream Pie Cooling As 'July Snowstorm'

"The most fabulous cook I've ever known," is the way a friend described the culinary achievements of Mrs. Amos W. Kalkhoff of Arlington Heights.

And one glance through the excellent recipes Mrs. Kalkhoff has shared with us is convincing proof that this lady not only has a flair for flavor but for foods with eye appeal as well.

"I have lived all over the United States and have collected recipes from all parts of the country," commented Mrs. Kalkhoff. "Fortunately my family takes new recipes in their stride," she continued, "because I really enjoy cooking and trying new things."

IN THE LUNCHEON menu featured today she has chosen foods that complement each other both flavor-wise and color-wise.

"Shrimp Fondue is one of my favorite luncheon recipes," said Mrs. Kalkhoff. "With it I like to serve either a tomato aspic with a cheese topping or Fruited Honey Dew Melon. I like the color contrast of the white-topped red aspic for winter while the fruited honey dew is nice for summer luncheons."

The fondue is a savory baked dish consisting of cooked shrimp and cheese assembled sandwich-fashion between slices of white bread with an egg-milk mixture poured over all. Baked for one hour, this light and appealing fondue is cut in squares and may be served with a mushroom sauce, if desired.

TOMATO ASPIC with Personality is an appropriate title for this good cook's salad recipe. Simple to prepare, this easy aspic calls for tomato sauce rather than juice which is combined with lemon jello and seasonings.

The unique aspect of this aspic is the white topping which is spread over the top of the molded salad. The topping combines salad dressing with cream cheese, lemon juice, chopped celery, pimento, green pepper and pecans. Unflavored gelatin is used as the congealing agent.

It is crunchy and flavorful and as attractive to look at as it is delicious to taste.

In the summertime Mrs. Kalkhoff take advantage of the luscious fruits on the market for her salads. She pares round slices of honey dew melon and heaps them with chilled assorted fruits such as bananas, bing cherries, apricots, plums and peaches garnished with sprigs of mint.

"COTTAGE CHEESE dotted with fresh strawberries makes an appealing dressing," commented Mrs. Kalkhoff, "or a honey dressing is also good."

This talented homemaker has a number of excellent recipes for luncheon rolls, and she makes whichever kind suits her fancy at the moment, be it croissants, buttermilk biscuits, oatmeal biscuits, cloverleaf rolls or Sally Lunns.

The Sally Lunns are a southern recipe common in Mrs. Kalkhoff's home town of Louisville. Her mother often made these sweet muffins which are cake-like in texture.

"THE BATTER may also be baked in a 9 by 9 inch tin," said Mrs. Kalkhoff, "and fresh huckleberries or blueberries are an agreeable addition."

And for a refreshing and colorful finale to a meal on a hot summer day, this cook's choice is a Frozen Lime Pie which, she says, "is as cooling as a snowstorm in July."

Attractive to the eye as well as the palate, this delicious tart dessert appeals to men as well as women. Made in a graham cracker crust, it consists of vanilla ice cream and a frozen lime mixture topped with graham cracker crumbs. The pie can be prepared days in advance and stored in the freezer.

THIS WHOLE menu is not only elegant luncheon fare, but is perfect for buffet suppers as well.

In addition to her culinary interests Mrs. Kalkhoff is very active in church work. She is a deaconess of the First Presbyterian church and is a Bible leader for her church circle. Mrs. Kalkhoff enjoys playing bridge for recreation and is a member of the Round Robin in Arlington Greens.

The Kalkhoffs live at 909 E. Olive in Arlington Heights. They have one daughter, Ann, who is a high school senior.

Ceiling Tile Rejuvenated

Patch a blemish in ceiling tile by using dry plaster or talcum powder. Just dampen the damaged area with a sponge or wet cloth, then thumb the dry powder into the depression.

Brush away the excess with a flick or two of a whisk broom; repeat if necessary to bring the patch to the level of the surrounding area.

A patch made in this way will dry without any sheen, matching the surface finish of the tile perfectly. (SH

Frozen Lime, Ice Cream Pie Cooling As 'July Snowstorm'

"The most fabulous cook I've ever known," is the way a friend described the culinary achievements of Mrs. Amos W. Kalkhoff of Arlington Heights.

And one glance through the excellent recipes Mrs. Kalkhoff has shared with us is convincing proof that this lady not only has a flair for flavor but for foods with eye appeal as well.

"I have lived all over the United States and have collected recipes from all parts of the country," commented Mrs. Kalkhoff. "Fortunately my family takes new recipes in their stride," she continued, "because I really enjoy cooking and trying new things."

Popular Painter Has Refreshing Approach

by LUCILE ERNST

If you went to the Peony Pageant in Elk Grove this summer, you probably noticed the work of George Rohrer. Most people did. His painting of McKenzie River in Canada won the popular vote as the best-liked picture in the exhibit. His painting deserved the honor. It is a blazing red and yellow sky with deep blue shadowed clouds and a shimmering river which reflects the setting sun.

Since so many people liked his paintings, I thought it might be interesting to know more about the artist.

GEORGE ROHRER

GEORGE ROHRER is a most refreshing person. He is both sensible and sensitive which is just about as rare a combination as you can find. A free lance commercial artist, he paints for the fun of it. His paintings are highly realistic because he likes to paint that way.

"Abstraction is a perfectly legitimate approach to art," George said, "I just don't prefer to paint that way. Perhaps some day I will. No artist should limit himself to one category."

A native of Chicago, Rohrer attended Lane high school and the American Academy of Art in Chicago. He studied privately under Zlatoff Mirskii and felt that he had had the greatest influence on the direction of his work.

The community of Skokie sponsored a one man show of George Rohrer's work several years ago and he has been exhibited extensively in the Chicago area.

ALTHOUGH MOST of his work is done in oils, Rohrer does beautiful work in water colors. He showed me two small landscapes, one a country scene and one a scene of the Dempster North Shore station.

I most enjoyed the landscapes of Chicago, done in oil. They radiated vitality and were done with a high degree of craftsmanship. As a rule I have always been completely unimpressed with still lifes. I just could never get too excited about them. Rohrer's were on exception. His feeling for texture is unusual and his ability to endow a composition with so much color and light is enviable.

"Composition With Fruit" is a meticulously done still life, a translucent pitcher, a shining copper bowl, bright fruit and a red drape. It would provide a focal point in any room, as an interior decorator would say. In all honesty, practically any woman would love to have it, which brings up a contradiction in middle class thinking.

PRACTICALLY any woman will go to almost any length to buy good and beautiful furniture. She will spend a small fortune on drapes, all in a determined effort to express herself and her very good taste in her own home. Then she will purchase some two dollar prints and hang them on the wall and be happy with them. It would be different if good original paintings were not available, but they are.

Right in our own neighborhoods, practically under our noses, are paintings which will express one's individuality much more than drapes or furniture. They won't look like everyone else's pictures. Do you suppose that that is the problem? We have really grown afraid to be different in any noticeable degree. This isn't what George Rohrer believes. He has a much more interesting theory, but I won't tell you about it now. I'll save it for another column. (Bill

THURS., JULY 20, 1961

Fair Show Slated

Glamor, thrills and top entertainment will arive in a giant package of 80 railroad cars and several trucks when the Royal American Shows move into State Fair Park for the 10-day Wisconsin State Fair, August 11-20.

Termed the world's largest traveling show, Royal American will set up a mile-long midway covering six acres in the southwest corner of the exposition grounds. More variety in exciting rides and midway shows will be offered night and day than has ever been available for the fun and thrills of State Fair spectators at West Allis.

THERE'S THE Calypso, engineered in Germany, offering dips and thrills in fast riding action and lit by more than 4,000 lights. A giant ride called "The Mouse" was built with special pride by Carl Sedlmayr, Royal American owner. The ride is portable, yet even larger than one that proved popular in the now-demolished old Fun City at State Fair Park.

Hand carving glamorizes the merry-go-round. This is one of 36 rides and 12 shows featured. The shows include the Club Lido Revue and the Leon Claxton Harlem Revue.

FUN FOR THE whole family can be found in the Pirate Ship fun house or the glass palace mirror maze. A monkey speedway, penny arcade, roller coaster, four Ferris wheels and a double-double Ferris wheel offer more samples of Royal American Shows variety and entertainment.

Seven giant towers will light the midway skies at night. Twelve diesel generators travel with the other equipment to provide enough light and electric energy for a city of 40,000 people. (Bill

by LUCILE ERNST

If you went to the Peony Pageant in Elk Grove this summer, you probably noticed the work of George Rohrer. Most people did. His painting of McKenzie River in Canada won the popular vote as the best-liked picture in the exhibit. His painting deserved the honor. It is a blazing red and yellow sky with deep blue shadowed clouds and a shimmering river which reflects the setting sun.

Since so many people liked his paintings, I thought it might be interesting to know more about the artist.

GEORGE ROHRER is a most refreshing person. He is both sensible and sensitive which is just about as rare a combination as you can find. A free lance commercial artist, he paints for the fun of it. His paintings are highly realistic because he likes to paint that way.

"Abstraction is a perfectly legitimate approach to art," George said, "I just don't prefer to paint that way. Perhaps some day I will. No artist should limit himself to one category."

A native of Chicago, Rohrer attended Lane high school and the American Academy of Art in Chicago. He studied privately under Zlatoff Mirskii and felt that he had had the greatest influence on the direction of his work.

The community of Skokie sponsored a one man show of George Rohrer's work several years ago and he has been exhibited extensively in the Chicago area.

GEORGE ROHRER

ALTHOUGH MOST of his work is done in oils, Rohrer does beautiful work in water colors. He showed me two small landscapes, one a country scene and one a scene of the Dempster North Shore station.

I most enjoyed the landscapes of Chicago, done in oil. They radiated vitality and were done with a high degree of craftsmanship. As a rule I have always been completely unimpressed with still lifes. I just could never get too excited about them. Rohrer's were on exception. His feeling for texture is unusual and his ability to endow a composition with so much color and light is enviable.

"Composition With Fruit" is a meticulously done still life, a translucent pitcher, a shining copper bowl, bright fruit and a red drape. It would provide a focal point in any room, as an interior decorator would say. In all honesty, practically any woman would love to have it, which brings up a contradiction in middle class thinking.

PRACTICALLY any woman will go to almost any length to buy good and beautiful furniture. She will spend a small fortune on drapes, all in a determined effort to express herself and her very good taste in her own home. Then she will purchase some two dollar prints and hang them on the wall and be happy with them. It would be different if good original paintings were not available, but they are.

Right in our own neighborhoods, practically under our noses, are paintings which will express one's individuality much more than drapes or furniture. They won't look like everyone else's pictures. Do you suppose that that is the problem? We have really grown afraid to be different in any noticeable degree. This isn't what George Rohrer believes. He has a much more interesting theory, but I won't tell you about it now. I'll save it for another column. (Bill

Glamor, thrills and top entertainment will arive in a giant package of 80 railroad cars and several trucks when the Royal American Shows move into State Fair Park for the 10-day Wisconsin State Fair, August 11-20.

Termed the world's largest traveling show, Royal American will set up a mile-long midway covering six acres in the southwest corner of the exposition grounds. More variety in exciting rides and midway shows will be offered night and day than has ever been available for the fun and thrills of State Fair spectators at West Allis.

THERE'S THE Calypso, engineered in Germany, offering dips and thrills in fast riding action and lit by more than 4,000 lights. A giant ride called "The Mouse" was built with special pride by Carl Sedlmayr, Royal American owner. The ride is portable, yet even larger than one that proved popular in the now-demolished old Fun City at State Fair Park.

Hand carving glamorizes the merry-go-round. This is one of 36 rides and 12 shows featured. The shows include the Club Lido Revue and the Leon Claxton Harlem Revue.

FUN FOR THE whole family can be found in the Pirate Ship fun house or the glass palace mirror maze. A monkey speedway, penny arcade, roller coaster, four Ferris wheels and a double-double Ferris wheel offer more samples of Royal American Shows variety and entertainment.

Seven giant towers will light the midway skies at night. Twelve diesel generators travel with the other equipment to provide enough light and electric energy for a city of 40,000 people. (Bill

University Program

American Theatre Is Topic of Conference

"Dialog: The American Theatre Today" is the title and theme of the Midwest Theatre Conference to be held on the campus of the University of Chicago, August 4-6.

Presented by University College in association with the American National Theatre and Academy (Chicago chapter), the American Educational Theatre Association, and the Illinois-Wisconsin Theatre Conference, the Midwest Theatre Conference is designed to institute public conversations on the problems and hopes shared by the professional and tributary theatres of America.

WITH THE commercial theatre on Broadway in serious financial trouble, with even the more modest off-Broadway theatre having difficulties, with the concurrent rise of the cabaret theatre in the major American cities and the flourishing health of the community and college theatres, the stage is set for a searching re-examination of the condition of the American theatre today.

Contributing to this dialog on the American theatre will be major figures from the professional theatre — producer-director Harold Clurman, designer Jo Mielziner, and actor Basil Rathbone; men from the academic world—philosopher Kenneth Burke, sociologist Reuel Denney, psycho-analyst Charles Kligerman, and art historian Joshua Taylor; and practitioners on the local theatrical scene —producer Carl Stohn of Drury Lane theatre and Mary Cattell of the Western Springs community theatre. Drama reviewers from the Chicago daily newspapers and columnist Irv Kupcinet will round out the weekend program of addresses, seminars, and panels.

Set against the conversations on the theatre will be four performances. The conference will open on Friday, August 4, at 5:30 p.m., with a reception at which the Second City company will perform its highly original satirical improvisations on the social scene. On Friday evening the Court Theatre company at the University will present Shakespeare's "Henry IV, Part 1," directed by James O'Reilly.

THE SATURDAY evening play will be Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author," directed by Norbert Hruby; and the conference will close formally on Sunday afternoon with a performance of "Ulysses in Nighttown," directed by Martin Roth. On Sunday evening there will be a concert reading by Basil Rathbone, an optional event not included in the conference fee.

On Sunday morning, August 6, there will be special workshops and meetings of the associated organizations, including the ninth annual Illinois-Wisconsin Theatre Conference of Community Theatres.

For further information write the University of Chicago Downtown Center, 64 East Lake st., Chicago 1, Illinois, or telephone FInancial 6-8300.

American Theatre Is Topic of Conference

"Dialog: The American Theatre Today" is the title and theme of the Midwest Theatre Conference to be held on the campus of the University of Chicago, August 4-6.

Presented by University College in association with the American National Theatre and Academy (Chicago chapter), the American Educational Theatre Association, and the Illinois-Wisconsin Theatre Conference, the Midwest Theatre Conference is designed to institute public conversations on the problems and hopes shared by the professional and tributary theatres of America.

WITH THE commercial theatre on Broadway in serious financial trouble, with even the more modest off-Broadway theatre having difficulties, with the concurrent rise of the cabaret theatre in the major American cities and the flourishing health of the community and college theatres, the stage is set for a searching re-examination of the condition of the American theatre today.

Contributing to this dialog on the American theatre will be major figures from the professional theatre — producer-director Harold Clurman, designer Jo Mielziner, and actor Basil Rathbone; men from the academic world—philosopher Kenneth Burke, sociologist Reuel Denney, psycho-analyst Charles Kligerman, and art historian Joshua Taylor; and practitioners on the local theatrical scene —producer Carl Stohn of Drury Lane theatre and Mary Cattell of the Western Springs community theatre. Drama reviewers from the Chicago daily newspapers and columnist Irv Kupcinet will round out the weekend program of addresses, seminars, and panels.

Set against the conversations on the theatre will be four performances. The conference will open on Friday, August 4, at 5:30 p.m., with a reception at which the Second City company will perform its highly original satirical improvisations on the social scene. On Friday evening the Court Theatre company at the University will present Shakespeare's "Henry IV, Part 1," directed by James O'Reilly.

THE SATURDAY evening play will be Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author," directed by Norbert Hruby; and the conference will close formally on Sunday afternoon with a performance of "Ulysses in Nighttown," directed by Martin Roth. On Sunday evening there will be a concert reading by Basil Rathbone, an optional event not included in the conference fee.

On Sunday morning, August 6, there will be special workshops and meetings of the associated organizations, including the ninth annual Illinois-Wisconsin Theatre Conference of Community Theatres.

For further information write the University of Chicago Downtown Center, 64 East Lake st., Chicago 1, Illinois, or telephone FInancial 6-8300.

Week's Best food buys

Wider selection of values in major foods by variety and price levels returns to area stores this week. Beef continues as the better red meat buy but is joined by some pork lines.

Turkeys join fryers as poultry meat bargains. Fresh vegetables mostly from nearby sources are improved market values.

Weighing factors that influence basic food budgets, the University of Illinois consumer service survey notes the following consensus values for the marketing period ending July 22:

MEATS — BEEF steaks, ground beef, chuck roasts, bacon, lamb chops, pork chops; poultry—turkeys, frying chickens; produce—lettuce, cabbage, tomatoes, potatoes, strawberries, melons, bananas, cherries.

Recent increasing costs of porkers apparently have topped out, as indicated by fractional declines at live markets and full pennies drops at wholesale.

At retail, where movement has been slowed by higher prices, quick efforts are seen to stimulate trade, such as bacon as a customer attraction with some stores slicing top brands by as much as 10 cents.

PORK CHOPS, too, become a value drawing card but on general competitive quotes retail tags show 85-95 cents. Bargain possibilities exist in pork rib roasts at 45-49 cents, loin end roasts 55-59 cents, spare ribs 59 cents, pork steaks 55-69 cents, fresh Boston butts 45-59 cents.

Heavy competition lowers bacon prices in many stores from the prevailing 69 cents for top brands.

RETAIL BEEF prices range more widely on 15 per cent greater supplies and generally stable costs, so that blade cut chuck pot roasts now survey quote 33-49 cents, round bone roasts 45-61 cents, heavier rib roasts 65-69 cents, and first four rib cuts 75-79 cents.

Ground beef ranges 45-55 cents with 55 cents the more general quote. Round steaks price a wide 69-89 cents, sirloins 75-$1.09 and porterhouse 89-$1.25.

Lamb receipts last week were the largest since May and 10 per cent greater than year-ago, live quotes off fractionally but with wholesale costs dropping as much as a penny.

RETAIL REFLECTED with leg roasts generally pegged 69 cents, although some stores note them at 59 cents and shoulder roasts mostly 39-45 cents. Shoulder chops quote 69-79 cents, rib chops top at 98 cents and loin chops $1.19.

The predicted flood of turkey supplies became clearly apparent, to trigger increased buyer activity that formed a bottom to the falling wholesale market—with overtones that the government may again start a purchasing program that will further firm prices.

But this week birds are retailing across a broad range of prices with 39 cents being a competitive top for toms and 43 cents on hens. Promotionally they're at least 10 cents a pound cheaper.

BUYING INTEREST in fryers declined after recent heavy promotions, broilers showing some new firmness at retail at prevailing 29-33 cent quotes. Egg markets still are unsettled, peak production having passed, but only top quality moved. A current government purchase program was discontinued on the seasonal supply drop. Wholesale moved in one direction, down a penny, while retail quotes firmed over last week to reach 49-55 cents on large sized grade A.

The most improved bargain in produce is lettuce, costs dropping sharply on increased supplies from nearby shipping points to wither effects of western lettuce.

SWEETCORN, while not rated as cheap, is of better quality and falling in cost. Increased volume but with widely ranging quality results in much lower prices for tomatoes.

Prices continue firm for such lines as carrots, cucumbers, peppers and green beans. Strawberries, while still better buys in some stores, show declining volume.

Peaches range widely in quality, maturity and price. Blueberries advanced sharply on weather injury of New Jersey crops. (SH

Summer Slimmers' Bar-B-Q Sauce For Meats, Poultry

Don't let unnecessary weight-watching spoil the summer fun of outdoor dining. Barbecues, for instance, can be pared down in calories just like meals cooked in the kitchen.

The trick is to baste foods with an easily-made low-caloried barbecue sauce like either of these given. This meat and poultry sauce contains only 10 calories per tablespoon, as against 23 calories found in a standard barbecue sauce.

USE IT on chicken and with frankfurter kabobs (frankfurter halves alternated on the spit with small white onions, whole mushrooms, green pepper and tomato slices). served with corn-on-the-cob and green salad, for a truly "kind to the waist-line" barbecue.

The ham and pork sauce contains a mere nine calories to the tablespoon. (These recipes were developed by the Jack Frost Sugar Test kitchens.)

Meat, Poultry Barbecue Sauce

¼ cup Jack Frost quick dissolving sugar
1 cup vinegar
1 cup water
2 tablespoons Worchestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon onion salt
½ teaspoon garlic powder
½ cup chili sauce

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Simmer for two minutes. Brush over meats and poultry as usual. Can be used as a marinade as well. Yield: 2 1/3 cups.

Ham and Pork Sauce

(For smoked meats and pork)

¼ cup Super-Soft light brown sugar
1 cup cider vinegar
1 cup water
¼ cup tomato paste
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon celery seed
1 clove garlic, mashed

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Simmer for two minutes. Brush over smoked meats and pork as usual. Can be used as a marinade as well. Yield: two cups. (SH

TO MAKE the "Easy Potato Salad" the Borden Kitchen-Way, just assemble the ingredients, mix, and set to chill. Serve when ready. To make it a full meal, offer piping hot biscuits made of packaged refrigerated dough, plus instant coffee which now comes with a distinctive percolated flavor.

Power Mower Mishaps Unnecessary: Expert

Trimming toes or heels with a power lawn mower is an unnecessary hazard when trimming the lawn, according to Edward R. Klamm of Arlington Heights, accident prevention director of Allstate Insurance companies.

"Power mowers are normally safe to operate," he points out, "but accidents are far too common because operators are not using the mowers properly."

Klamm says a recent California study shows injuries caused by power lawn mower accidents increased more than 40 per cent during a two-year period. Nearly half of all people disabled in these accidents were actively mowing the lawn when they were hurt, the report reveals.

"ONE INJURY out of every six was suffered in lifting a mower, one in eight resulted from trying to start the motor —either by using a crank or pulling the starter rope — and one in ten occurred when removing grease or foreign objects from the blades, or in taking off the grass catcher," he said.

With the increasing use of power mowers, it is essential that the public be aware of the dangers involved in operating these mowers.

The suburban safety expert offers the following safety tips for power mower users:

1. Disconnect the sparkplug wire or electrical plug whenever you want to work on the underside of the mower, as well as when you are refueling. If you do not know how to disconnect this wire or electrical plug for safety, ask your dealer to show you.

2. Thoroughly inspect the lawn before beginning to mow and clear it of all sticks, stones, wire and other debris. A mower can throw them with deadly force a great distance.

3. NEVER FILL the tank while the engine is hot or still running.

4. Tell children to stay away from the area you are mowing. Be especially careful that they do not get in line with the grass discharge side of the mower.

5. Stop the motor whenever you leave the mower. (Children are quick to try to operate an unattended mower, Allstate points out. Don't ever give them a chance to get seriously hurt).

6. Learn to disengage the clutch or to stop the motor quickly in case of emergency.

7. Never allow youngsters or inexperienced persons to operate a power mower.

8. NEVER USE a power mower barefoot. Protect your legs. Wear heavy shoes while mowing.

9. Cut grass on hills and banks sideways, not up and down.

10. Stand firmly behind the machine and stay in step with it. Don't run.

11. Do not use an electric power mower when grass is wet or when it is raining. Electric mowers should have the frame grounded through the cord.

12. Have your mower inspected thoroughly and kept in a good state of repair by an experienced serviceman at least once a year. (BB

Power Mower Mishaps Unnecessary: Expert

Trimming toes or heels with a power lawn mower is an unnecessary hazard when trimming the lawn, according to Edward R. Klamm of Arlington Heights, accident prevention director of Allstate Insurance companies.

"Power mowers are normally safe to operate," he points out, "but accidents are far too common because operators are not using the mowers properly."

Klamm says a recent California study shows injuries caused by power lawn mower accidents increased more than 40 per cent during a two-year period. Nearly half of all people disabled in these accidents were actively mowing the lawn when they were hurt, the report reveals.

"ONE INJURY out of every six was suffered in lifting a mower, one in eight resulted from trying to start the motor—either by using a crank or pulling the starter rope — and one in ten occurred when removing grease or foreign objects from the blades, or in taking off the grass catcher," he said.

With the increasing use of power mowers, it is essential that the public be aware of the dangers involved in operating these mowers.

The suburban safety expert offers the following safety tips for power mower users:

1. Disconnect the sparkplug wire or electrical plug whenever you want to work on the underside of the mower, as well as when you are refueling. If you do not know how to disconnect this wire or electrical plug for safety, ask your dealer to show you.

2. Thoroughly inspect the lawn before beginning to mow and clear it of all sticks, stones, wire and other debris. A mower can throw them with deadly force a great distance.

3. NEVER FILL the tank while the engine is hot or still running.

4. Tell children to stay away from the area you are mowing. Be especially careful that they do not get in line with the grass discharge side of the mower.

5. Stop the motor whenever you leave the mower. (Children are quick to try to operate an unattended mower, Allstate points out. Don't ever give them a chance to get seriously hurt).

6. Learn to disengage the clutch or to stop the motor quickly in case of emergency.

7. Never allow youngsters or inexperienced persons to operate a power mower.

8. NEVER USE a power mower barefoot. Protect your legs. Wear heavy shoes while mowing.

9. Cut grass on hills and banks sideways, not up and down.

10. Stand firmly behind the machine and stay in step with it. Don't run.

11. Do not use an electric power mower when grass is wet or when it is raining. Electric mowers should have the frame grounded through the cord.

12. Have your mower inspected thoroughly and kept in a good state of repair by an experienced serviceman at least once a year. (BB

ADVANCING FAMILY COMMUNITY LIFE

The Way We See It

Pastor Raps Growth Of Suburb Seclusion

The new stronghold of the "Fortress America" concept appears to be the suburbs. But with an essential difference. It is not an advocacy; it is an attitude. The suburbanite does not call for political isolation from the rest of the world; instead, he secludes himself from the problems of great moment to concentrate on crab grass and his barbecue pit.

This "crab grass curtain" he has erected to insulate himself from the external world is what a northwest suburban pastor correctly identifies as provincialism.

The Rev. Roy R. Winkelmann, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Elk Grove Village, touched on this topic during the course of a series of sermons he delivered from his pulpit on the Ten Commandments as they apply to modern life.

The minister's fourth sermon, in which he discussed the sixth and eighth admonitions of the Decalogue against killing and stealing, contained a particular message for the suburban dweller.

How can we kill a man? Aside from the direct approach of using a gun, there are subtler methods. "We can do so indirectly, by submitting him to disease-laden living conditions or dangerous working conditions. We can kill his hopes, destroy his dream, obliterate his self-respect. And he does not have to be a Negro or a migrant. He can be anyone — anyone in whom we intentionally or unthinkingly destroy something precious.

"You shall not steal. What can we steal from a man?" he asks. "His property? Yes. We can steal directly or indirectly. But we can steal more than property. We can steal his rights. We can steal his right to be a human being. We can steal his rights as an American citizen. We can put subversive labels on him and besmirch his good name. We can turn our tongues loose and steal his reputation."

These commandments specifically are concerned with "our duties to man," Rev. Winkelmann maintains. Their significance is seen when one asks, "What are these laws really expressing? To dare to find out is to bring one into sudden confrontation with his fellow man.

"Suddenly we discover that our religious faith is something more than peace and quiet in God's sanctuary, vital though that be; and something more than taking refuge in the privacy of our homes, vital though that be, too. "Suddenly," the minister says, "love for God is seen as love for one another. Suddenly, the parable of the Good Samaritan, and the words of Jesus . . . come to life.

"This is a blow to our provincialism, and provincialism is as rampant in the suburbs and in suburban churches as it is anywhere." The reasons for this, he admits, are apparent and somewhat justified. The desire to withdraw from the pressures and squalor of the inner city, to establish homes and neighborhoods in which our children can be given the advantages of good health and good companions, and all the responsibilities of getting this kind of community established were cited as motivations.

"But unless we remain quite alert, we find that the community in which we live tends to become our world," he said, reaching to the core of the new isolationism. "We erect a wall, an imaginary wall that can be as effective as though it exists physically. We forget the cries of the outside world. And it isn't just a matter of shutting ourselves in, but also of shutting the rest of the world out."

Rev. Winkelmann then approached an example which will challenge this outlook. Eventually, every suburban resident will have to face it. "What," he asks, "will be our reaction on that inevitable day — how far off we do not know — when the first colored family wants to buy a house in Elk Grove Village? We can assume that the man's income would be comparable to that of others in the village. We can also assume that he and his wife may be college graduates and possibly engaged in professional work. We may assume that they, too, will want to get away from the squalor and dirt, and raise their children in a wholesome atmosphere. On what ground, then, will we deny them the right to live among us?"

His question goes unanswered for the present. But when such an event occurs it will certainly topple the "crab grass curtain" and mean an end to suburban provincialism. It is when the outside world comes rushing in that men of good will must search their conscience and answer Rev. Winkelmann.

The Spread of Maturity

Many northwest suburbs have adopted the village manager form of government. Under this system, the manager is vested with wide hiring and appointive powers. Few appointments are left to the whim of the village president.

Consequently, the president usually guards jealously his authority to fill the office of village attorney. The attorney's is a lucrative position, both from the standpoint of prestige and remuneration. More often than not, the attorney appointee ends up being the president's personal friend, political ally or business associate.

This was not true of the recent attorney selection in Arlington Heights. Believing that the attorney should be retained for the benefit of all residents, Village President John G. Woods involved every member of the village board of trustees in the selection. Woods' opinion was only one of seven.

There were no "patronage" overtones attached to the hiring of Jack M. Siegel, a young lawyer specially trained in municipal and public law. President Woods relinquished a good deal of appointive power, but, we guess, gained a lot more personal satisfaction.

We admire the method of selection used in Arlington Heights. This democratic process of hiring a village attorney indicates a significant maturity in attitude toward government. Now we'd like to see this maturity spread to other area communities.

PROVINCE OF SUBURBIA (PARADISE)
POSTED: WORLD KEEP OUT
YOU KEEP YOUR PROBLEMS WE'VE GOT OURS!

All Are in Danger . . .

Is Mankind Rushing Blindly Into Total Annihilation?

by DICK HOFFMANN

Peace should be our most important product, to parody the slogan of an electrical firm. For if it isn't, progress certainly won't be.

All that man has faced in his brief existence on earth, including bubonic plague, famine, extermination camps and other forms of mass misery, pales before the peril he is now in danger of engaging.

The mushroom cloud is a lingering malignancy in our lives. Its reign would mean an "absolutely irreparable calamity for the world," in the words of Pundit Walter Lippmann. His view is shared by such diverse personages as General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review; former President Eisenhower, and Nobel Prize-winning scientist Linus Pauling.

LIPPMANN, who favors negotiating our differences, observes that you "can't decide these questions of life and death for the world by epithets like appeasement." He warns that the greatest threat to world peace is having America and Russia backed into a position of intransigence from which neither can retreat without loss of face, and the catastrophic consequences of reaching such a verbal dead end

Columnist Sydney J. Harris recently pointed out that even if we "won" the next war, the terrible cost extracted would require the establishment of an absolute central government to rebuild society. His contention, set forth as a dream he experienced, is that, "The men who had pulled us into war, crying, 'life wouldn't be worth living under communism!' found that, having won the war, we were now living under something very much like communism."

We persist in speaking in World War II terms about the balance of power and lines of defense as if Satan's child did not exist. The military budgets of America and Russia testify to the medieval (perhaps it is Neanderthal) thinking which prevails. Russia rattles sabres and cancels its manpower cuts; we react in kind.

EITHER SIDE already possesses enough explosive force to turn the earth into an inferno of finality, a celestial punctuation mark which would close the chapter on Homo Sapiens and a few other species besides.

They have bombs now which make Hiroshima look like a hiccup and the island they erased in the Pacific a slight case of indigestion (The mathematically oriented can consult multiplication tables to consider the ultimate consequences.)

We fret over Cuba being a "dagger" aimed at our vulnerable flank, and Russia displays her historical fear of Germany, although these are things outdated by missile technology in which Havana and Hamburg are obscure halfway stations on the map by way of intercontinental ballistics trips.

THERE IS, of course, another consideration that is cause for concern. That is the mentality of the possessor of the ultimate weapon. Castro has, at times, demonstrated an instability and unpredictability which makes one wonder if a psychiatrist's services might prove useful. The German mentality, which has twice visited untold want and horror on modern mankind, is equally suspect. There are reports that militarists once dutiful to the Nazi viewpoint occupy positions of responsibility in the Bonn government, and only Konrad Adenhauer's iron will has, so far, checked the surge of German nationalism.

As the nuclear club grows, how long will it take before irresponsible forces unleash the Apocalypse? The slumbering dragon has stirred. Its appetites are sending shudders through Russian dreams as well as American consciousness. The Chinese giant appears inflexible, dogmatic. The philosophy of the Far East does not embrace life, it negates it. Individual life is not precious; it is expendable.

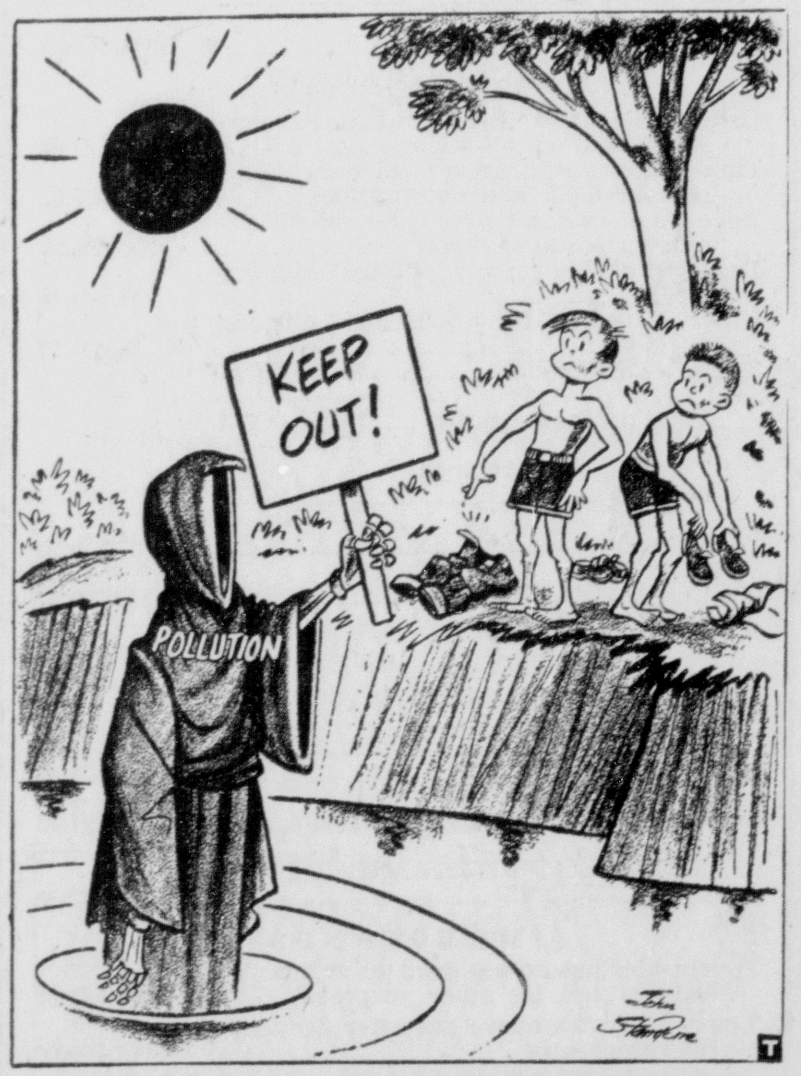
We tend to view Russia in comparable terms. But the heirs of Tolstoy and Dostoevsky are not without humanity, even if their leaders appear arrested in outlook. In our time, Pasternak has spoken out against pillorizing the individual in the stocks of the state as well as decrying Western materialism. A Russian engineer named Oleg Lenchevsky who recently defected to England, expressed an obligation of a higher order to his fellow man than to the national soveriegn state in a letter to Khrushchev.

He did not find fault with Soviet communism as such, but he noted: "I am possessed by the conviction that every kind of intolerance toward any kind of person, be it even for the sake of loftiest ideals, is nothing but a tremendous anachronism in our atomic and space age, which has come upon us so suddenly — an anachronism which can only be explained by the existence of a certain time-gap between human thinking and reality.

"I am profoundly convinced, Nikita Sergeyevich, that only through the greatest tolerance toward all heterodox individuals, including even those whose thought is hostile, is the only means of salvation for humanity from mass fratricide and degeneration . . . and that no alternative exists in our age . ."

I DO NOT suggest that we adopt the ostrich's posture toward a fight, but I do believe this is one fight that should be conducted at the conference tables. We do not allow our children to annihilate each other. For there is an alternative, a terrifying one, and that is to choose the path of the dinosaur. We all are in danger of becoming anachronisms.

The Ol' Swimming Hole



Will this happen in northwest suburbs? Is untreated sewage being poured into rivers, lakes and streams in north Cook and DuPage counties?

In addition to making recreational facilities unusable, pollution can endanger health and seriously affect the supply of pure water. Proper facilities for treatment of waste material are not nearly so costly as endangering public health. Municipal and township officials would be wise to cooperate with county and state authorities in examining the area situation, plan future needs, and initiate any necessary improvements.

Faith Viewed By Outsider

'Heretic' Poses Good Questions on Church

by MARTIN E. MARTY

A couple of weeks ago I reviewed a book called "The Death of God"; some readers thought that the author and the reviewer were saying "There is no God." Not at all — we were discussing the ways in which our culture operates with no real concern for the presence of God.

So, today, I hope no one will read anything wrong into it if I discuss the book "The Faith of A Heretic" (Doubleday, $4.95) by Walter Kaufmann. I believe it to be an interesting and important book and can recommend it—but that doesn't mean I agree with its assumptions. Just the opposite; perhaps that makes it all the more important.

I have met the author a number of times and each has been a pleasant if somewhat off-beat encounter. Once we weathered three and a half hours on a David Susskind "open end" show together; a year later at Detroit we were to debate "organized religion" before a packed auditorium.

Mr. Kaufmann is a professor at Princeton university. He was born a Jew, turned Lutheran, and is now agnostic. I like to say that because I like to commiserate with Jews, commune with Lutherans, and communicate with agnostics (and probably try to convert all three). He is "my favorite people" rolled into one.

A BOOK criticizing traditional belief in God, in the Christian faith, and in organized religion from his hand is, in a sense, a sort of flattery. Not many critics of the church take it seriously enough to set down their thoughts.

Further, Kaufmann unlike many non-Christians takes some pains to see what is actually believed in the churches. Many critics satirize beliefs that few in Christian circles hold.

So any Christian reading his book will find his own faith somehow challenged and, no doubt, purified. In defense of honesty and in criticism of much of the sham, pretense, and pure hokum that often goes along with organized religion, Kaufmann asks many questions that few in the churches—which ought to be self-reforming institutions—bother to raise.

Still, the Christian reader will find the book somehow falling flat for him. Evidently it is impossible to "get inside" another faith. I did about three years' research on free thought and agnosticism for the writing of a book that will appear this fall. After reading literally tens of thousands of pages of non-Christian writing it occurred to me that never once had it crossed my mind to believe whát I was reading. Maybe that is how people outside the churches dismiss Christianity.

FOR ONE THING, Kaufmann often acts as if he first discovered difficulties in the faith. But what Christian has not often wrestled with the mysteries of life: how can a good God permit suffering; what about His judgment? Is every aspect of Old Testament religion ennobling? What about theologians who disagree with each other? Etc. etc. For Kaufmann these are somewhat academic questions with which to twit Christians. For Christians these were life-and-death questions which they see resolved daily in the downward reach of God.

Space does not permit me to go into the detail of the argument. Those who would like to be brought up to date with a view of how the churches look to outside critics would do well to start—and finish—with Walter Kaufmann's newest book.

Motor Mileage To Set Record

Motor vehicle mileage traveled in Illinois is averaging more than 100 million miles daily and the total mileage for 1961 is expected to exceed 37 billion miles.

More than 60 per cent of motor vehicle travel is by motorists getting to and from work each day, said officials of the Illinois Department of Public Works and Buildings.

Suburbs Gain

Population gain in the suburbs of America's leading cities was 47.2 per cent in the past decade, up from about 36 million in 1950 to 53.3 million in 1960. During the same period the 189 metropolitan areas grew only half that much, some 24.3 per cent.

Concentration

Illinois gained 1,368,982 in population between 1950 and 1960 and 96 per cent of this gain was concentrated in eight metropolitan areas, reports the Bureau of Census. In 1950 Illinois had a population of 8,712,176 and in 1960, 10,081,158.

Quotoons

I think great men appear to be dumb, at times, for a reason: there is a lot of satisfaction in watching what the other fellow does when he thinks he is outsmarting you.

I challenge anyone to show me a more beautiful sight than a happy child.

Ancestors are the roots of the family, but it is always well to remember that they are buried roots.

It takes more discipline of the mind to forget things

than it does to remember

I have loaned so many things to people without ever getting them back that I sometimes wish that I had given them away in the first place.

Vast School Growth Seen

The population explosion of the 1960's threatens to burst American schools at the seams, according to a national survey released by the National Education Association.

Between 1960 and 1970, the report said, the number of young Americans of high-school age will increase almost four times as fast as the number of wage-earners who must foot the bill for their education.

THE REPORT was based on a United States Census Bureau survey, financed by the NEA.

The Census Bureau forecast that the high-school-age group will increase by 43 per cent during the 1960's, from 11,000,000 to 16,000,000, in round numbers.

The combined grade school-high school age group will jump by 24 per cent, from 44,000,000 to 54,000,000, and the college age group by 57 per cent, from 9,000,000 to 14,500,000.

Illinois Voters 'Cheated' By Failure to Redistrict

Illinois voters indeed will be cheated if the state General Assembly does not work out a program for redistricting congressional districts in time for the expected special session.

The alternative — state-wide election of twenty-four U.S. Representatives — will result in confusing, time-consuming and less intelligent voting by the electorate confronted with a long ballot, which probably would be on paper rather than a machine.

Also, some districts could find themselves without representation, with other districts having multi-representation. And, technically-speaking, none would have specific representation.

Another possible effect is the weakening of Illinois influence in Congress. A number of incumbent Republican and Democratic Congressmen hold important committee assignments by virtue of their seniority. Should either group lose en masse, or substantially, not only will the individual districts suffer but the state as a whole, as well.

SOME Republicans relish the prospect of state-wide congressional elections. They foresee the defeat of entrenched Chicago Democrats. But they are forsaking the interest of every citizen, directly or indirectly.

Continuously, since 1862, legislation implementing the U.S. Constitution has required the election of Representatives by districts. Federal law no longer specifically prescribes that congressional districts be "composed of a contiguous and compact territory * * * containing as nearly as practicable an equal number of inhabitants." However, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Black has argued persuasively that an earlier Illinois reapportionment act, which provided glaringly unequal representation favoring special classes and groups, should have been invalidated because it violated the constitutionally guaranteed right to vote and the right to have one's vote counted.

WITH ALL due respect to Mayor Daley, his position is inimical to the general welfare of the state and ignores the true political principles that should be controlling. For one, Chicago voters' interests must not be protected to the detriment of suburban and downstate voters. And another, the responsibility for reapportionment lies with the General Assembly and not the Congressmen themselves.

Both Democrats and Republicans must make every effort to achieve an equitable solution. If all will accept the real and crucial need for district representation, that one seat is to be lost and that this loss must be felt by the area which has suffered the greatest population loss, there can be no real disagreement.

Welfare State Offers Threat

Not being an advocate of the John Birch Society, I found your editorial of July 6 most interesting. However, being a most dedicated American, I am not a socialist in favor of a welfare state. One thing that concerns me: an over-emphasis of one phase, and lack of another. Are readers informed of the tracking of Laski Keyner, or the philosophy of the Fabian Society?

We the people are often accused of being complacent. Could it be we are alerted of one threat, when the other that provides an overdose of soothing syrup could be the danger? Due to knowledge being so limited on socialism, people accept something for nothing from big government, when in reality it usurps every individual freedom and in time resembles those we are at odds with today.

Not being so biased, I enjoy all opinions and always a sincere hope, never to be lulled by any faction that would seek to destroy our America.

School Board Offers Thanks

On behalf of the board of education of district 24 I wish to extend a sincere vote of thanks to Paddock Publications, district 25 board of education, Wilson PTA, Arlington Knolls Home Owners association, Hasbrook Civic association, Lynwood Home Owners association, Pinegate Improvement association and Wilson Community Kindergarten association, and to all citizens who—in the interest of a unified school community and an optimum size school district—helped to bring about the successful annexation of district 24 to district 25.

We also wish to thank our many school patrons who have helped in many ways during our years of operation as a school district and trust that they will continue their fine support of the educational and building program of the newly enlarged school area.

Administrators of both districts and the director of instruction, business manager, buildings and grounds director, and consultants of district 25 are to be commended for their efficient and professional manner of handling all details pertinent to annexation.

News Story Had 'Errors'

I should like to call to your attention certain omissions and errors to be found in the reporting by the Mount Prospect Herald of my appearance before the high school board on July 6, 1961. This appearance was made at the invitation of several of the board members, including Mrs. Chapman, Mr. Fyfe, Mr. Oldaker, and Mr. Laubenheimer, in order to answer certain questions which had arisen in a finance committee meeting concerning the possible effects of changes in the salary schedule of the high school district on those of the elementary districts.

My presentation dealt with the number of teachers in the Mt. Prospect system (district 57) qualified to teach either elementary or high school subjects, a brief description of the 1961-62 salary schedule of district 57 along with the thoughts behind this schedule, a comparison of the starting salaries of college graduates in industry and in teaching in this area, and a similar comparison of the monthly salaries of teachers and engineers after ten years.

Salient points of this discussion included the following items:

1. The desirability of a teacher's having a Master's degree in certain areas of the junior high school curriculum due to the need for subject depth.
2. The fact that over 20 per cent of the present staff of district 57 possess certificates qualifying them for high school teaching.
3. The observation that inexperienced college graduates in this area currently receive similar salaries whether they are in teaching or in industry, but that after 10 years teachers may receive 20-30 per cent less than persons of similar experience in industry.
4. THE INEQUITY (obvious from point 3) in raising the salaries of all teachers by either a fixed percentage or a fixed amount, but rather the desirability of adjusting the salary of the inexperienced teacher only to meet prevailing salaries or increased costs of living, while markedly increasing the annual increments in the salary schedule to reward the experienced teacher more adequately.

These points were not mentioned at all in your article and thus constitute the omissions to which I initially referred. The errors, on the other hand, were made in ascribing to me surprise at the differences noted by Mr. Dougan in the base salaries for the inexperienced Master's degree person in the high school and elementary districts. I am, and was, well aware of these differences since such data on these and many other systems are made available to all district 57 board members during the consideration of future salary policies. I had, in fact, just finished reviewing this information prior to the meeting.

In conclusion, may I say that the failure of your staff to report completely and accurately the essential points of this one item of business of the high school board leads me to question how many other discussions conducted at previous meetings of this board may have been reported in a similarly inaccurate manner.

She Spoke for Herself Only

In your July 6 issue of the Arlington Heights Herald you featured a story on park annexation for the area south of the village. This area is to be roughly bounded by Central, Busse, Kirchoff and the toll road.

May I please extend my thanks to your publication for your interest and fine coverage but also take this opportunity to inform you that the opinions expressed were strictly my own and not those of the committee. At the most recent committee meeting it was decided to recommend that the area residents strive to form an independent park district.

REGARDING THE new bill introduced in the recent Illinois legislative session, property owners owning twenty (20) acres or more, rather than ten (10), would be required to give specific consent before annexation, not two (2) acres as stated. This bill has passed both houses but as of July 6 was still awaiting the governor's signature.

The knowledge that we may depend upon your fine newspaper for further coverage has proved most encouraging to us on the committee.

A bore is a man who is forever putting his feats in his mouth.

Politeness is a courtesy you show a salesman while he tries to sell you something at the front door—and lets a few flies in.

Personality is what makes people look up to a man—especially after they get to know him better.

When you are able to swallow your pride, it will never upset your soul or your stomach.

A great many persons know how to sprint at the start of a new thing—but it is the fellow who still has his wind on the home stretch who is ahead in the end.

SUBURBAN PRESS FOUNDATION

The Way We See It

Pastor Raps Growth Of Suburb Seclusion

The new stronghold of the "Fortress America" concept appears to be the suburbs. But with an essential difference. It is not an advocacy; it is an attitude. The suburbanite does not call for political isolation from the rest of the world; instead, he secludes himself from the problems of great moment to concentrate on crab grass and his barbecue pit.

This "crab grass curtain" he has erected to insulate himself from the external world is what a northwest suburban pastor correctly identifies as provincialism.

The Rev. Roy R. Winkelmann, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Elk Grove Village, touched on this topic during the course of a series of sermons he delivered from his pulpit on the Ten Commandments as they apply to modern life.

The minister's fourth sermon, in which he discussed the sixth and eighth admonitions of the Decalogue against killing and stealing, contained a particular message for the suburban dweller.

How can we kill a man? Aside from the direct approach of using a gun, there are subtler methods. "We can do so indirectly, by submitting him to disease-laden living conditions or dangerous working conditions. We can kill his hopes, destroy his dream, obliterate his self-respect. And he does not have to be a Negro or a migrant. He can be anyone — anyone in whom we intentionally or unthinkingly destroy something precious.

"You shall not steal. What can we steal from a man?" he asks. "His property? Yes. We can steal directly or indirectly. But we can steal more than property. We can steal his rights. We can steal his right to be a human being. We can steal his rights as an American citizen. We can put subversive labels on him and besmirch his good name. We can turn our tongues loose and steal his reputation."

These commandments specifically are concerned with "our duties to man," Rev. Winkelmann maintains. Their significance is seen when one asks, "What are these laws really expressing? To dare to find out is to bring one into sudden confrontation with his fellow man.

"Suddenly we discover that our religious faith is something more than peace and quiet in God's sanctuary, vital though that be; and something more than taking refuge in the privacy of our homes, vital though that be, too. "Suddenly," the minister says, "love for God is seen as love for one another. Suddenly, the parable of the Good Samaritan, and the words of Jesus . . . come to life.

"This is a blow to our provincialism, and provincialism is as rampant in the suburbs and in suburban churches as it is anywhere." The reasons for this, he admits, are apparent and somewhat justified. The desire to withdraw from the pressures and squalor of the inner city, to establish homes and neighborhoods in which our children can be given the advantages of good health and good companions, and all the responsibilities of getting this kind of community established were cited as motivations.

"But unless we remain quite alert, we find that the community in which we live tends to become our world," he said, reaching to the core of the new isolationism. "We erect a wall, an imaginary wall that can be as effective as though it exists physically. We forget the cries of the outside world. And it isn't just a matter of shutting ourselves in, but also of shutting the rest of the world out."

Rev. Winkelmann then approached an example which will challenge this outlook. Eventually, every suburban resident will have to face it. "What," he asks, "will be our reaction on that inevitable day — how far off we do not know — when the first colored family wants to buy a house in Elk Grove Village? We can assume that the man's income would be comparable to that of others in the village. We can also assume that he and his wife may be college graduates and possibly engaged in professional work. We may assume that they, too, will want to get away from the squalor and dirt, and raise their children in a wholesome atmosphere. On what ground, then, will we deny them the right to live among us?"

His question goes unanswered for the present. But when such an event occurs it will certainly topple the "crab grass curtain" and mean an end to suburban provincialism. It is when the outside world comes rushing in that men of good will must search their conscience and answer Rev. Winkelmann.

The Spread of Maturity

Many northwest suburbs have adopted the village manager form of government. Under this system, the manager is vested with wide hiring and appointive powers. Few appointments are left to the whim of the village president.

Consequently, the president usually guards jealously his authority to fill the office of village attorney. The attorney's is a lucrative position, both from the standpoint of prestige and remuneration. More often than not, the attorney appointee ends up being the president's personal friend, political ally or business associate.

This was not true of the recent attorney selection in Arlington Heights. Believing that the attorney should be retained for the benefit of all residents, Village President John G. Woods involved every member of the village board of trustees in the selection. Woods' opinion was only one of seven.

There were no "patronage" overtones attached to the hiring of Jack M. Siegel, a young lawyer specially trained in municipal and public law. President Woods relinquished a good deal of appointive power, but, we guess, gained a lot more personal satisfaction.

We admire the method of selection used in Arlington Heights. This democratic process of hiring a village attorney indicates a significant maturity in attitude toward government. Now we'd like to see this maturity spread to other area communities.

All Are in Danger . . .

by DICK HOFFMANN

Peace should be our most important product, to parody the slogan of an electrical firm. For if it isn't, progress certainly won't be.

All that man has faced in his brief existence on earth, including bubonic plague, famine, extermination camps and other forms of mass misery, pales before the peril he is now in danger of engaging.

The mushroom cloud is a lingering malignancy in our lives. Its reign would mean an "absolutely irreparable calamity for the world," in the words of Pundit Walter Lippmann. His view is shared by such diverse personages as General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review; former President Eisenhower, and Nobel Prize-winning scientist Linus Pauling.

LIPPMANN, who favors negotiating our differences, observes that you "can't decide these questions of life and death for the world by epithets like appeasement." He warns that the greatest threat to world peace is having America and Russia backed into a position of intransigence from which neither can retreat without loss of face, and the catastrophic consequences of reaching such a verbal dead end

Columnist Sydney J. Harris recently pointed out that even if we "won" the next war, the terrible cost extracted would require the establishment of an absolute central government to rebuild society. His contention, set forth as a dream he experienced, is that, "The men who had pulled us into war, crying, 'life wouldn't be worth living under communism!' found that, having won the war, we were now living under something very much like communism."

We persist in speaking in World War II terms about the balance of power and lines of defense as if Satan's child did not exist. The military budgets of America and Russia testify to the medieval (perhaps it is Neanderthal) thinking which prevails. Russia rattles sabres and cancels its manpower cuts; we react in kind.

EITHER SIDE already possesses enough explosive force to turn the earth into an inferno of finality, a celestial punctuation mark which would close the chapter on Homo Sapiens and a few other species besides.

They have bombs now which make Hiroshima look like a hiccup and the island they erased in the Pacific a slight case of indigestion (The mathematically oriented can consult multiplication tables to consider the ultimate consequences.)

We fret over Cuba being a "dagger" aimed at our vulnerable flank, and Russia displays her historical fear of Germany, although these are things outdated by missile technology in which Havana and Hamburg are obscure halfway stations on the map by way of intercontinental ballistics trips.

THERE IS, of course, another consideration that is cause for concern. That is the mentality of the possessor of the ultimate weapon. Castro has, at times, demonstrated an instability and unpredictability which makes one wonder if a psychiatrist's services might prove useful. The German mentality, which has twice visited untold want and horror on modern mankind, is equally suspect. There are reports that militarists once dutiful to the Nazi viewpoint occupy positions of responsibility in the Bonn government, and only Konrad Adenhauer's iron will has, so far, checked the surge of German nationalism.

As the nuclear club grows, how long will it take before irresponsible forces unleash the Apocalypse? The slumbering dragon has stirred. Its appetites are sending shudders through Russian dreams as well as American consciousness. The Chinese giant appears inflexible, dogmatic. The philosophy of the Far East does not embrace life, it negates it. Individual life is not precious; it is expendable.

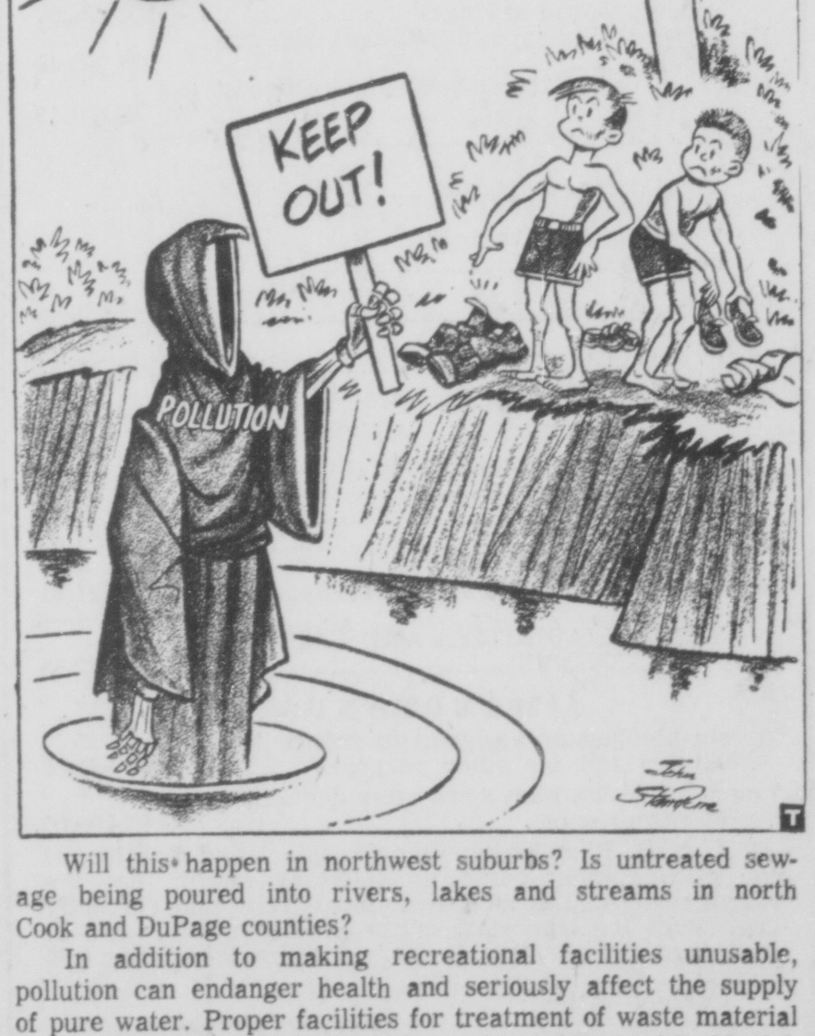
We tend to view Russia in comparable terms. But the heirs of Tolstoy and Dostoevsky are not without humanity, even if their leaders appear arrested in outlook. In our time, Pasternak has spoken out against pillorizing the individual in the stocks of the state as well as decrying Western materialism. A Russian engineer named Oleg Lenchevsky who recently defected to England, expressed an obligation of a higher order to his fellow man than to the national soveriegn state in a letter to Khrushchev.

He did not find fault with Soviet communism as such, but he noted: "I am possessed by the conviction that every kind of intolerance toward any kind of person, be it even for the sake of loftiest ideals, is nothing but a tremendous anachronism in our atomic and space age, which has come upon us so suddenly — an anachronism which can only be explained by the existence of a certain time-gap between human thinking and reality.

"I am profoundly convinced, Nikita Sergeyevich, that only through the greatest tolerance toward all heterodox individuals, including even those whose thought is hostile, is the only means of salvation for humanity from mass fratricide and degeneration . . . and that no alternative exists in our age . ."

I DO NOT suggest that we adopt the ostrich's posture toward a fight, but I do believe this is one fight that should be conducted at the conference tables. We do not allow our children to annihilate each other. For there is an alternative, a terrifying one, and that is to choose the path of the dinosaur. We all are in danger of becoming anachronisms.

The Ol' Swimming Hole



Will this happen in northwest suburbs? Is untreated sewage being poured into rivers, lakes and streams in north Cook and DuPage counties?

In addition to making recreational facilities unusable, pollution can endanger health and seriously affect the supply of pure water. Proper facilities for treatment of waste material are not nearly so costly as endangering public health. Municipal and township officials would be wise to cooperate with county and state authorities in examining the area situation, plan future needs, and initiate any necessary improvements.

Faith Viewed By Outsider

'Heretic' Poses Good Questions on Church

by MARTIN E. MARTY

A couple of weeks ago I reviewed a book called "The Death of God"; some readers thought that the author and the reviewer were saying "There is no God." Not at all — we were discussing the ways in which our culture operates with no real concern for the presence of God.

So, today, I hope no one will read anything wrong into it if I discuss the book "The Faith of A Heretic" (Doubleday, $4.95) by Walter Kaufmann. I believe it to be an interesting and important book and can recommend it—but that doesn't mean I agree with its assumptions. Just the opposite; perhaps that makes it all the more important.

I have met the author a number of times and each has been a pleasant if somewhat off-beat encounter. Once we weathered three and a half hours on a David Susskind "open end" show together; a year later at Detroit we were to debate "organized religion" before a packed auditorium.

Mr. Kaufmann is a professor at Princeton university. He was born a Jew, turned Lutheran, and is now agnostic. I like to say that because I like to commiserate with Jews, commune with Lutherans, and communicate with agnostics (and probably try to convert all three). He is "my favorite people" rolled into one.

A BOOK criticizing traditional belief in God, in the Christian faith, and in organized religion from his hand is, in a sense, a sort of flattery. Not many critics of the church take it seriously enough to set down their thoughts.

Further, Kaufmann unlike many non-Christians takes some pains to see what is actually believed in the churches. Many critics satirize beliefs that few in Christian circles hold.

So any Christian reading his book will find his own faith somehow challenged and, no doubt, purified. In defense of honesty and in criticism of much of the sham, pretense, and pure hokum that often goes along with organized religion, Kaufmann asks many questions that few in the churches —which ought to be self-reforming institutions—bother to raise.

Still, the Christian reader will find the book somehow falling flat for him. Evidently it is impossible to "get inside" another faith. I did about three years' research on free thought and agnosticism for the writing of a book that will appear this fall. After reading literally tens of thousands of pages of non-Christian writing it occurred to me that never once had it crossed my mind to believe what I was reading. Maybe that is how people outside the churches dismiss Christianity.

FOR ONE THING, Kaufmann often acts as if he first discovered difficulties in the faith. But what Christian has not often wrestled with the mysteries of life: how can a good God permit suffering; what about His judgment? Is every aspect of Old Testament religion ennobling? What about theologians who disagree with each other? Etc. etc. For Kaufmann these are somewhat academic questions with which to twit Christians. For Christians these were life-and-death questions which they see resolved daily in the downward reach of God.

Space does not permit me to go into the detail of the argument. Those who would like to be brought up to date with a view of how the churches look to outside critics would do well to start —and finish—with Walter Kaufmann's newest book.

Motor Mileage To Set Record

Motor vehicle mileage traveled in Illinois is averaging more than 100 million miles daily and the total mileage for 1961 is expected to exceed 37 billion miles.

More than 60 per cent of motor vehicle travel is by motorists getting to and from work each day, said officials of the Illinois Department of Public Works and Buildings.

Suburbs Gain

Population gain in the suburbs of America's leading cities was 47.2 per cent in the past decade, up from about 36 million in 1950 to 53.3 million in 1960. During the same period the 189 metropolitan areas grew only half that much, some 24.3 per cent.

Concentration

Illinois gained 1,368,982 in population between 1950 and 1960 and 96 per cent of this gain was concentrated in eight metropolitan areas, reports the Bureau of Census. In 1950 Illinois had a population of 8,712,176 and in 1960, 10,081,158.

Quotoons

I think great men appear to be dumb, at times, for a reason: there is a lot of satisfaction in watching what the other fellow does when he thinks he is outsmarting you.

I challenge anyone to show me a more beautiful sight than a happy child.

Ancestors are the roots of the family, but it is always well to remember that they are buried roots.

It takes more discipline of the mind to forget things them.
than it does to remember

I have loaned so many things to people without ever getting them back that I sometimes wish that I had given them away in the first place.

Vast School Growth Seen

The population explosion of the 1960's threatens to burst American schools at the seams, according to a national survey released by the National Education Association.

Between 1960 and 1970, the report said, the number of young Americans of high-school age will increase almost four times as fast as the number of wage-earners who must foot the bill for their education.

THE REPORT was based on a United States Census Bureau survey, financed by the NEA.

The Census Bureau forecast that the high-school-age group will increase by 43 per cent during the 1960's, from 11,000,000 to 16,000,000, in round numbers.

The combined grade school-high school age group will jump by 24 per cent, from 44,000,000 to 54,000,000, and the college age group by 57 per cent, from 9,000,000 to 14,500,000.

When we recently moved our executive and general offices from Chicago to our plant at Carpentersville, we announced that "this move is part of an expansion and centralization program to provide a growing line of products and improved service to our customers."

We are aggressively fulfilling this commitment. This intensified activity is creating the need for additional qualified people who wish to associate permanently with a dynamic growth company.

ABOUT HILLS-McCANNA COMPANY

On May 1, 1957, Hills-McCanna Company started production in its new, modern plant in Carpentersville. This location was selected because it offers room for expansion and ideal working conditions for employees.

The company was founded in Chicago in 1870 where it still operates one of the nation's leading magnesium foundries.

Since the new plant was opened, increasing demand for Hills-McCanna products — plus introduction of new ones — has stimulated growth, and production is now at an all-time high.

Product lines manufactured at Carpentersville include valves, pumps, and lubricators. Newest venture of the company is the development and manufacture of ball valves. Use of this type of valve has been doubling throughout industry every year since its introduction. All are high-quality products, requiring accurate machining and competent workmanship.

Research and development are creating new products for continued growth.

DIVERSIFIED MARKETS

Hills-McCanna products are used in petroleum refineries, pulp and paper mills, metalworking plants, chemical and food processing plants—in fact, throughout industry.

Hills-McCanna also manufactures products used in nuclear submarines and at missile launching sites, although this represents only a small part of the total production.

GOOD WAGES AND JOB BENEFITS

Hills-McCanna Company is a good place to work — pays top wages and seeks top-quality people to earn them.

Secondary benefits are equal or superior to those prevailing throughout industry. They include group life, health and accident, and hospitalization insurance plans.

Vacation plans are liberal and there are paid holidays throughout the year.

A co-operative company-employee retirement plan includes generous provisions not found in many similar plans.

Complete information on these programs has been printed and is available to interested applicants.

MACHINISTS

Twelve to 15 experienced and skilled machinists are required immediately to fulfill growing production demands. Applicants must be fully qualified on setup, machine operation, and work-checking.

- Engine lathe operators — to operate LeBlonds and Americans.
- Turret lathe operators — to operate Warner & Swaseys and Gisholts.
- Mill hands — to operate vertical and horizontal K & T's and Bridgeports.
- Bullard operators — to operate late model Man-Au-Trol vertical turret lathes.
- Toolroom machinists — must be capable of precision work on all classes of toolroom machine tools and gaging equipment.

DESIGN ENGINEERS

Two graduate mechanical engineers are needed immediately for design work on valves and metering pumps. A minimum of three years' product design experience is required. Background in pumps, valves, hydraulics, or flow problems is highly desirable.

ACT NOW – INTERVIEWS HELD IN STRICT CONFIDENCE

Hills-McCanna is interviewing each weekday, during evenings, or on weekends to suit the convenience of job applicants. Your present employer will not be contacted.

Illinois Voters 'Cheated' By Failure to Redistrict

Illinois voters indeed will be cheated if the state General Assembly does not work out a program for redistricting congressional districts in time for the expected special session.

The alternative — state-wide election of twenty-four U.S. Representatives — will result in confusing, time-consuming and less intelligent voting by the electorate confronted with a long ballot, which probably would be on paper rather than a machine.

Also, some districts could find themselves without representation, with other districts having multi-representation. And, technically-speaking, none would have specific representation.

Another possible effect is the weakening of Illinois influence in Congress. A number of incumbent Republican and Democratic Congressmen hold important committee assignments by virtue of their seniority. Should either group lose en masse, or substantially, not only will the individual districts suffer but the state as a whole, as well.

SOME Republicans relish the prospect of state-wide congressional elections. They foresee the defeat of entrenched Chicago Democrats. But they are forsaking the interest of every citizen, directly or indirectly.

Continuously, since 1862, legislation implementing the U.S. Constitution has required the election of Representatives by districts. Federal law no longer specifically prescribes that congressional districts be "composed of a contiguous and compact territory * * * containing as nearly as practicable an equal number of inhabitants." However, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Black has argued persuasively that an earlier Illinois reapportionment act, which provided glaringly unequal representation favoring special classes and groups, should have been invalidated because it violated the constitutionally guaranteed right to vote and the right to have one's vote counted.

WITH ALL due respect to Mayor Daley, his position is inimical to the general welfare of the state and ignores the true political principles that should be controlling. For one, Chicago voters' interests must not be protected to the detriment of suburban and downstate voters. And another, the responsibility for reapportionment lies with the General Assembly and not the Congressmen themselves.

Both Democrats and Republicans must make every effort to achieve an equitable solution. If all will accept the real and crucial need for district representation, that one seat is to be lost and that this loss must be felt by the area which has suffered the greatest population loss, there can be no real disagreement.

Eugene F. Schlickman

Welfare State Offers Threat

Not being an advocate of the John Birch Society, I found your editorial of July 6 most interesting. However, being a most dedicated American, I am not a socialist in favor of a welfare state. One thing that concerns me: an over-emphasis of one phase, and lack of another. Are readers informed of the tracking of Laski Keyner, or the philosophy of the Fabian Society?

We the people are often accused of being complacent. Could it be we are alerted of one threat, when the other that provides an overdose of soothing syrup could be the danger? Due to knowledge being so limited on socialism, people accept something for nothing from big government, when in reality it usurps every individual freedom and in time resembles those we are at odds with today.

Not being so biased, I enjoy all opinions and always a sincere hope, never to be lulled by any faction that would seek to destroy our America.

School Board Offers Thanks

On behalf of the board of education of district 24 I wish to extend a sincere vote of thanks to Paddock Publications, district 25 board of education, Wilson PTA, Arlington Knolls Home Owners association, Hasbrook Civic association, Lynwood Home Owners association, Pinegate Improvement association and Wilson Community Kindergarten association, and to all citizens who—in the interest of a unified school community and an optimum size school district—helped to bring about the successful annexation of district 24 to district 25.

We also wish to thank our many school patrons who have helped in many ways during our years of operation as a school district and trust that they will continue their fine support of the educational and building program of the newly enlarged school area.

Administrators of both districts and the director of instruction, business manager, buildings and grounds director, and consultants of district 25 are to be commended for their efficient and professional manner of handling all details pertinent to annexation.

News Story Had 'Errors'

I should like to call to your attention certain omissions and errors to be found in the reporting by the Mount Prospect Herald of my appearance before the high school board on July 6, 1961. This appearance was made at the invitation of several of the board members, including Mrs. Chapman, Mr. Fyfe, Mr. Oldaker, and Mr. Laubenheimer, in order to answer certain questions which had arisen in a finance committee meeting concerning the possible effects of changes in the salary schedule of the high school district on those of the elementary districts.

My presentation dealt with the number of teachers in the Mt. Prospect system (district 57) qualified to teach either elementary or high school subjects, a brief description of the 1961-62 salary schedule of district 57 along with the thoughts behind this schedule, a comparison of the starting salaries of college graduates in industry and in teaching in this area, and a similar comparison of the monthly salaries of teachers and engineers after ten years.

Salient points of this discussion included the following items:

1. The desirability of a teacher's having a Master's degree in certain areas of the junior high school curriculum due to the need for subject depth.

2. The fact that over 20 per cent of the present staff of district 57 possess certificates qualifying them for high school teaching.

3. The observation that inexperienced college graduates in this area currently receive similar salaries whether they are in teaching or in industry, but that after 10 years teachers may receive 20-30 per cent less than persons of similar experience in industry.

4. THE INEQUITY (obvious from point 3) in raising the salaries of all teachers by either a fixed percentage or a fixed amount, but rather the desirability of adjusting the salary of the inexperienced teacher only to meet prevailing salaries or increased costs of living, while markedly increasing the annual increments in the salary schedule to reward the experienced teacher more adequately.

These points were not mentioned at all in your article and thus constitute the omissions to which I initially referred. The errors, on the other hand, were made in ascribing to me surprise at the differences noted by Mr. Dougan in the base salaries for the inexperienced Master's degree person in the high school and elementary districts. I am, and was, well aware of these differences since such data on these and many other systems are made available to all district 57 board members during the consideration of future salary policies. I had, in fact, just finished reviewing this information prior to the meeting.

In conclusion, may I say that the failure of your staff to report completely and accurately the essential points of this one item of business of the high school board leads me to question how many other discussions conducted at previous meetings of this board may have been reported in a similarly inaccurate manner.

She Spoke for Herself Only

In your July 6 issue of the Arlington Heights Herald you featured a story on park annexation for the area south of the village. This area is to be roughly bounded by Central, Busse, Kirchoff and the toll road.

May I please extend my thanks to your publication for your interest and fine coverage but also take this opportunity to inform you that the opinions expressed were strictly my own and not those of the committee. At the most recent committee meeting it was decided to recommend that the area residents strive to form an independent park district.

REGARDING THE new bill introduced in the recent Illinois legislative session, property owners owning twenty (20) acres or more, rather than ten (10), would be required to give specific consent before annexation, not two (2) acres as stated. This bill has passed both houses but as of July 6 was still awaiting the governor's signature.

The knowledge that we may depend upon your fine newspaper for further coverage has proved most encouraging to us on the committee.

A bore is a man who is forever putting his feats in his mouth.

Personality is what makes people look up to a man—especially after they get to know him better.

When you are able to swallow your pride, it will never upset your soul or your stomach.

A great many persons know how to sprint at the start of a new thing—but it is the fellow who still has his wind on the home stretch who is ahead in the end.

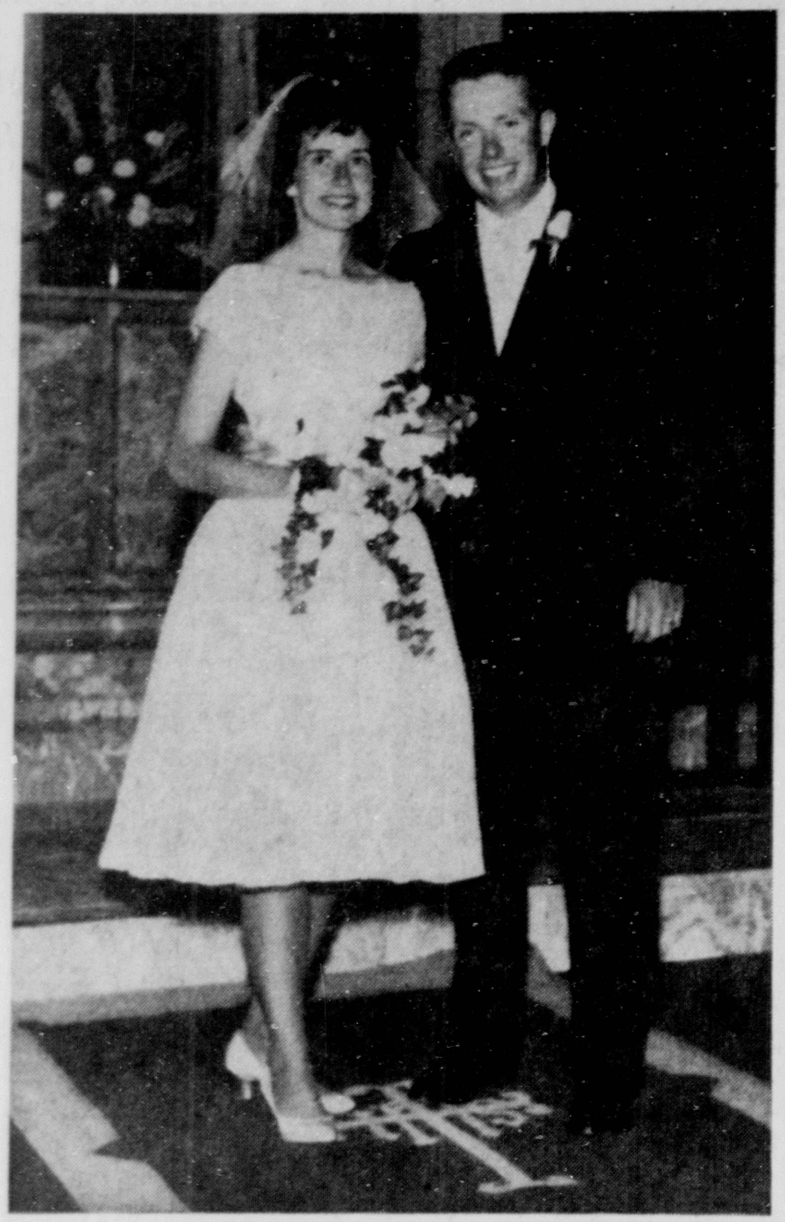
Arlington Girl Weds In Colorado Springs



At a social function in Colorado Springs Miss Barbara Ann Baumann, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Baumann of Arlington Heights, was introduced to Lt. Richard Edson Haines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer S. Haines, who was on leave from nearby Fort Carson.

A courtship followed in the ensuing months during which time Miss Baumann instructed at Lasdon Foundation Research Institute of Chemotherapy, the local school district and Mr. Haines carried on duties with the ARADCOM advanced marksmanship unit at base camp.

THE COUPLE'S romance was soon to reach romantic heights and on June 23 was climaxed in a double ring wedding service held in the Chapel of Our Savior, Broadmoor, Colorado Springs, officiated at by Rev. William R. Shannon at 4 p.m.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, exchanged vows with her groom in a setting of white snapdragons and carnations. She was gowned in a street-length dress of white chiffon and satin, highlighted by a seed pearl crown and veil.

WHITE ROSES and ivy formed the bridal bouquet; a sorority sister, Mrs. Robert D. Peck, carried a mixture of yellow roses carnations and ivy. Mrs. Peck's ensemble was beige with matching accessories.

FRATERNITY brother of the groom, Lt. "Sonny" Holland of Colorado Springs, was best man. Capt. Robert D. Peck, U. S. Air Force academy at that location and Ronald E. Baumann, Butler, N. J., served as ushers.

Guests offered congratulations to the newlyweds who were feted at a wedding reception held in the Chanticleer in Colorado Springs. The pair, who spent a week honeymooning in the western part of the state, will make their home in the locale until August, when they plan to move to Helena, Mont.

MISS BAUMANN completed studies at Arlington high school in 1955, was graduated from Colorado college in '59, being affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta. Mr. Haines is a graduate of Montana State college and a Sigma Alpha Epsilon member.

Dr. and Mrs. Baumann reside at 416 E. Euclid st.

No date has been set for the wedding.

The couple are both Palatine high school graduates of 1959.

Judy Sipes

Following their August 19 wedding, Miss Judy Sipes and Verne E. Wilhelm Jr., 551 Clearmount dr., Elk Grove Village, will reside in Madison. Announcement of the engagement was made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sipes of Effingham.

A graduate of Southern Illinois university, Carbondale, Miss Sipes taught social studies at Lincoln Junior high school in Mt. Prospect the past year. She is also a member of Sigma Kappa sorority.

Mr. Wilhelm will graduate from the university's College of Education in August and afterwards enter graduate school at the University of Madison. He is a Phi Kappa Tau fraternity member.

Mary Ann Fabian Is July Bride of Iowan

Iowa State university sweethearts were united in marriage in St. James Catholic church, Arlington Heights, on July 1 as Second Lt. Robert H. LeMay of Storm Lake, Iowa, took as his bride the former Mary Ann Fabian, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank C. Fabian, 1021 S. State rd., Arlington Heights.

Since his graduation from Iowa, the bridegroom has entered the U. S. Army Air Defense and will be stationed in Minneapolis, Minn., as of July 17.

The simple afternoon ceremony took place before an altar decorated with bouquets of white gladioli and mums. Fr. John M. Lane united the pair in double ring rites as Sister Amabilia played appropriate organ music.

THE BRIDEGROOM'S parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo C. LeMay, came from Storm Lake for the nuptials. Mrs. LeMay was attired in a white lace over blue taffeta sheath dress with matching jacket; and Mrs. Fabian chose a beige silk chiffon sheath dress with pleated overskirt. Each had a pink cymbidium corsage.

The bride was preceded down the church aisle by one attendant, her sister, Mrs. Annette Malek of Chicago. As matron of honor she wore a sky blue silk chiffon sheath dress with an embroidered silk cummerbund and panel on the skirt. She carried a nosegay of white carnations and pink rosebuds tied with pink ribbon.

The bride, on the arm of her father, entered the sanctuary wearing a white lace ballerina length dress with a flounce at the bottom of the skirt. The gown was fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves and a bateau neckline which formed a V-shape in the back. Her bouffant wedding veil was held by a lace crown cap, and she carried a nosegay of white glamelias, roses and lilies of the valley.

SERVING AS BEST man was William Harper of Kewanee, Ill., and ushers were Tom Emmerson and Robert Johnson, both of Ames, Iowa.

The Century club in Arlington Heights was the scene of a dinner and reception which followed the ceremony for 60 guests. The couple then departed on a 2-week honeymoon in the Shenandoah valley and Smoky mountains.

Some After-Thoughts

Dear Peg:

Having never been in the hospital for reasons other than having babies or the children's tonsils out, major surgery was quite a new experience for me. It's a good thing the patient seldom knows what she's in for or she might decide to just die rather than submit to the knife!

Quite seriously, I am very happy to be alive and growing healthier every day and so grateful to all the doctors, nurses, and many people who played a part in my unexpected operation. (How do you thank people for saving your life? I don't suppose there is any adequate word in our vocabulary.)

After a three hour operation (due to the unexpected complications) I was rolled into a recovery room. I don't know how they ever decided on that name—very little recovering takes place here it seems. About all I remember of this room were bars on the sides of my bed, bright lights, lots of people and being very sick. When I awoke next, I was in a nice quiet room with soft lights. A needle was sticking in my hand and as my eyes followed the narrow little tube running from the needle to the jar of clear liquid hanging upside down from a metal rack, I looked into the face of someone standing beside my bed. These eyes had reassured me on many other happier occasions—this time they reassured me that life was still worth living. Dr. Loeff had saved my life and Dr. Solomon was there to help me grow well and to help me realize what a precious gift I'd been allowed to keep.

The first couple of days are vague as I was being fed intravenously and slept most of the time. However, I was quite wide awake when I started on my light diet. Before I got the light diet, though, I got the light, light diet—this was nothing but bright red, very sweet Jello and hot tea served up for breakfast, lunch and dinner—it'll be a long time before anyone gets cherry Jello in this house! Each day a little more food was added until, before I knew it, I was even beginning to gain weight.

And, oh, the wonderful care and attention. I didn't even mind waking up at 6:30 because I always had a wonderful bath and back rub to look forward to. Life was so lovely and luxurious it even became difficult to think of poor Daddy at home with five children.

However, after about 10 days the day for departure arrived and I must say I was looking forward to going home—admittedly not to housework, but unashamedly to five precious children. In some odd and surprising way each one has become dearer, now that we have lost an unborn one and will never be able to have another. I thank God every day for them and allowing me to stay and to take care of them . . .

My love,
Patty

Palatine Church Is Scene Of Nielsen-Clark Wedding

Beneath an archway of ferns flanked by two pedestals of white gladioli and carnations, Yvonne Signe Nielsen of Palatine became the June bride of John Paul Clark of Fairfield, Idaho, in Northwest Suburbs Bible church, Palatine. Rev. Emil Wittig performed the double ring ceremony on June 3 at 8 o'clock in the evening in a candlelight setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nielsen Sr. of Wilmette ave.; the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John H. Clark of Fairfield.

Following the ceremony the bridal pair greeted guests in the reception hall of the church. A special wedding guest was the bridegroom's grandmother, who came from Bend, Ore., for the festivities.

PRECEDING the bride down the church aisle, her attendants were all dressed alike in street length white embroidered organdy with red headpieces and bouquets of red roses. The dresses were styled similarly to the bride's gown, and the headpieces were small red crowns set with a row of pearls and edged with a short veil.

Mrs. James Hess of Carbondale, the former Susan Vetter of Palatine, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. John Teets of E. Dundee, Mrs. Robert Wade of Palatine and Mrs. Richard Hagan of Wheaton.

Two flower girls were also in the wedding party, Cathy Wade of Palatine and Jerri Lynn Teets of East Dundee. With them was Walter Nielsen Jr. of Jonesboro, Ga., as ring bearer.

THE BRIDE chose a floor length dress of white taffeta styled with a fitted bodice, scalloped neckline accented with lace and pearls, short sleeves and a skirt whose pleat-waist cascaded into a chapel train. A crown of pearls held the illusion fingertip veil in place. The bride wore taffeta gloves and carried a bouquet fashioned of white roses surrounding a white orchid and edged with ivy.

Completing the wedding party were Leon Mayer of American Falls, Idaho, as best man and John Smith of Chicago, Richard Herdklotz of Rockford, Larry Lemon of American Falls, Robert Wade of Palatine, John Teets of East Dundee and Walter Nielsen of Jonesboro, all as ushers.

APPROPRIATE organ music was played by Charles Anger of Palatine, and Richard Hagan was soloist.

The bride's mother received guests in a white embroidered linen sheath dress with a white stole. Her accessories were all white, and she wore a pastel blue carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother was attird in a beige lace sheath dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Following a wedding trip to the Wisconsin Dells, the newlyweds are now at home in Champaign, Ill., where the bridegroom is attending the University of Illinois for the summer.

Anybody for Quirks?

THE WORLD IS FULL OF PEOPLE with quirks. Show me a person who has none and I'll show you a weirdy. The reason I can make this statement so blithely is everyone I know has a quirk or two. Ergo, all the best people have quirks.

Father, for instance, has a peach. I don't understand it but I respect it. He will go around a golf course losing golf balls at $1.25 a crack and never bat an eyelash. "I'll just thrown down another one," he says with that "you must expect losses" expression. However, if he misplaces, or I do, a golf tee we hunt for hours for the wayward thing. Tees come at 10c for dozens.

I have a couple of dandies of my own. Lovable quirks but oddies just the same. Like not wanting to get up in the morning and not liking housework or ironing. Just minor little things like that. But, we have a fella in the neighborhood who has a thing about boys and haircuts.

I guess he has a right as he has three boys and, I will admit, boys need haircuts periodically or they begin to look like shaggy dogs. But, this fella goes into a complete tailspin over the state of things if they even look a little mussed. Finally he went out and got himself a complete barbering outfit because, by jiminey, his boys were going to be neat. And they are:

The oldest, a teenager, disappears completely when Dad gets out the scissors. The second son poses quite a problem as his hair is baby fine and follows the clippers snapping with electricity the while. That's two down and one to go. The youngest wears a butch and I must admit his Dad does a good job on him. But, I think Dad is about to give up barbering.

One of Dad's buddies, anxious to try his skill, cut Dad's hair the other night. After all, the amateur kept saying how perfectly simple an operation it was. And so it is. Except that the amateur now looks just a wee bit as though he had mange. He consoles himself by saying over and over again that hair does grow and the bald spot is in the back where he can't see it. But, we can see it, and we cruelly laugh and laugh.

All-White Wedding For Inverness Girl

An all-white wedding with accents of yellow and green was planned by Lynn Cunningham, daughter of the Robert D. Cunninghams, 350 N. Inverway rd., Inverness, for her July 8 marriage to John Charles Muller of Sterling, Ill. Rev. Wilbur Childress united the couple in double ring rites. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Mueller of Sterling.

The bride and her attendants came down the aisle of the First Methodist church of Palatine all gowned in white. The bride's floor length tissue taffeta gown was trimmed with swiss lace at the boat neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. A small crown matching the bridal gown held a waist length veil in place. The bride's bouquet was of white rosebuds, stephanotis and ivy.

Bridesmaids Susan Carpenter of Inverness, Margot Griffen of Princeton, N. J., and Penelope Johson of Amesburg, Mass., were dressed identically to the maid of honor.

Eight-year-old Margaret Mueller, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl in a white sheer dress and carried a basket of yellow and white flowers.

THE BRIDEGROOM was attended by Andrew Griffen of Princeton, N. J., as best man. Ushers were Robert Cunningham III, the bride's brother; Michael Mueller, the bridegroom's brother, and Peter Emory of Madison, Wis.

Inverness golf club was the setting of a wedding reception which followed the nuptials, and later the couple left for a honeymoon at St. Croix, Virgin Islands.

They will be at home in fall in Boston, where the bridegroom attends Harvard Medical shool. The new Mrs. Mueller attended Sarah Lawrence college and Western College for Women at Oxford, Ohio. She taught high school in Amesbury, Mass., until her marriage. (Bak Studio

Research and development are creating new products for continued growth.

DIVERSIFIED MARKETS

Hills-McCanna products are used in petroleum refineries, pulp and paper mills, metalworking plants, chemical and food processing plants—in fact, throughout industry.

Hills-McCanna also manufactures products used in nuclear submarines and at missile launching sites, although this represents only a small part of the total production.

GOOD WAGES AND JOB BENEFITS

Hills-McCanna Company is a good place to work — pays top wages and seeks top-quality people to earn them.

Secondary benefits are equal or superior to those prevailing throughout industry. They include group life, health and accident, and hospitalization insurance plans.

A co-operative company-employee retirement plan includes generous provisions not found in many similar plans.

Complete information on these programs has been printed and is available to interested applicants.

Musical Pair United In Afternoon Rites

Two teachers who specialize in the field of music were married in St. Mark Lutheran church, Mount Prospect, on June 17. The afternoon ceremony united the former Adrienne Double, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Double, 918 N. Illinois, Arlington Heights, and Raymond Rukstales of Waukegan.

Both are graduates of Northern Illinois university. The bride now teaches music in the Des Plaines schools and her bridegroom is a music teacher in the Waukegan schools.

Following the wedding ceremony and a reception held in the Arlington Heights American Legion hall, the couple left for a week in the Smoky mountains. They are now at home at 911 Lenox ave., Waukegan, the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Josephine Rukstales.

PASTOR BRUCE Benander united the pair before an altar banked with baskets of white gladioli. Gary Stuart of Lake Forest was organist, and Fred Hedemark of Prospect Heights sang "Wither Thou Goest" and "O Perfect Love."

Coming down the aisle on the arm of her father, the bride wore a chantilly lace and silk organza gown which ended in a chapel train and was complemented by an elbow length veil held in place by a small crown. The gown's bodice was of chantilly lace fashioned with sabrina neckline and long sleeves. The skirt was of silk organza edged in lace. A cascade of amazon lilies and stephanotis formed the bridal bouquet.

ALL OF THE bride's attendants were gowned in pink silk organza with matching shoes and hats. Their bouquets were of white gladioli. A sorority sister of the bride, Mary Ann Wrede of Evergreen Park, was her maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Rita Thomason of Streator, another of the bride's sorority sisters; Vin Rukstales of Waukegan, a niece of the bridegroom; and Linda Jauch of Arlington Heights, cousin of the bride.

The bride's godchild, 2½-year-old Peggy Hawk of Chicago, came down the aisle as flower girl, and Richard Rukstales of Waukegan, the bridegroom's 5-year-old nephew accompanied her as ring bearer. The tiny flower girl wore a white bouffant dress and carried white gladioli and blue bachelor buttons.

ROBERT BUNCH of Rockford, a college friend of the bridegroom, served as his best man. The bride's brother, John Double, and Robert Nelson of Lombard were ushers.

Receiving 130 guests at the buffet supper reception, the bride's mother was attired in a pink chiffon sheath dress and the bridegroom's mother in a pink brocade jacket dress. Both had matching accessories and a corsage of amazon lilies and stephanotis. (Jenart (S

High School Sweethearts United in Church Setting

An Arlington Heights couple who met while attending Arlington high school were united in a morning ceremony on June 10 in Arlington's First Methodist church. The bride is the former Patricia Jo Halfhill, daughter of the R. E. Halfhills, 24 S. Yale, and the bridegroom is Neil R. Hansen, son of the Elmer A. Hansens, 936 N. Salem.

The double ring rites were officiated by Rev. Hughes B. Morris. A cousin of the bride, Robert Bowersock, sang appropriate music, accompanied by Charles Jenks at the organ.

THE BRIDE approached the altar wearing a gown of chantilly lace and tulle over taffeta. The gown's fitted bodice had a sabrina neckline, long tapered sleeves and was embroidered in seed pearls and sequins. The skirt had an overskirt of lace from which fell tiered ruffles of alternating crystoline pleated tulle and lace. The gown ended in a chapel train.

A crown of seed pearls and aurora borealis held her veil of imported silk illusion in place. She carried a crescent bouquet of amazon lilies and stephanotis on a white Bible.

THE BRIDE'S attendants were dressed in light blue, the maid of honor and bridesmaid in ballerina length gowns with a cowl neckline and draped skirt and the flower girl in a blue silk ballerina dress. The maid of honor, Nikki Guarriello of Arlington Heights, and bridesmaid, Sandy Schneckloth of Mount Prospect, wore circular head veils on a crown of pastel blue set with aurora borealis beading and carried crescent bouquets of yellow tearoses.

Flower girl was 2-year-old Janet Burge of Arlington Heights, who carried a basket of pink roses and daisies.

A friend of the couple, Leslie Kesel of Arlington Heights, was best man, and Jimmy Lester of Chicago and Roy Erickson and Dick Abbott, both of Arlington Heights, served as ushers.

THE WEDDING reception was held at a luncheon in Mount Prospect country club, where the bride's mother greeted guests wearing a turquoise dress with white accessories and had a pink orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a champagne colored sheath dress with mint accessories and mint orchid corsage.

After a honeymoon in Wisconsin the Hansens went to the bride's home to spend the rest of the month. The bridegroom then returned to England where he is serving with the U. S. Air Force. His bride expects to join him later this year. (S

Delafield Chapel Houses Second Edgcumbe Wedding

The family of Jean Edgcumbe, 511 S. Pine st., Mount Prospect, traveled to Delafield, Wis., for her June 24 marriage to William Hanson of Madison. It was an especially sentimental occasion, as the wedding took place in Victory Memorial chapel of St. John's Military Academy, where 24 years ago on June 19 Mr. and Mrs. George Edgcumbe were married.

Their daughter and her bridegroom met while attending the University of Wisconsin and will make their home in that state. Mr. Hanson, son of the Marvin Hansons, is employed by the Marathon corporation in Neenah, and he and his bride will reside in nearby Appleton.

THE RAINBOW shades of the bridal attendants' gowns softened the chapel setting for the one o'clock ceremony. Rev. Thomas Chaffee officiated before an altar set with white peonies, white gladioli and lemon leaves. Herbert Stoffels of Park Ridge was organist.

The bride's sister, Jane, was maid of honor in a pink chiffon sheath dress with satin accents. She carried a basket of larkspur, delphinium, daisies and pink roses. Bridesmaids dressed in mint green, lilac and yellow and a flower girl in white with lilac trim completed the rainbow picture. Adele Douglass of Madison was gowned in mint green chiffon, Sally Schell of Madison in lilac and Nancy Summers of Mount Prospect in yellow. All of their dresses and bouquets were exactly like the maid of honor's.

All of the bridegroom's attendants were from Madison. Best man was Brian Mitchell, and ushering the guests to their pews were David Rehm, Robert Tuttle and Donald Dawe.

The bride, on the arm of her father, entered the chapel wearing an organza floor length gown and a short veil which fell from a cap of organza. She carried a crescent bouquet of fuji mums, baby mums and ivy. Her gown was fashioned on simple lines with a scooped neckline, short sleeves and hemline.

She also wore a pearl necklace and earrings which were a gift from the bridegroom.

FOR HER daughter's wedding Mrs. Edgcumbe was attired in a bronzine gold shantung sheath dress and the bridegroom's mother in a blu silk sheath. Each had a co sage of cymbidium orchids.

Two hundred guests greeted the newlyweds in a luncheon reception held in the Frank Mouso Memorial building at St. John's. The couple honeymooned for 10 days at Isle Royal before taking up residence in Appleton. (S

Hay Fever Sufferers Offered Suggestions

For nearly 4 million American youngsters, there's nothing funny about the sniffles, sneezes and red eyes that are results of hay fever. It is both physically and emotionally exhausting.

And, says the August issue of Better Homes & Gardens, uncontrolled hay fever can cause asthma, as well as dangerous infections of the ears, nose, throat and sinuses. So the best idea is to determine what your child's allergy is, and then treat it.

TREATMENT will depend on how sensitive your child is to the pollen that causes his trouble. Meanwhile, however, you can do a lot yourself to lessen his discomfort and strengthen him for recovery.

Seeing to it that he gets plenty of rest and good food is essential, of course. Beyond this your most important contribution will be understanding and patience. There is much evidence that psychological upsets can both set off and magify attacks.

It is important, then, that your child live as calm and normal a life as possible. You should neither make light of his trouble, nor pamper him. Any attempt to keep him always at home and behind closed windows or an air conditioned atmosphere is of questionable value since the pollen is likely to reach him anyway; it is much more essential for him emotionally that he not feel set apart from his friends.

IF YOUR CHILD has a mild case, treatment of his symptoms may suffice. But no drugs or hormones should be used except under the direction of your doctor.

Doctors emphasize that no two cases of hay fever are alike. For some children, a few weekly shots at the start of each pollen season are enough. Others must have weekly or monthly shots the year around. A few lucky younsters are completely cured after a few seasons of shots. With others it may take many years—and for some, unfortunately, hay fever is a life-long affliction.

Desensitizing shots, imperfect as they are, constitute the best available treatment. If that sneezing, dripping, suffering child of yours is like nine of ten other youngsters, he'll gain welcome relief from them.

Arlington Girl Weds In Colorado Springs

At a social function in Colorado Springs Miss Barbara Ann Baumann, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Baumann of Arlington Heights, was introduced to Lt. Richard Edson Haines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer S. Haines, who was on leave from nearby Fort Carson.

A courtship followed in the ensuing months during which time Miss Baumann instructed at Lasdon Foundation Research Institute of Chemotherapy, the local school district and Mr. Haines carried on duties with the ARADCOM advanced marksmanship unit at base camp.

THE COUPLE'S romance was soon to reach romantic heights and on June 23 was climaxed in a double ring wedding service held in the Chapel of Our Savior, Broadmoor, Colorado Springs, officiated at by Rev. William R. Shannon at 4 p.m.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, exchanged vows with her groom in a setting of white snapdragons and carnations. She was gowned in a street-length dress of white chiffon and satin, highlighted by a seed pearl crown and veil.

WHITE ROSES and ivy formed the bridal bouquet; a sorority sister, Mrs. Robert D. Peck, carried a mixture of yellow roses carnations and ivy. Mrs. Peck's ensemble was beige with matching accessories.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Baumann selected a powder blue sheath of silk organza with matching accessories and corsage of pink sweetheart roses. Mrs. Haines' beige sheath of nylon wool was accentuated with yellow roses.

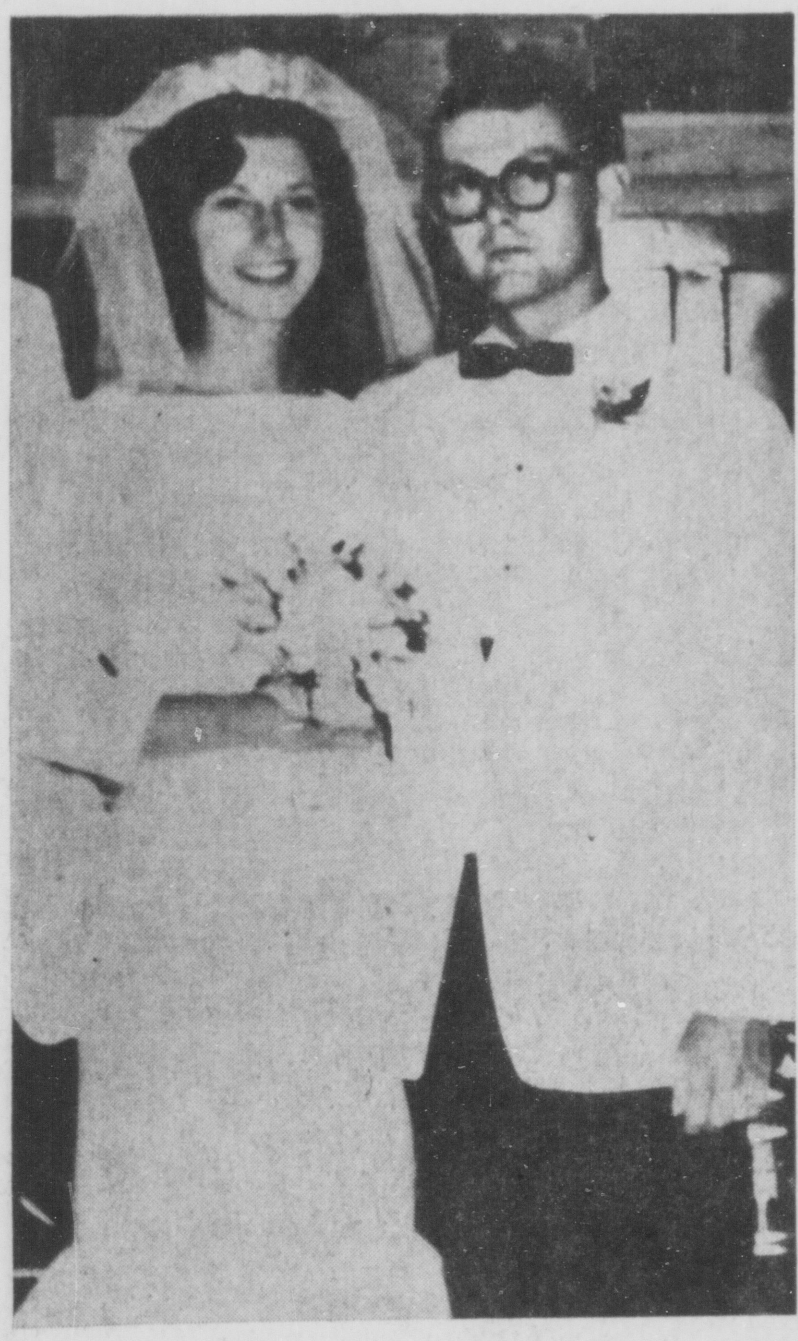
FRATERNITY brother of the groom, Lt. "Sonny" Holland of Colorado Springs, was best man. Capt. Robert D. Peck, U. S. Air Force academy at that location and Ronald E. Baumann, Butler, N. J., served as ushers.

Guests offered congratulations to the newlyweds who were feted at a wedding reception held in the Chanticleer in Colorado Springs. The pair, who spent a week honeymooning in the western part of the state, will make their home in the locale until August, when they plan to move to Helena, Mont.

MISS BAUMANN completed studies at Arlington high school in 1955, was graduated from Colorado college in '59, being affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta. Mr. Haines is a graduate of Montana State college and a Sigma Alpha Epsilon member.

Dr. and Mrs. Baumann reside at 416 E. Euclid st.

Mary Ann Fabian Is July Bride of Iowan



Iowa State university sweethearts were united in marriage in St. James Catholic church, Arlington Heights, on July 1 as Second Lt. Robert H. LeMay of Storm Lake, Iowa, took as his bride the former Mary Ann Fabian, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank C. Fabian, 1021 S. State rd., Arlington Heights.

Since his graduation from Iowa, the bridegroom has entered the U. S. Army Air Defense and will be stationed in Minneapolis, Minn., as of July 17.

The simple afternoon ceremony took place before an altar decorated with bouquets of white gladioli and mums. Fr. John M. Lane united the pair in double ring rites as Sister Amabilia played appropriate organ music.

THE BRIDEGROOM'S parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo C. LeMay, came from Storm Lake for the nuptials. Mrs. LeMay was attired in a white lace over blue taffeta sheath dress with matching jacket; and Mrs. Fabian chose a beige silk chiffon sheath dress with pleated overskirt. Each had a pink cymbidium corsage.

The bride was preceded down the church aisle by one attendant, her sister, Mrs. Annette Malek of Chicago. As matron of honor she wore a sky blue silk chiffon sheath dress with an embroidered silk cummerbund and panel on the skirt. She carried a nosegay of white carnations and pink rosebuds tied with pink ribbon.

The bride, on the arm of her father, entered the sanctuary wearing a white lace ballerina length dress with a flounce at the bottom of the skirt. The gown was fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves and a bateau neckline which formed a V-shape in the back. Her bouffant wedding veil was held by a lace crown cap, and she carried a nosegay of white gl[illegible]melias, roses and lilies of the valley.

SERVING AS BEST man was William Harper of Kewanee, Ill., and ushers were Tom Emmerson and Robert Johnson, both of Ames, Iowa.

The Century club in Arlington Heights was the scene of a dinner and reception which followed the ceremony for 60 guests. The couple then departed on a 2-week honeymoon in the Shenandoah valley and Smoky mountains.

Margaret Gliot

The engagement of a Palatine couple is being announced by Mr. and Mrs Vernon Gliot of Ela rd. Their daughter, Margaret, has become engaged to Bruce Jefferson, son of the Fred Jeffersons of 178 E. Fairfax.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Judy Sipes

Following their August 19 wedding, Miss Judy Sipes and Verne E. Wilhelm Jr., 551 Clearmount dr., Elk Grove Village, will reside in Madison. Announcement of the engagement was made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sipes of Effingham.

A graduate of Southern Illinois university, Carbondale, Miss Sipes taught social studies at Lincoln Junior high school in Mt. Prospect the past year. She is also a member of Sigma Kappa sorority.

Mr. Wilhelm will graduate from the university's College of Education in August and afterwards enter graduate school at the University of Madison. He is a Phi Kappa Tau fraternity member.

Some After-Thoughts

Dear Peg:

Having never been in the hospital for reasons other than having babies or the children's tonsils out, major surgery was quite a new experience for me. It's a good thing the patient seldom knows what she's in for or she might decide to just die rather than submit to the knife!

Quite seriously, I am very happy to be alive and growing healthier every day and so grateful to all the doctors, nurses, and many people who played a part in my unexpected operation. (How do you thank people for saving your life? I don't suppose there is any adequate word in our vocabulary.)

After a three hour operation (due to the unexpected complications) I was rolled into a recovery room. I don't know how they ever decided on that name—very little recovering takes place here it seems. About all I remember of this room were bars on the sides of my bed, bright lights, lots of people and being very sick. When I awoke next, I was in a nice quiet room with soft lights. A needle was sticking in my hand and as my eyes followed the narrow little tube running from the needle to the jar of clear liquid hanging upside down from a metal rack, I looked into the face of someone standing beside my bed. These eyes had reassured me on many other happier occasions—this time they reassured me that life was still worth living. Dr. Loeff had saved my life and Dr. Solomon was there to help me grow well and to help me realize what a precious gift I'd been allowed to keep.

The first couple of days are vague as I was being fed intravenously and slept most of the time. However, I was quite wide awake when I started on my light diet. Before I got the light diet, though, I got the light, light diet—this was nothing but bright red, very sweet Jello and hot tea served up for breakfast, lunch and dinner—it'll be a long time before anyone gets cherry Jello in this house! Each day a little more food was added until, before I knew it, I was even beginning to gain weight.

And, oh, the wonderful care and attention. I didn't even mind waking up at 6:30 because I always had a wonderful bath and back rub to look forward to. Life was so lovely and luxurious it even became difficult to think of poor Daddy at home with five children.

However, after about 10 days the day for departure arrived and I must say I was looking forward to going home—admittedly not to housework, but unashamedly to five precious children. In some odd and surprising way each one has become dearer, now that we have lost an unborn one and will never be able to have another. I thank God every day for them and allowing me to stay and to take care of them . . .

My love,
Patty

Palatine Church Is Scene Of Nielsen-Clark Wedding

Beneath an archway of ferns flanked by two pedestals of white gladioli and carnations, Yvonne Signe Nielsen of Palatine became the June bride of John Paul Clark of Fairfield, Idaho, in Northwest Suburbs Bible church, Palatine. Rev. Emil Wittig performed the double ring ceremony on June 3 at 8 o'clock in the evening in a candlelight setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nielsen Sr. of Wilmette ave.; the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John H. Clark of Fairfield.

Following the ceremony the bridal pair greeted guests in the reception hall of the church. A special wedding guest was the bridegroom's grandmother, who came from Bend, Ore., for the festivities.

PRECEDING the bride down the church aisle, her attendants were all dressed alike in street length white embroidered organdy with red headpieces and bouquets of red roses. The dresses were styled similarly to the bride's gown, and the headpieces were small red crowns set with a row of pearls and edged with a short veil.

Mrs. James Hess of Carbondale, the former Susan Vetter of Palatine, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. John Teets of E. Dundee, Mrs. Robert Wade of Palatine and Mrs. Richard Hagan of Wheaton.

Two flower girls were also in the wedding party, Cathy Wade of Palatine and Jerri Lynn Teets of East Dundee. With them was Walter Nielsen Jr. of Jonesboro, Ga., as ring bearer.

THE BRIDE chose a floor length dress of white taffeta styled with a fitted bodice, scalloped neckline accented with lace and pearls, short sleeves and a skirt whose pleat-waist cascaded into a chapel train. A crown of pearls held the illusion fingertip veil in place. The bride wore taffeta gloves and carried a bouquet fashioned of white roses surrounding a white orchid and edged with ivy.

Completing the wedding party were Leon Mayer of American Falls, Idaho, as best man and John Smith of Chicago, Richard Herdklotz of Rockford, Larry Lemon of American Falls, Robert Wade of Palatine, John Teets of East Dundee and Walter Nielsen of Jonesboro, all as ushers.

APPROPRIATE organ music was played by Charles Angerer of Palatine, and Richard Hagan was soloist.

The bride's mother received guests in a white embroidered linen sheath dress with a white stole. Her accessories were all white, and she wore a pastel blue carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother was attird in a beige lace sheath dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Following a wedding trip to the Wisconsin Dells, the newlyweds are now at home in Champaign, Ill., where the bridegroom is attending the University of Illinois for the summer.

Anybody for Quirks?

THE WORLD IS FULL OF PEOPLE with quirks. Show me a person who has none and I'll show you a weirdy. The reason I can make this statement so blithely is everyone I know has a quirk or two. Ergo, all the best people have quirks.

Father, for instance, has a peach. I don't understand it but I respect it. He will go around a golf course losing golf balls at $1.25 a crack and never bat an eyelash. "I'll just thrown down another one," he says with that "you must expect losses" expression. However, if he misplaces, or I do, a golf tee we hunt for hours for the wayward thing. Tees come at 10c for dozens.

I have a couple of dandies of my own. Lovable quirks but oddies just the same. Like not wanting to get up in the morning and not liking housework or ironing. Just minor little things like that. But, we have a fella in the neighborhood who has a thing about boys and haircuts.

I guess he has a right as he has three boys and, I will admit, boys need haircuts periodically or they begin to look like shaggy dogs. But, this fella goes into a complete tailspin over the state of things if they even look a little mussed. Finally he went out and got himself a complete barbering outfit because, by jiminey, his boys were going to be neat. And they are:

The oldest, a teenager, disappears completely when Dad gets out the scissors. The second son poses quite a problem as his hair is baby fine and follows the clippers snapping with electricity the while. That's two down and one to go. The youngest wears a butch and I must admit his Dad does a good job on him. But, I think Dad is about to give up barbering.

One of Dad's buddies, anxious to try his skill, cut Dad's hair the other night. After all, the amateur kept saying how perfectly simple an operation it was. And so it is. Except that the amateur now looks just a wee bit as though he had mange. He consoles himself by saying over and over again that hair does grow and the bald spot is in the back where he can't see it. But, we can see it, and we cruelly laugh and laugh.

All-White Wedding For Inverness Girl

An all-white wedding with accents of yellow and green was planned by Lynn Cunningham, daughter of the Robert D. Cunninghams, 350 N. Inverway rd., Inverness, for her July 8 marriage to John Charles Muller of Sterling, Ill. Rev. Wilbur Childress united the couple in double ring rites. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Mueller of Sterling.

The bride and her attendants came down the aisle of the First Methodist church of Palatine all gowned in white. The bride's floor length tissue taffeta gown was trimmed with swiss lace at the boat neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. A small crown matching the bridal gown held a waist length veil in place. The bride's bouquet was of white rosebuds, stephanotis and ivy.

Bridesmaids Susan Carpenter of Inverness, Margot Griffen of Princeton, N. J., and Penelope Johson of Amesburg, Mass., were dressed identically to the maid of honor.

Eight-year-old Margaret Mueller, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl in a white sheer dress and carried a basket of yellow and white flowers.

THE BRIDEGROOM was attended by Andrew Griffen of Princeton, N. J., as best man. Ushers were Robert Cunningham III, the bride's brother; Michael Mueller, the bridegroom's brother, and Peter Emory of Madison, Wis.

Inverness golf club was the setting of a wedding reception which followed the nuptials, and later the couple left for a honeymoon at St. Croix, Virgin Islands.

They will be at home in fall in Boston, where the bridegroom attends Harvard Medical shool. The new Mrs. Mueller attended Sarah Lawrence college and Western College for Women at Oxford, Ohio. She taught high school in Amesbury, Mass., until her marriage. (Bak Studio

Post, Paddock Party Nets $2400 for Infant Welfare

A check for $2,400, proceeds from the recent Turf and Terrace party at the Post and Paddock club, was recently turned over to the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago by the society's Arlington Heights center, sponsors of the benefit party.

The check brought the Arlington Heights center's total donation for the year to $4,900. Previous benefits given by the group were a Sunday brunch at the Anvil club last August and a St. Patrick's party last March at the Villa Venice.

The group, which received its charter in March, 1960, is the newest center of the Infant Welfare and is also one of the newer groups in the community Its members, 20 in all, report that they are extremely pleased with the enthusiasm and interest their friends have shown in supporting their benefits. They are also proud of the profits from these benefits.

THE TURF and Terrace party, the center's largest undertaking to date, featured a gourmet buffet followed by dancing to the music of Frankie Masters and his orchestra. It also included a cocktail hour in the new Classic club.

Donation for the affair was $25 per couple, and while the tab was higher than many dinner dances in the area, guests were heard to remark that it was an evening long to be remembered. All reported a fabulous evening and are hoping that the Arlington Heights center will sponsor an identical evening next year.

Contributions from the 51 centers in Chicago and its suburbs go toward expenses incurred in operating the society's child development center and stations for infants and pre-school children and its program of pre-natal care, home calls and nutrition for under-privileged mothers.

IN ADDITION to fund raising, members of the centers volunteer many hours at the stations, weighing and measuring babies and doing clerical work to release nurses for professional duties.

The society's object is to improve the health of coming generations by caring for the mother before the baby is born and, with a competent professional staff, to teach her how to care for herself, her child and her family and to provide regular physical or mental health supervision and instruction. Musical Pair United In Afternoon Rites

Two teachers who specialize in the field of music were married in St. Mark Lutheran church, Mount Prospect, on June 17. The afternoon ceremony united the former Adrienne Double, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Double, 918 N. Illinois, Arlington Heights, and Raymond Rukstales of Waukegan.

Both are graduates of Northern Illinois university. The bride now teaches music in the Des Plaines schools and her bridegroom is a music teacher in the Waukegan schools.

Following the wedding ceremony and a reception held in the Arlington Heights American Legion hall, the couple left for a week in the Smoky mountains. They are now at home at 911 Lenox ave., Waukegan, the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Josephine Rukstales.

PASTOR BRUCE Benander united the pair before an altar banked with baskets of white gladioli. Gary Stuart of Lake Forest was organist, and Fred Hedemark of Prospect Heights sang "Wither Thou Goest" and "O Perfect Love."

Coming down the aisle on the arm of her father, the bride wore a chantilly lace and silk organza gown which ended in a chapel train and was complemented by an elbow length veil held in place by a small crown. The gown's bodice was of chantilly lace fashioned with sabrina neckline and long sleeves. The skirt was of silk organza edged in lace. A cascade of amazon lilies and stephanotis formed the bridal bouquet.

ALL OF THE bride's attendants were gowned in pink silk organza with matching shoes and hats. Their bouquets were of white gladioli. A sorority sister of the bride, Mary Ann Wrede of Evergreen Park, was her maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Rita Thomason of Streator, another of the bride's sorority sisters; Vin Rukstales of Waukegan, a niece of the bridegroom; and Linda Jauch of Arlington Heights, cousin of the bride.

High School Sweethearts United in Church Setting

An Arlington Heights couple who met while attending Arlington high school were united in a morning ceremony on June 10 in Arlington's First Methodist church. The bride is the former Patricia Jo Halfhill, daughter of the R. E. Halfhills, 24 S. Yale, and the bridegroom is Neil R. Hansen, son of the Elmer A. Hansens, 936 N. Salem.

The double ring rites were officiated by Rev. Hughes B. Morris. A cousin of the bride, Robert Bowersock, sang appropriate music, accompanied by Charles Jenks at the organ.

THE BRIDE approached the altar wearing a gown of chantilly lace and tulle over taffeta. The gown's fitted bodice had a sabrina neckline, long tapered sleeves and was embroidered in seed pearls and sequins. The skirt had an overskirt of lace from which fell tiered ruffles of alternating crystoline pleated tulle and lace. The gown ended in a chapel train.

A crown of seed pearls and aurora borealis held her veil of imported silk illusion in place. She carried a crescent bouquet of amazon lilies and stephanotis on a white Bible.

THE BRIDE'S attendants were dressed in light blue, the maid of honor and bridesmaid in ballerina length gowns with a cowl neckline and draped skirt and the flower girl in a blue silk ballerina dress. The maid of honor, Nikki Guarriello of Arlington Heights, and bridesmaid, Sandy Schneckloth of Mount Prospect, wore circular head veils on a crown of pastel blue set with aurora borealis beading and carried crescent bouquets of yellow tearoses.

Flower girl was 2-year-old Janet Burge of Arlington Heights, who carried a basket of pink roses and daisies.

A friend of the couple, Leslie Kesel of Arlington Heights, was best man, and Jimmy Lester of Chicago and Roy Erickson and Dick Abbott, both of Arlington Heights, served as ushers.

THE WEDDING reception was held at a luncheon in Mount Prospect country club, where the bride's mother greeted guests wearing a turquoise dress with white accessories and had a pink orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a champagne colored sheath dress with mint accessories and mint orchid corsage.

After a honeymoon in Wisconsin the Hansens went to the bride's home to spend the rest of the month. The bridegroom then returned to England where he is serving with the U. S. Air Force. His bride expects to join him later this year. (S

Delafield Chapel Houses Second Edgcumbe Wedding

The family of Jean Edgcumbe, 511 S. Pine st., Mount Prospect, traveled to Delafield, Wis., for her June 24 marriage to William Hanson of Madison. It was an especially sentimental occasion, as the wedding took place in Victory Memorial chapel of St. John's Military Academy, where 24 years ago on June 19 Mr. and Mrs. George Edgcumbe were married.

Their daughter and her bridegroom met while attending the University of Wisconsin and will make their home in that state. Mr. Hanson, son of the Marvin Hansons, is employed by the Marathon corporation in Neenah, and he and his bride will reside in nearby Appleton.

THE RAINBOW shades of the bridal attendants' gowns softened the chapel setting for the one o'clock ceremony. Rev. Thomas Chaffee officiated before an altar set with white peonies, white gladioli and lemon leaves. Herbert Stoffels of Park Ridge was organist.

The bride's sister, Jane, was maid of honor in a pink chiffon sheath dress with satin accents. She carried a basket of larkspur, delphinium, daisies and pink roses. Bridesmaids dressed in mint green, lilac and yellow and a flower girl in white with lilac trim completed the rainbow picture. Adele Douglass of Madison was gowned in mint green chiffon, Sally Schell of Madison in lilac and Nancy Summers of Mount Prospect in yellow. All of their dresses and bouquets were exactly like the maid of honor's.

All of the bridegroom's attendants were from Madison. Best man was Brian Mitchell, and ushering the guests to their pews were David Rehm, Robert Tuttle and Donald Dawe.

The bride, on the arm of her father, entered the chapel wearing an organza floor length gown and a short veil which fell from a cap of organza. She carried a crescent bouquet of fuji mums, baby mums and ivy. Her gown was fashioned on simple lines with a scooped neckline, short sleeves and hemline.

She also wore a pearl necklace and earrings which were a gift from the bridegroom.

FOR HER daughter's wedding Mrs. Edgcumbe was attired in a bronzine gold shantung sheath dress and the bridegroom's mother in a blue silk sheath. Each had a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

Two hundred guests greeted the newlyweds in a luncheon reception held in the Frank Mouso Memorial building at St. John's. The couple honeymooned for 10 days at Isle Royal before taking up residence in Appleton. (S

Hay Fever Sufferers Offered Suggestions

For nearly 4 million American youngsters, there's nothing funny about the sniffles, sneezes and red eyes that are results of hay fever. It is both physically and emotionally exhausting.

And, says the August issue of Better Homes & Gardens, uncontrolled hay fever can cause asthma, as well as dangerous infections of the ears, nose, throat and sinuses. So the best idea is to determine what your child's allergy is, and then treat it.

TREATMENT will depend on how sensitive your child is to the pollen that causes his trouble. Meanwhile, however, you can do a lot yourself to lessen his discomfort and strengthen him for recovery.

Seeing to it that he gets plenty of rest and good food is essential, of course. Beyond this your most important contribution will be understanding and patience. There is much evidence that psychological upsets can both set off and magify attacks.

It is important, then, that your child live as calm and normal a life as possible. You should neither make light of his trouble, nor pamper him. Any attempt to keep him always at home and behind closed windows or an air conditioned atmosphere is of questionable value since the pollen is likely to reach him anyway; it is much more essential for him emotionally that he not feel set apart from his friends.

IF YOUR CHILD has a mild case, treatment of his symptoms may suffice. But no drugs or hormones should be used except under the direction of your doctor.

Doctors emphasize that no two cases of hay fever are alike. For some children, a few weekly shots at the start of each pollen season are enough. Others must have weekly or monthly shots the year around. A few lucky younsters are completely cured after a few seasons of shots. With others it may take many years—and for some, unfortunately, hay fever is a life-long affliction.

Desensitizing shots, imperfect as they are, constitute the best available treatment. If that sneezing, dripping, suffering child of yours is like nine of ten other youngsters, he'll gain welcome relief from them.

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

Soda Pop Party Gives Guests 'Sweet' Choice

INVITATIONS

On light green or pink paper cut several "foaming lines," leaving a narrow piece at the bottom which will slip into the "paper glass."

Place two real straws in the paper soda, fastening them with scotch tape. On the insert write the following:

Do you like a party?
Soda I.
Want to come to mine?

State time, place and occasion—needs no better reason than giving your "what-can-I-do now" kiddies something to do and plan.

DECORATIONS

If you have a couple of card tables and chairs or a picnic table you have all the props you need. Set them up outside and have the host or hostess make a "soda-jerk" cap from white paper, don a white apron made from any white material or paper and you are ready for customers.

Place colorful posters around which the kids can color themselves—showing sundaes, banana splits, all topped with red cherries and wafers. These are for ideas when guests just "don't know what to fix."

Paper napkins and plastic dishes in bright colors, plastic spoons to match or contrast, plus an empty box, makes for quick and easy cleanups.

If the party is to celebrate a birthday, you will want to plan a few games and there are many you can play using straws, such as transporting beans in relays using no hands, just straws.

Ping pong balls kept in the air in teams by blowing through straws and balancing trays of empty paper cups, etc., are just a few ideas, but main highlight of the event is, of course, the sodas themselves.

MENU

Have several half gallons of ice cream, scoops, dishes, carbonated drinks, bananas and lots and lots of toppings—chocolate, pineapple, (you know best what your crowd likes).

Have dishes of chopped nuts, cherries and whipped cream ready with trays of sugar wafers and vanilla wafers, or animal crackers for the small fry.

For the very young it would be best to fix treats to order using cones and dixie cups with toppings. A scoop of ice cream made into a clown is fun for this party, too, using the pointed sugar cone for the clown's hat, a cherry for the nose, coconut for the hair (tint this orange prior to the party) and "squirt on" a collar of whipped cream and your clown is ready, with shining jelly bean eyes.

YOU CAN HAVE fun at a teenage party by awarding prizes for the prettiest, gooiest, gloopiest sundae or fizzingest soda. But once you start, I'm sure you'll love this party and soda I.

Nancy Singelman Now Mrs. John M. Newkirk

The faces of a number of North Barrington school second graders were aglow with excitement June 17 when they saw their teacher, Miss Nancy Laura Singelman, become the bride of John M. Newkirk, son of John M. Newkirk of Chicago and Mrs. Muriel Newkirk of Lombard.

Vases at the altar, with double white stock and bows at the pews decorated St. Paul United Church of Christ during the candlelight double ring ceremony in which Miss Singelman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Singelman, Mardan Woods, Long Grove, was given in marriage by her father.

Rev. Glenn G. Gumm officiated at the 4:30 p.m. ceremony. Accompanying the soloist, Ron Denison, who sang "Lord's Prayer" and "Whither Thou Goest," was Harold Berg, organist.

THE BRIDE came down the aisle in a floor-length gown of tucked organdy over taffeta with a row of satin buttons down the front, short sleeves and a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil was secured by a doll hat with front bow and she carried a stephanotis bouquet centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Gerald Schultz of Barrington was the matron of honor, and a sorority sister of the bride, Mrs. Richard Coleman of Des Plaines, was the bridesmaid. Miss Bonnie Newkirk, sister of the groom, of Lombard was a junior bridesmaid.

PETER NEWKIRK was his brother's best man and the bride's brother, James, was usher.

The bridal couple is now at home at 304 N. Brockway, Palatine, following a month's honeymoon in Hawaii. (S

(Jenart

The honor of being the first wedding solemnized in the new St. Theresa church building in Palatine went on June 3 to the former Kathryn Helen Horak, daughter of the Edward Horaks, S. Quentin rd., Palatine, and Michael Edward Barrett of Woodstock. Rev. Thomas Sloan united the couple at 10 o'clock nuptial high mass before family and friends.

Escorted by her father, the bride came down the aisle wearing a chapel length gown of satin peau de soie and rosepoint lace, the full circular skirt falling over a hoop. The gown's bodice of lace had a demure neckline and fingertip length sleeves; the skirt of satin was adorned with four rosepoint lace appliques set with bridal pearls and sequins. The pearls and sequins were repeated in the crown which held a fingertip silk illusion veil, edged with rosepoint lace.

THE BRIDAL bouquet was of white roses, phalaenopsis, lilies of the valley and ivy. The only jewelry worn by the bride was a family heirloom, a gold cross on a heavy gold chain which has been in the family for over 80 years. The bride carried on the tradition set by her grandmother, Mrs. Rudolph Nellessen; her mother, and her sister, Mrs. Louis J. Rang of Lake Zurich.

Bouquets of white gladioli, peonies and baby mums decorated the new church altar as Mrs. J. P. Bataille sang "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus" and "To Thee Only Virgin." A children's choir sang the high mass, after which the bride placed a bouquet at the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

A FRIEND of the bride, Mrs. Edward Eberhard, was matron of honor in a street length dress of floral printed white organza over taffeta. She wore white shoes, a small white hat with veil and wrist length gloves. A bouquet of white daisies with yellow centers completed her outfit.

Best man was the bridegroom's brother, James A. Barrett of Woodstock, and ushers were William J. Barrett of Loves Park and John P. Barrett of Woodstock.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Horak wore a pale blue silk organza eyelet dress lined with taffeta and matching shoes. White accessories and a corsage of phalaenopsis completed her attire. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. William J. Barrett, wore a pale blue nylon batiste dress and matching hat, beige accessories and a phalaenopsis corsage.

THE BRIDE'S grandmother, Mrs. Nellessen, hosted a wedding breakfast for 25 immediately after the ceremony at Brandt's restaurant in Palatine. An afternoon reception for 175 was held in Firemen's hall in Palatine.

A wedding trip to Canada is planned for late August by the couple, shortly before they return to St. Mary college in Winona, Minn., where the bridegroom is a mathematics major. He has also attended Marquette university in Milwaukee, and his bride has her degree in accounting from Walton school in Chicago. She is also a graduate of St. Patrick academy in Des Plaines. (S

After a week's honeymoon in the Ozarks the newlyweds are now at home in Palatine. Both are graduates of Arlington high school, the bride then attending Northern Illinois university for one year and the bridegroom continuing at the University of Illinois and Northwestern university.

Both are now employed at Federal Pacific Electric in Des Plaines. (Jenart (S

'Deluxe' Rummage Sale Slated by Nurses Club

A "deluxe" rummage sale will be held Saturday, Aug. 5, in Miner Junior high school cafeteria, Arlington Heights. Available will be exceptional values in clothing for adults and children, furniture, toys, bric-a-brac, household articles and specialty shop.

Sponsored by the Arlington Heights Nurses club, the group's lending closet and Martha Jackson Scholarship fund will benefit from the proceeds.

THE LENDING closet was organized in 1950 to function as a public service in loaning sickroom articles to residents free of charge. The closet has grown to include more than 350 articles, including wheelchairs, walkers, vaporizers, crutches, hospital beds and sundry sickroom needs. Articles may be obtained by calling Mrs. L. Q. Yowell, CLearbrook 9-3253.

The scholarship fund was established by the club in 1947 in memory of the blub's founder, Martha Jackson. Each year the fund offers a $300 scholarship to an outstanding senior from the Arlington area who has chosen nursing as her career.

THE RUMMAGE sale will be the club's one money-making project of the year. Anyone having rummage to donate is asked to call Mrs. Ralph Schlack at CLearbrook 5-4557 or Mrs. James Valkenaar at CLearbrook 9-3559. (S

Post, Paddock Party Nets $2400 for Infant Welfare

A check for $2,400, proceeds from the recent Turf and Terrace party at the Post and Paddock club, was recently turned over to the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago by the society's Arlington Heights center, sponsors of the benefit party.

The check brought the Arlington Heights center's total donation for the year to $4,900. Previous benefits given by the group were a Sunday brunch at the Anvil club last August and a St. Patrick's party last March at the Villa Venice.

The group, which received its charter in March, 1960, is the newest center of the Infant Welfare and is also one of the newer groups in the community Its members, 20 in all, report that they are extremely pleased with the enthusiasm and interest their friends have shown in supporting their benefits. They are also proud of the profits from these benefits.

THE TURF and Terrace party, the center's largest undertaking to date, featured a gourmet buffet followed by dancing to the music of Frankie Masters and his orchestra. It also included a cocktail hour in the new Classic club.

Donation for the affair was $25 per couple, and while the tab was higher than many dinner dances in the area, guests were heard to remark that it was an evening long to be remembered. All reported a fabulous evening and are hoping that the Arlington Heights center will sponsor an identical evening next year.

Contributions from the 51 centers in Chicago and its suburbs go toward expenses incurred in operating the society's child development center and stations for infants and pre-school children and its program of pre-natal care, home calls and nutrition for under-privileged mothers.

IN ADDITION to fund raising, members of the centers volunteer many hours at the stations, weighing and measuring babies and doing clerical work to release nurses for professional duties.

The society's object is to improve the health of coming generations by caring for the mother before the baby is born and, with a competent professional staff, to teach her how to care for herself, her child and her family and to provide regular physical or mental health supervision and instruction. The wedding took place in St. Barnabas church, Chicago, followed by a reception in the Drake hotel. After their honeymoon on Mackinac Island, the couple are now residing in Mesquehoning, Penn.

Mr. Petersen, who was homecoming king when he attended Arlington high school, graduated from Culver-Stockton college, Canton, Mo., where he met Miss Clark. (S

Coterie Club Schedules Dance Nights

Schedules for dance lessons and dances were set up at the first meeting of the Coterie dance club officers July 16.

Dance chairman Don Dougan announced that he had obtained the Corrie Lynn orchestra, George Fanelli orchestra and Del Rene's orchestra for the dances.

The Coterie club offers 10 Sunday night dance lessons plus four dances for a fee of $30. Lessons will be held in the VFW hall and at two country clubs.

Anyone interested in learning and improving dance steps in the fox trot, waltz and Latin American dances may call Charlotte Marcin, CL 5-4611.

Many Benefits

Artificial Breeding Of Swine Is Praised

Artificial insemination of swine can be both practical and beneficial to producers, according to A. H. Jensen, University of Illinois animal scientist.

Jensen says artificial insemination has numerous advantages. Small producers could save time and eliminate the cost of finding and buying an expensive boar. For a reasonable price they could get the service of a top-notch boar. The method could lead to more meat-type hogs, the goal of swine producers.

FARMERS COULD form a co-op, buy a boar and use artificial insemination to eliminate boar travel. This would reduce the chance of boars' picking up and transmitting disease. They could also get the services of boars bred for resistance to certain diseases.

One co-op in eastern Iowa already is providing artificial insemination services from a pool of boars. When farmers have stock ready to breed, a man is sent out with semen to breed the animals. Cost of the service is about $5.

Right now 50 per cent of all females bred artificially conceive and farrow. If this proportion could be increased to 75 per cent, Jensen says it would reduce the cost per sow and lead to greater use of artificial insemination.

Also, Jensen forecasts that use of artificial insemination will increase when semen can be stored without losing its fertility and heat can be controlled in females.

JENSEN SAYS artificial insemination used with controlled heat in females would make breeding programs easier to follow. The farmer would know that his sows were bred. He would then know how many sows would farrow and when they would farrow.

Jensen gives no forecast as to when artificial insemination will be ready for wider use. "It could be in full swing in a year, or it might take five or more years," he says. (Fm

Judging Teams Place In Top State Events

The Cook county livestock judging team earned a "B" rating at the state judging contest held at the University of Illinois. Members of the livestock team were: Warren Nesler, Randy Klein and Arlie Dieckhoff, all three from the Hanover Hawks 4-H club. Warren Nesler received an "A" rating, the other two members of the team received a "B" rating.

Elaine Yunker and Melvin Stanley Yunker placed in the state 4-H vegetable judging contest. Elaine received an "A" rating, Melvin a "C" rating.

George F. Klein, leader of the Hanover Hawks 4-H club took the 4-H'ers to this event at the University. He reported that nearly 900 4-H club members from 85 counties were in attendance at the contest. They judged in livestock, poultry, dairy and vegetable divisions. County teams and individuals were ranked into three groups—A, B and C.

ILLINOIS WILL be represented in the national contests in all four divisions of the state contest by teams made up of three individuals and an alternate. The four team members in each contest, except vegetables are selected from the "A" group in the state contest by means of elimination contests held later in the year. State vegetable team members were selected at the state contest.

In national competition, members of the state livestock team will judge at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago and the American Royal Livestock show in Kansas City; the vegetable team members will judge in a National Invitational Contest at Detroit, Mich. (Fm

Soybeans, Oats Are Examined

Twenty varieties of oats and soybeans which are under test in Illinois may be compared at the county demonstration plot. The plot is identified with name cards of the varieties and the University of Illinois demonstration sign at the road. The variety trials are located on the Harold Bergman farm on route 62, Algonquin road west of Ela road, the first farm north of this intersection.

Oat varieties under test include Beedee, Clintland 60, Goodfield, Minhafer, Newton, Putnam 61, Shield, Portage, Dodge and Tonka.

SOYBEANS UNDER test include Harosoy, Hawkeye, Chippewa, Shelby, Lindarin, Madison, Ross, Henry, Adams and Ford.

You may compare your varieties grown at home with the varieties at these plots. Check them out now, at this timely period, to determine the variety that you will want to plant next year. (Fm

Hints To Home Owners

by

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

These last few days of July and the first part of August are important ones for pansy fanciers.

For plants to bloom in the spring, sow pansy seed the latter part of July in this area.

If healthy pansy plants are set out early in the fall, they will bloom later before winter. They'll even bloom during the winter if there is an extended thaw.

IT TAKES ABOUT four weeks from the time seed is sown in hot weather to grow seedlings with six to eight leaves. This is a good size for transplanting into the garden or cold frame. To come through the winter well, pansies require another four weeks to become established and reach blooming size before cold weather starts.

Plant pansy seed in a mixture of one part loam, one part sand and one part peat moss. Place the seeds thinly and evenly in rows about two inches apart. Cover them lightly with soil. Keep the seedbed moist but not wet, and near 58 degrees F. during the five-to-seven day germination period.

Many gardeners prefer to buy pansy plants in the fall at transplanting time. The better strains are grown by nurserymen and florists in this area.

WHEN PANSY plants are ready to set out, lift the seedlings carefully, and reset them at the same level as in the seedbed. Usually the plants are spaced about 6 to 10 inches apart in the garden.

After the ground freezes, apply a mulch of peat moss or straw to prevent temperature fluctuations. Hard freezing does not usually harm pansies. But alternate freezing and thawing does harm by lifting the plants out of the unprotected soil. Colorful pansies belong to the hardy perennial group of garden flowers. They are known as cool-weather plants because they display their largest, most colorful flowers in a temperature range of 40 degrees F. at night and 50 to 60 degrees F. during the day.

1961 Corn Crop Cut 18% Below Last Year

By L. H. SIMERL

The government crop report for July provides a new view of the results of the feed-grain program. This report gives the first official estimate of corn production this year.

This first official forecast sets the 1961 corn crop at 3,175 million bushels, which is 18 per cent less than last year.

(The corn crop forecast this year and the comparison with last year refer only to corn harvested for grain. The figures do not include corn used, or to be used, for silage and forage. Previous forecasts and estimates of production generally include all corn, including the grain in corn, used for silage and forage. Last year, when the total corn crop was estimated at 4,353 million bushels, nearly 10 per cent of the crop was used for silage and forage.)

HOW MUCH will surplus stocks of corn be cut as a result of the feed-grain program? This question can never be answered with certainty, because we will never know what would have happened without it. But we can make some forecasts of changes in carry-over stocks.

Carry-over stocks of old corn next October 1 will total around 2,000 million bushels. Adding to this carry-over the indicated 1961 crop of 3,175 million bushels will make a total supply of 5,175 million bushels.

But how much corn will be used and exported in the 1961-62 marketing year? Since most of our corn is fed to livestock on our own farms, the big problem is to guess how much farmers will feed. Many farmers who have cut their corn acreages, particularly those outside the main cash-corn areas, will also cut back the amount they feed to livestock. Some other farmers will also cut their use of corn in response to higher prices next year.

Biggest recorded use of corn for feed was about 3,150 million bushels in 1959-60. The amount may be a little higher this present year, probably around 3,200 million. It could easily drop back to 3,000 million next year, 1961-62, but that would still be far above the average of about 2,500 million bushels used annually in the five years ending in 1959.

COMMERCIAL uses and exports might take another 550 million bushels, making total disappearance around 3,550 million. Subtracting this amount from the total supply of 5,175 million would leave 1,625 million bushels on hand October 1, 1962.

SOYBEANS. The acreage of soybeans being grown for beans was listed as 27.1 million, or 14 per cent more than last year. There will be no official forecast of acre yields and total production of beans until August 10. Stocks of soybeans on farms July 1 were estimated at 12 million bushels, 70 per cent less than one year earlier.

WHEAT. Production of wheat is estimated at 1,257 million bushels, 7 per cent less than last year. Drouth in the big spring wheat states — North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana—sharply cut the spring wheat part of the crop.

OATS. The oat crop is estimated at 961 million bushels, 16 per cent less than last year. The acreage of oats was reduced to get idle land in order to comply with the feed-grain program.

Production estimates for sorghum grain and barley will not be released until August 10. (Fm

Future Corn Designs Mapped by Researcher

You may not recognize the future corn, D. E. Alexander, University of Illinois corn breeding specialist, recently told members of the American Farm Research association.

Alexander cautioned that he was talking about ideas still on the drawing boards and some others that haven't reached even that stage.

Years of research went into today's hybrids. Alexander emphasized that many of the changes he was suggesting might also take many years.

HERE ARE some new hybrids farmers can expect to grow in their fields within 15 or 20 years, according to Alexander:

Hi - Density Hybrids: These new types, with as many as 24,000 plants per acre, outyield ordinary corn when there is plenty of water and high fertility. They resist damage at high populations. Under average conditions, researchers get yields equaling those produced by ordinary corn at the usual stand of 16,000 plants per acre.

High-Oil Hybrids: High-oil versions of modern hybrids are being tested throughout the state. Oil is 2¼ times as high in energy as starch is. A high-energy feed can mean more livestock gain produced from each bushel of corn. If high-oil corn passes this season's tests, scientists will produce hybrids that yield 7 to 8 per cent oil and have the desirable traits of today's hybrids.

Corn - Teosinte Hybrids: Corn breeders call the result of an intercross of corn with a wild relative, teosinte, a corn-teosinte hybrid. Some combinations are multiple-eared. While the ear is smaller than that of ordinary corn, corn-teosinte ears may contain more protein. Also, this cross seems more drought resistant.

Stover for Cattle Feed: Corn stover may be the main reason for more corn belt breeding herds. The nutritive value of one acre of corn stover, yielding about 100 bushels, is enough to feed one cow unit for one year. It seems likely that machinery to cut and chop stover and separate the corn kernels will soon be designed for the corn belt.

Here are some of Alexander's long-range thoughts about the corn we're likely to grow in the distant future:

Pure-Breeding Hybrids: There is a distant promise that some corn will show little loss of vigor if seed is saved from farmers' fields. The new hybrids are tetraploid instead of the diploid types we grow today. That is to say, the new plants have 40 chromosomes instead of the usual 20. Chromosomes carry genes that determine the characteristics of a variety.

Ultimately, Alexander believes, pre-breeding hybrids will be produced. However, he notes that as yet researchers have not produced corn hybrids with 40 chromosomes that equal traditional corn's agronomic value.

New Species: By putting viruses to work, corn breeders may find that they have an entirely new breeding tool. Plant and animal cells are capable of acquiring genetic material by a kind of "infection" quite separate from the normal sexual process.

This kind of breeding work may some day lead to entirely new species. For example, scientists may create a corn and sorghum hybrid. This species would combine the advantages of sorghum and corn.

Of course, Alexander said, these are just two of what you might call a corn breeder's pipe dreams. But the possibilities are there, and we may find great changes in the future corn belt crops. (Fm

PICNIC BEETLES ARE HERE AGAIN. During the past few days more of these pests of back yard living have been appearing. You may call them picnic beetles or scavenger beetles. You will recognize them by the four yellow to orange spots on their shiny black backs. The beetles are only about ¼ inch long, but the numbers in one area may be great. They are attracted by the oder of food either at your picnic or in your garden where food or over ripe fruit and vegetables are present. To control these pests eliminate over ripe fruit or vegetables from the garden. Sprays of Diazion or Malathion help to control them, but repeated sprays will be necessary as beetles migrate into the area. Follow the instructions on the labels of containers for safety.

Choosing the time to market grain is a difficult and important task. The key question in deciding when to sell corn, soybeans, oats and wheat is: "Will the price rise enough from harvest time to the time of selling to more than cover the costs of holding grain?" A new circular from the University of Illinois attempts to help farmers answer this question. This circular No. 833, "When to sell Corn, Soybeans, Oats and Wheat" is available from our office at 201 North Dunton Avenue, Arlington Heights, Illinois. The circular was written by T. A. Hieronymus, professor of Agriculture Marketing. Many farmers have appreciated the direct manner used by Professor "Tom" Hieronymus at appearances he has made throughout Illinois and they will enjoy this circular.

WEED KILLERS AND OTHER CHEMICALS are manufactured to serve a particular purpose. The recommendations and limitations are printed on the label of each package. Each chemical must pass the specifications of safety of the Federal Food and Drug Administration. Use chemicals at the recommended rates. The old adage "that if a little bit is good; more would be better" does not hold true with chemicals. Use proper care and caution at time of application. You can cause damage to your own property or to someone else's.

Homeowners as well as farmers must use great caution with 2, 4-D around susceptible broadleaf plants.

Lake County's Fair To Open Wednesday

Lake county's 33rd annual fair and 4-H club show opens Wednesday, July 26 and will continue for five days and nights ending Sunday night, July 30.

The fair will be held on the Lake county fair grounds located at the junction of routes 45 and 120, about 10 miles west of Waukegan and 1 mile east of Grayslake.

More than $15,000 in prizes are being awarded to exhibitors in livestock, crops, vegetables, flowers, domestic arts, and fine arts.

THE FAIR WILL also feature exhibits of farm machinery and equipment, home improvements and household appliances, and many educational exhibits.

Lake county's 1300 4-H club members will have several hundred exhibits depicting their numerous project activities. In addition to the exhibits by the 4-H members, these young people will present an all-day horse show on Wednesday, July 26, starting at 10 a.m., and a talent show in the evening on the stage in front of the grandstand.

Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings will feature the famous Calzavara Bar M Ranch rodeo. These performances will take place in the arena starting at 8 p.m. The evening rodeo performances will be followed by a huge fireworks spectacle.

The All-Shetland pony show will be held Saturday, July 29, starting at 1:30 p.m. This pony show will feature many of the outstanding ponies and drivers in the area. The pony show combines beautifully decorated carriages and precision driving.

SUNDAY'S program will be highlighted by the horse show starting at 9:30 a.m. with the halter classes and continuing with the performance classes at 1 p.m.

A carnival atmosphere will prevail at the Fair Grounds, with a huge midway with its booths and thrill rides.

Admission to the fair is 50 cents per person, with those under twelve being admitted free. There is ample parking space on the fair grounds for several thousand cars. Car parking will be 50 cents per car.

THE SPECIAL admission offer of $1 per carload will be in effect Wednesday, July 26, the opening date of the 1961 Lake county fair and 4-H club show.

This special offer allows the entire carload of fair guests into the grounds for $1, and is effective until 5 p.m. The car parking fee of 50 cents will be in effect during the special admission price period. (FM

4-H Show Is Slated For Grayslake Site

A 4-H North Cook county show will be held at the Lake County fair grounds according to the president of the fair board, Henry Eichholz. The North Cook county 4-H fair board was unable to secure the use of the Arlington Park jockey club as they have for the past 14 years.

The local board met with the Lake county board of directors to make arrangements for the one day show to be held on August 19, 1961. The 4-H show is the highlight of the annual 4-H program to 4-H members. To be come a 4-H member a boy or girl must have some type of project. This project is to be shown at the Annual County 4-H Show. The 4-H show is their opportunity to bring their project to one location for judging. The competition is sometimes very strong among members for the top awards. Trophies will be presented to 4-H club members who do a very outstanding job with their project. Premiums and other awards will be presented to all 4-H club members.

4-H'ERS WILL BE showing dairy animals, beef, including steers, swine, sheep, goats, chickens, turkeys, garden displays, flowers, photography displays, rabbits, and many other projects with which they have worked with during the past year.

The one day show as planned will allow time for each project to be judged by a known authority in each field of study and ribbons will be awarded as of that day.

The 4-H club leaders and the 4-H Federation are working together to plan the program for the one day show and the Coronation Ball that will follow. The 4-H Federation is planning to hold a Coronation Ball for the King and Queen contestants for 1961. In addition to the coronation, trophies will be awarded to the outstanding projects in each of the major areas of the 4-H show.

4-H club members are now busy preparing their projects for this show. A good many hours of time are spent by the member in getting his project ready for this judging event. The 4-H show is a fair of 4-H club members with their projects. (FM

Soda Pop Party Gives Guests 'Sweet' Choice

INVITATIONS

Measure standard envelope and then cut a double fold white soda glass, the round top, slim bottom kind with a handle on one side. Glue one side leaving a slot.

On light green or pink paper cut several "foaming lines," leaving a narrow piece at the bottom which will slip into the "paper glass."

Place two real straws in the paper soda, fastening them with scotch tape. On the insert write the following:

Do you like a party?
Soda I.
Want to come to mine?

State time, place and occasion—needs no better reason than giving your "what-can-I-do now" kiddies something to do and plan.

DECORATIONS

If you have a couple of card tables and chairs or a picnic table you have all the props you need. Set them up outside and have the host or hostess make a "soda-jerk" cap from white paper, don a white apron made from any white material or paper and you are ready for customers.

Place colorful posters around which the kids can color themselves—showing sundaes, banana splits, all topped with red cherries and wafers. These are for ideas when guests just "don't know what to fix."

Paper napkins and plastic dishes in bright colors, plastic spoons to match or contrast, plus an empty box, makes for quick and easy cleanups.

If the party is to celebrate a birthday, you will want to plan a few games and there are many you can play using straws, such as transporting beans in relays using no hands, just straws.

Ping pong balls kept in the air in teams by blowing through straws and balancing trays of empty paper cups, etc., are just a few ideas, but main highlight of the event is, of course, the sodas themselves.

MENU

Have several half gallons of ice cream, scoops, dishes, carbonated drinks, bananas and lots and lots of toppings—chocolate, pineapple, (you know best what your crowd likes).

Have dishes of chopped nuts, cherries and whipped cream ready with trays of sugar wafers and vanilla wafers, or animal crackers for the small fry.

For the very young it would be best to fix treats to order using cones and dixie cups with toppings. A scoop of ice cream made into a clown is fun for this party, too, using the pointed sugar cone for the clown's hat, a cherry for the nose, coconut for the hair (tint this orange prior to the party) and "squirt on" a collar of whipped cream and your clown is ready, with shining jelly bean eyes.

YOU CAN HAVE fun at a teenage party by awarding prizes for the prettiest, gooiest, gloopiest sundae or fizzingest soda. But once you start, I'm sure you'll love this party and soda I.

Research Boost

Cancer research received its first big boost in 1902, when Mrs. Collis Potter Huntington gave $100,000 to the New York Cancer hospital.

Nancy Singelman Now Mrs. John M. Newkirk

The faces of a number of North Barrington school second graders were aglow with excitement June 17 when they saw their teacher, Miss Nancy Laura Singelman, become the bride of John M. Newkirk, son of John M. Newkirk of Chicago and Mrs. Muriel Newkirk of Lombard.

Vases at the altar, with double white stock and bows at the pews decorated St. Paul United Church of Christ during the candlelight double ring ceremony in which Miss Singelman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Singelman, Mardan Woods, Long Grove, was given in marriage by her father.

Rev. Glenn G. Gumm officiated at the 4:30 p.m. ceremony. Accompanying the soloist, Ron Denison, who sang "Lord's Prayer" and "Whither Thou Goest," was Harold Berg, organist.

THE BRIDE came down the aisle in a floor-length gown of tucked organdy over taffeta with a row of satin buttons down the front, short sleeves and a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil was secured by a doll hat with front bow and she carried a stephanotis bouquet centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Gerald Schultz of Barrington was the matron of honor, and a sorority sister of the bride, Mrs. Richard Coleman of Des Plaines, was the bridesmaid. Miss Bonnie Newkirk, sister of the groom, of Lombard was a junior bridesmaid.

Bridal attendants' gowns were of white organdy over pale pink skirts, closely fitted at the waist with shocking pink sashes. Their doll hats and slippers were of matching hue. Bright pink flowers also gave contrast to the white and floral colors used in their carnation bouquet.

PETER NEWKIRK was his brother's best man and the bride's brother, James, was usher.

A light blue silk sheath dress with a chiffon overskirt and blue chiffon hat were chosen by Mrs. Singelman for her attire. A purple orchid was pinned to her dress. Mrs. Newkirk's lavender sheath dress was accented with a white hat and pink rose corsage.

The newlyweds met at Northern Illinois university where Miss Singelman was affiliated with Sigma Kappa sorority. Following his graduation the bridegroom became employed by Allstate Insurance company.

After the ceremony a garden reception took place at the Singelman home for 130 guests. Among those at the buffet dinner were the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hitchcock of Florida.

The bridal couple is now at home at 304 N. Brockway, Palatine, following a month's honeymoon in Hawaii. (S

(Jenart

The honor of being the first wedding solemnized in the new St. Theresa church building in Palatine went on June 3 to the former Kathryn Helen Horak, daughter of the Edward Horaks, S. Quentin rd., Palatine, and Michael Edward Barrett of Woodstock. Rev. Thomas Sloan united the couple at 10 o'clock nuptial high mass before family and friends.

Escorted by her father, the bride came down the aisle wearing a chapel length gown of satin peau de soie and rosepoint lace, the full circular skirt falling over a hoop. The gown's bodice of lace had a demure neckline and fingertip length sleeves; the skirt of satin was adorned with four rosepoint lace appliques set with bridal pearls and sequins. The pearls and sequins were repeated in the crown which held a fingertip silk illusion veil, edged with rosepoint lace.

THE BRIDAL bouquet was of white roses, phalaenopsis, lilies of the valley and ivy. The only jewelry worn by the bride was a family heirloom, a gold cross on a heavy gold chain which has been in the family for over 80 years. The bride carried on the tradition set by her grandmother, Mrs. Rudolph Nellessen; her mother, and her sister, Mrs. Louis J. Rang of Lake Zurich.

Bouquets of white gladioli, peonies and baby mums decorated the new church altar as Mrs. J. P. Bataille sang "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus" and "To Thee Only Virgin." A children's choir sang the high mass, after which the bride placed a bouquet at the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

A FRIEND of the bride, Mrs. Edward Eberhard, was matron of honor in a street length dress of floral printed white organza over taffeta. She wore white shoes, a small white hat with veil and wrist length gloves. A bouquet of white daisies with yellow centers completed her outfit.

Best man was the bridegroom's brother, James A. Barrett of Woodstock, and ushers were William J. Barrett of Loves Park and John P. Barrett of Woodstock.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Horak wore a pale blue silk organza eyelet dress lined with taffeta and matching shoes. White accessories and a corsage of phalaenopsis completed her attire. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. William J. Barrett, wore a pale blue nylon batiste dress and matching hat, beige accessories and a phalaenopsis corsage.

THE BRIDE'S grandmother, Mrs. Nellessen, hosted a wedding breakfast for 25 immediately after the ceremony at Brandt's restaurant in Palatine. An afternoon reception for 175 was held in Firemen's hall in Palatine.

A wedding trip to Canada is planned for late August by the couple, shortly before they return to St. Mary college in Winona, Minn., where the bridegroom is a mathematics major. He has also attended Marquette university in Milwaukee, and his bride has her degree in accounting from Walton school in Chicago. She is also a graduate of St. Patrick academy in Des Plaines. (S

Elaine Schlau Makes Tucscn 'Home' As Bride Of J. Segura

At an 11 o'clock nuptial mass July 8 in the parish of her home town, St. Colette Catholic church, Rolling Meadows, Miss Elaine Schlau became the bride of John Segura Jr., son of the senior John Seguras of Bisbee, Ariz.

Amid white gladioli, mums and daisies, Fr. Feller officiated a the double ring rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Schlau. The young couple, who honeymooned in California for two weeks, were feted at a reception in the Arlington Heights VFW hall that evening.

Miss Schlau was escorted to the altar by her father gowned in a floor-length silk organza and lace dress. Her full skirt, caught at the back with an organza bow, was accented with wide strips of lace, again used in the bodice, styled with square neckline and long sleeves.

WHITE ORANGE blossoms fashioned the headpiece which held in place a fingertip veil. The bridal bouquet consisted of white roses and stephanotis intertwined with ivy.

Kathy Schlau served her sister as maid of honor, wearing a semi-full street-length gown of blue taffeta over white organza. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Hermine Hendrich of Aurora, Sandra Halvorsen, Rolling Meadows and Mrs. Sharon Whitman, Palatine.

Attendants wore identical gowns, but in yellow; all carried bouquets of daisies and yellow roses. In an outfit similar to that of the maid of honor's was the bride's flower girl, Cindy Garcia of Rolling Meadows, age 3.

Don Marchaldon of Cairo, Ill. was best man; ushers were Garry Klingensmith, Albia, Ia.; Edward Robert, Claremont, Okla., and Ray Hendrich, Aurora. Wedding guests were greeted at the church by Mrs. Schlau, attired in a pink silk sheath and white orchid.

THE NEW MRS. Segura attended Austin high school, was graduated from Arlington and was an employee at the Prospect Heights Jewel Food store. After completing high school studies the groom was a student at Arizona State university for two years.

Another two years was spent in service at the nearby Nike site, where Mr. Segura recently received his discharge. This weekend the pair will be enroute to Tucson, place of their permanent home. (S

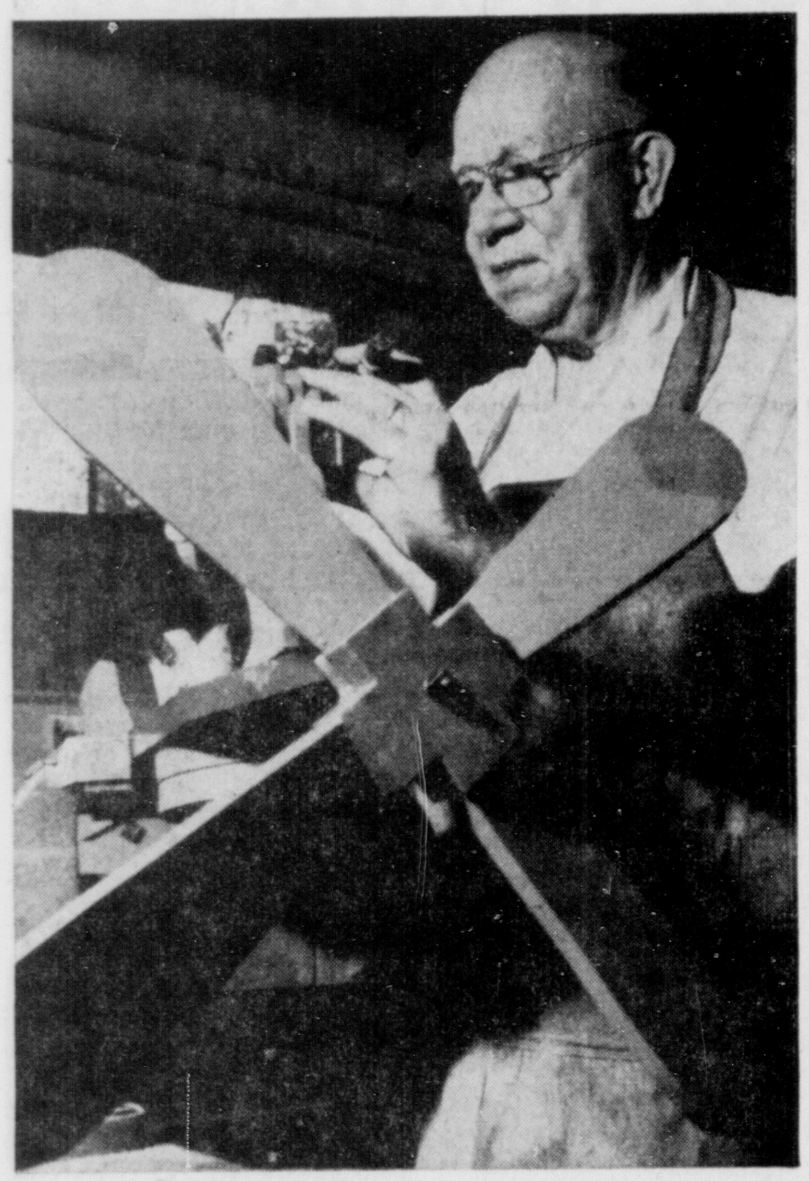
Aged Discover 'New Life' at Suburb Home

By DAN PRIBILSKI

Photographs by Larry Cameron

A man lives a productive life. He makes good at a job, and he raises a family. Then his wife dies. He feels lonely. A few more years and he reaches retirement age.



Time for a Hobby

One of his sons takes him into his family. But he is old. He does not fit with the young people in his son's family. He knows few persons of his age whom he can chat with, share experiences. His son's home is not his home. In fact, he is a burden to his son and his family.

What to do?

After much thought, and perhaps a feeling of rejection, he goes to a home for the aged.

If it is the right kind of home, a new life is begun for him. Now he has companions with whom he can share remembrances. Now he has a wide variety of contemporaries from whom he may choose his friends instead of the limited number when he was with his son.

One such home for the aged, the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged, 800 W. Oakton st., Arlington Heights, provides the new life for aging people.

Rev. John Kempf, the home's director, said: "The public has a wrong impression of an old age home. People right in the village of Arlington Heights think that the old people are kept. They are not, of course, kept."

A home for the aged should be just that, a home, the reverend stressed.

"If it is an institution, it has no right to exist. The living conditions at a home for the aged should approximate normal living conditions."

The Lutheran home provides for each of its 120 residents a private room. Two rooms share a single bath.

"When an old person lives with his family," Rev. Kempf commented, "he or she is cut off, very often, from the fuller life possible for them at our home. In the home of the family, the old person is stuck.

"At our home, they are not locked out of life. They are not kept and they are not stuck. They are not just waiting for death as many of the aged would be if they lived with their families."

The reverend stressed emphatically that his home is not a place to go to die. It is a place to go and have a fuller life, he said.

The oldest person at the Lutheran home is 97. The Rev. Kempf said that the average age at the home is 30. Thirteen are 90 or over.

"Naturally, the women outlive the men," Rev. Kempf said. "They always seem to do so."

There are about three women for every man at the home.

The reverend said the oldsters are not supervised or "watched." There is no timetable telling them when to get up, when to go to bed, when to take a nap, or when to join in games.

The home provides occupational therapy, group therapy, plus religious services.

In general, Rev. Kempf pointed out, the home provides more companionship for the oldsters than they would have if they were on the "outside."

"They may come and go as they please. They can have as many visitors as they wish at almost any time of the day. And they can go visiting when they wish," the reverend said.

Old age cannot easily be established, Rev. Kempf said. He said he has seen persons of 60 that were older physically and mentally than some in their 80's. No person is quite like another.

The third floor of the Lutheran home is equipped with an infirmary for bedridden oldsters or those who from time to time suffer ailments.

Some homes are just for invalid or senile old people. These homes are more commonly called nursing or rest homes rather than homes for the aged.

However, even though these homes cater more to invalids or those on the average more ill than at regular old age homes, they do not try to provide a homelike atmosphere, their directors reported. Most of the oldsters are placed by their families and not necessarily voluntary. Those at the Lutheran home are voluntary.

At the nursing homes, the oldsters receive constant attention from registered nurses, graduate nurses, and nurses' aides. Like a regular old age home, those who can may come and go as they please.

The Lutheran home is supported by contributions from the Lutheran church, the community chest, and what can be paid by the old persons. The home has 50 full-time employees.

It is a 1953 building, designed along verticle lines with elevators connecting its three floors. All hallways have handrails.

"In the past, buildings used to be just put up without any consideration for the needs of the aged," Rev. Kempf said.

"A home for the aged should be built vertically and not horizontally. That way, the aged need only take elevators and ride. The floors are not long and expansive. They need not do a great deal of walking.

Rev. Kempf said that too many people go through life without getting ready and providing for old age.

"As a result," he said, "they do not enter old age happily, courageously, and as graciously as they should."

The reverend warned that people must think about old age.

"The young must be instructed to prepare for old age," he said. "The young must be taught to think and prepare for it. They should be taught that they can't always live as they do when young."

One of the best ways for such preparation, Rev. Kemp advised, is for a proper relationship between the young and their grandparents to be developed.

The old must learn to appreciate the difference between their era and the new one, and the young must learn to appreciate the needs and problems facing the aged, the reverend said.

Many Benefits

Artificial Breeding Of Swine Is Praised

Artificial insemination of swine can be both practical and beneficial to producers, according to A. H. Jensen, University of Illinois animal scientist.

Jensen says artificial insemination has numerous advantages. Small producers could save time and eliminate the cost of finding and buying an expensive boar. For a reasonable price they could get the service of a top-notch boar. The method could lead to more meat-type hogs, the goal of swine producers.

FARMERS COULD form a co-op, buy a boar and use artificial insemination to eliminate boar travel. This would reduce the chance of boars' picking up and transmitting disease. They could also get the services of boars bred for resistance to certain diseases.

One co-op in eastern Iowa already is providing artificial insemination services from a pool of boars. When farmers have stock ready to breed, a man is sent out with semen to breed the animals. Cost of the service is about $5.

Right now 50 per cent of all females bred artificially conceive and farrow. If this proportion could be increased to 75 per cent, Jensen says it would reduce the cost per sow and lead to greater use of artificial insemination.

Also, Jensen forecasts that use of artificial insemination will increase when semen can be stored without losing its fertility and heat can be controlled in females.

JENSEN SAYS artificial insemination used with controlled heat in females would make breeding programs easier to follow. The farmer would know that his sows were bred. He would then know how many sows would farrow and when they would farrow.

Jensen gives no forecast as to when artificial insemination will be ready for wider use. "It could be in full swing in a year, or it might take five or more years," he says. (Fm

Judging Teams Place In Top State Events

The Cook county livestock judging team earned a "B" rating at the state judging contest held at the University of Illinois. Members of the livestock team were: Warren Nesler, Randy Klein and Arlie Dieckhoff, all three from the Hanover Hawks 4-H club. Warren Nesler received an "A" rating, the other two members of the team received a "B" rating.

Elaine Yunker and Melvin Stanley Yunker placed in the state 4-H vegetable judging contest. Elaine received an "A" rating, Melvin a "C" rating.

George F. Klein, leader of the Hanover Hawks 4-H club took the 4-H'ers to this event at the University. He reported that nearly 900 4-H club members from 85 counties were in attendance at the contest. They judged in livestock, poultry, dairy and vegetable divisions. County teams and individuals were ranked into three groups—A, B and C.

ILLINOIS WILL be represented in the national contests in all four divisions of the state contest by teams made up of three individuals and an alternate. The four team members in each contest, except vegetables are selected from the "A" group in the state contest by means of elimination contests held later in the year. State vegetable team members were selected at the state contest.

In national competition, members of the state livestock team will judge at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago and the American Royal Livestock show in Kansas City; the vegetable team members will judge in a National Invitational Contest at Detroit, Mich. (Fm

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

These last few days of July and the first part of August are important ones for pansy fanciers.

For plants to bloom in the spring, sow pansy seed the latter part of July in this area.

If healthy pansy plants are set out early in the fall, they will bloom later before winter. They'll even bloom during the winter if there is an extended thaw.

IT TAKES ABOUT four weeks from the time seed is sown in hot weather to grow seedlings with six to eight leaves. This is a good size for transplanting into the garden or cold frame. To come through the winter well, pansies require another four weeks to become established and reach blooming size before cold weather starts.

Plant pansy seed in a mixture of one part loam, one part sand and one part peat moss. Place the seeds thinly and evenly in rows about two inches apart. Cover them lightly with soil. Keep the seedbed moist but not wet, and near 58 degrees F. during the five-to-seven day germination period.

Many gardeners prefer to buy pansy plants in the fall at transplanting time. The better strains are grown by nurserymen and florists in this area.

WHEN PANSY plants are ready to set out, lift the seedlings carefully, and reset them at the same level as in the seedbed. Usually the plants are spaced about 6 to 10 inches apart in the garden.

After the ground freezes, apply a mulch of peat moss or straw to prevent temperature fluctuations. Hard freezing does not usually harm pansies. But alternate freezing and thawing does harm by lifting the plants out of the unprotected soil. Colorful pansies belong to the hardy perennial group of garden flowers. They are known as cool-weather plants because they display their largest, most colorful flowers in a temperature range of 40 degrees F. at night and 50 to 60 degrees F. during the day.

1961 Corn Crop Cut 18% Below Last Year

By L. H. SIMERL

The government crop report for July provides a new view of the results of the feed-grain program. This report gives the first official estimate of corn production this year.

This first official forecast sets the 1961 corn crop at 3,175 million bushels, which is 18 per cent less than last year.

(The corn crop forecast this year and the comparison with last year refer only to corn harvested for grain. The figures do not include corn used, or to be used, for silage and forage. Previous forecasts and estimates of production generally include all corn, including the grain in corn, used for silage and forage. Last year, when the total corn crop was estimated at 4,353 million bushels, nearly 10 per cent of the crop was used for silage and forage.)

HOW MUCH will surplus stocks of corn be cut as a result of the feed-grain program? This question can never be answered with certainty, because we will never know what would have happened without it. But we can make some forecasts of changes in carry-over stocks.

Carry-over stocks of old corn next October 1 will total around 2,000 million bushels. Adding to this carry-over the indicated 1961 crop of 3,175 million bushels will make a total supply of 5,175 million bushels.

But how much corn will be used and exported in the 1961-62 marketing year? Since most of our corn is fed to livestock on our own farms, the big problem is to guess how much farmers will feed. Many farmers who have cut their corn acreages, particularly those outside the main cash-corn areas, will also cut back the amount they feed to livestock. Some other farmers will also cut their use of corn in response to higher prices next year.

Biggest recorded use of corn for feed was about 3,150 million bushels in 1959-60. The amount may be a little higher this present year, probably around 3,200 million. It could easily drop back to 3,000 million next year, 1961-62, but that would still be far above the average of about 2,500 million bushels used annually in the five years ending in 1959.

COMMERCIAL uses and exports might take another 550 million bushels, making total disappearance around 3,550 million. Subtracting this amount from the total supply of 5,175 million would leave 1,625 million bushels on hand October 1, 1962.

SOYBEANS. The acreage of soybeans being grown for beans was listed as 27.1 million, or 14 per cent more than last year. There will be no official forecast of acre yields and total production of beans until August 10. Stocks of soybeans on farms July 1 were estimated at 12 million bushels, 70 per cent less than one year earlier.

WHEAT. Production of wheat is estimated at 1,257 million bushels, 7 per cent less than last year. Drouth in the big spring wheat states — North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana—sharply cut the spring wheat part of the crop.

OATS. The oat crop is estimated at 961 million bushels, 16 per cent less than last year. The acreage of oats was reduced to get idle land in order to comply with the feed-grain program.

Production estimates for sorghum grain and barley will not be released until August 10. (Fm

Future Corn Designs Mapped by Researcher

You may not recognize the future corn, D. E. Alexander, University of Illinois corn breeding specialist, recently told members of the American Farm Research association.

Alexander cautioned that he was talking about ideas still on the drawing boards and some others that haven't reached even that stage.

Years of research went into today's hybrids. Alexander emphasized that many of the changes he was suggesting might also take many years.

HERE ARE some new hybrids farmers can expect to grow in their fields within 15 or 20 years, according to Alexander:

Hi-Density Hybrids: These new types, with as many as 24,000 plants per acre, outyield ordinary corn when there is plenty of water and high fertility. They resist damage at high populations. Under average conditions, researchers get yields equaling those produced by ordinary corn at the usual stand of 16,000 plants per acre.

High-Oil Hybrids: High-oil versions of modern hybrids are being tested throughout the state. Oil is 2¼ times as high in energy as starch is. A high-energy feed can mean more livestock gain produced from each bushel of corn. If high-oil corn passes this season's tests, scientists will produce hybrids that yield 7 to 8 per cent oil and have the desirable traits of today's hybrids.

Corn - Teosinte Hybrids: Corn breeders call the result of an intercross of corn with a wild relative, teosinte, a corn-teosinte hybrid. Some combinations are multiple-eared. While the ear is smaller than that of ordinary corn, corn-teosinte ears may contain more protein. Also, this cross seems more drought resistant.

Stover for Cattle Feed: Corn stover may be the main reason for more corn belt breeding herds. The nutritive value of one acre of corn stover, yielding about 100 bushels, is enough to feed one cow unit for one year. It seems likely that machinery to cut and chop stover and separate the corn kernels will soon be designed for the corn belt.

Here are some of Alexander's long-range thoughts about the corn we're likely to grow in the distant future:

Pure-Breeding Hybrids: There is a distant promise that some corn will show little loss of vigor if seed is saved from farmers' fields. The new hybrids are tetraploid instead of the diploid types we grow today. That is to say, the new plants have 40 chromosomes instead of the usual 20. Chromosomes carry genes that determine the characteristics of a variety.

Ultimately, Alexander believes, pre-breeding hybrids will be produced. However, he notes that as yet researchers have not produced corn hybrids with 40 chromosomes that equal traditional corn's agronomic value.

New Species: By putting viruses to work, corn breeders may find that they have an entirely new breeding tool. Plant and animal cells are capable of acquiring genetic material by a kind of "infection" quite separate from the normal sexual process.

This kind of breeding work may some day lead to entirely new species. For example, scientists may create a corn and sorghum hybrid. This species would combine the advantages of sorghum and corn.

Of course, Alexander said, these are just two of what you might call a corn breeder's pipe dreams. But the possibilities are there, and we may find great changes in the future corn belt crops. (Fm

4-H Show Is Slated For Grayslake Site

A 4-H North Cook county show will be held at the Lake County fair grounds according to the president of the fair board, Henry Eichholz. The North Cook county 4-H fair board was unable to secure the use of the Arlington Park jockey club as they have for the past 14 years.

The local board met with the Lake county board of directors to make arrangements for the one day show to be held on August 19, 1961. The 4-H show is the highlight of the annual 4-H program to 4-H members. To be come a 4-H member a boy or girl must have some type of project. This project is to be shown at the Annual County 4-H Show. The 4-H show is their opportunity to bring their project to one location for judging. The competition is sometimes very strong among members for the top awards. Trophies will be presented to 4-H club members who do a very outstanding job with their project. Premiums and other awards will be presented to all 4-H club members.

4-H'ERS WILL BE showing dairy animals, beef, including steers, swine, sheep, goats, chickens, turkeys, garden displays, flowers, photography displays, rabbits, and many other projects with which they have worked with during the past year.

The one day show as planned will allow time for each projec to be judged by a known authority in each field of study and ribbons will be awarded as of that day.

The 4-H club leaders and the 4-H Federation are working together to plan the program for the one day show and the Coronation Ball that will follow. The 4-H Federation is planning to hold a Coronation Ball for the King and Queen contestants for 1961. In addition to the coronation, trophies will be awarded to the outstanding projects in each of the major areas of the 4-H show.

4-H club members are now busy preparing their projects for this show. A good many hours of time are spent by the member in getting his project ready for this judging event. The 4-H show is a fair of 4-H club members with their projects. (FM

Down On The Farm

with Your Farm Adviser

PICNIC BEETLES ARE HERE AGAIN. During the past few days more of these pests of back yard living have been appearing. You may call them picnic beetles or scavenger beetles. You will recognize them by the four yellow to orange spots on their shiny black backs. The beetles are only about ¼ inch long, but the numbers in one area may be great. They are attracted by the oder of food either at your picnic or in your garden where food or over ripe fruit and vegetables are present. To control these pests eliminate over ripe fruit or vegetables from the garden. Sprays of Diazion or Malathion help to control them, but repeated sprays will be necessary as beetles migrate into the area. Follow the instructions on the labels of containers for safety.

Choosing the time to market grain is a difficult and important task. The key question in deciding when to sell corn, soybeans, oats and wheat is: "Will the price rise enough from harvest time to the time of selling to more than cover the costs of holding grain?" A new circular from the University of Illinois attempts to help farmers answer this question. This circular No. 833, "When to sell Corn, Soybeans, Oats and Wheat" is available from our office at 201 North Dunton Avenue, Arlington Heights, Illinois. The circular was written by T. A. Hieronymus, professor of Agriculture Marketing. Many farmers have appreciated the direct manner used by Professor "Tom" Hieronymus at appearances he has made throughout Illinois and they will enjoy this circular.

WEED KILLERS AND OTHER CHEMICALS are manufactured to serve a particular purpose. The recommendations and limitations are printed on the label of each package. Each chemical must pass the specifications of safety of the Federal Food and Drug Administration. Use chemicals at the recommended rates. The old adage "that if a little bit is good; more would be better" does not hold true with chemicals. Use proper care and caution at time of application. You can cause damage to your own property or to someone else's.

Homeowners as well as farmers must use great caution with 2, 4-D around susceptible broadleaf plants.

Lake County's Fair To Open Wednesday

Lake county's 33rd annual fair and 4-H club show opens Wednesday, July 26 and will continue for five days and nights ending Sunday night, July 30.

The fair will be held on the Lake county fair grounds located at the junction of routes 45 and 120, about 10 miles west of Waukegan and 1 mile east of Grayslake.

More than $15,000 in prizes are being awarded to exhibitors in livestock, crops, vegetables, flowers, domestic arts, and fine arts.

THE FAIR WILL also feature exhibits of farm machinery and equipment, home improvements and household appliances, and many educational exhibits.

Lake county's 1300 4-H club members will have several hundred exhibits depicting their numerous project activities. In addition to the exhibits by the 4-H members, these young people will present an all-day horse show on Wednesday, July 26, starting at 10 a.m., and a talent show in the evening on the stage in front of the grandstand.

Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings will feature the famous Calzavara Bar M Ranch rodeo. These performances will take place in the arena starting at 8 p.m. The evening rodeo performances will be followed by a huge fireworks spectacle.

The All-Shetland pony show will be held Saturday, July 29, starting at 1:30 p.m. This pony show will feature many of the outstanding ponies and drivers in the area. The pony show combines beautifully decorated carriages and precision driving.

SUNDAY'S program will be highlighted by the horse show starting at 9:30 a.m. with the halter classes and continuing with the performance classes at 1 p.m.

A carnival atmosphere will prevail at the Fair Grounds, with a huge midway with its booths and thrill rides.

Admission to the fair is 50 cents per person, with those under twelve being admitted free. There is ample parking space on the fair grounds for several thousand cars. Car parking will be 50 cents per car.

THE SPECIAL admission offer of $1 per carload will be in effect Wednesday, July 26, the opening date of the 1961 Lake county fair and 4-H club show.

This special offer allows the entire carload of fair guests into the grounds for $1, and is effective until 5 p.m. The car parking fee of 50 cents will be in effect during the special admission price period. (FM

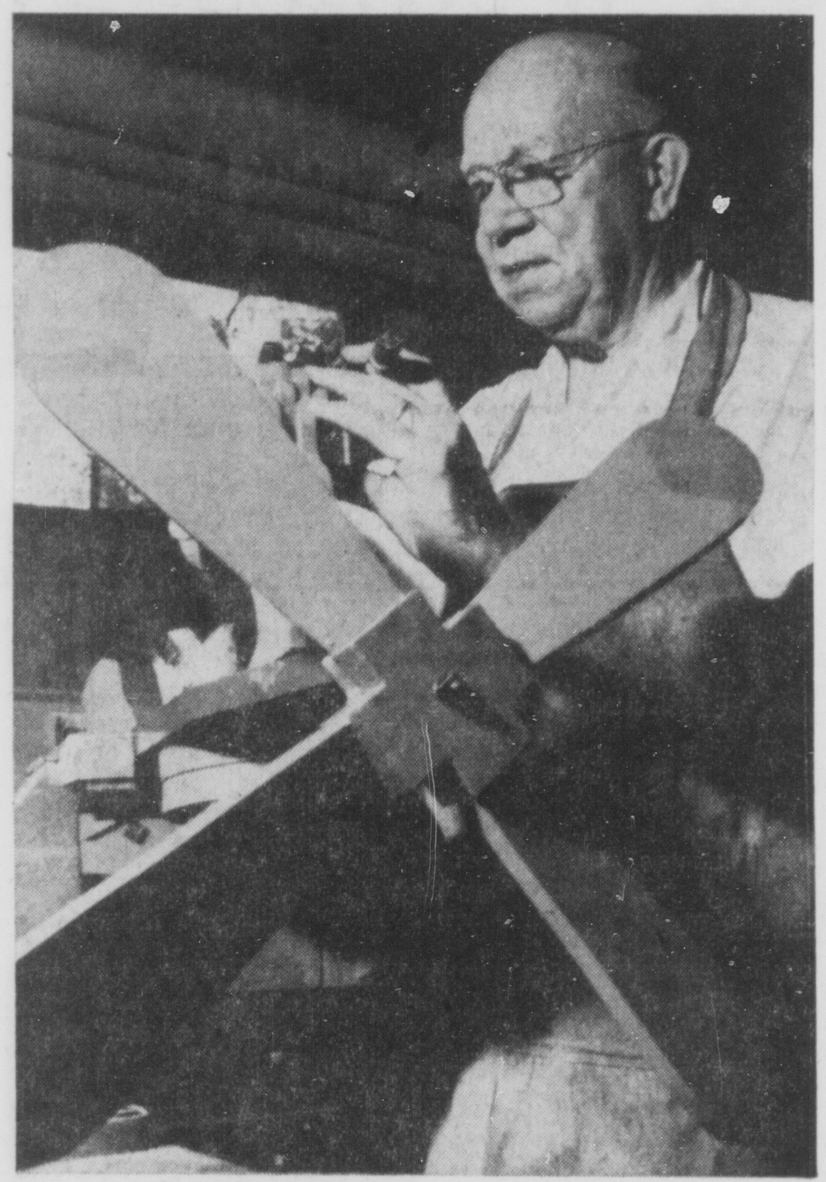
Aged Discover 'New Life' at Suburb Home

By DAN PRIBILSKI

Photographs by Larry Cameron

A man lives a productive life. He makes good at a job, and he raises a family. Then his wife dies. He feels lonely. A few more years and he reaches retirement age.



Time for a Hobby

One of his sons takes him into his family. But he is old. He does not fit with the young people in his son's family. He knows few persons of his age whom he can chat with, share experiences. His son's home is not his home. In fact, he is a burden to his son and his family.

What to do?

After much thought, and perhaps a feeling of rejection, he goes to a home for the aged.

If it is the right kind of home, a new life is begun for him. Now he has companions with whom he can share remembrances. Now he has a wide variety of contemporaries from whom he may choose his friends instead of the limited number when he was with his son.

One such home for the aged, the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged, 800 W. Oakton st., Arlington Heights, provides the new life for aging people.

Rev. John Kempf, the home's director, said: "The public has a wrong impression of an old age home. People right in the village of Arlington Heights think that the old people are kept. They are not, of course, kept."

A home for the aged should be just that, a home, the reverend stressed.

"If it is an institution, it has no right to exist. The living conditions at a home for the aged should approximate normal living conditions."

The Lutheran home provides for each of its 120 residents a private room. Two rooms share a single bath.

"When an old person lives with his family," Rev. Kempf commented, "he or she is cut off, very often, from the fuller life possible for them at our home. In the home of the family, the old person is stuck.

"At our home, they are not locked out of life. They are not kept and they are not stuck. They are not just waiting for death as many of the aged would be if they lived with their families."

The reverend stressed emphatically that his home is not a place to go to die. It is a place to go and have a fuller life, he said.

The oldest person at the Lutheran home is 97. The Rev. Kempf said that the average age at the home is 30. Thirteen are 90 or over.

"Naturally, the women outlive the men," Rev. Kempf said. "They always seem to do so."

There are about three women for every man at the home.

The reverend said the oldsters are not supervised or "watched." There is no timetable telling them when to get up, when to go to bed, when to take a nap, or when to join in games.

The home provides occupational therapy, group therapy, plus religious services.

In general, Rev. Kempf pointed out, the home provides more companionship for the oldsters than they would have if they were on the "outside."

"They may come and go as they please. They can have as many visitors as they wish at almost any time of the day. And they can go visiting when they wish," the reverend said.

Old age cannot easily be established, Rev. Kempf said. He said he has seen persons of 60 that were older physically and mentally than some in their 80's. No person is quite like another.

The third floor of the Lutheran home is equipped with an infirmary for bedridden oldsters or those who from time to time suffer ailments.

Some homes are just for invalid or senile old people. These homes are more commonly called nursing or rest homes rather than homes for the aged.

However, even though these homes cater more to invalids or those on the average more ill than at regular old age homes, they do not try to provide a homelike atmosphere, their directors reported. Most of the oldsters are placed by their families and not necessarily voluntary. Those at the Lutheran home are voluntary.

At the nursing homes, the oldsters receive constant attention from registered nurses, graduate nurses, and nurses' aides. Like a regular old age home, those who can may come and go as they please.

The Lutheran home is supported by contributions from the Lutheran church, the community chest, and what can be paid by the old persons. The home has 50 full-time employees.

It is a 1953 building, designed along verticle lines with elevators connecting its three floors. All hallways have handrails.

"In the past, buildings used to be just put up without any consideration for the needs of the aged," Rev. Kempf said.

"A home for the aged should be built vertically and not horizontally. That way, the aged need only take elevators and ride. The floors are not long and expansive. They need not do a great deal of walking.

Rev. Kempf said that too many people go through life without getting ready and providing for old age.

"As a result," he said, "they do not enter old age happily, courageously, and as graciously as they should."

The reverend warned that people must think about old age.

"The young must be instructed to prepare for old age," he said. "The young must be taught to think and prepare for it. They should be taught that they can't always live as they do when young."

One of the best ways for such preparation, Rev. Kemp advised, is for a proper relationship between the young and their grandparents to be developed.

The old must learn to appreciate the difference between their era and the new one, and the young must learn to appreciate the needs and problems facing the aged, the reverend said.

National Guard Training At Nearby Missile Sites

On July 8, the men of the 1st missile battalion (Nike Ajax), 202d artillery of the Illinois Army National Guard arrived at missile sites in Barrington, Libertyville and Fort Sheridan for their annual 2-week summer training program.

The battalion, under the command of Lt. Col. Lawson W. Cooke, is made up of 450 officers, warrant officers and enlisted men. Approximately 200 of these men operate the sites around the clock. The remaining men, "citizen soldiers," will take their places along side the regular defenders to aid in the defense of the Chicago area.

THE 1ST MISSILE battalion (Nike) traces its descent from the 698th missile battalion (Nike) and 202d antiaircraft artillery regiment whose lineage traces itself from the 6th infantry regiment, Illinois National Guard, 1920.

This battalion, comprised largely of north side and northwest suburban residents, had the distinction of being the first National Guard unit called into active service from Illinois in 1940 during the emergency preceding World War II and in 1951 for the Korean conflict.

Members of the battalion served with distinction in every theater of Operation during the war and formed cadres for the organizations of numerous other units.

During World War II this unit's parent organization served in the state of Washington in the anti aircraft artillery defense and during the Korean conflict served in the state of Michigan in the AAA defense of Detroit.

TODAY THE battalion is at full strength and is actively operating missile sites of the Chicago air defense. (WUS

Are You a ONCE-A-WEEK MAN
With a ONCE-A-MONTH PAY CHECK?

With a Citizens Checking Account you can set your own pay day Once a Week, Even Every Day, if you Wish.

You know how easy it is to over-spend when you have money in your pocket. And if your employer's policy is to pay once a month (or even twice a month) you know it usually means some lean days while you're waiting for the next pay check.

Why put up with this annoyance when a Citizens checking account can end it once and for all? It's so easy: Open a Citizens checking account and deposit your pay check each month. You don't even have to come in to the bank — just mail it to us in a postage paid envelope we'll give you. Then write a check to yourself every Monday, or Friday, or whatever day suits you best for weekly expenses.

A Citizens checking account can be a convenience in so many different ways. You don't have to carry cash around in your pocket. And when you pay bills by check your cancelled check is a permanent record and proof of payment.

Call Louis Reedy at Citizens (TAlcott 3-1155 or NEwcastle 1-4270) and ask about a checking account for yourself. Ask him to mail you the folder "Eleven Rules" that will show you how easy it is to keep a checking account and how inexpensive it is at Citizens. With a checking account you can not only "Write your own ticket — you can "Write your own pay check."

At Citizens, no minimum balance is required.

National Guard Training At Nearby Missile Sites

On July 8, the men of the 1st missile battalion (Nike Ajax), 202d artillery of the Illinois Army National Guard arrived at missile sites in Barrington, Libertyville and Fort Sheridan for their annual 2-week summer training program.

The battalion, under the command of Lt. Col. Lawson W. Cooke, is made up of 450 officers, warrant officers and enlisted men. Approximately 200 of these men operate the sites around the clock. The remaining men, "citizen soldiers," will take their places along side the regular defenders to aid in the defense of the Chicago area.

THE 1ST MISSILE battalion (Nike) traces its descent from the 698th missile battalion (Nike) and 202d antiaircraft artillery regiment whose lineage traces itself from the 6th infantry regiment, Illinois National Guard, 1920.

This battalion, comprised largely of north side and northwest suburban residents, had the distinction of being the first National Guard unit called into active service from Illinois in 1940 during the emergency preceding World War II and in 1951 for the Korean conflict.

Members of the battalion served with distinction in every theater of Operation during the war and formed cadres for the organizations of numerous other units.

During World War II this unit's parent organization served in the state of Washington in the anti aircraft artillery defense and during the Korean conflict served in the state of Michigan in the AAA defense of Detroit.

TODAY THE battalion is at full strength and is actively operating missile sites of the Chicago air defense. (WUS

You don't even have to come in to the bank — just mail it to us in a postage paid envelope we'll give you. Then write a check to yourself every Monday, or Friday, or whatever day suits you best for weekly expenses.

A Citizens checking account can be a convenience in so many different ways. You don't have to carry cash around in your pocket. And when you pay bills by check your cancelled check is a permanent record and proof of payment.

Call Louis Reedy at Citizens (TAlcott 3-1155 or NEwcastle 1-4270) and ask about a checking account for yourself. Ask him to mail you the folder "Eleven Rules" that will show you how easy it is to keep a checking account and how inexpensive it is at Citizens. With a checking account you can not only "Write your own ticket — you can "Write your own pay check."

At Citizens, no minimum balance is required.
